THIS important national work has been undertaken as a Companion to Mr. Burke's "Dictionary of the Peerage and Baronetage," and upon a similar plan, in order that the two publications may embrace the whole body of the British Peerage, Baronetage, and Gentry, and may furnish such a mass of authentic information in regard to all the principal families in the kingdom as has never before been brought together. It relates to the untitled families of rank, as the "Peerage and Baronetage" does to the titled, and forms, in fact, a peerage of the untitled aristocracy, embracing the whole of the landed interest. The landed gentry of England are so closely connected with the stirring records of its eventful history, that some acquaintance with them is a matter of necessity with the legislator, the lawyer, the historical student, the speculator in politics, and the curious in topographical and antiquarian lore; and even the very spirit of ordinary curiosity will prompt to a desire to trace the origin and progress of those families whose influence pervades the towns and villages of our land. This work, abounding in interesting anecdote, and displaying deep research, must rank among the first class of those publications which elucidate or connect themselves with the annals of our country. It is, therefore, a most necessary companion to the "Peerage and Baronetage," and indispensable to the library of every gentleman.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"This valuable work is at length completed, and after a careful examination, from time to time, of its merits, we have no hesitation in saying that, from its general accuracy, and the vast care bestowed upon its compilation and printing, it will be productive of much and lasting credit, both to editors and publisher. A work of this kind is of a national value. It may be regarded as the Domesday Book of our time. Its utility is not merely temporary, but it will exist and be acknowledged as long as the families whose names and genealogies are recorded in it continue to form an integral portion of the English constitution. As a correct record of descent, no family should be without it, inasmuch as the information it conveys relative to collateral as well as lineal genealogy, may prove absolutely requisite to establish claims to rank or property, which so commonly, in the absence of a link in the historical evidence, fail to be granted. The expense incurred by the enterprising publisher in the production of this edition of 'The Landed Gentry' has amounted to nearly six thousand pounds. This is a large sum to expend upon a single work, but since, from its national character, no library, public or private, can fail to procure it, we think, and hope, it will prove an undertaking as remunerative as it is creditable. The untitled aristocracy have in this great work as perfect a dictionary of their genealogical history, family connexions, and heraldic rights, as the Peerage and Baronetage. It will be an enduring and trustworthy record."—MORNING POST.

"This most useful and valuable national work is one in which every gentleman in the kingdom will find a domestic interest, as it contains the fullest account of nearly every known family in the United Kingdom. It is a dictionary of all names, families, and their origins,—of every man's neighbour and friend, if not of his own relatives and immediate connexions. It comprises the genealogical history of that class in society which holds the next place to the privileged order—the untitled country gentlemen—a class not one degree below the other in antiquity of descent, personal accomplishment, and national usefulness; nay, the very chiefs of the houses from which the nobility sprung are generally to be found in this division of the aristocracy. The work evinces in every page the deep research, indefatigable perseverance, and unremitting labour of its able author; and is evidently compiled from authentic documents supplied by the families enumerated. It cannot fail to be of the greatest utility to professional men in their researches respecting the members of different families, heirs to property, &c. Indeed, it will become as necessary as a Directory in every office."—MESSENGER.

"Valuable as are Mr. Burke's 'Peerage and Baronetage,' we consider this a still more valuable work, because we did possess, in some degree, genealogical accounts of those two classes; but of the landed gentry—the untitled aristocracy—this is the first attempt to give the world a history like the present. Of the execution of the work it is superfluous to speak. It ranks worthily with its predecessors. It is a faithful and valuable record of the gentry of the empire, and, as such, possesses a national character. It required, and has received from its indefatigable compiler, deep research, untiring perseverance, and unremitted labour; and the result is, that we have an accurate genealogical history of that class in society which holds the next place to the privileged orders—the work gives us, in fact, a PEERAGE OF THE UNTITLED ARISTOCRACY, a comprehensive genealogical and heraldic history of that influential body, the Landed Gentry; with particulars of upwards of 100,000 persons connected with the various families! Considering the truly national character of this repertory of the landed gentry of the United Kingdom, and the enormous expense which the publisher has incurred in its production, it is next to a positive duty, that those whose social and territorial position it records should support it by their patronage. Works of this description are felt by all to be exceedingly useful and convenient, but they can only be supplied to the public on the condition that they shall meet with a sale sufficiently extensive to remunerate the publisher for his risk and outlay. Their very publication is an appeal to the sense of justice of those whose interests they chiefly concern; and we sincerely hope that Mr. Colburn will be duly encouraged in his patriotic and spirited undertaking."—JOHN BULL.

"In this elaborate publication we have a highly creditable enterprise, well carried out, in which the editors have evinced industry and perseverance, and the publisher has shown much spirit and liberality. Such a work was much wanted. The landed gentry of England are a more powerful body than its peerage. The office of the peerage is hereditary, it is true; but when the strict line of succession terminates, the Crown substitutes a new family. The new peers are selected from the landed gentry, or from successful adventurers in law, commerce, arms, and divinity, who, having acquired wealth, contrive to get themselves adopted into the landed class. In the identification of the peers with the great landowning class lies their strength. As an isolated body they could not exist for a year. The existing titled families have been raised to their influential and prominent positions, and are maintained there, by intermarriages with the great untitled landowning families. A mere peerage conveys a very inadequate notion of the actual position and consequence of the peers. In another point of view the history of the landed gentry is the most instructive history of the social progress of the nation. From the earliest historic times every year has witnessed the extinction of older families and the adoption of new families or individuals into the order. Every industrial pursuit has contributed its quota to keep up or augment the numbers of the landed gentry. Connexions by marriage, again, make a complete history of any one family of landowners the history of many; and thus even extinct families find a place in the record. Hence a history of the landed gentry of England is a history of the politically powerful class—of the class invested with full rights of citizenship in England. And in recording the first admission of individuals into this class, and the means by which it was obtained, the whole industrial and adventurous life of the community necessarily fall to be portrayed. These considerations fully warrant our assertion that the enterprise of the Messrs. Burke is a most creditable one. Equally indisputable is the perseverance and industry they have brought to the accomplishment of their task."—EXAMINER.

"This elaborate work has a wider scope than any of Mr. Burke's previous productions, and by so much is more valuable, and more likely to find ready acceptance at the hands of the public. It is rightly stated here that the landed gentry is the foundation of the English aristocracy. From its ranks have sprung the greater part of those noble houses which dignify our history, and have given to the professions and the senate so many illustrious members. An authentic account of our landed gentry,—of the families which settled on the soil, have grown with the national growth, and have principally contributed to its greatness and glory,—which have preserved through successive generations, and through all the changes of political convulsion and social progress, the manly, high-spirited, and courageous character of the Anglo-Saxon race,—must needs be important in a public point of view, and be of the highest individual interest. Of the comprehensive nature of the work, and of the labour required to compile it, some notion may be formed when we state that it comprises reference to upwards of one hundred thousand surnames. The general plan observed is, first to notice the present possessor of an estate, giving all particulars of him and his family which may be fairly published as matter of genealogical history without trenching on the concerns of private life, and then to describe his lineage, which forms, in some degree, a history of the land itself. These notices are brief or lengthened according as the family itself is of high antiquity or modern foundation; but, while nothing is inserted which could justly offend the most sensitive delicacy, nothing is omitted which could give a fair representation of the landed gentry of the present day, individually and collectively. Of the use of these volumes we need not speak. It is probable that many of the families whose birth and lineage are here recorded will learn for the first time the correct particulars of their ancestry, and the precise relationship of the parties who can justly claim kindred with them. They will settle many a knotty point of doubtful propinquity, and be perpetually referred to as an authority on points of disputed cousinship. The work is of a handsome size, is most carefully printed and produced, and forms the latest and, we think, the most superb addition to genealogical and heraldic history which the zeal and talents of its able authors have produced."—BRITANNIA.

PREFACE.

THIS work comprises the genealogical history of that Class in Society which holds the next place to the privileged Order—the untitled Country Gentlemen — a class, be it remembered, not one degree below the other, in antiquity of descent, personal accomplishment, and national usefulness; nay, the Chiefs of the Houses from which the Nobility spring, are generally to be found in this division of the Aristocracy, and for the simple reason, that the eldest son and heir being already provided for, the field of adventure belongs, almost exclusively, to the junior members of the family, who, thus forced upon the arena, achieve, by their prowess or their talents —the sword or the pen—fame, wealth, and eminence.

The compilation has altogether required years of unremitting labour, great perseverance, and deep research;—and it is confidently hoped will prove to be a faithful and valuable record of THE LANDED GENTRY OF THE EMPIRE.

To the present Edition for 1852 many additions and corrections have been made, with the kind assistance of numerous friends and correspondents, to whom the Editor begs to present his sincere acknowledgments, requesting, from time to time, further information of any omissions or errors that may be discovered, which will be duly attended to when any new issue of copies takes place.

ABDY OF ALBYNS.

ABDY, THOMAS-NEVILLE, of Albyns, co. Essex, Esq., b. 21 Dec. 1810; s. his uncle in 1840; m. 19 Oct. 1841, Hariot, 2nd dau. of Rowland Alston, Esq. of Pishiobury, Herts, and has a dau., Mary-Harriett.

Lineage.

ROBERT ABDY, Esq. of Albyns, next brother of Sir Thomas Abdy, 1st bart. of Felix Hall, was himself created a Baronet 9 June, 1660, a title which remained with his descendants until the decease unm., in 1759, of

SIR JOHN ABDY, 4th bart. of Albyns, who bequeathed his estates to his aunt, Mrs. Crank, for life, with remainder to Sir Anthony-Thomas Abdy, Bart. of Felix Hall, to the Rev. Stotherd Abdy, that gentleman's brother, and eventually, on the failure of issue of both, to Thomas, son of the Rev. Dr. Rutherforth, archdeacon of Essex, by their sister, Charlotte Abdy. The last-named devisee ultimately inherited, and assuming the surname and arms of Abdy, in 1775, became

THE REV. THOMAS-ABDY ABDY, of Albyns; he m. in 1778, Mary, dau. of James Hayes, Esq. of Holliport, bencher of the Middle Temple, and d. in 1798, leaving issue,

ABLETT OF LLANBEDR HALL.

ABLETT, JOSEPH, Esq. of Llanbedr Hall, co. Denbigh, a magistrate for that shire, and high-sheriff in 1809; m. Anne, eldest dau. of William Bury, Esq. of Swinton, co. Lancaster, and Jane Ormerod, his wife, of Hareholme, in the parish of Rossendale.

Mr. Ablett is son of Joseph Ablett, who was youngest son of William Ablett, Gent., of Little Glemham, co. Suffolk, by Margaret Stock, his wife, widow of Josiah-Fairfax Jesse, Esq. of Manchester. The names of the family appear in the earliest parochial registers of the time of ELIZABETH.

Seat—Llanbedr Hall, near Ruthin.

ABNEY OF MEASHAM HALL.

ABNEY, WILLIAM-WOTTON, of Measham Hall, co. Derby, Esq., b. 5 Jan. 1807; m. 6 May, 1828, Helen-John-Sinclair, eldest dau. of James Buchanan, of Blairvadock, co. Dumbarton, Esq. Mr. Abney s. his grandfather in 1827.

Lineage.

The family of Abney is of great antiquity in the county of Derby, where they were seated at Abney in the Peak, about the time of the CONQUEST.

JOHN DE ABENEY, (son of William de Abeney, and grandson of John de Abeney, living at Wivelislie in 1318,) m. about 1400, the elder dau. and co-heir of William de Ingewardeby, of Willesleye, co. Derby, and was great-grandfather of

GEORGE DE ABENEY, of Willesley, who m. Ellen, dau. of John de Wolseley, of Wolseley, and had,

JAMES, of Willesley, from whom derived the ABNEYS of that place. The last male heir, THOMAS ABNEY, of Willesley, Esq. ## ACTON OF WOLVERTON.

ACTON, WILLIAM-JOSEPH, Esq. of Wolverton, in Worcestershire, b. 27 June, 1803; m. 22 Oct. 1833, Mary, widow of the late William Trafford, Esq., brother of the present Sir Thomas-Joseph de Trafford, Bart. of Trafford Park, Lancashire, and has had issue,

WILLIAM-ROBERT, b. 4 November, 1834, d. in infancy.

Mr. Acton is a magistrate for the county of Worcester.

Lineage.

The Actons, whose antiquity of descent is equalled by few existing families, are of Saxon origin, and were in Worcestershire, according to Mr. Abingdon, previously to the CONQUEST. Soon after that great event, we find them seated at Ombersley, and in the 3rd HENRY III. the name of Elias de Acton, of Acton Hall, in Ombersley, appears with those of other knights and gentlemen summoned to serve upon a jury. The chief line of the family, the Actons, of Acton Hall, expired with WALTER ACTON, of Acton, who died without male issue, leaving his estates to his two daughters and co-heirs, of whom the elder, Joyce, m. Thomas Barneby, Esq. of the Hull, ancestor of the Barnebys of Brockhampton, and the younger, Elizabeth, wedded, first, Mr. Broughton, and secondly, Walter Blount, Esq. of Astley.

From a common ancestor with the Actons of Acton sprung the Actons of Sutton, who continued to reside there until the estate was conveyed by their heiress, Joice, dau. of Thomas Acton, Esq. of Sutton, to her husband, Sir Thomas Lucy, of Charlecote, in Warwickshire, Shakspeare's "Justice Shallow." Of this family, that of Wolverton is a scion, being founded by a younger son of Sir Roger Acton, of Sutton, (the heir of Sir John Mortimer,) who m. Alice, sister of William Cokesey, Esq., and was father of

JOHN ACTON, who acquired the estate of Wolfrinton, or Wolverton, in Worcestershire, as heir to his uncle, the last of the Cokeseys. He was immediate ancestor of

THOMAS ACTON, Esq. of Wolverton, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Weeden, Esq. of Sarsden, co. Oxford, and had a son and successor,

WILLIAM ACTON, Esq. of Wolverton, who m. Barbara, dau. and co-heir of John Vincent, Esq., bencher of Gray's Inn, and d. 12 April, 1679, leaving a son,

WILLIAM ACTON, Esq. of Wolverton, who m. Margaret, youngest dau. and co-heir of Richard Perkins, Esq. of Beenham, in Berkshire, by Ann, his wife, dau. of John Eyston, Esq. of Lye Farm, and, dying in 1725, was s. by his son,

WILLIAM ACTON, Esq. of Wolverton, who m. Anne, dau. of William Tyler, descended in the female line from the Ardens of Warwickshire, and, dying 6 September, 1763, left a son and successor,

WILLIAM ACTON, Esq. of Wolverton, who m. in 1801, Ann-Constantia Davies, descended from the family of Fowler, of St. Thomas, co. Stafford, and, dying 22 Feb. 1814, left, with a dau. Mary, who d. unm., a son, the present WILLIAM ACTON, Esq. of Wolverton.

Arms—Gu., a fesse erm., within a bordure engr. of the second.
Crest—An arm in armour embowed, ppr., holding in the hand a sword, arg., hilt or, thereon a boar's head, couped, sa. at the neck distilling blood.
Motto—Vaillance avance l'homme.
Seat—Wolverton, Worcestershire.

ADAIR OF HEATHERTON PARK.

ADAIR, ALEXANDER, Esq. of Heatherton Park, co. Somerset; m. in June, 1828, Harriet-Eliza, dau. of George Atkinson, of Lee, co. Kent, Esq., and has issue.

Lineage.

The family of Adair, originally of Scotland, has been settled for many generations at Ballymena, co. Antrim, Ireland. For detailed lineage, refer to BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage, Mr. Adair, of Heatherton Park, being brother of SIR ROBERT SHAFTO ADAIR, Bart.

Arms—Per bend, or and arg., three dexter hands, couped at the wrist, two and one, gu.
Crest—A man's head, couped and bloody, ppr.
Motto—Loyal à mort.

ADAIR OF BELLEGROVE.

ADAIR, GEORGE, Esq. of Bellegrove, and Rath, Queen's County, b. 13 Sept. 1784; m. 16 May, 1822, Elizabeth, 2nd dau. of the Very Rev. Thos. Trench, then Dean of Kildare, and 2nd brother of the late Lord Ashtown, and by her, who d. 21 March, 1823, has an only son,

JOHN-GEORGE, b. 3 March, 1823.

Mr. Adair who s. his father, 14 July, 1809, is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the Queen's County, and was high-sheriff of the same county in 1822.

Lineage.

This family descends, it is stated, from THOMAS, the 6th Earl of Desmond, who having gone on a hunting expedition, lost his way, and was benighted between Tralee and Newcastle, co. Limerick, where he was received and hospitably entertained by William M'Cormic, whose dau. he subsequently married. At this alliance his family and clan were much offended, and compelled him to fly to France, and resign his title and estates to his younger brother in 1418. He d. of grief at Rouen, A.D. 1420, the King of England attending his funeral. He had issue, Maurice and John.

MAURICE had issue,

I. ROBERT, ancestor of the Adairs.
II. Maurice, ancestor of the Fitzgeralds of Brogil.

The elder,

ROBERT, returning to Ireland with the hope of regaining his family title and estates, killed Gerald, the White Knight (second son of Gerald, the then Earl of Desmond), in single combat, at Athdare (Ford of the Oaks), co. Limerick, but was subsequently defeated, and fled to Scotland, where he assumed the name of Adaire. He m. Arabella, dau. of John Campbell, Lord of Argyle and Lorne, and had a son,

SIR NINIAN ADAIRE, who first took the title of Laird of Kinhilt, in Galloway, Scotland. He m. Arabella, dau. of Sir John Echlin, and had a son and heir,

SIR WILLIAM ADAIRE, who m. Mabilia, dau. of Sir J. Forbes, by Mary, dau. of Lindsay, Earl of Crawford, and was father of

SIR ROBERT ADAIRE, who m. Arabella, dau. of Right Hon. R. Steuart, called the Good Lord of Ochiltree, and was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM ADAIRE, who m. Juliana, dau. of Sir R. Douglas, brother of the Earl of Dumbarton, and had a son and successor,

SIR ROBERT ADAIRE, who m. Anne, dau. of Sir John Campbell, 2nd brother of the Lord of Argyle and Lorne, and was s. by his son,

NINIAN ADAIRE, Esq., who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Hamilton, viceroy of Albany, and was s. by his son,

I. ROBERT.
II. Archibald, who went to Ireland, and was made Dean of Raphoe, 1630, Bishop of Killala, 1640, and the year following, Bishop of Waterford. He was distinguished for his great piety, learning, and hospitality. He d. at Bristol, 1647, leaving issue by Helena, his wife, dau. of Sir J. Campbell, of Argyle, and from him was descended the famous Johnny Adair, of Kilternan.

ROBERT ADAIRE, Esq., the elder son, was father of

ARCHIBALD ADAIRE, Esq., who m. Mary, dau. of Sir R. Campbell, and had a son, THOMAS, b. 1641.

Both Archibald and Thomas served under King WILLIAM III., at the battle of the Boyne. The former received the honour of knighthood on the field of battle. The latter,

THOMAS ADAIRE, Esq., m. Mary, a dau. of the noble house of Hamilton, in Scotland, and settled in the Queen's County, his patrimonial estates being much diminished, in consequence of his father having been attainted by King JAMES, on account of his strong attachment to the Protestant party, and his property in the King's and other southern counties confiscated. He had issue, Archibald, William, John, Robert, and a large family, all of whom d. without issue, except

ARCHIBALD ADAIRE, Esq., who m. in 1731, Jane, dau. of Mark Antony Chateneuf, who, with his father, the head of the noble house of that name in France, were compelled for conscience' sake to fly their country, and abandon their titles and property at the revocation of the edict of Nantes, being s. by a younger brother, who embraced the Roman-catholic faith. Archibald Adaire had issue, 1st, John; 2nd, Mark Antony, d. young; 3rd, Mary, d. unm. The eldest son,

JOHN ADAIR, Esq. of Rath, Queen's County, m. 26 Feb. 1776, Rebecca, eldest child of George Maquay, of the city of Dublin, Esq., and his wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Eccles Disney, Esq. of Churchtown, co. Waterford, by whom he had issue,

GEORGE, heir to his father.
John, b. 3 Jan. 1792, d. unm. 3 Jan. 1839.
Elizabeth.
Jane, m. to F. W. Fortescue, of Miltown Grange, co. Louth, Esq.
Mary. Sarah. Charlotte.

Mr. Adair on his demise, 14 July, 1809, was s. by his son, the present GEORGE ADAIR, Esq. of Bellegrove and Rath.

ADAM OF BLAIR ADAM.

ADAM, SIR CHARLES, K.C.B. of Barnes, co. Clackmannan, vice-admiral of the Blue, lord-lieutenant of Kinrosshire, m. in 1822, Elizabeth, dau. of the late Patrick Brydone, Esq., and sister of the Countess of Minto. Sir Charles, a naval officer of distinction, was lately one of the lords commissioners of the Admiralty, and M.P. for Clackmannanshire.

Lineage.

The surname of Adam is of great antiquity in Scotland, as proved by many documents in the public records.

DUNCAN ADAM, son of Alexander Adam, lived in the reign of King ROBERT BRUCE, and had four sons, Robert, John, Reginald, and Duncan, from whom all the Adams, Adamsons, and Adies, in Scotland are descended. The youngest son,

DUNCAN ADAM, accompanied James, Lord Douglas, in his expedition to the Holy Land with King ROBERT'S heart, and from him is stated to have descended

JOHN ADAM, who accompanied King JAMES IV. to the field of Flodden, and there lost his life, anno 1513. He left a son,

CHARLES ADAM, seated at Fanno, co. Forfar, temp. 1549, who m. Margaret Ferguson, by whom he had two sons; CHARLES, his heir, David, progenitor of the Adams of Kingsbarns, co. Fife, and two daughters. The elder son,

CHARLES ADAM, of Fanno, m. Isabel Bisset, a descendant of the ancient family of Lessendrum, by whom he had several sons and daughters. The second, but eldest surviving son,

ROBERT ADAM, Esq., about the end of the reign of Queen MARY, m. Isabel, dau. of James Hunter, of Restenot, and was father of

DAVID ADAM, of Fanno, who m. his cousin, Jean Hunter, by whom he had a son and successor,

William Pemberton was great-grandson of John Pemberton, Esq. of Aislaby, and his wife, Isabel Grey, granddau. of Sir Ralph Grey, Knt. of Chillingham, (ancestor of the present EARL GREY,) descended from Sir Thomas Grey, of Heton, Knt., who m. Alice, dau. of Ralph Neville, first Earl of Westmoreland, by Margaret, dau. of Hugh, Earl of Stafford.

‡ This gentleman was father of William Havelock, Esq. of Ingress Park, co. Kent, (which he sold to government for upwards of 70,000*l.*,) who was father of Lieut.-Col. William Havelock, of the 14th light dragoons, a knight of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order; and of Major Henry Havelock, of the 13th light infantry, the author of a "History of the Burmese War," and of a "Narrative of the War in Affghanistan, in 1838-39." This latter officer commanded the right column of the handful of brave men (not exceeding 1700) under the gallant General Sale, when a glorious victory was obtained over Akhbar Khan's numerous army at Jellalabad, on the 7th of April, 1842. He was appointed a companion of the Most Honourable Military Order of the Bath for the important service which he rendered on that occasion.

The eldest son,

GEORGE ALLAN, Esq. of Blackwell Grange, F.S.A., who is designated in Sir John Prestwick's Respublica, as "a learned, studious, and careful preserver of English antiquities, and a favourer of literature;" and by Mr. Surtees, as "an eminent antiquary and collector," was b. 7 June, 1736. Besides several learned and valuable publications of his own, which were printed at his private press, at Blackwell Grange, Mr. Allan generously assisted, and was the patron and original promoter of Mr. Hutchinson's History of Durham. He m. 18 Sept. 1766, Anne, only dau. and heiress of James Colling Nicholson, Esq. of Scruton, in the co. York, and had issue,

ANGUISH OF SOMERLEYTON.

ANGUISH, THE REV. GEORGE, of Somerleyton Hall, in Suffolk, M.A., prebendary of Norwich, b. 7 Feb. 1764, succeeded to the estates upon the demise of his brother, Thomas Anguish, Esq., in 1810.

Lineage.

This family, originally from the isle of Angus, (whence the surname of Anguish is supposed to have been derived,) settled in Norfolk, where they remained for three centuries, and where, in 1609, Edward Anguish held the manor of Moulton, of the Earl of Northampton, as parcel of his manor of Fornat.

ROBERT ALLIN, who had (with two daus., Mary, m. to Rear-Admiral Utber, and d. in 1672; and Alice, the wife of Robert Ashbey, Esq.) a son,

ADMIRAL SIR THOMAS ALLIN, b. in 1613, distinguished in our naval annals temp. CHARLES II., created a BARONET in 1669, in consideration of his long and eminent services, when he retired to his seat at Somerleyton, and passed the declining years of his life in peace and retirement. He had held, at different periods, the offices of comptroller of the navy, captain of Sandgate Castle, and master of the Trinity House. Sir Thomas m. 1st, Alice, dau. of Captain Whiting, R.N., and had, with a son, THOMAS, his heir, two daus., the elder, Ann, d. unm. in 1664; the younger, ALICE, m. EDMUND ANGUISH, Esq. of Moulton, and had three sons, RICHARD, Edmund, and Allin. Sir Thomas Allin espoused 2ndly, Elizabeth, sister of Edmund Anguish, Esq. He d. in 1686, was interred at Somerleyton, and s. by his son,

SIR THOMAS ALLIN, Bart. of Somerleyton, who m. in 1672, Mary, dau. of Thomas Colwall, but d. without issue, when the Baronetcy expired, while the estates devolved on (the eldest son of his sister Alice) his nephew,

RICHARD ANGUISH, Esq., who assumed, upon inheriting, the surname and arms of ALLIN, and being created a BARONET, in 1699, became SIR RICHARD ALLIN. He wedded Frances, only dau. of Sir Henry Ashhurst, Bart. of Waterstock, in the co. of Oxford, and had, with a dau., Diana, wife of Thomas Henry Ashhurst, Esq. of Ashhurst, several sons, of whom the eldest,

SIR THOMAS ALLIN, Bart. of Somerleyton, high-sheriff of Suffolk in 1730, was appointed serjeant-at arms to the Treasury in 1733. He d. unm. 11 August, 1764, and was s. by his brother,

THE REV. SIR ASHHURST ALLIN, Bart. of Somerleyton, rector of Blundeston cum Flixton, who espoused Miss Thomasin Norris, and dying in 1770, left a dau., Frances, who d. unm., and a son,

SIR THOMAS ALLIN, Bart. of Somerleyton, at whose decease, unm., in 1794, the Baronetcy became extinct, while the family estates passed to (the great-grandson of Edmund Anguish, Esq., second son of Edmund Anguish, Esq. and Alice Allin) his kinsman,

THOMAS ANGUISH, Esq., who thus became "of Somerleyton," but d. unm. in 1810, when that and his other estates devolved upon his brother, the REV. GEORGE ANGUISH, M.A., their present proprietor, who is son of the late Thomas Anguish, Esq., accountant-general of the court of Chancery, who was son of the Rev. Thomas Anguish, of Halesworth, son of Edmund Anguish, second son of Edmund Anguish, Esq., by his wife, ALICE ALLIN. The present Mr. Anguish had five sisters, of whom the eldest, Catherine, m. Francis-Godolphin, 5th Duke of Leeds.

II. William. III. Oliver.

IV. Fitzameline. V. Maxwell. VI. Moutray.

I. Anne-Dorothea, m. in 1833, to the Rev. Robert Loftus Tottenham, second son of Lord Robert Tottenham, Bishop of Clogher.

II. Maria, m. in 1839, to the Rev John Bunbury, eldest son of Sir James Richardson Bunbury, Bart. of Angher Castle, co. Tyrone.

III. Matilda.

Mr. Anketell, who is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for the county of Monaghan, succeeded to the estates and representation of the ancient family of Anketell, upon the demise of his father, in 1828-9.

Lineage.

The family of which we are about to treat, was of high station in the co. of Dorset at a very remote period, (its name appearing in Doomsday Book,) and so early as the reign of EDWARD I., we find Fitzameline Anschetil representing the borough of Shaftesbury in parliament. The English line has long since passed away, but a branch of the ancient stem having been planted in the north of Ireland temp. CHARLES I., the Anketells maintain in the land of their adoption as distinguished a position as did their English progenitors in the land of their extraction.

MATTHEW ANKETELL, Esq. acquired in 1636 a grant of land in the co. of Monaghan, and emigrated to Ireland, where he m. Matilda, dau. of Robert Moore, Esq. of Garvy Castle, in Tyrone, and had a son,

MATTHEW ANKETELL, Esq. of Anketell Grove, who lost his life during the contest between King JAMES and King WILLIAM in 1689, fighting on the side of the latter monarch. His son,

OLIVER ANKETELL, Esq. of Anketell Grove, M.P. for the borough of Monaghan, m. 28 Feb. 1716, the Hon. Sarah Caulfeild, 2nd dau. of William, 2nd Viscount Charlemont, (the gallant and well-known participator in the triumphs of the Earl of Peterborough in Spain,) by Anne, his wife, only dau. of James Margetson, Lord Archbishop of Armagh. By this lady, who d. in Dec. 1742, Mr. Anketell left, with other issue, a son and successor,

MATTHEW ANKETELL, Esq. of Anketell Grove, who m. 11 March, 1748, Anne, dau. of Charles Coote, Esq. of Coote Hill, M.P. for the co. of Cavan, and sister of Charles, Earl of Bellamont; by this lady he had a son and heir,

MATTHEW ANKETELL, Esq. of Anketell Grove, who m. 1st, in 1780, Prudentia, only dau. of Thomas Steward Corry, Esq. of Rockcorry Castle, in the co. of Monaghan, by whom he had a dau., Prudentia, who d. in youth. He wedded 2ndly, Mary, dau. of the Rev. Richard Norris, and had, with other issue, a son and heir, the present WILLIAM ANKETELL, Esq. of Anketell Grove.

Lineage.

The first of the family of ARCHDALE, who settled in Ireland temp. ELIZABETH, was

JOHN ARCHDALE, Esq. of Norsom, or Norton Hall, in the co. of Norfolk. He m., and had two sons,

EDWARD, his heir, and John, vicar of Luske in 1664, great-grandfather of the REV. MERVIN ARCHDALE, author of the Monasticon Hibernicon. John Archdale d. in 1621, and was s. by his son,

EDWARD ARCHDALE, Esq., who m. Angel, dau. of Sir Paul Gore, (ancestor of the Gores, Earls of Ross, &c.,) and had issue. During his time the castle* which his father had erected was taken and burned by the rebels under Sir Phelim O'Neil, in Oct. 1641, and but two children of a numerous family survived. One, a daughter, who was absent and married; the other, an infant son, WILLIAM, preserved by the fidelity of his nurse, an Irish Roman Catholic, which

WILLIAM ARCHDALE, Esq., after succeeding to the estates, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Mervyn, Esq. of Omagh Castle and Trillic, both in the co. of Tyrone, and had two sons and a dau., viz., MERVYN, EDWARD, and ANGEL. The elder son,

MERVYN ARCHDALE, Esq. of Castle Archdale, d. unm., 27 Dec. 1726, and was s. by his brother,

EDWARD ARCHDALE, Esq. of Castle Archdale. This gentleman m. 1st, Frances, eldest dau. of Sir John Caldwell, Bart., and 2ndly, Elizabeth, eldest dau. of John Cole, Esq. of Florence Court, but d. without issue, before 1730, when the estates devolved on his only sister,

ANGEL ARCHDALE, who m. NICHOLAS MONTGOMERY, Esq. of Derry Gonnelly, in the co. of Fermanagh, M.P. for that shire, son of Hugh Montgomery, Esq., by Katherine, his wife, dau. and heir of Richard Dunbar, Esq. of Derrygonelly. Mr. Montgomery assumed the surname and arms of ARCHDALE, and left by the heiress of Archdale, who d. about 1742 or 1743, an only son,

MERVYN ARCHDALE, Esq. of Castle Archdale and Trillic, M.P. for the co. of Fermanagh, who m. in 1762, Mary, dau. of William-Henry, Viscount Carlow, and sister of John, 1st Earl of Portarlington, by whom he had issue,

I. MERVYN, his heir.
II. William, late lieut.-col. of the 4th or King's Own infantry, m. Martha Hawley, daughter of — Clarke, Esq. of the county of Somerset.

ARCHER OF TRELASKE.

ARCHER, EDWARD, Esq. of Trelaske, co. Cornwall, b. 8 Nov. 1816; m. 24 July, 1838, Sarah-Lydia, eldest dau. of the Rev. Walter Radcliffe, of Warlegh, co. Devon, and has a dau., EMMA-AUGUSTA. Mr. Archer s. his father 8 Nov. 1837, and is a magistrate for Cornwall.

Lineage.

The Archers came over at the time of the CONQUEST, and the name is to be found in the Battle Abbey Roll. A branch of this family was ennobled, anno 1747, in the person of THOMAS ARCHER, Esq., M.P. for Warwick, who was created BARON ARCHER, of Umberslade, in Warwickshire. The line more immediately before us appears to have been settled in Cornwall for at least 400 years, a John Archer having represented Helston in parliament as far back as the time of HENRY VI. The elder branch of the Cornish Archers, which was seated near the Lizard, became extinct in the reign of EDWARD IV., when the heiress wedded Levelis of St. Burian, in the church whereof their ensigns occur in old carved work amongst the quarterings of other families. Upon the extinction of this branch, the representation devolved on the Archers of Trelaske.*

RICHARD ARCHER, of St. Kew, who possessed considerable property in St. Kew, St. Ewe, Bodmin, and other parishes, devised Trelewack, in St. Ewe, and all his estates to his nephew, Nicholas Archer, eldest son of his brother John, rector of Carhayes, and to this Nicholas, his father, by will, bequeaths "his silver cup, to remayne for ever in the keeping of the eldest son of my family." The rector of Carhayes, the REV. JOHN ARCHER, had three sons, Nicholas, who d. s. p., Edward, and John, and three daus., Amy, m. to George Slade, Anne, and Mary. His second son,

THE REV. EDWARD ARCHER, vicar of Manaccan, m. Judith, dau. of John Swete, Esq. of Modbury, and d. at St. Ewe, in 1683, leaving, with a dau., Ann, m. to Dionysius Russell, Esq., four sons; to the eldest of whom,

JOHN ARCHER, his uncle Nicholas devised Trelewack, in St. Ewe, and all the other estates in many parishes which had been left to him by his kinsman, Richard. He m. Sarah, dau., and eventually co-heir (with her sisters, m. to Prowse and Rogers) of John Addis, Esq. of Whiteford, and left, with other issue, at his decease in 1726,

WILLIAM ARCHER, Esq. of Trelewack and Trelaske (inherited from the family of Addis), who d. s. p. in 1749, and was s. by his brother,

SWETE NICHOLAS ARCHER, Esq. of Trelaske, who served as high-sheriff for Cornwall in the year 1758. He m. Anne, sister of Francis Basset, father of Lord de Dunstanville, but dying s. p. in 1788, was s. by (the son of his brother Edward) his nephew,

EDWARD ARCHER, Esq. of Trelaske, who was sheriff of Cornwall in 1794. This gentleman m. Theophila Freno, by whom (who d. in 1798) he had no issue. Mr. Archer d. in 1802, at Plymouth, whither he had gone for the benefit of his health, and was buried in the family vault at Lewanick. He was s. at his decease by his brother,

* There was a family of Archer at Sudbury, in Suffolk, of whom Nicholas was a citizen of London, and, as appears by his will, in 1487, was a man of considerable wealth, leaving large bequests to many churches in London and the country, and much for masses &c., for the repose of his soul. As his father's name was John, and his brothers John and Richard, names which, especially Nicholas, are of frequent occurrence in the Cornish family, it is probable they were nearly connected; and, as nothing can be traced of the Trelaske family earlier than 1640—for the name of Archer does not occur either in the registries of wills in Exeter or in Cornwall, previously to that year—it is not unlikely they had left Cornwall for some descents, and returned again about this period, for Richard Archer died at St. Kew in 1665, when his brother, John Archer, the immediate ancestor of the Trelaske family, was rector of Carhayes, to which he was instituted in 1644. In the Carhayes Register is entered the burial of Joseph Archer, in 1640, in London, giving plausibility to the conjecture that, about this period, the family removed thence into Cornwall.

Samuel Archer, Esq. of Trelaske, b. 7 Feb. 1745, who m. 15 June, 1787, Dorothy-Ayre, dau. of the Rev. John Yonge, of Postlinch, co. Devon, by whom (who d. in 1797) he had issue,

Edward, his heir.
Samuel, b. 18th November, 1795.
Elizabeth-Anne. Jane. Anne.

Mr. Archer was s. at his decease in June, 1822, by his elder son,

Edward Archer, Esq. of Trelaske, b. 25 April, 1792, high-sheriff of Cornwall in 1832, who m. 2 Aug., 1814, Charlotte-Catherine, only child of Capt. Charles Harward, of the 3rd foot guards, by Charlotte-Augusta, his wife, 3rd dau. of Sir Wm. Chambers, surveyor-general of the Board of Works, and by her (who m. 2ndly, Charles Gordon, Esq. of Wiscombe Park, Devon) had issue,

i. Edward, his heir.
ii. Charles-Harward, b. in Aug. 1819.
iii. Samuel-Harward, b. in Jan. 1821.
iv. Fulbert, b. in April, 1825.
v. Henry-Swete, b. in Jan. 1834.
i. Charlotte-Dorothea. ii. Jane.
iii. Anne-Augusta. iv. Elizabeth.
v. Catherine. vi. Marianne.

Mr. Archer d. in 1837.

Arms—Sa., a chevron, engrailed, arg., between three pheons, or.
Crest—A quiver, fesswise, ppr.
Seat—Trelaske, near Launceston.

ARCHIBALD OF RUSLAND HALL.

Archibald, Charles-Dickson, of Rusland Hall, co. Lancaster, and Gresford, North Wales, Esq., F.R.S., F.S.A., M.R.I., &c., b. at Truro, in the province of Nova Scotia, 31 Oct. 1802; m. 18 Sept. 1832, Bridget, only child and heiress of Myles Walker, Esq. of Rusland Hall, and has surviving issue,

Charles-William, b. 19 July, 1838.
Elizabeth-Jane. Victoria-Louisa.

Mr. Archibald is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for the county of Lancaster.

Lineage.

The family of Archibald has been established for centuries in Ireland.

Samuel Archibald, Esq. of Coleraine, co. Londonderry, son of David Archibald, Esq. of Coleraine, m. Rachel, dau. of James Duncan, Esq. of Haverhill, Massachusetts, New England, and was father of

Samuel-George-William Archibald, LL.D., her Majesty's attorney and advocate-general, speaker of the Assembly &c. of the province of Nova Scotia, who m. 1st, in 1802, Elizabeth, dau. of Charles Dickson, Esq. of Onslow, and by her, who d. in May, 1830, had issue,

Charles-Dickson, now of Rusland Hall.

He m. 2ndly, in 1832, Joanna, widow of W. Brinley, Esq.

Arms—Arg., on a bend, between three estoiles, az., three crescents, of the field, all within a bordure, engr., sa.

ARDEN OF LONGCROFT.

Arden, the Rev. Francis-Edward, of Gresham, co. Norfolk, became representative of his family at the decease of his brother, Major Arden, 2 Aug. 1809, and will possess the hereditary estate of Longcroft, in Staffordshire, on the demise of his mother. He m. Rachael, dau. of John Pinkard, Esq., and has issue, Edward, Henry, Hamar, Rachael, and Emma.

Lineage.

This family boasts of Saxon blood, and claims distinction for a full century at least before the Conquest, deriving, in direct descent, from Siward de Arden, eldest son of Turchill de Warwick. The senior line, the Ardens of Park Hall, in Warwickshire, became extinct at the decease, in 1643, of Robert Arden, of Park Hall, Esq., who left his four sisters his co-heirs—viz., Elizabeth, m. to Sir Wm. Poley, of Boxted, in Suffolk; Goditha, wife of Herbert Price, Esq.; Dorothea, m. to Henry Bagot, Esq.; and Anne, m. to Sir Charles Adderley, of Lea.

Simon Arden, Esq., second son of Thomas Arden, of Park Hall, Esq., by Maria, his wife, dau. of Thomas Andrews, of Charwelton, Esq., m. twice, and by his second wife, Margaret, was father of

Ambrose Arden, Esq., who wedded, in 1588, Mary, eldest daughter of John Wedgewood, Esq. of Harracles, and was s. at his decease, in 1624, by his son,

Ambrose, or Humphry Arden, Esq., whose son,

Humphrey Arden, Esq. of Longcroft, co. Stafford, m. Miss Lassel, of London, and dying in 1705, at the age of seventy-four, left a dau., Catherine, and a son,

Henry Arden, Esq. of Longcroft, baptized 7th Nov. 1665. This gentleman m. Anne Alcock (heiress of James Smith, of Nantwich), by whom (who d. 6th Jan. 1697-8) he had a daughter, Elizabeth, buried 12th June, 1696, and a son and heir,

John Arden, Esq. of Longcroft, baptized 1st Jan. 1693, and high-sheriff for Staffordshire in 1730. He m. twice, and by his first wife, Anna-Catherina, eldest dau. of John Newton, Esq. of King's Bromley, left at his decease, in 1734, with two daus., (Catherine, d. unm., and Anna-Catharina, wife of Fettiplace Nott, Esq. of Lichfield,) a son and heir,

Henry Arden, Esq. of Longcroft, who m. Alathea, dau. of Robert Cotton, Esq. of Worcester, by whom (who d. 1st July, 1783) he left at his decease, in 1782, with younger children, (of whom were Humphrey, who m. a dau. of Dr. Landor; Samuel, a naval officer; and Anne, wife of Benjamin Spilsbury, of Wellington, co. Dublin, Esq.,) a son and successor,

The Rev. John Arden, of Longcroft Hall, b. in March, 1752, who m. Margaret-Elizabeth, only child of Rear-Admiral Hamar, by whom he had,

John, his heir.
Francis-Edward, present representative of the family.
Henry, lieutenant 61st foot, slain at Toulouse.
Samuel, major in the East India Company's service, m. Jane, dau. of James Franklyn, Esq., of Bristol, and d. leaving issue.
William, residing at Foobrook House, near Barton under Needwood, m. Lettice, dau. of the Rev. John Waston, of Prestbury, co. Chester, and has issue.
George-Humphrey, deceased.
George, lieutenant R.N., died in the West Indies.
Thomas, in holy orders.
Eliza.
Emma-Catherine, m. to Walter-William Fell, Esq., barrister-at-law, and has issue.
Anne-Diana, m. to the Rev. Francis Close, of Cheltenham, and has issue.
Mary-Jane, m. to George Woodroofe Franklyn, Esq., and has issue.

Mr. Arden d. 10 Feb. 1803, aged 51, leaving his widow a life interest in the estates, when the representation of the family devolved on his eldest son,

Major John Arden, of the 3rd or King's Own dragoons, who m. Anne-Maria, dau. of John Hodson, Esq. of Wellingborough, co. Northampton, and had issue,

John-Humphrey-Cotton, died in India.
Margaret-Mary-Anne, m. to James Challan, Esq., and has issue.
Susanna-Maria, m. to John Bott, Esq., of Coton Hall, co. Stafford, and has issue.

Major Arden dying 2 August, 1809, aged 33, without male issue, the succession passed to his next brother, the present Rev. Francis-Edward Arden.

Arms—Erm., a fess chequy, or and az.
Crest—On a chapeau, purpure, turned up, ermine, a wild boar, passant, or.
Motto—Quo me cunque vocat patria.

| VII. Frances, d. unm. | VIII. Octavia. | IX. Henrietta. |

Mr. Armitage, who resides at Moraston, near Ross, co. Hereford, is in the commission of the peace for that shire.

Lineage.

This family, which claims descent from the senior branch of the Armitages of Yorkshire, was established in Ireland, temp. Queen ELIZABETH, upon grants of land then received, situated at Atherdee, Coole, Cardiston, and Drumin, all in the co. Louth. These estates descended to

TIMOTHY ARMITAGE, Esq. of Atherdee, who gave the bells to the church there. He m. Mary, dau. of Arthur Forbes, Esq. of Newstone, co. Meath, and had a numerous family, of whom the eldest son left at his decease three daus. only, (one m. to Richard-Chapple Whaley, Esq., M.P. for the co. of Wicklow, d. in 1758,) whereupon a portion of the family estates, limited to the male line, devolved on his brother,

ROBERT ARMITAGE, Esq. of Liverpool, a considerable merchant there, who m. Miss Priscilla Newton, and left at his decease, with two daus., (Hannah, who d. unm., and Priscilla, m. to the Rev. George Evans, rector of Mullaghmore, co. Tyrone,) a son and heir,

ROBERT ARMITAGE, Esq., who resided at Kensington, co. Middlesex, and was there buried. He m. in 1766, Caroline, eldest dau. of Colonel Braithwaite, by Sylvia Cole, his wife, a descendant of the family of Cole of Colchester. (Col. Mr. Armstrong, who s. his father in 1780, is a magistrate for the King's Co.

Lineage.

The family of Armstrong was, in ancient times, settled on the Scottish border, and springing from this parent stock, several branches, at a very early era, became located in the northern counties of England. One, established at Corby, in Lincolnshire, had continued there for seven descents; and another, at Tyndale, in Northumberland, for nine generations, at the period of the Visitation, in 1623. A third scion, Thoroton, in his History of Nottinghamshire, mentions as fixed at Thorpe, in that co., so early as the eleventh year of RICHARD II., and gives the pedigree, in an interrupted succession, to the year 1672; and Leland, in the first volume of his Itinerary, speaks of a family of Armstrong settled in Yorkshire, whose representative he calls "a gentleman of many lands." Tradition states that the original surname was Fairbairn, and that it was changed to Armstrong on the following occasion: An ancient king of Scotland, having his horse killed under him in battle, was immediately remounted by Fairbairn, his armour-bearer, on his own horse. For this timely assistance, the king amply rewarded him with lands on the Borders, and to perpetuate the memory of so important a service, as well as the manner in which it was performed, (for Fairbairn took the king by the thigh, and set him on the saddle,) his royal master gave him the appellation of Armstrong, and assigned him for crest, "an armed hand and arm, in the hand a leg and foot in armour, couped at the thigh, all ppr."

CHRISTOPHER ARMSTRONG, laird of Mangerton, younger brother of the famous John Armstrong, laird of Giltnock, who was executed at Carlingrig, about the year 1530, m. and had two sons, the younger of whom, William, left Scotland some years after the death of Queen ELIZABETH, and seated himself in the co. Fermanagh, where he became the founder of a numerous family, whose branches flourished in those parts. The elder son of the laird of Mangerton was father of

ANDREW ARMSTRONG, born in the castle of Mangerton in 1576, who, having disposed of his patrimony in Scotland to one of his kinsmen, migrated, in the commencement of the seventeenth century, to the north of Ireland, and established himself near his uncle in the co. Fermanagh. At the breaking out of the rebellion in 1641, he embraced a military life, and served as an officer of horse in the army of CHARLES I. for several years, with great reputation. He m. first, a lady named Alexander, of Scottish descent, and had by her, one son and one dau.—viz.,

Lineage.

It is not clearly ascertained in what year the Arthurs settled in Ireland, but it is certain that they long have had large possessions in that kingdom, especially in the co. of Limerick, until their estates were, in great part, confiscated by Cromwell for their loyalty to the royal cause. The History of Limerick records that two members of the family sat in parliament for that city, temp. Queen Elizabeth—viz., Edward Arthur in 1559, and Thomas Arthur in 1585.

Thomas Arthur, Esq. of Glanomera, representative of this ancient house, m. Mary Butler, heiress of the Butlers of Kilmoyler, co. Tipperary, lineally descended from the noble house of Ormonde, and was father of Thomas Arthur, Esq. of Glanomera, who m. Lucy, fourth dau. of Sir Edward O'Brien, Bart. of Dromoland, which lady, through her grandmother, Catherine Keightley, was great-great-granddau. of Edward Hyde, Earl of Clarendon, Lord Chancellor of England, by Frances, his wife, sister to Anne, Duchess of York, mother of Queens Mary and Anne. By her Mr. Arthur left, at his decease in 1801, a son and successor, the present Thomas Arthur, of Glanomera, Esq.

ASHE OF ASHFIELD.

ASHE, WILLIAM-WELLESLEY, Esq. of Ashfield, co. Meath; m. in 1828, Maria-Walker, only dau. of George Haigh, Esq. of Halifax, descended from an ancient Scottish family, and had one son and one dau., both of whom d. in infancy. This gentleman, Brevet Lieut.-Col. Foreign Service, served with distinction for many years in the East Indies, in Africa, and in various other foreign stations, in his Majesty's 41st, 65th, and 93rd Highland regiments. Col. Ashe inherits a portion of the Ashfield estates, and is next heir in remainder to the other portion.

Lineage.

The ancient and eminent family of ESSE, ASHE, or D'ESSECOURT, which came over with WILLIAM the Conqueror, appears by certified extracts under the seal of Ulster king of arms,—by the authority of the Heralds' College,—and from the pages of our old historians, to have held large estates in the co. of Devon, so early as the eleventh century; and the line is deducible through more than eighteen generations.

SIR OLIVER D'ESSE or ASHE, living towards the close of the thirteenth century, was of knightly degree in 1326, and a person of high consideration. His second son,

HENRY ESSE, marrying temp. EDWARD II. the dau. and heiress of Richard Fornyson, acquired, with other lands, the demesne and manor of Sowton, alias Clyst Fornyson, in Devon, and founded the family of Esse or Ashe of Clyst Fornyson. His great-great-great-great-grandson,

NICHOLAS ASHE, of Clyst Fornyson, m. Joanna, dau. of Anthony Pollard, of Harwood, in Devon, and had three sons, namely,

I. RICHARD, of Clyst Fornyson, whose issue is EXTINCT.
II. THOMAS, of whom presently.
III. James, who m. Anne, dau. of John Walrond, of Bovey, and was ancestor of the ASHES of Freshford, co. Somerset, and of Heytesbury, Langley, and various other places in Wiltshire, and of the ASHES of Ashgrove, co. Limerick. Of this line was SIR JOSEPH ASHE, of Twickenham, created a BARONET in 1660. (See BURKE'S Extinct Baronetage.)

The second son of Nicholas Ashe, of Clyst Fornyson, by Joanna Pollard, his wife,

THOMAS ASHE, Esq., having married the dau. and heiress of Nicholas Bailey, Esq. of the Abbey of St. John's, in the co. of Meath, settled there in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, and had issue,

I. THOMAS (Sir), his heir.
II. Nicholas, of Newtown, in Meath, m. and had two sons and one dau., viz.,
  1. HENRY, of Moyrath, who left at his decease (with two daus., Elizabeth, wife of Oliver Nugent, Esq. of Correllstown, in Westmeath, and Mary, m. to — Cuffe, Esq. of Lord Desart's family,) an only son, NICHOLAS, of whom presently as successor to his great-uncle, SIR THOMAS ASHE.
  2. Richard, of Somerstown, in Meath, who m. Alice, dau. of the Right Rev. Lewis Jones, D.D., Lord Bishop of Killaloe, and sister to Sir Theophilus Jones, Knt., by whom he left at his decease, 21 June, 1659, with a younger son, Richard, of Moyderry, WILLIAM, of whom hereafter, as heir of entail to his cousin, NICHOLAS ASHE, Esq.
  1. Thomasine, m. to John Malone, Esq. of Trim.
III. John, to whom his brother, Sir Thomas, gave Talbot's Castle, and St. John's Abbey, near Trim, likewise Moyvally and Dromshill, in Cavan. His grandson was the RIGHT REV. ST. GEORGE ASHE, D.D., successively Lord Bishop of Cloyne, Clogher, and Derry, who m. Jane, dau. of Sir George St. George, Bart. of Dunmore, in the co. Galway, and dying in 1718, left one son and one dau., viz.,
  ST. GEORGE, who d. s. p.
  ELIZABETH, who m. Sir Ralph Gore, Bart. of Manor Gore, and from this marriage sprang Sir Ralph Gore, Bart. and the Earls of Ross.

The eldest son of Thomas Ashe, the first settler in Ireland,

SIR THOMAS ASHE, of St. John's and of Dromshill, co. Cavan, was knighted at Dublin Castle by Sir George Carew, lord deputy, on St. James's day, 25 July, 1603, on the occasion of the Coronation of JAMES I. He d. without issue, 14 Oct. 1626, and was s. by his grand-nephew,

NICHOLAS ASHE, Esq. of Moyrath, born in 1608, at whose decease without issue in 1656, the estates were inherited by the heir of entail, his cousin,

WILLIAM ASHE, Esq. of Summerstown (son of Richard Ashe, Esq., and Alice, his wife, dau. of Lewis Jones, D.D. Bishop of Killaloe), who m. 1st, Martha Leigh, and by her had one son, RICHARD, and four daus., Mary, m. to Edward Crofton, Esq. of Clonard, in Meath; Martha, m. Joseph Fish, Esq. of Kilcullen; Alice, and Elizabeth. He m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Dudley Colley, Esq., of Castle Carbery, and sister of Henry Colley, Esq., great-grandfather of Arthur, Duke of Wellington. By this lady he had one son, Dudley, and a dau. Mary, who m. one of Lord Darnley's family. Mr. Ashe d. in 1682, was buried at Trim, and s. by his son,

RICHARD ASHE, Esq., of Ashfield, in the co. of Meath, who represented the borough of Trim in parliament. He m. Anne, dau. of — Deane, Esq., and dying in 1727, left (with three daus., Anne, m. in 1734, to Hans Bailey, Esq.; Mary, m. in 1740, to William Lynden, Esq.; and Elizabeth, m. to Benjamin Fish, Esq.,) five sons, of whom the eldest,

JOSEPH ASHE, Esq. of Ashfield, who served the office of high-sheriff of Meath, owned and represented in parliament the borough of Trim for thirty years with his son, Sir Thomas Ashe. This gentleman declined a peerage, offered to him previously to the union between Great Britain and Ireland. He m. Susanna, dau. of Dudley Loftus, Esq. of Killian, descended from the Right Rev. Dr. Adam Loftus, Archbishop of Dublin and chancellor of Ireland, by which lady he had issue,

I. RICHARD, barrister-at-law, and M.P. for Trim. m. a dau. of Richard Warren, Esq. of Grangebeg, in Kildare, and relict of Thomas Cooper, Esq., registrar of the court of Chancery, but d. s. p. in the lifetime of his father.
II. Dudley, killed at the storming of Mora Castle, in Flanders.
III. Thomas (Sir), Knt., M.P., baptized 10 Sept. 1732, high-sheriff for the co. Meath, who m. Mary, dau. of Sir David Kinloch, Bart. of Gilmartin, in Scotland, and left one son and two daus., viz.,
  Joseph, of Drogheda, who m. in 1802, Catherine, dau. of — Sheppard, Esq., but has no issue.
  Harriett, m. to Robert Sheppard, Esq., formerly secretary to Lord Castlereagh.
  Catherine, m. to James Sterling, Esq., British consul at Genoa.
IV. Joseph, killed in storming the battery of Mora Castle, with his brother Dudley.
V. WILLIAM, of whom presently.
I. Alice, m. to Damer Edgeworth, Esq. of Longwood, in the co. Westmeath.
II. Anne, m. Dudley Loftus, Esq. of Clara Castle, in Meath, and had surviving issue, two daus., co-heirs, Susanna and Anne.

The fifth son,

WILLIAM ASHE, Esq. who inherited, at his father's decease, a portion of the Ashfield estate, adopting the profession of arms, attained the rank of major, and was aide-de-camp to General the Earl of Harrington. Major Ashe served, with great reputation, in the 5th, 17th, and 23rd regiments of Royal fusileers during the American War, and was two-and-thirty times engaged against the enemy. He m. in 1793, Mary, dau. of Archdeacon Mockler, (and relict of John Rawlins, Esq. of Dublin, whose dau. m. Sir William Stamer, Bart.) by whom he had, with two other sons and three daus. all now deceased, the present LIEUT.-COL. WILLIAM-WELLESLEY ASHE, of Ashfield.

He represented this county in parliament from 1815 to 1830.

Lineage.

Soon after the Conquest, ADAM DE ASSHEHURST obtained from Roger de Leyland a grant of all Roger's claim of lands in Dalton, and from that remote period to the present, the Ashhursts have preserved a male succession; several members of the family received the honour of knighthood in early times, and were distinguished in the wars of the Plantagenets. SIR ADAM DE ASSHEHURST, Knt., direct ancestor of the present family, was appointed clerk-marshal to EDWARD III., in 1339, for life, and formed part of the suite of that king at the battle of Cressy. For a detailed pedigree, refer to BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Baronetage.

ASTON OF ASTON.

Aston, Arthur, Esq. of Aston, co. Chester, Envoy-Extraordinary and Minister-Plenipotentiary at the court of Spain; s. in 1839.

Lineage.

In Domesday Book, the town of Aston was held by Odard, under William Fitz-Nigel, Baron of Halton, A.D. 1086. At that time there appears to have been but one place of the name; it was subsequently divided into Aston juxta Sutton, and Aston Grange. About the time of Henry II.,

Gilbert de Aston was proprietor of Aston juxta Sutton, and was living in that reign, and in the subsequent reigns of Richard and John. From this Gilbert derived the eminent knightly family of Aston of Aston, one, for a long series of generations, of the first consideration in the Palatinate of Chester; its chiefs intermarrying with heiresses of Dutton of Halton, Massy of Horton, Harewell of Shotery, &c. The representative, temp. Charles I.,

Sir Thomas Aston, of Aston, was created a Baronet, 25 July, 1628, and subsequently took an active part in favour of royalty, during the civil war. In 1642, he sustained a defeat from Sir William Brereton's party of Parliamentarians, near Nantwich, but effected his escape; he was, afterwards, however, made prisoner in another skirmish, and brought into Stafford, whence attempting again to escape, he was observed by a soldier, who gave him a blow on the head, which, and other wounds, brought on a fever, and occasioned his death in Stafford, 24 May, 1645. By Anne, his second wife, dau. and sole heir of Sir Henry Willoughby, Bart. of Ridley, he left a son and successor,

Sir Willoughby Aston, 2nd bart. of Aston, who m. Mary, dau. of John Offley, Esq. of Madeley Manor, co. Stafford, and had, with nine daus. eight sons, of whom were,

Thomas, his heir.
Richard, (6th son) father of
Sir Willoughby Aston, who s. as 5th bart., and was M.P. for Nottingham in 1754; he m. Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Pye, Esq. of Farringdon, co. Berks, and dying in 1772, left (with six daus., Elizabeth, m. to Admiral Cotton; Purefoy, m. to the Hon. James Preston; Mary, m. to Francis-Grant Gordon, Esq., capt. R.N.; Selina, Belinda, and Sophia,) one son,
Sir Willoughby Aston, 6th bart., who m. Lady Jane Henley, but d. s. p., in 1815, when the title expired.

Sir Willoughby d. in 1772, and was s. by his son,

Sir Thomas Aston, 3rd bart. of Aston, who m. Catherine, dau. of William Widdrington, Esq., and dying in 1724, left, with eight daus. an only son and heir,

Sir Thomas Aston, 4th bart. of Aston, M.P. for Liverpool, and afterwards for St. Albans, who m. in March, 1735-6, Rebecca, dau. of John Shishe, Esq. of Greenwich, but d. without issue, 17 Feb. 1744, having devised his estates to his eldest sister,

Catherine Aston, wife of the Hon. and Rev. John Hervey, D.D., 4th son of John, 1st Earl of Bristol. Dr. Hervey assumed, in consequence, the surname of Aston, by act of parliament, and left a son and heir,

Henry-Hervey Aston, Esq. of Aston, who m. Miss Dickinson, of Lancashire, and had, with a dau. Anna-Sophia, m. in 1782, to Anthony Hodges, Esq., a son,

Henry-Hervey Aston, Esq. of Aston, a col. in the army, who m. 16 Sept. 1789, the Hon. Harriet Ingram Shepherd, fourth dau. and co-heir of Charles, 9th Viscount Irvine, and left at his decease (having fallen in a duel 23 Dec. 1798) a son and successor,

Arthur-Hervey Aston, Esq. of Aston Hall, who m. Margarita, dau. of the late William Barron, Esq. of Carrick Barron, and left at his decease, with a dau. Harriet, m. 17 July, 1832, to the Hon. and Rev. Arthur Talbot, a son,

Arthur-Hervey Aston, Esq. of Aston, lieut. 1st Life-guards, b. in 1815, who d. unm. 28 Aug. 1839, and was s. by the present Arthur Aston, Esq., now of Aston Hall.

Anne-Margaret, above mentioned.
Emma, unm.
Elizabeth-Sarah, unm.
The Whatcroft and Denbighshire estates descended to Mrs. Topping's father from his uncle, Jonathan Robinson, Esq.

This gentleman, whose patronymic was JONES, assumed, 21 March, 1834, by letters-patent, upon the death, and in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his maternal uncle, Richard Atcherley, of Marton, Esq., who d. 27 Feb. 1834, the surname and arms of ATCHERLEY only.

Lineage.

The family of Atcherley of Marton has been settled in that neighbourhood at least as far back as the reign of HENRY VII. Their ancestor, Sir Roger Atcherley, Knt., who was born at Stanwardine, in the parish of Baschurch, within about a mile from Marton, was elected sheriff of Middlesex and London, 21 Sept. 1504, 20 HENRY VII., and was chosen lord-mayor of London, 13 October, 1511, 3 HENRY VIII. He is mentioned in Fuller's Worthies, vol. ii. p. 263, and also in Stow's Survey of London, edition 1598, p. 530, as having munificently stored Leadenhall for the relief of the poor. He filled several civic offices of high trust with distinction, and died in the month of July, 1521, 13 HENRY VIII.

His descendant, Richard Atcherley, who was also b. at Stanwardine, went to live at Marton, and afterwards lived at Wycherley Hall, in the same parish of Baschurch. Thomas Atcherley, the eldest son of Richard Atcherley, added certain parts of the Marton property in 1611, 9th JAMES I., and purchased more in 1620, and upon his death, was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS ATCHERLEY, who was baptized 31 Dec. 1609, and m. in 1642, Eleanor, dau. of Roger Griffiths, Esq., an alderman of Shrewsbury. This Thomas rebuilt Marton Hall, which has ever since been in the possession of his lineal descendants, and which still remains as he built it, with some recent additions. He purchased an estate in Montgomeryshire, which he limited to his eldest surviving son, Andrew, of whom hereafter. By his marriage he had issue,

ANDREW, just named, of whom below.
RICHARD, of whom below.
Anne, who m. — Clulton, Esq.
Eleanor, who m. 1st, Nathaniel Kynaston, of Llansaintfraid, Esq., and 2ndly, the Rev. Mr. Lloyd, of Llansaintfraid, and d. without issue of either marriage.

Mary, m. 24 July, 1683, to Charles Chambre, of Burlton, Esq.

This Thomas Atcherley was buried 6 Aug. 1681. Upon the marriage of his third son, Richard, mentioned below, with Margaret Hill, he had settled upon him the Marton estate in tail male, and his estate at Weston Lullingfield in tail general.

RICHARD ATCHERLEY, the son who s. his father, m. 7 June, 1680, Margaret Hill, sister of the Right Hon. Richard Hill, of Hawkstone, and had issue,

Margaret, a posthumous child, who m. 10 June, 1703, Robert Lowndes, of Wilmslow, co. Buckingham, Esq., and s. her father in the property in Weston Lullingfield, which had been settled by her grandfather, Thomas Atcherley, in tail general. This Margaret Lowndes had issue a dau., Margaret, who, in April, 1735, m. John Edwards, of Great Ness, co. Salop, Esq.

Richard Atcherley was buried 29 Sept. 1682. His widow, Margaret, afterwards m. Thomas Harwood, of Atcham, co. Salop, Esq., whose eldest son, Thomas Harwood, assumed the name of Hill, served for Shrewsbury in several parliaments, and was the father of the first Lord Berwick. Richard Atcherley dying without issue male, was s. in the Marton property by his elder brother,

ANDREW ATCHERLEY, who m. 19 Nov. 1670, Jane Lloyd, of Lletty Gonvorch, in the parish of Forden, co. Montgomery, and had issue by her, four sons and seven daus. Upon the death of Andrew Atcherley, who was buried 9 Feb. 1709, he was s. by his eldest surviving son,*

RICHARD ATCHERLEY, who m. 3 Nov. 1702, Elizabeth Lloyd, dau. of Edward Lloyd, of Leaton, near Shrewsbury, Esq., and had issue by her two sons,

ATHORPE OF DINNINGTON.

ATHORPE, JOHN-CARVER, Esq. of Dinnington, co. York, b. 9 Aug. 1803; m. 8 Feb. 1831, Mary, dau. of Thomas-Gibbon Fitzgibbon, Esq. of Ballyseeda, co. Limerick, and granddau. of Sir Henry Osborne, Bart. This gentleman, who is elder

* Roger Atcherley, (or, as he spelt it, Acherley,) of the Inner Temple, Esq., barrister-at-law, not in the direct line given above, but springing from a younger branch of the family, was the author of a work called "The Britannic Constitution; or, the Fundamental Form of Government in Britain," published in 1727, and dedicated to H.R.H. Prince Frederick; and of a second work, called "Reasons for Uniformity in the State," dedicated to the then Speaker, Arthur Onslow, Esq.; and also of a third work, called "Free Parliaments," to which last work is appended a part of the correspondence between the court of Hanover and Mr. Atcherley, in the years 1713 and 1714. It was by his advice that Baron Schutz, the Hanoverian minister, demanded of the lord-chancellor a writ calling the Electoral Prince of Hanover to the House of Lords as Duke of Cambridge. His services were acknowledged in the most flattering terms in the letters both of Baron Bottiman and Monsieur Liebnitz, on the part of the house of Hanover, but he died without those services being rewarded. Calamy, in his historical account of his life, makes mention of the works of Mr. Atcherley, and also of his Hanoverian correspondence.

son of the present Marmaduke-Middleton Middleton, Esq. of Leam, co. Derby, by Mary-Anne, his wife, dau. of Robert Athorpe-Athorpe, Esq. of Dinnington, assumed, upon attaining his majority, the surname and arms of ATHORPE, in pursuance of the will of his maternal uncle, Thomas Athorpe, Esq.

Lineage.

SIR JONATHAN ATKINS, Knt. of Givendale, co. York, Governor of Guernsey, b. in 1603, d. in 1702, aged ninety-nine, leaving, by his first wife, Mary, 2nd dau. of Sir William Howard, of Naworth Castle, Cumberland, and sister of Sir Charles Howard, 1st Earl of Carlisle, three sons, CAPTAIN CHARLES ATKINS, referred to in Pepys' MSS.; RICHARD ATKINS, Esq., of whom we have to treat; and JOHN ATKINS, Esq. of the city of York. The second son,

RICHARD ATKINS, Esq., the first of the family who settled in Ireland, obtained a grant of lands in the co. of Kerry, between the years 1640 and 1660, which he soon afterwards alienated, having determined to return to England, for which, his native country, he had set out, accompanied by his wife; but the lady, whose family were settled in Kerry, desirous of remaining amongst her relatives, had influence enough to persuade him, when sojourning for a night at a small village between Mallow and Buttevant, to purchase several debentures, which were confirmed to him as a loyal subject, when Sir Peter Courthorpe was governor of Munster, about 1660. The East and West Creaghkerries were the lands so acquired, and were named Fountainville by Mr. Atkins; they are situated in the barony of Fermoy and co. of Cork, midway between Mallow, Buttevant, and Doneraile. ### Lineage.

This family deduces its descent from the time of the Conquest, and is stated by some authorities to have been of Saxon origin. The early ancestors bore the surname of De la How, and from an ancient work regarding Norfolk, it appears that "Sir William de Hoo, or de la How, a renowned warrior, built the church of Mulbarton, in that county, and was buried in 1410." In Doomsday Book, Hoo or Hou signifies a rising ground, and the probable derivation and progress of the name was De Hoo, De Hill, De la Hill, and Attehill.

Richard Att'ehill, of Bareworth, in the co. of Berks, (whose name &c. are recorded in the Abbreviatio Rotulo Originalium, 31 Edward I.,) m. Maude, dau. of Sir John Harley, of South Wales, and was grandfather of

John Att'ehill, the first of his family who settled in the co. of Norfolk, where his descendants have since continued to reside. He is mentioned among the benefactors of the Abbey of Lewes, and d. leaving issue, one son and a dau. He was interred in the church of Geystwick, Norfolk, where a monument to his memory still remains, in the south aisle. His great-great-grandson,

Henry Att'ehill appears among the list of the gentry of England returned by the commissioners in the reign of Henry VI. He espoused, in 1448, Mary-Therese, dau. of Sir Hugo de Montmorencie, a French officer, and by her left, with three daus., two sons. The elder,

* Mr. Blennerhassett, who was cousin of Sir Arthur Blennerhassett, Bart., d. in 1841, leaving four daus., Veronica-Montgomerie, m. to J.-G.-P. Atthill, Esq.; Henrietta-Charlotte; Elizabeth, m. in 1842, to the Hon. J.-T. Tuchet, brother of Lord Audley; and Anna-Sarah.

Henry Att'ehill fell in the wars of the Roses, leaving an only son, who d. in infancy. The family estates then devolved upon his only brother,

Thomas Att'hill, who m. in 1471, Lucy, dau. of Sir Ralph Mordaunt, and had, with four daus., an only son, his successor,

Sir Richard Att'hill, Knt., who d. in 1505, leaving two sons and two daus., and was interred in the church of Geystwick, where his effigy in brass still remains. Sir Richard was s. at his demise by his elder son,

Anthony Att'hill, Esq. The family residence having become dilapidated, this gentleman settled at Cawston, in the co. of Norfolk. He m. in 1540, and had issue, four sons and two daus., of whom the eldest,

Richard Att'hill, Esq., b. in 1545, succeeded his father, and marrying in 1569, had, inter alios, a dau., Cicely, wife of William Custance, Esq., and a son and successor,

Edward Att'hill, Esq., captain in the army of Charles I., who m. the dau. and heir of Peterson, of Aylsham and Brandiston, and d. in 1676, leaving an only surviving son,

Anthony Att'hill, Esq. of Cawston, who m. in 1684, Anne, dau. of Sir Thomas Lombe, Knt., and left, besides several daus., two sons, viz.,

Anthony-Lombe.
John, ancestor of the Cawston branch, from which are descended Edward Atthill, Esq., seised of estates in Cawston and Bewley, and the Rev. Lombe Atthill, of Halesworth.

Mr. Att'hill was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

Anthony-Lombe Att'hill, Esq. of Brandiston, who m. Maria, dau. of — Capon, Esq., and had issue,

AYLMER OF LYONS.

Aylmer, Michael-Valentine, Esq., b. 8th March, 1812, s his father as head and lineal representative of this ancient family, 9 Jan. 1837; m. 26 April, 1841, Marianne, dau. and heir of the late William Conolly, Esq., of the city of Dublin, and has issue,

Mary, b. 6 March, 1842.

Lineage.

The family of Aylmer has been long seated in Ireland, and particularly at Lyons, in the county Kildare, where it occupied, for many generations, a high station amongst the gentry of that shire.

In the year 1300, we find the two brothers, Radulph and William Aylmer, living at Lyons.

In 1421, Richard Aylmer, Esq. of the same place, was one of the keepers of the peace of the counties of Dublin and Kildare, and in 1432, sovereign of the town of Tassagard. From him lineally derived

RICHARD AYLMER, of Lyons, Esq., who was made chief serjeant of the county Kildare, 1 June, 1535. His descendant,

GEORGE AYLMER, of Lyons, Esq., was comprehended within the articles of Limerick; he m. in 1685, Mary, eldest dau. of Sir Valentine Browne, subsequently created Baron Castlerosse and first Viscount Kenmore, and dying 21 January, 1729, was buried at Lyons, leaving issue three sons and three daus., Thomas, who d. in 1709; GERALD, of whom presently; Valentine, who d. unm. 1737; Jane, m. to Pierce Bryan, of Jenkinstown, co. Kilkenny, Esq.; Elizabeth, and Cicely.

GERALD AYLMER, Esq., the 2nd son, who succeeded, d. 10 Mar. 1729, two months after his father's decease, leaving, by Mary, his wife, dau. and co-heiress of Michael Moore, of Drogheda, Esq., two sons and two daus., George, who d. a minor, in Oct. 1732, Michael, Mary, and Alice. The surviving son and heir,

MICHAEL AYLMER, Esq. of Lyons, m. 1st, Margaret, only child of George Mathew, of Thomastown, Esq., (the testator of that princely domain to the ancestor of the late Earl of Llandaff,) by whom he had issue, George and Gerald, who both d. young; Mary, m. in 1783, to Valentine, the late Earl of Kenmare (see BURKE'S Peerage); and Margaret, m. in 1788, to Robert Ffrench, of Rahasane, co. I. Mary-Anne.
II. Margaret.
III. Frances.
IV. Georgina, deceased.
V. Jane-Eliza.
VI. Letitia.

Mr. Aylmer d. 9 Jan. 1837, and was s. by his elder son and heir, the present MICHAEL-VALENTINE AYLMER, Esq.

Estates—In the counties of Tipperary and Meath, and cities of Dublin and Cork.

 The family formerly held vast territorial possessions under ancient grants, in the counties of Kildare and Limerick. The Lyons property, the family seat for centuries, was sold in December, 1796, by Michael, the present Mr. Aylmer's grandfather, to Nicholas, first Baron Cloncurry, father of the present peer.

AYLWARD OF SHANKILL CASTLE.

AYLWARD, JAMES-KEARNEY, Esq. of Shankill Castle, co. Kilkenny, justice of the peace and high-sheriff of that county in 1837.

Lineage.

This family is of great antiquity in Ireland, and was settled in the co. of Waterford at a very early period, where, for more than three centuries it was in the enjoyment of large possessions. The first on record is,

RICHARD AYLWARD, who, by Joan Fitzgerald, his wife, was father of another RICHARD AYLWARD, of Faithlecke, or Fathlegg, co. Waterford, who m. Catherine, sister to Sir Almare Gras (Baroni de Gras), of Kilkenny, and who was appointed, 16 Jan. 1385, commissioner of the peace for the co. Waterford. From this Richard descended PETER AYLWARD, of Fathlegg, or Faithlecke, who was returned M.P. for the county in the Irish parliament, 12 Jan. 1559. He was father of RICHARD AYLMER, of Fathlegg, M.P. for co. Waterford in 1585. To him s.

PETER AYLWARD, of Fathlegg, who had two sons, Sir Richard and Sir Peter. The elder,

SIR RICHARD AYLWARD, Knt. of Fathlegg, was admitted a member of the King's Inns, Dublin, 7 Nov. 1607, and dying s. p., was s. by his brother,

SIR PETER AYLWARD, of Fathlegg, who was also admitted a member of the King's Inns, 18 April, 1608, and had numerous grants and confirmations of lands &c. in Waterford, Kilkenny, and Tipperary. He m. Catherine, dau. and co-heir of — Lincoll, Esq. of Kilkenny, and left at his decease, in 1645, a son and heir,

JOHN AYLWARD, of Fathlegg, who became dispossessed of that as well as other considerable estates of his family during the usurpation of Cromwell. He was father of

PETER AYLWARD, who settled at Shankill, co. Kilkenny. He m. Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Sir Richard Butler, Bart. of Poolestown,* co. Kilkenny, and eventual co-heir with her sister Hester, wife of James Butler, of Cowmellane, co. Carlow, of the Poolestown estates; by this lady he was father of a son and successor,

NICHOLAS AYLWARD, Esq. of Shankill, member of the King's Inns, and M.P. for the borough of Thomastown, Kilkenny, of which county he was high-sheriff in 1742. He m. 5 Aug. 1719, Catherine, 2nd dau. of Maurice Keating, Esq. of Narraghmore, co. Kildare, and d. in 1756, leaving two sons, Nicholas, his heir, and Peter, who d. unm. in 1802, and was interred at Gloucester. The elder son,

NICHOLAS AYLWARD, Esq. of Shankill, high-sheriff in 1757, m. Mary, dau. of B. Kearney, Esq., by whom he had issue, PETER, his heir; Nicholas, d. unm.; and Catherine. He was s. at his death, in 1768, by his eldest son,

PETER AYLWARD, Esq. of Shankill, who m. Anne, dau. of — Kearney, Esq. of New Ross, co. Wexford, and d. in 1792, having had, with a younger son, Michael, an officer in the army, d. unm., 1810, and a dau., Elizabeth, an elder son and heir,

NICHOLAS AYLWARD, Esq. of Shankill, who m. in 1805, Elizabeth, eldest dau. of James Kearney, Esq. of Blanchville, co. Kilkenny, and had issue,

Julia-Mary.

Mr. Babington, who is in the commission of the peace for Leicestershire, s. his father 21 Nov. 1837.

Lineage.

The family of Babington was settled at Babington, in Northumberland, temp. WILLIAM the Conqueror, according to Bigland (Gloucester Cathedral) and Noble, (College of Arms); but Hutchinson, in his History of that County, merely states that the family was as old in England as the CONQUEST. The first who is known to have been seated in Northumberland, is JOHN DE BABINGTON, Lord of Babington, in the barony of Umfraville, where he resided in the reigns of Kings JOHN and HENRY III. The pedigrees make him succeeded by his son William, but it is probable that a generation has been omitted, and that WILLIAM was his grandson, being the son of Robert de Babington, who occurs in the Great Pipe Roll for Northumberland, 32 HENRY III. William, who was of Little Babington in 1271, was father of SIR BERNARD DE BABINGTON, of Little Babington, whose son, SIR JOHN DE BABINGTON, Knt., chief captain of Morlaix, in Brittany, under EDWARD III., had a son,

SIR JOHN BABINGTON, Knt. of East Bridgeford, Notts, who d. in 1409, leaving, by Benedicta, his wife, dau. and heir of Sir Simon Ward, of the co. Cambridge, with two daus., Sidonia, who d. in 1448; and Benedicta, m. to Sir Hugh Annesley, of Annesley, Notts, five sons, THOMAS, his heir; William, (Sir) Knt. of Chilwell, Notts, and Kiddington, Oxfordshire, K.B., chief justice of the Common Pleas; Arnold, a citizen of Norwich; Norman, of East Bridgeford; John, of Aldrington, co. Devon. Sir John Babington's eldest son,

THOMAS BABINGTON, Esq., in his youth sold his patrimony of East Bridgeford to his brother, Sir William, and after serving with HENRY V. in the French wars, returned home, and purchased the manor of Kingston, Notts. The sword which he wore at Azincourt is still preserved. He was M.P. for Nottingham in 1450; he m. Isabel, dau. and heir of Robert Dethick, of Dethick, in Derbyshire, and by her, who d. in 1435, left, at his decease in 1464 (being buried at Ashover), besides a younger son, William, LL.D., president of the Benedictine order in England, and abbot of St. Edmond's Bury from 1446 to 1453, a son and successor,

SIR JOHN BABINGTON, Knt. of Dethick and Kingston, who was sheriff of the counties of Derby and Nottingham in 1480. He m. Isabel, dau. of Henry Bradburne, Esq. of Bradburne, and the Hough, in Ashbourn, and by her, who d. 18 March, 1486, and was buried at Ratcliffe-on-Soar Church, Notts, had issue,

I. THOMAS, his heir.

HERBERT, born in April, 1822.

Lineage.

The first of this family who came to Ireland, or, at least, to the south of that kingdom, were two brothers, who settled there in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH; the elder of whom was Ranger of one of the royal parks, and m. to the dau. of HERBERT, of Powis, a house ennobled under that title, and illustrious under those of Pembroke, Montgomery, and Cherbury (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage). From this alliance the Christian name of Herbert has been transmitted in the family, which has also continued to quarter the arms of Herbert with those of Baldwin. These two brothers purchased property, and fixed their residence in the vicinity of Bandon, in the co. of Cork; the elder at Mossgrove (in Irish, Garrancacomlig); the younger at Lisnagart. The former left three sons,

I. Walter, who d. unm.
II. HERBERT, of whom presently.
III. James, (Colonel) who, in 1678, purchased from the celebrated Valentine Greatrakes, the present family estate of Clohina, which he bequeathed, by will, dated 1683, to his nephew, HERBERT, the second son of his brother,

The second son,

HERBERT BALDWIN, Esq. of Currovoidy, m. Mary, dau. of Dr. Dives Downes, afterwards (1699, 1709) Lord Bishop of Cork and Ross, and had three sons and two daus.—viz., 1. Henry; 2. Herbert; 3. Walter; 1. Mary, m. to Col. Foot, of Mallow; and 2. Elizabeth, m. to John Ware, Esq. Of the sons, Henry and Walter are the progenitors of several considerable families in the co. of Cork. The second,

HERBERT BALDWIN, Esq., who, inherited the estate of Clohina, under the bequest of his uncle, Col. James Baldwin, m. in 1689, Mary, dau. of Col. Hungerford, of the Island, near Clonkitty, of the eldest branch of the Irish Hungerfords, who assume to be the male representative of the ancient English barons of that name. By this lady he had issue, 1. JAMES, his heir; 2. Herbert, who d. s. p.; and 3. Richard, whose son Richard m. Miss Germain, of Affadown. Herbert Baldwin was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

JAMES BALDWIN, Esq., who m. in 1726, Elizabeth Langton, of Bury, in the co. of Limerick, niece of Col. Nicholas Colthurst, of Ballyally, and cousin-german to Sir Nicholas Colthurst, Bart. By her Mr. Baldwin, at his decease, in 1776, left two sons and two daus.—viz.,

I. JAMES, his heir.
II. Herbert, M.D., who m. Miss Collis, and had, inter alios, a son,
Michael, M.D., who m. Miss Shea, and had two sons and two daus.
I. Anne, m. to Mr. Thomas Oliffe, of Cork.
II. Mary, m. to Charles M'Carthy, Esq.

The elder son,

Lineage.

The very ancient family of Balfour, long heritable Sheriffs of Fife, derive their name from Balfour Castle in that county, built upon their earliest possession in Scotland, the Vale, or Strath, of the Or, a tributary of the Leven. Their first recorded ancestor was SIWARD, probably a Northumbrian, living in the reign of DUNCAN I. His son, OSULF, living temp. MALCOLM KEAN-MOHR, was father of SIWARD, "cui dat EDGAR Rex Vallem de Or (Strathor) et Maey, pro capite Ottar Dani." He had a son, OCTRED, who witnessed a charter of DAVID I. about 1141-2. He was father of MICHAEL DE BALFOR, "qui ob. obses in Angliâ," leaving two sons, between whom Octred de Strathor, their grandfather, divided his lands, viz.

WILLIAM, of that Ilk, Sheriff of Fife, ancestor of the BALFOURS of Balfour, extinct in the male line, but represented through the female by the BETHUNES of Balfour.
MICHAEL, of whose line we are about to treat.

The second son,

SIR MICHAEL DE BALFOR, Knt., 1st Baron of Strathor, was father of

SIR DAVID DE BALFOR, Knt., of Strathor, "qui ob. cruce signatus apud Tunegium," in 1269. His son and successor,

SIR MICHAEL DE BALFOR, Knt., of Strathor, seneschal of the Earl of Fife, fell in Wallace's defeat at Falkirk, in 1298, leaving a son,

SIR DAVID DE BALFOR, Knt., of Strathor, seneschal of Fife, who sat as a baron in the Parliaments of Cambuskenneth, 1314, and of Ayr, 1315. He m. Isabella, dau. of Macduff, of Reres, second son of Malcolm, 8th Earl of Fife, and was s. at his decease, in 1318, being then with Bruce's army in Ireland, by his son,

SIR MALCOLM DE BALFOR, Knt., of Strathor, seneschal of Fife, who was slain by the English, leaving a son,

SIR MICHAEL BALFOUR, who was brought up by his kinsman, Duncan, twelfth Earl of Fife, who gave, in 1353, "consanguineo suo Michaeli de Balfour," in exchange for Pittencrieff, the much more valuable lands of Munqhanny. The Countess Isabella, dau. of Earl Duncan, also bestowed many grants upon her "cousin" Sir Michael, who s. as Chief of the family, in 1379, at the decease of Sir John Balfour of Balfour. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR LAURENCE BALFOUR, of Strathor and Munqhanny, who, by Marjory, his wife, had three sons: the third, John, was of Balgarvey; the youngest, David, was of Carroldstone; and the eldest,

GEORGE BALFOUR, s., at his father's decease, to Munqhanny. He had two sons: James, the younger, was of Ballo; the elder, SIR JOHN BALFOUR, fell at the siege of Roxburgh, in 1460, during his father's lifetime, leaving a son and heir,

SIR MICHAEL BALFOUR, 9th baron of Strathor, who m. Janet, dau. of Sir Andrew Ogilvy, of Inchmartin, and was father of

MICHAEL BALFOUR, of Munqhanny, an especial favourite of JAMES IV., who, in 1493, erected his lands into a barony, to be called the Barony of Munqhanny. Sir Michael m. Marjory, dau. of Andrew Dury, of that ilk, and falling at Flodden, was s. by his only son,

ANDREW BALFOUR, of Munqhanny, who m. Janet, third dau. of Sir Alexander Bruce, of Earlshall, and had seven sons, viz., I. MICHAEL, his heir; II. Sir Gilbert, of Westra, master of Queen MARY'S household; III. Sir James, of Pittendriech, who m. Margaret, dau. and heiress of Michael Balfour, of Burleigh, and from him descended the Lords Balfour of Burleigh, James, Lord Balfour of Clonawley &c.; IV. David, ancestor of the Balfours of Grange; V. George, Prior Commendator of Charterhouse; VI. Robert, Provost of St. Mary's; and VII. John. The eldest son,

MICHAEL BALFOUR, of Munqhanny, Commendator of Melrose, m. Janet, dau. of Sir David Boswell, of Balmuto, and dying in 1570, was s. by his son,

SIR MICHAEL BALFOUR, of Munqhanny, who removed, in 1588, to Noltland Castle, in the island of Westra, in Orkney, which he inherited from his cousin-german, Archibald Balfour, of Westra. He m. Mariota Adamson, dau. of Patrick, Archbishop of St. Andrew's, and had two sons; the elder, Sir Andrew, of Strathor and Munqhanny, m. in 1589, Mary, dau. of Sir James Melville, of Halhill, but d. s. p. The younger,

MICHAEL BALFOUR, of Garth, m. in 1593, Margaret, dau. of Malcolm Sinclair, of Quendal, Arch-Dean of Zetland, and was s. by his eldest son,

PATRICK BALFOUR, of Pharay, a stanch royalist, and a severe sufferer in the cause, who m. Barbara, dau. of Francis Mudy, of Breckness, and was s. at his decease, in 1664, by his elder son,

GEORGE BALFOUR, of Pharay, m. 1st, in 1657, Marjory, dau. of James Baikie, Esq. of Tankerness, and his only surviving son by that lady, WILLIAM, of Pharay, left an only child, Isabel, wife of Archibald Stewart, of Brough. He m. 2ndly, in 1678, Mary Mackenzie, only dau. of Murdoch, Bishop of Orkney, and dying in 1706, left, inter alios, a son,

JOHN BALFOUR, of Trenaby, who inherited a portion of his father's estate. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Traill, of Skaill, and had five sons and one dau., WILLIAM, his heir; Thomas, of Huip; Archibald; John, M.D.; Robert; and Mary, m. to John Traill, of Westness. He d. in 1741, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM BALFOUR, of Trenaby, b. in 1719, who m. 9 Feb. 1744, Elizabeth Coventry, heiress of Newark, dau. of the Rev. Thomas Coventry, and had (with three daus., Elizabeth, m. in 1787, to William Manson, Esq; Margaret, who d. unm.; Catherine, who d. unm.; and Mary, m. to Capt. George Craigie,) three sons, viz.,

I. JOHN, his heir.
II. Thomas, of Elwick, a col. in the army, b. 3 Feb. 1752, and d. at Bath in 1799. He m. in 1776, Frances Ligonier, niece of Field-Marshal John, Earl Ligonier, commander-in-chief of the British forces, and only sister of Edward, 2nd Earl Ligonier, by whom he had, John-Edward-Ligonier, capt. in the 9th foot, b. 11 Jan. 1780, killed at Alkmaar, 19 Sept. 1799; WILLIAM, of Elwick, present representative of the family, and Mary, m. to the Rev. Mr. Balfour, who s. to the estates upon the death of his grandfather, Blayney-Townley Balfour, Esq., in 1788, and was formerly member in the Irish parliament in 1797-8, for the borough of Belturbet, is now a magistrate for the counties of Louth and Meath, and a deputy-lieutenant of the former, for which he has served the office of high-sheriff in 1792.

Lineage.

The Balfours of whom we are treating are a younger branch of the Balfours of Burleigh, in Scotland, and were established by Sir William Balfour, who purchased property in the co. of Fermanagh from Lord Balfour of Clonawley. The Townleys spring from a scion of the ancient stock of Townley of Townley Hall, in Lancashire. Their representative,

Blayney Townley, Esq., assumed the surname of Balfour on the death of his nephew, William Balfour, Esq., whom he succeeded. He m. his cousin, Mary Townley, heiress of Hamilton Townley, of Townley Hall, Esq., and relict of — Tennison, Esq., by whom he left an only son,

Blayney-Townley, b. in 1743, who m. 20 Feb. 1768, Letitia, dau. of Francis Leigh, Esq., M.P. for Drogheda, by Anne, his wife, dau. of Henry Bingham, Esq. of Newbrook, co. Mayo, and predeceasing his father, left issue,

Mr. Balguy, who s. his father 8 Sept. 1833, is a Queen's counsel, recorder of Derby, and one of the Commissioners of the Court of Bankruptcy. He is also a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the co. of Derby.

Lineage.

The Balguys have been seated in Derbyshire for twenty generations, and are described as a branch of the Baguleys of Baguley, in Cheshire. The estate of Darwent Hall, sold by the late John Balguy, Esq., had been held by the family for several hundred years, and was the remnant of large possessions in the High Peak, formerly belonging to them. John Balguy, who served the office of high-sheriff for Derbyshire three or four years after the Restoration, is described as of Darwent Hall. In 1594, Thomas Balguy was member for Stamford, in Lincolnshire, and recorder of that borough. To the latter office John Balguy was elected in 1628, and his son, of the same name, in 1649. The representative of the family in more recent times,

Henry Balguy, Esq. of Darwent Hall, co. Derby, had, by Mary, his wife, two daus., Frances-Martha and Mary, who d. unm., and one son,

BANKES OF KINGSTON HALL.

BANKES, WILLIAM-JOHN, Esq. M.A. of Kingston Hall, co. Dorset, and of Soughton Hall, in Flintshire, s. his father in 1834. Mr. Bankes, as lord of Corfe Castle, is lord-lieut. and admiral of the Isle of Purbeck, and lord of the hundred of Robarrow and Hasilor. He was elected, in 1821, M.P. for the University of Cambridge, and for the county of Dorset in 1831.

Lineage.

SIR JOHN BANKES, lord chief justice of the Common Pleas, in the time of CHARLES I., the son of John Bankes,* a merchant, by his wife Elizabeth Hassell, was b. towards the close of the sixteenth century, admitted a commoner of Queen's College, Oxford, in 1604, and being subsequently called to the bar, was made attorney-general in 1634, and in that capacity appeared for the Crown in the celebrated cause instituted in the Exchequer against the patriot HAMPDEN, for his refusal to pay the arbitrary imposition of ship-money. Sir John Bankes was soon afterwards (1640) constituted lord chief justice of the Court of Common Pleas. Through the perils that afterwards encompassed his royal master, he adhered with unshaken fidelity to his cause, and attaching himself personally to the king, followed his majesty to York. In his absence, Corfe Castle, the place of his abode, was invested by the rebels, but gallantly defended by his heroic wife, and not surrendered eventually, until betrayed. The name of this distinguished woman was MARY HAWTREY, only dau. of Robert Hawtrey, Esq. of Riselip. Sir John Bankes d. in 1644, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

SIR RALPH BANKES, of Corfe Castle, Knt., who m. Mary, only dau. and heiress of John Bruen, Esq. of Athelhampton, and had, with a dau. Mary, who d. unm., an only son, JOHN, his heir. Sir Ralph erected Kingston Hall, and dying about the year 1679, was s. by his son,

JOHN BANKES, Esq. of Kingston Hall, M.P. for Corfe Castle, who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Henry Parker, by whom, (who m. 2ndly, Thomas Lewis, Esq. of London,) he had, with other children who died issueless, two sons JOHN and HENRY, and a dau. Mary, m. to Sir Thomas l'Anson, Bart. He d. in 1714, and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN BANKES, Esq. of Kingston Hall, M.P., who dying issueless, in 1772, was s. by his brother,

HENRY BANKES, Esq. of Kingston Hall, barrister-at-law, king's counsel, M.P. for Corfe Castle, and one of the commissioners of the customs. He m. first, Eleanor, dau. of Richard Symonds, Esq. of London, and 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of the Right Rev. John Wynne, D.D., Bishop of Bath and Wells, and co-heir of her brother, the Right Hon. Sir W. Wynne, Knt., Chief Judge of the Prerogative Court and Dean of the Arches. By the first lady he had no issue. By the second he had a son, HENRY, his heir, and a dau. Anne. Mr. Bankes d. in 1776, and was s. by his only surviving son,

HENRY BANKES, Esq. of Kingston Hall, M.P. for Corfe Castle from 1780 to 1826, and for the co. of Dorset from that time until 1831. Mr. Bankes m. in 1784, Frances, dau. of William Woodley, Esq., governor of the Leeward Islands, and had, (with two daus., Anne-Frances, m. to Edward, Earl of Falmouth; and Maria-Wynne, m. to the Hon. Thomas Stapleton,) four sons, viz., 1. Henry, lost at sea in 1806; 2. WILLIAM-JOHN, now of Kingston Hall; 3. George, of Studland, in the Isle of Purbeck, Cursitor Baron, who m. Georgiana-Charlotte, dau. and heir of Admiral Edmund-Charles Nugent, and has Edmund-George, b. in 1826; Henry-Hyde-Nugent, Edward-Dee, Georgina-Charlotte-Frances, Maria-Margaret, Adelaide, Augusta-Anne, and Octavia-Elizabeth; 4. Edward, rector of Corfe Castle, prebendary of Gloucester, who m. 1st, in 1820, Lady Frances-Jane Scott, dau. of John, Earl of Eldon, by whom he has issue, John-Scott, Eldon-Surtees, and Frances, and 2ndly, in 1839, Maria, third dau. of the Hon. and Very Rev. Edward Rice, D.D. Mr. Bankes d. 17 Dec. 1834, and was s. by his eldest surviving son, the present WILLIAM-JOHN BANKES, Esq. of Kingston Hall.

Arms—Sa., a cross, engrailed, erm., between four fleurs-de-lis, or; quartering BRUEN, MARTIN, PYDEL, WYNNE, and JONES.

Crest—A Moor's head, full faced, couped at the shoulders, ppr., on the head a cap of maintenance, gu., turned up, erm., adorned with a crescent, whence issues a fleur-de-lis.

Seats—Kingston Hall, and Soughton Hall.

* Whose father was John Bankes, and his mother Jane Multon.

BANKES OF WINSTANLEY HALL

BANKES, MEYRICK, Esq. of Winstanley Hall and Up-Holland House, Lancashire, b. 22 Nov. 1811.

Lineage.

SIMON BANKES, the first of this family on record, m. in 1335, the dau. and heiress of Katherton, of Bank Newton, in Craven, Yorkshire, and acquired, jure uxoris, the manor of Bank Newton, which remained in the Bankes' family till sold by the elder branch, about the middle of the seventeenth century, to Nicholas Townley, Esq. of Royle.

LAWRENCE BANKES, Esq. of Bank Newton, son and heir of Simon, was great-great-great-grandfather of RICHARD BANKES, Esq. of Bank Newton, who m. Joan, dau. of Richard Norton, and had I. JOHN, ancestor of the families of Bankes of Bank Newton, and of Bankes of Beck Hall, which latter became extinct in the person of the Right Hon. SIR JOSEPH BANKES, Bart. K.B., and II. WILLIAM.

WILLIAM BANKES, Esq., the second son, the first of Winstanley, which he purchased about 1585, d. in 1587, leaving a son,

JAMES BANKES, Esq. of Winstanley Hall, who m. in 1574, Susan, dau. of William Sherrington, merchant of London, by whom he left, with other issue, a son and successor,

WILLIAM BANKES, Esq. of Winstanley Hall, M.P. for Liverpool, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Ireland, Knt. of Bewsey, and by her had two sons, JAMES and THOMAS, who both d. young. He m. 2ndly, Sarah, dau. of Walter Jones, Esq. of Chastleton, co. Oxon, and by her (who d. in 1668) had issue an only son, WILLIAM. Mr. Bankes d. in 1676, at the age of 92, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM BANKES, Esq. of Winstanley Hall, b. 1636, who m. Frances, only dau. and (on the decease of her brothers and her niece, s. p.) eventually sole heiress in blood of Peter Legh, Esq. of Birch, co. Lancaster, a younger son of Sir Peter Legh, of Lyme, and left (with other issue who d. unm.)

WILLIAM, his successor.

Thomas, of Wigan, m. Anne, dau. of Thomas Cholmondeley, Esq., of Vale Royal, in Cheshire, (by his 1st wife, Jane Tollemache, sister of the 1st Earl of Dysart of that family,) and had issue seven sons and three daus., all of whom died young, except

- Robert, b. 1699, high-sheriff of the county of Lancaster in 1742, m. Elizabeth Morgan, but d. s. p.
- WILLIAM, who succeeded his uncle at Winstanley.
- ANNE, eventual heiress of the family, m. in 1731, Hugh Holme,* Esq., of Up-Holland House, Lancashire, and had issue,
  - THE REV. THOMAS HOLME, of whom hereafter.

Frances, m. Edward Morgan, Esq., of Golden Grove, and d. 1744.

Elizabeth, m. her cousin, Captain Richard Legh, a younger son of Legh of Lyme.

The eldest son,

WILLIAM BANKES, Esq. of Winstanley Hall, b. 1658, m. in 1687, his cousin Lettice, eldest dau. of Richard Legh, Esq. of Lyme, but by her (who survived him and m. 2ndly, Thomas Fleetwood, Esq. of Bank) he had no issue, and was consequently s. by his nephew,

WILLIAM BANKES, Esq. of Winstanley Hall, b. 1695, who m. Elizabeth, 3rd dau. of Amos Meredith, Esq., and sister and co-heir of Sir William Meredith, Bart., M.P. of Henbury, co. Chester, by whom he left an only child,

WILLIAM BANKES, Esq. of Winstanley Hall, high-sheriff of Lancashire in 1784; he m. Mary-Anne, dau. of Joseph Bunney, Esq. of Leicester, and d. s. p. in 1800, when the male line of the Bankes family became extinct; but

* The family of Holme has been seated in Lancashire, in different branches, from a period shortly subsequent to the Norman Conquest. The surname, which was originally and properly spelt Hulme, is local, and derived from the manor of that name between Trafford and Manchester, formerly possessed by the family.

In the third volume of Holinshed's Chronicle, among the Norman gentlemen attending on WILLIAM the Conqueror, is mentioned the "Seigneur de Houlme," but whether he was the father of Ranulph, or Randulphus, who was possessed of Hulme about the end of the 11th century, is not clearly ascertained.

Mr. Bankes bequeathed his property to his first cousin and nearest heir,

THE REV. THOMAS HOLME, of Up-Holland House, and then of Winstanley Hall, the son of ANNE BANKES abovementioned, b. 1732, m. Mary, dau. of Richard Meyrick, Esq. fourth son of Owen Meyrick, Esq. of Bodorgan, co. Anglesea, and by her left issue,

I. MEYRICK, his heir.
II. Frederick-William, in holy orders, B.D., b. 12th January, 1772, Fellow of Corpus-Christi College, Oxford, and afterwards rector of Meysey Hampton, co. Gloucester, m. 1st May, 1811, Mary-Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Thomas Pigot, Esq., of Almington Hall, Staffordshire, and has issue,
Frederick, b. 10th June, 1812, M.A., and F.Z.S., Fellow of Corpus-Christi College, Oxford.
Meyrick, in holy orders, b. 13th April, 1815, B.A. of Brazennose College, Oxford.
Mary-Elizabeth.
Jane, m. in 1842, to Henry-Leigh Trafford, Esq. (See TRAFFORD OF OUGHTRINGTON.)
III. Cholmondeley, b. 23 Jan. 1779, d. 12 Aug. 1793.
I. Jane, m. Lieut.-Col. Burgh Leighton, who d. in 1836, s. p.
II. Anne, m. the Rev. G. Borlase, who d. in 1809, s. p.
III. Mary-Meyrick, d. unm. in 1834, buried at Up-Holland.
IV. Harriet.

He m. 2ndly, in 1800, Miss Anne Leighton, sister of Sir Baldwin Leighton, Bart., but by her (who survived him and d. his widow in 1820) he had no issue. Mr. Holme d. at Winstanley 17 Aug. 1803, and was s. by his third, but eldest surviving son,

MEYRICK HOLME, Esq. of Winstanley Hall, who took the name and arms of BANKES only, in 1804, b. 12 Aug. 1768, served the office of high-sheriff of Lancashire in 1805. He m. 1st, his first cousin Catharine, dau. of the Rev. Edward Lally, vicar of Whitegate, Cheshire, by whom he had issue an only son, who d. an infant. He m. 2ndly, in 1810, Maria-Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Thomas Langford-Brooke, Esq. of Mere Hall, Cheshire. Mr. Bankes d. 1 March, 1827, and was s. by his only surviving son, the present MEYRICK BANKES, Esq., now of Winstanley Hall.

Arms—Sa., a plain cross, or, between four fleurs-de-lis, arg., and a canton of the second.
Crest—On a stump of a tree, a stork, statant, ppr., ducally gorged, gu.

BARCLAY-ALLARDICE OF URIE AND ALLARDICE.

BARCLAY-ALLARDICE, ROBERT, Esq. of Urie and Allardice, co. Kincardine, b. 25 Aug. 1779; s. his father in 1797, and his mother in 1833; m. in 1819, Mary Dalgarno, and has an only child,

* The family of Barker resided at Ipswich, co. Suffolk, from a very remote period, and so early as the time of EDWARD III. it gave its name to a street in that borough. The senior line, the Barkers of Grimston Hall, were raised to the degree of BARONET 17 March, 1621, as were the BARKERS of BOCKING, in 1676. The latter family derived from William, 3rd son of Sir Robert Barker, K.B. of Grimston Hall, by Susanna, his 2nd wife, dau. of Sir John Crofts, Knt., and became EXTINCT in 1818, at the decease of Sir William Barker, of Bocking Hall and Kilcooley Abbey, when the estates devolved on the nephew, CHAMBRE PONSONBY, Esq., who assumed the surname of BARKER.

* The great-grandfather of Lewyns Boldero had, besides his son and successor, a dau., Mrs. Barnard, mother of HENRY BARNARD, M.D., who d. unm. in 1769, and was buried in St. Mary's Church, Beverley. From this gentleman the family derive the surname of BARNARD.

BARRY OF LEMLARA.

BARRY, GARRETT-STANDISH, Esq. of Lemlara, co. Cork, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant, s. his father, Standish Barry, Esq. in April, 1823. Mr. Barry was the first Catholic member of parliament elected by the county of Cork after the Act of Emancipation in 1829.

Lineage.

This branch of the once potent name of BARRY, so influential under the successive Lords Barry, the Viscounts Buttevant, and the Earls of Barrymore,* has enjoyed large possessions in the co. of Cork, ever since the first incursion of the Anglo-Normans in the time of HENRY II. Many of their green acres have indeed fallen to the spoiler—and of the old Catholic families, which may not similarly complain?—in the confiscations, political and religious, that so frequently and so ruthlessly visited the land of their adoption, from the accession of the house of TUDOR to the extinction of the house of STUART. Those that remain, however, confer on the proprietor, by their title-deeds, an inheritance of six hundred years at least, transmitted through a continuous and unbroken succession of two-and-twenty generations.

GARRETT BARRY, who resided at Leamlary, (then so written) in the co. of Cork, temp. RICHARD II. m. the dau. of Poer, of Shangarry, allied to the Lords Le Poer, and dying about the year 1390, was s. by his son,

JOHN BARRY, who espoused the dau. of O'Nunane, of Castleishane, a very ancient Irish name, and had a son and heir,

GARRETT BARRY, father, by his wife, — White, of Imokilly, of

DAVID BARRY, of Leamlary, who wedded a dau. of Barrett, of Ballincolly, and had a son,

JOHN BARRY, who espoused Catherine Roche, of the noble house of Fermoy, and was s. by his son,

GARRETT BARRY, of Leamlary, whose wife was Ellen M'Cartie, of Tuadrommun. His son,

JOHN BARRY, of Leamlary, distinguished by the epithet of Laidhir, or the stout, m. Isabel Nagle, of Moncanimie, and had a son, GARRETT, his heir. By a grant from CHARLES I. in the 12th year of his reign (1636), the family estates were confirmed to this proprietor. John Barry was s. by his son,

GARRETT BARRY, Esq. of Leamlary, or Leamlara, who obtained from CHARLES II. a confirmatory grant of Leamlary. He m. Ellen, dau. of Daniel Duff O'Cahill, by Ellen, his wife, dau. of M'Cartie Reagh. He was s. at his decease by his son,

DAVID BARRY, Esq. of Leamlara, who m. Catherine, dau. of Standish Grady, Esq. of Elton, in the co. of Limerick, and was father of

STANDISH BARRY, Esq. of Leamlara, who m. in 1708, Eleanor, dau. of Thady Quin, Esq. of Adair, in the co. of Limerick, and had issue, three sons, DAVID, GARRET, and John, who d. unm., and six daus., Catherine, m. to Joseph Anthony, Esq.; Elizabeth, wife of Patrick Lacy, Esq. of Miltown, co. Limerick, whose dau. was mother of Sir de Lacy Evans, K.C.B.; Margaret, m. to John Stack, Esq.; Mary, Eleanor, and Anne, wife of Simon Haly, Esq. of Ballyhaly. The eldest son,

DAVID BARRY, Esq. of Leamlara, dying without issue, was s. by his brother,

GARRETT BARRY, Esq. of Leamlara, who m. Mary-Anne Hussey, dau. of the Baron of Galtrim, and dying in 1786, left, with two daus., Anne, wife of Timothy Deasy; and Eleanor, wife of Hatton Conron, Esq., a son,

STANDISH BARRY, Esq. of Leamlara, who m. in July, 1787, Margaret, youngest dau. of Philip Roche, Esq. of Limerick, and had three sons and three daus., GARRETT-STANDISH, his heir; John, who d. unm. in 1833; Henry, who m. Miss Burnet; Margaret, wife of Thomas Butler, Esq. of Ballycarron; Penelope, and Anne. Mr. Barry d. in April, 1821, and was s. by his eldest son, GARRETT-STANDISH BARRY, Esq. of Lemlara.

* It was ennobled likewise under the title of Santry.

Arms—Arg., three bars, gemels, gu.
Crest—A castle, arg., from the top issuing a wolf's head, sa.
Motto—Boutez en avant.
Seat—Lemlara House, co. Cork.

BARRY OF ROCLAVESTON.

BARRY, PENDOCK-BARRY, Esq. of Roclaveston Manor, co. Nottingham, b. 6 May, 1783, s. his father, Pendock Barry, Esq. LL.D., 13 March, 1833, and is a deputy-lieutenant for Nottinghamshire.

Lineage.

This family derives, in direct descent, from Godfridus, "qui floruit apud Teversal temp. Conquest." Richard de Barri, grandson of Ranulf de Insula, and Matilda Malebesse, his wife, confirmed in the reign of HENRY II., a grant of his church of Tollerton, made by his grandfather and grandmother aforesaid to Lenton Abbey, in the time of HENRY I. Many grants appear to have been made to that priory by the Barry family; one, by Warner de Insula, for his own soul and his brothers, Hugh, the prior, and Radulphus. To a grant of tithe in Bradmere, Ralph Barre and Ranulf de Insula are witnesses; and again, Robert de Glamorgan gives homages &c. to Lenton Priory, for the health of his soul, and of the souls of his father, Philip de Glamorgan, Brian de Insula, &c. From these coincidences of names, it is not improbable that the Nottinghamshire Barrys may be the same with those who at an early period possessed considerable property in Glamorgan, and had their residence in the little Island of Barry, and afterwards temp. HENRY II., at Manorber Castle, Pembrokeshire. The Tollerton and Teversal branches plainly have the same origin, but the period of their separation is not so clearly ascertained. The Tollerton line preserved a male succession for centuries, and ever maintained a leading position in the county. In the 14th EDWARD III., SIR JOHN BARRY, of Tollerton, served as one of the knights of the shire in parliament, and is probably the Sir John Barry mentioned in the siege of Caerlaverock. The eventual heiress of this long descended house,

MATILDA BARRY, only child of WILLIAM BARRY, of Tollerton, Esq., m. RICHARD PENDOCK, Esq. of Gotherington, co. Gloucester, descended from Pendock of Pendock, and had a son and successor,

WILLIAM PENDOCK, Esq. of Tollerton, who m. Eleanor, dau. of Lovett of Liscombe, Bucks, and was s. by his son,

JOHN PENDOCK, Esq. of Tollerton, who m. 9 Sept. 1594, Frances, dau. of Richard Parkyns, Esq. of Bunney, Notts, and dying in 1643, was s. by his son,

RICHARD PENDOCK, Esq. of Tollerton, b. in 1595, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Gelsthrop, Esq. of Whatton, Notts, and Fishlake, Yorkshire, and dying in Nov. 1645, left a son and successor,

PHILIP PENDOCK, Esq. of Tollerton, b. in 1621, who m. Jane, dau. of Nicholas Charlton, Esq. of Chilwell, Notts, and had an only dau. and heir,

ANN PENDOCK, of Tollerton, who m. John Neale, Esq. of Mansfield Woodhouse, b. 18 Sept. 1657, (son of Richard Neale, of the same place, who came from Ireland with the Duke of Newcastle,) and dying in 1692, left a son,

JOHN NEALE, of Tollerton, Esq., b. at Mansfield Woodhouse, in 1686, who m. Elizabeth Major, of Belper, co. Derby, and had issue,

Thomas, who m. Bridget Glen, and had two sons, Thomas-Pendock, and Pendock-William, and two daus.
Pendock, who m. Sarah Wright, and d. s. p.
John, in holy orders, rector of Tollerton, b. 29 March, 1771, who m. Sarah, dau. of the Rev. Jonathan Dennis, Rector of Bramshot, Hants, and has a son, Philip-Pendock, b. in 1798.
Susanna, m. to her cousin, Pendock Barry, LL.D., of Roclaveston.

The eldest son,

PENDOCK NEALE, of Tollerton, Esq., m. Harriet, sister of Richard, 1st Lord Eliot of Port Eliot, d. s. p. in 1773, and was s. by his nephew,

PENDOCK NEALE, Esq., LL.D., b. 27 Aug. 1757, who m. his cousin, Susanna, dau. of his uncle, the Rev. Thomas Neale, and by her (who d. 22 April, 1811) had issue,

PENDOCK-BARRY, now of Rocklaveston.
Susanna-Falkner-Neale, d. unm. in 1821.

Mr. Neale, who assumed, in 1812, by sign-manual, the surname of BARRY, in lieu of his patronymic, d. 13 March, 1833, and was s. by his only son and heir, the present PENDOCK-BARRY BARRY, Esq. of Roclaveston Manor.

Lineage.

The family was originally of Dearham, which estate they acquired at an early period, by marriage with the heiress. The senior line merged into the family of Lamplugh. A branch settled at Ilekirk, in Westward, became extinct the latter end of the 17th century, the co-heiresses marrying Fetherstonhaugh and Kirkley. Another branch is now represented by John Barwis, Esq. of Langrigg Hall. The father or grandfather of Thomas Barwis, who settled at Langrigg Hall, sold, it is said, a farm called Dryholm, within the parish of Holm Cultram, on which occasion the following verse was written :—

"Dryholm John was much to blame,
To let th' estate go out o' th' name :
More than five hundred years complete,
Dryholm had been a Barwis seat."

THOMAS BARWIS, Esq., m. Elizabeth Osmotherly, a descendant of a family which had been settled in the parish of Bromfield, temp. EDWARD I., and had purchased Langrigg in the reign of RICHARD II., and by her, with three daus., and another son, was father of

BASSET OF UMBERLEIGH AND WATERMOUTH.

BASSET, JOSEPH-DAVIE, Esq. of Umberleigh and Watermouth, co. Devon, eldest son and heir of the late John Davie, of Orleigh Court, in the parish of Buckland Brewer, in the same county, Esq., s. to the estates of the Basset family upon the demise of his uncle, Col. Francis Basset, of Heanton Court, in 1802, and thereupon assumed the additional surname of BASSET. He m. Miss Mary Irwin, of Barnstaple, co. Devon, and has issue three sons and two daughters, viz.,

ARTHUR, m. Miss Crawfurth, of Dulverton, and has issue.
Francis, in holy orders, rector of Heanton Punchardon, co. Devon, m. Miss Cartwright, of Teignmouth, co. Devon.
John, m. Miss Smith of Bristol.

Mary, m. General Sir Hopton Scott, K.C.B., of the Hon. E. I. Co.'s service.

Lineage.

On the roll of Battel Abbey appears the name of BASSET, and in the Conqueror's survey, THURSTAN, (or, as he is commonly written, THURSTINE,) a Norman, held six hides of land in Drayton, co. Stafford. This Thurstine, according to Dugdale, was paternal ancestor of the several families bearing the name of Basset, which rose into power and distinction very shortly after the Conquest, Ordericus Vitalis stating them to have been previously of baronial rank in Normandy.

RALPH BASSET, the son of Thurstine, temp. HENRY I., filled the high office of chief justice of England with (as Ord. Vit. writes) "a power so great, that he sat in what court he thought fit for the administration of justice." To him, it is asserted, we owe, amongst many other fundamental laws, the first design and institution of "Francpledge." The general supposition appears to be, that the Chief Justice was the progenitor of the noble races of the Lords Basset, of Drayton, co. Stafford; the Lords Basset, of Sapcote and Weldon, co. Leicester; the Lords Basset, of Hedendon, co. Oxford; the Lords Basset, of Wycombe, co. Bucks; as also of the Bassets of Blore, Devon, &c. The immediate connexion, however, between the numerous branches of this ancient family does not very clearly appear. All the eminent genealogical writers, from Dugdale downwards, write with uncertainty on the point. Sir William Pole deduces the descent of the Bassets of Umberleigh from

OSMOND BASSET, the second son of Thurstine, who, temp. HENRY I., was Lord of Ipisden and Stoke Basset. His son,

JOHN BASSET, m. Cicely, dau. of Alan de Englefield, by whom he had

SIR ALAN BASSET, who had given him, by Sir William Peverell, of Samford, White Chapple and La Heyne, in the parish of Bishop's Nympton, co. Devon, with Lucia, his sister, in marriage. From him descended

SIR WILLIAM BASSET, who was the father of

SIR JOHN BASSET, Knt., who m. temp. HENRY VIII., Joan, dau. of Sir Thomas, and sister and heir of Philip Beaumont, of Shirwel, co. Devon, through which alliance he acquired the two noble seats of Umberleigh, in the parish of Atherington, and Heanton Court, in the parish of Heanton, which latter place Prince styles, "A sweet and pleasant seat: a very handsome pile, well furnished with all variety of entertainment which the earth, and sea, and air can afford." This "sweet and pleasant seat" is, however, now dismantled and disparked. Umberleigh still remains a residence of the family. By Joan, his wife, Sir John Basset left one son,

SIR JOHN BASSET, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Denys, by whom he had issue, an only child, Anne, m. to James, son of Sir William Courtenay, of Powderham, Knt. Sir John Basset m. 2ndly, Honora, dau. of Sir Thomas Granville, who survived him, and remarried Arthur Plantagenet, Viscount Lisle, natural son of EDWARD IV. Sir John Basset d. 31 Jan. 1528, leaving three sons, 1. JOHN, of whom hereafter; 2. James, whose line is now extinct; 3. George, lord of the manor of Tehidy, co. Cornwall, whose representative is the present BARONESS BASSET, dau. and sole heir of the late Sir Francis Basset, Bart., who was created Lord de Dunstanville of Tehidy and Lord Basset of Stratton, co. Cornwall.

JOHN BASSET, Esq., the eldest son and heir, m. Frances, dau. and co-heir of the above-named Arthur Plantagenet, Viscount Lisle, who surviving him, remarried Thomas Monk, of Potheridge, co. Devon, Esq., and was great-grandmother of the celebrated George Monk, Duke of Albemarle. By Frances Plantagenet Mr. Basset had issue,

SIR ARTHUR BASSET, of Umberleigh, Knt., who m. Eleanor, dau. of Sir John Chichester, of Raleigh, Knt., and was father of

SIR ROBERT BASSET, of Umberleigh, Knt., living in 1620, "who," says Prince, "being by his grandmother descended from the Plantagenets, and of the blood royal, in the beginning of King JAMES I.'s reign, made some pretensions to the crown of England, but not being able to make them good, he was forced to fly into France, to save his head." To compound for this as well as to maintain his expensive style of living, Sir Robert greatly injured his estate, and was necessitated to sell White Chapple, the ancient inheritance of his ancestors, and no less than thirty manors. He m. Elizabeth, second dau. and co-heir of Sir William Peryam, Knt., chief baron of the Exchequer, and by her, who d. in 1633, aged 64, he had issue,

COL. ARTHUR BASSET, his son and heir, b. at Heanton Court, in 1597, and d. 7 Jan. 1672, having m. a dau. and co-heir of Leigh of Burrough, co. Devon, by whom he had a son, who d.v.p. Col. Basset was a zealous royalist, and Prince, in his "Worthies," gives a lengthened memoir of him. He was governor of St. Michael's Mount, when it was surrendered to the Parliamentary forces, under Col. Hammond, in 1646, and is buried in the parish church of Heanton Punchardon, co. Devon, where a handsome monument is erected to his memory.

JOHN BASSET, Esq., his son, d. in 1660, aged 30, and is buried in Heanton Church. He m. Susannah, dau. of Bluett, of Holcombe Regis, co. Devon, and left one son and heir,

JOHN BASSET, who succeeded to the estates on the decease of his grandfather. He was b. 1652, and d. 1686, having m. Elizabeth, dau. of Arthur Acland, of Bittadon, co. Devon, Esq., by whom he left issue,

JOHN BASSET, Esq., who m. a dau. of Sir Nicholas Hooper, of Fullabrook, co. Devon, Knt., and d. in 1721, leaving

FRANCIS BASSET, Esq., his son and heir, of Heanton Court, who m. Eleanora, dau. of Sir William Courtenay, of Powderham, co. Devon, and had three children,

I. FRANCIS BASSET, of Heanton Court, Esq., only son and heir, who dying unm., devised his estates as before mentioned.
II. Eustachia, who m. John Hooke Campbell, Esq., Lord Lyon king of arms, by whom she had issue, Eustachia, m. to Admiral Sir George Campbell, G.C.B.; Charlotte, m. Sir Thomas Gage, of Suffolk, Bart.; and Louisa-Caroline, m. to Henry Hulton, Esq.
III. Eleanora, m. John Davie, of Orleigh, in the parish of Buckland Brewer, co. Devon, Esq., and d. leaving fourteen children,
  1. JOSEPH DAVIE, who took the name of Basset in pursuance of his uncle's will, and is the present JOSEPH-DAVIE BASSET, of Umberleigh and Watermouth, Esq.
  2. Rev. Charles Davie, rector of Heanton Punchardon, co. Devon, m. Bridget, dau. of — Boyfield, of Lee, co. Kent, Esq., and d. leaving issue, Charles-Christopher Davie, captain 67th regiment; and Mary-Jane, m. John May, Esq. of Broadgate, near Barnstaple, deputy-lieutenant and magistrate for the co. of Devon.
  3. John Davie, Esq., post-captain in the R.N., who m. and d., leaving one dau.
  4. Francis Davie, a lieut. in the R.M., who d. unm.
  5. Peregrine Davie, Esq., in the H.E.I.C.S., m. and d. in India, leaving one child, a dau.
  6. Henry Davie, Esq., also in the H.E.I.C.S., was lost at sea on his return from India. He d. unm.
  7. Thomas Davie, d. young.
  8. Eleanora, the eldest dau., m. Rev. Lewis Lewis, of Gwinp, co. Carmarthen, and d. leaving issue.
  9. Julia, m. Rev. Mr. Beadon.

BASSET OF BEAUPRE.

BASSET, RICHARD, Esq. of Beaupré, co. Glamorgan, b. 6 Dec. 1797, Captain in the Royal Artillery.

Lineage.

The Bassets of Beaupré descend from THURSTINE DE BASSETT, the Norman, who accompanied WILLIAM the Conqueror, as his grand falconer, to England, and whose name appears on the Roll of Battel Abbey. His son, SIR JOHN BASSET, Knt., was Chancellor and Vice-comes, in Glamorganshire, to Robert Fitzhamon, from whom he received the lordship of St. Hilary, in which Beaupré is situated. The representative of this gallant knight,

WILLIAM BASSET, Esq. of Beaupré, son of Edward Basset, Esq. of Brovishin, co. Glamorgan, and Katherine, his wife, second dau. of Edward Carne, Esq. of Nash, in the same co., m. Cecil, dau. of Thomas Van, Esq. of Penbrey, and with other children, left at his decease, before 1646, a son and heir,

BASTARD OF KITLEY.

BASTARD, EDMUND-RODNEY-POLLEXFEN, Esq. of Kitley, Devonshire, b. 7 Sept. 1825; s. his father 8 June, 1838.

Lineage.

The family of Bastard has been seated in Devonshire ever since the Conquest. Robert Bastard appears in Domesday Book to have had large grants in that county. His descendants have intermarried with the heiresses of Crispin and of Killiowe, in the co. of Cornwall, and into the families of Fitz-Stephen, Besilles, Damarell, Gilbert, Reynell, Hele, and Bampfylde, and have at different periods served as sheriffs of the county. Their seat, for many generations was at Garston, near Kingsbridge, until, about the end of the seventeenth century,

WILLIAM BASTARD, Esq., by marriage with the heiress of Pollexfen of Kitley, acquired that estate, which has since beens the family residence. His son,

POLLEXFEN BASTARD, Esq. of Kitley, m. Lady Bridget Poulett, dau. of John, first Earl Poulett, and was s. at his decease, in 1733, by his eldest son,

WILLIAM BASTARD, Esq. of Kitley. In 1779, a powerful French fleet appearing in the Channel, great alarm was excited for the safety of the dockyard and arsenal at Plymouth, on account of a large number of French prisoners confined there, for the removal of whom no troops could be spared from the garrison, already insufficient for the defence of the place. Mr. Bastard, as a reward for his services in conducting these prisoners to Exeter, assisted only by the gentry and peasantry of the neighbourhood whom he had collected on the occasion, was created a Baronet by his late Majesty. The title was gazetted in 1779, but has never been assumed. He m. Ann, dau. of Thomas Worsley, Esq. of Ovingham, in the co. of York, and was s. at his decease, in 1782, by his elder son,

JOHN-POLLEXFEN BASTARD, Esq., M.P. for Devon, who m. Sarah, widow of — Wymondesold, Esq. of Lockinge, in the co. of Berks, by whom he acquired the estates belonging to that family, but dying without issue 4 April, 1816, he was s. by his brother,

EDMUND BASTARD, Esq., sometime M.P. for Dartmouth, who m. Jane, dau. and heiress of Captain Pownoll, R.N., of Sharpham, Devon, and had issue,

EDMUND-POLLEXFEN, his heir.
John, of Sharpham, capt. R.N., and M.P. for Dartmouth, who inherited the Pownoll estates. He m. Frances, dau. and co-heiress of Benjamin Wade, of the Grange, co. York, Esq., and d. 11 Jan. 1835.

BATEMAN OF HARTINGTON HALL.

Bateman, Richard-Thomas, Esq. of Hartington Hall, co. Derby, b. 9 Sept. 1794; m. 26 May, 1820, Madelene, dau. of Robert Willoughby, Esq. of Cliffe, in Warwickshire, by Lucy, his 3rd wife, dau. of Edward Ferrers, Esq. of Baddesley, and has issue, Hugh, Richard, Thomas, Francis-Willoughby, Elizabeth, and Madeleine. Mr. Bateman s. his father, Richard Bateman, Esq., in 1821, and his uncle, Sir Hugh Bateman, Bart., in 1824.

Lineage.

That the family of Bateman, now immediately under discussion was settled at Hartington before the year 1600, appears by the entries in the Heralds' College, as well as by a letter of Sir Anthony Bateman, lord-mayor of London in 1664, dated in Jan. 1644, in which, after stating that his father is "just dead at an advanced age," he says, that the deceased had remembered in his will "the poor of Hartington, where he was born."

Robert Bateman, of Hartington, in the co. of Derby, was father of

William Bateman, whose son,

Richard Bateman, of Hartington, living in 1561, m. Ellen, dau. of William Topleyes, of Tissington, in Derbyshire, and had two sons,

I. Hugh, his successor.
II. Richard, chamberlain of London, and sometime M.P., b. in 1561, d. in 1645, leaving, with other issue, three sons, Sir William Bateman, Knt., of London, Sir Anthony Bateman, lord-mayor of London in 1664, and Sir Thomas Bateman, created a Baronet in 1664.

The elder son,

Hugh Bateman, baptized 13 March, 1554, lived in 1601 at Meadow Plock, which he rented of Henry Cavendish, of Tutbury. He m. Margaret, dau. of John Sleigh, Esq. of Hartington, by whom (who d. in 1612) he left at his decease, in 1616, a dau. ## BATES OF MILBOURNE.

BATES, RALPH, Esq. of Milbourne Hall, co. Northumberland, b. 13 Dec. 1799; s. to the estates at the decease of his father, in 1813.

Lineage.

The family of BATES has been established many centuries in the co. of Northumberland.

THOMAS BATES, Esq. of Ovington Hall, in Northumberland, M.P. for Morpeth, which he continued to represent in the reigns of MARY and ELIZABETH, appears to have been high in favour with the former queen, for we find her majesty addressing a complimentary letter to him in 1556-7. Thomas Bates was subsequently, during the reign of ELIZABETH, appointed supervisor of all her majesty's houses, lordships, manors, lands, and tenements in Northumberland. His son and heir,

ROBERT BATES, Esq. of Morpeth, Milbourne, &c., d. in the 37th ELIZABETH, and was s. by his son,

CUTHBERT BATES, Esq. of Halliwell, who d. in 1602, leaving, by Elizabeth Ogle, his wife, a son and successor,

BECHER OF HOLLYBROOK.

BECHER, RICHARD-HENRY-HEDGES, Esq. of Hollybrook, co. Cork, a magistrate for that county, m. 12 Feb. 1839, Melian, eldest dau. of the late Rev. Morgan O'Donovan, The O'Donovan, head of that very ancient family.

Lineage.

The Bechers settled in Ireland temp. Queen ELIZABETH, and a pedigree exists, tracing their descent from Sir Eustace Dabridgecourt, who came from Hainault with Philippa, Queen Consort of EDWARD III. The great-grandson of the first settler in the sister kingdom,

COL. THOMAS BECHER, served as aide-de-camp to WILLIAM III. at the Battle of the Boyne, on which occasion the king presented him with his watch, a valued relic, still in the possession of Mr. Becher, of Hollybrook. Col. Becher m. Miss Turner, and was father of

HENRY BECHER, Esq., who m. Catherine, dau. of Col. Owen, of Stadham, co. Oxford, and had a son and successor,

JOHN BECHER, Esq. of Aughadown, co. Cork, who built Hollybrook in 1751. He m. four times, but had issue only by his 1st wife, Frances Eyre, of Mount Hedges and Macroom Castle—viz., RICHARD-HEDGES, his heir; Michael, who d. unm.; Jane, m. to Daniel O'Donovan, Esq. of Banlahan; and Eliza, m. to William Evans, Esq. of Kilkern, uncle of John, 6th Lord Carbery. The elder son,

RICHARD-HEDGES BECHER, Esq. of Hollybrook, m. 1st, in 1772, Letitia, dau. of Richard Hungerford, Esq. of the Island, and had, by her, two sons and a dau.—viz., JOHN, his heir; Henry, who m. Catherine Jermyn, of Aughadown; and Frances-Eyre, m. to Richard Hungerford, Esq. of the Island. Mr. Becher m. 2ndly, Mary Alleyn, of the City of Cork, and had, by her, several children. His son and successor,

JOHN BECHER, Esq. of Hollybrook, who m. in May, 1798, Susanna, dau. of Thomas Hungerford, Esq. of the Island, and Fox Hall, co. Cork, by Mary Cranfield, his wife, dau. of Alderman Becher, of Bristol, and had issue,

II. RICHARD-HENRY-HEDGES, his heir.
III. Thomas-Hungerford.
I. Letitia-Hungerford.
III. Frances-Eyre, m. to Richard-Becher Hungerford, Esq.
IV. Jane-Charlotte.
II. George-Cranfield.
IV. Richard-O'Donovan.
II. Susanna-Hungerford.

Mr. Becher d. 20 Feb. 1820, and was s. by his son, the present RICHARD-HENRY-HEDGES BECHER, Esq. of Hollybrook.

Arms—Vairé, arg. and gu., on a canton, or, a stag's head, couped, sa.
Crest—Out of a ducal coronet, or, a demi-lion, erm.
Motto—Bis vivit qui bene.
Seat—Hollybrook, co. Cork.

BECKETT OF BARNSLEY.

BECKETT, JOHN-STANIFORTH, Esq. of Barnsley, co. York, deputy-lieutenant, b. 5 April, 1794; m. 24 May, 1842, Gertrude-Elizabeth, elder dau. of Captain Sir William-Howe Mulcaster, R.N., K.C.H., C.B.

Lineage.

JOSEPH BECKETT, Esq., younger brother of Sir John Beckett, the 1st Bart. of Leeds and Somerby Park, co. Lincoln, m. 23 June, 1785, Mary, dau. and co-heir of John Staniforth, Esq. of Hull, and by her had (with five daus, Eleanor; Caroline, m. in 1825, to Thomas Beckett, Esq., 3rd son of the late Sir John Beckett, Bart.; Mary-Anne; Eliza, m. to William-Creed Fairman, Esq.; and Augusta) one son, the present JOHN-STANIFORTH BECKETT, Esq. of Barnsley.

Arm—Quarterly: 1st and 4th, gu., a fesse between three boars' heads, couped, erminois, a crescent, arg., for difference; 2nd and 3rd, erminois, on a fesse wavy, gu., three lions, rampant, arg.
Crest—A boar's head, couped, or, pierced by a cross-pattée fitchée erect, sa.
Motto—Prodesse civibus.

BECKFORD OF FONTHILL.

BECKFORD, WILLIAM, Esq. of Fonthill Abbey, co. Wilts, b. 29 Sept. 1760; m. 5 May, 1783, Lady Margaret Gordon, sole surviving daughter of Charles, 4th Earl of Aboyne, by Lady Margaret Stewart, his wife, dau. of Alexander, 7th Earl of Galloway, and had issue,

1. MARGARET-MARIA-ELIZABETH, m. in May, 1811, Lieut.-Gen. James Orde, and d. in 1818, leaving two daus., Margaret-Juliana-Maria and Susan-Jemima-Frances.
2. SUSANNA-EUPHEMIA, m. 26 April, 1810, Alexander Hamilton, Duke of Hamilton and Brandon, by whom her Grace has one son and one dau.—viz.,
   WILLIAM-ALEXANDER-ANTHONY-ARCHIBALD, Marquis of Douglas and Clydesdale, b. in 1811.
   Susan-Catherine-Harriet, m. in Nov. 1832, to Henry-Pelham Pelham-Clinton, Earl of Lincoln, son and heir apparent of Henry Pelham, Duke of Newcastle.

This gentleman has long been distinguished by a refined taste in architecture, and the possession of great literary powers: of the former, the magnificent seat of Fonthill was a splendid though fragile testimonial—of the latter, the CALIPH VATHEK, written originally in the French language, will remain an imperishable record. Mr. Beckford, who represented the city of Wells, and subsequently the borough of Hindon, in several parliaments, inherited the estates upon the demise of his father, in 1770.

Lineage.

After the conquest of Jamaica, in 1656,

COL. PETER BECKFORD, son of Peter Beckford, Esq., who was brother to Sir Thomas Beckford,* rose to the highest station in that colony. Having, during the reign of CHARLES II., filled the important office of president of the council, he was, by WILLIAM III., appointed lieut.-governor and commander-in-chief of the Island. Mr. Bendyshe, who is a lieut. in the royal navy, s. his father 17 March, 1824, and is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Cambridgeshire, for which county he has served as high-sheriff.

Lineage.

The surname, originally De Westley, was changed to that of Bendish, from a considerable lordship in Radwinter, whereof the family became possessed sometime in the twelfth century. The first whose name occurs in ancient writings that may be certainly depended upon is,

Peter de Westley, alias Bendish. He flourished about the reigns of King John and of Henry III. His son,

George, or Gerrard de Westley, alias Bendish, m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Richard de Burghwell, and had by her

RALPH DE WESTLEY, alias BENDISH, of Radwinter, who by his wife, Agnes, dau. and heir of John de Grauncesler, was direct ancestor of

THOMAS BENDISH, who was the first of the family who laid aside the surname of WESTLEY, and took up that of Bendish. He was also first of the family who purchased lands in Steeple Bumstead, co. Essex, and marrying Alice, dau. of William Helion, of the adjoining parish, had two sons, JOHN and Robert. At his death, about 1342, he was s. by the former,

JOHN BENDISH, who m. Alice, dau. of Sir Robert Rosse, and had a son,

EDMUND BENDYSHE, who accompanied EDWARD III. to the famous siege of Calais, in 1347-8, and with John Wythorne, rector of Halsted, gave 100*l.* to the university chest of Cambridge, founded by Walter Neale, about 1345. He d. in 1392, leaving by Alice, his wife, sister and eventual heir to William de Bennington, two sons, THOMAS, his heir; and Edmund, who d. s. p. in 1401.

THOMAS BENDISH, Esq., the elder son, m. 1st, Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Bradfield, Esq. of Barrington, co. Cambridge, and 2ndly, Alice, dau. and sole heir of Sir Walter Clopton, of Hadley, co. Suffolk, Knt. of Rhodes. By his second wife, he had Thomas, of Hadley; William; and John, founder of the Suffolk and Norfolk branches of Bendish; also two daus., Elizabeth, m. to John Huntingdon; and Alice, m. to Richard Ongar, of Yeldham. By his first wife he had EDMUND, ancestor of the Bendyshes of Barrington; Thomas, from whom descended SIR THOMAS BENDISH, of Steeple Bumstead, co. Essex, created a BARONET in 1611 (see BURKE'S Extinct Baronetage); Joan, wife of W. Wilford, Esq.; and Alice, wife of Walter Gerard, of Essex. The eldest son,

EDMUND BENDYSHE, Esq. who inherited his mother's estate, founded the family of BENDYSHE of Barrington, co. Cambridge, whose representative in the early part of the last century,

RALPH BENDYSHE, Esq. of Barrington, m. Mary, dau. of John Aylaff, of the parish of St. James's, Westminster, and was father of

RICHARD BENDYSHE, Esq. of Barrington, who m. 17 Feb. 1783, Jane, dau. of John Jervis, Esq. of Darlaston, co. Stafford, and had (with two other sons, Richard, an officer in the 1st foot-guards, who d. at Chatham; and Robert, lieut. R.N., drowned in the Blenheim with Sir Thomas Trowbridge) a successor, the present JOHN BENDYSHE, Esq. of Barrington.

Crest—Out of a ducal coronet, or, a talbot's head.
Motto—Utrâque Pallade.

BENETT OF PYTHOUSE.

BENETT, JOHN, Esq. of Pythouse and Norton Bavant, both in co. Wilts, b. 20 May, 1773; m. in 1801, Lucy, dau. of the late Edmund Lambert, Esq. of Boyton House, co. Wilts, by whom (who d. in 1827) he has surviving issue,

JOHN, b. 13 Aug. 1809, m. 25 July, 1836, Emily-Blanche, youngest dau. of Sir Henry Tichborne, Bart., and has issue.
Lucy-Harriet, m. 27 Aug. 1832, to Arthur Fane, Esq.
Etheldred-Catherine, m. 24 Aug. 1827, to Lord Charles-Spencer Churchill, and has issue.

Lineage.

SIR BENET DE PENCLAWDD accompanied the CONQUEROR to England, and received for his services the lordship of Penclawdd, in Gower, (the western extremity of Glamorgan.)

That the family of which we are treating was settled there at that period, divers records fully substantiate.

Fuller, in his Church History, pp 165, 166, quotes a MS. of Thomas Scriven, Esq., also Fox, and the Chronicle of John Brompton, in proof that, amongst others, Bonet, or Benet, was one of "such persons as after the battle were advanced to seigneuries in this land" (Glamorgan).

The following singular extract from the Harl. MSS. relates to an ancestor of this family in 1113:—

"Sir Gr. Benet, he took the . . . . . of Ridinges and twenty whit horses to the church, of whom the family have a tradition that he always went to the church upon white horses, or covered them with white sheets." A.D. 1113.—Harl. MSS.

There are also deeds now existing of grants of land in Gower by William Benet, bearing date respectively 1302 and 1350.

In the Notitia Cambro-Britannica, in possession of the Duke of Beaufort, at Badminton, an entry is made of "Thomas Benet doing service to the court of Baili glâs, at Brecon, for the manor of Upton Hagarnell."

SIR HUMPHREY BENET (son of Sir Benet de Penclawdd) espoused Elinor, dau. of Morgan Llewellyn ap Ivor, and thus acquired the estate of Kilfigin, in the parish of Llanbader, in Monmouthshire. He was s. by his son,

SIR GERVASE BENET, father of
GRONWY BENET, who had two sons, viz.,

I. HOWEL BENET, who had a son, Gronwy Benet, ancestor of the BENETS of Kilfigin, whose heiress, Elizabeth Benet, m. Thomas Wolphe, of Monmouthshire, and was mother of Maude Wolphe, who m. Morgan Morice, of Uske.
II. GRIFFITH, founder of the family now before us.

This
GRIFFITH BENET was s. by his son,
HENRY BENET, who m. Maud, dau. of Henry Basset, of Drymau, in Glamorganshire, and had a son and successor,
ROBERT BENET, who m. Avis, dau. and heiress of John Crompe, of Sanctuary, in Gower, and great-grand-dau. maternally of Caradoc ap Ynir ap Ivor, lord of Dyfed, ancestor of Sir Matthew Cradoc, of Swansea. He was s. by his son,

Lineage.

THE HON. THOMAS BERKELEY, fourth son of James, fourth Lord Berkeley, by Isabel, his wife, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Mowbray, first Duke of Norfolk, was seated at Dursley, co. Gloucester. He m. Mary, dau. of Richard Guy, Esq. of Minsterworth, in the same shire, and dying in 1484, was s. by his son,

RICHARD BERKELEY, Esq. of Dursley, (named in the will of his uncle the Marquess of Berkeley,) who m. Margaret Dyer, and was father of

WILLIAM BERKELEY, Esq., mayor of Hereford, and M.P. for that city in 1547. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Bunghill, of Cowarne, and was s. by his son,

ROWLAND BERKELEY, Esq., M.P. for the city of Worcester, who became possessor of the estates of Cotheridge and Spetchley, in Worcestershire. He m. Catherine, dau. of Thomas Hayward, Esq., and dying in 1611, had, with five younger sons and nine daus.,

WILLIAM, of Cotheridge; this branch, now EXTINCT in the male line, is represented through the female by the Rev. JOHN ROWLAND BERKELEY, of Cotheridge. (See that family.)
ROBERT (Sir).

The second son,

SIR ROBERT BERKELEY, Knt., b. in 1584, inherited from his father the estate of Spetchley, and being bred to the bar, became one of the judges of the Court of King's Bench. "As Sir Robert Berkeley," says Granger, "lived in an age when the genius of the government had a strong tendency to despotism, when the prerogative had been exerted upon almost every emergency, and when the judges held their places during the pleasure of the king, he, with eleven of his brethren, gave his opinion for ship-money; and, if we may judge from the tenour of his conduct in private life as well as on the bench, from honest motives. For this decision he was impeached of high-treason, and adjudged to pay a fine of £20,000, to be deprived of his office of judge, and rendered incapable of holding any place, or receiving any honour in the state or commonwealth: he was moreover to be imprisoned in the Tower during the pleasure of the House of Lords." Sir Robert was afterwards plundered by the parliament forces; and a little before the battle of Worcester, the Scotch presbyterians, though engaged in the king's service, retaining their ancient animosity, burnt his house at Spetchley. He was thus forced to convert the stables into a dwelling, and there he resided with dignity on the wreck of his fortune. A splendid monument to his memory still remains in Spetchley Church, adorned with shields of the noble families from which he was descended. He wedded Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Conyers, Esq. of East Barnet, of the family of Conyers, of Sokeborne, co. Durham, by whom he left at his decease, in 1656, an only son and successor,

THOMAS BERKELEY, Esq. of Spetchley, who wedded Anne, dau. of William Darell, Esq. of Scotney, in Sussex (descended from a niece of Archbishop Chicheley, founder of All Souls' College, Oxford). Their son,

THOMAS BERKELEY, Esq., espoused Elizabeth, dau. and sole heir of William Holyoke, Esq. of Morton Basset, co. Warwick. He d. in 1719, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS BERKELEY, Esq., who m. Mary, dau. and heiress of Robert Davis, Esq. of Clytha, co. Monmouth, and dying in France, left two sons, viz.,

ROBERT, his heir.

John, who m. 1st, Catherine, dau. of Charles Bodenham, Esq. of Rotherwas, co. Hereford, and had an only son, ROBERT, successor to his uncle, present proprietor. He m. 2ndly, Jane, dau. and co-heir of Sir William Compton, Bart., and had two daus., Catherine, wife of Robert Canning, Esq. of Foxcote; and Jane, m. to Thomas-Anthony, Viscount Southwell.

The elder son,

ROBERT BERKELEY, Esq. of Spetchley, m. 1st, Anne, sister and co-heir of John Wyborne, Esq. of Flixton, co. Norfolk; 2ndly, Catharine, dau. of Thomas Fitzherbert, Esq. of Swinnerton, in Staffordshire; and 3rdly, Elizabeth, dau. of Peter Parry, Esq. of Twysog, in Denbighshire. Mr. Berkeley d. without issue, in 1804, and was s. by his nephew, the present ROBERT BERKELEY, Esq. of Spetchley.

BETHUNE OF BALFOUR.

BETHUNE-DRINKWATER, JOHN-ELLIOT, Esq. of Balfour, co. Fife, b. 12 July, 1801, s. his uncle, the late Col. Bethune, of Balfour, and assumed thereupon the additional surname of BETHUNE.

Lineage.

The Scotch historians and genealogists all agree, that the BETUNES of Scotland came originally from France, in some of the later ages; but the cause or period of their advent has not been yet determined with certainty.

In the reign of WILLIAM (who s. to the crown in 1165, only seventy-five years after the death of MALCOLM III.) Robertus de Bethune is witness to a charter of Rogerus de Quincey, Earl of Wigton, to Seyerus de Seton, of an annuity out of the Miln and Miln lands of Tranent.

DAVID DE BETVN, and JOANNES DE BETUN, are witnesses to a royal charter by ALEXANDER II. (who began his reign 1214, and d. 1249) to the abbey of Aberbrothick "de Terris, in territorio de Kermuir, in the co. of Angus." It was in that co. the family of the Bethunes was then most considerable. The chief of them was the Laird of Westhall, of whom the rest are descended. Again, in that neighbourhood we find in the beginning of the reign of ALEXANDER III. about 1250, Dominus David de Betun and Robertus de Betun, are with several other honourable gentlemen, witnesses to a charter of Christiana de Valoines, Lady Panmure, to John Lydell, of the lands of Balbanin, and Panlathine. But a stronger evidence of the high station of the family of Betune in those early times is, that both Mr. Prynne and Mr. Rymer mention Robert de Betune, as swearing fealty to, and being present with EDWARD I. King of England, at the discussion of the pleas for the crown of Scotland, betwixt John Baliol and Robert Bruce, which is confirmed beyond all doubt, by some of the seals, yet preserved, that are appended to King EDWARD's decision, 1292, amongst which is sigillum Roberti de Betune de Scotia, which is a fesse, and on a chief a file of three pendants.

DAVID DE BETUN, (Miles) and ALEXANDER DE BETUN, were at the parliament of Cambus-kenneth, 1314; and, to the act of forfeiture passed in that parliament, is appended one of their seals, which is the same coat of arms that is upon the forementioned seal of Robert de Betune. Alexander, continuing loyal to the royal family of Bruce, was knighted for his valour, and is mentioned, amongst other great men, by Hector Bruce, as one of the chiefs who were killed in the great battle of Dupplin, 12 Aug. 1332.

ROBERT DE BETUNE, Familiarius Regis, a younger son of Sir Alexander, m. Janet Balfour, dau. of Sir Michael de Balfour, of that Ilk, co. Fife, who had also a son, John de Balfour, but the son dying without issue, Janet became heiress to the Balfour property. By the heiress of Balfour Robert left a son,

JOHN BETUNE, who s. to the property of Balfour, in Fife, on the death, issueless, of his uncle, and was the first laird of Balfour, of the name of Bethune. He m. Katharine Stewart, dau. of the laird of Innermay, and was s. by his son,

JOHN BETUNE, the second laird of Balfour, who m. the dau. of Stewart, of Rosaith, and was father of

ARCHIBALD BETUNE, third laird, whose son,

JOHN BETUNE, fourth laird of Balfour, m. Katharine Stirling, dau. to the laird of Kier, and was father of JOHN BETUNE, fifth laird, who, marrying Margary Boswell, dau. to the laird of Balmuto, had by her, with five daus., six sons, JOHN, his heir; David, treasurer to JAMES IV., founder of the family of Betune of Creich; Robert, abbot of Melrose; Archibald, laird of Pitlochie; Andrew, prior of St. Andrew; and James, Archbishop of St. Andrews and chancellor of Scotland.

JOHN BETUNE, the eldest son, sixth laird, m. Elizabeth Moneypenny, dau. of the laird of Kinkell, by whom he had, with five daus., (Beatrix, m. to the laird of Balumbree; Elizabeth, m. to Sir John Wardlaw, of Torrie; Katherine, m. to Sir William Graham, of Fintrie; Janet, m. to Hay of Mountain; and Margaret, m. to Graham, of Claverhouse, Viscount Dundee,) seven sons, 1. JOHN, his heir; 2. James, laird of Balfarge, father of James Betune, Archbishop of Glasgow, who d. in 1603; 3. David, the celebrated CARDINAL BETUNE, murdered in 1545; 4. Walter, minister of Balangne; 5. Thomas, who d. young; 6. George, parson of Govan; and 7. James, laird of Melgund. John Balfour d. in 1524, and was s. by his son,

JOHN BETUNE, seventh laird of Balfour, who m. Christian Stewart, dau. of the laird of Rosaith, by whom he had two sons and two daus. The elder son,

JOHN BETUNE, eighth laird, m. Agnes Anstruther, dau. of the laird of Anstruther, by whom he had three sons and four daus. The eldest son,

JOHN BETUNE, the ninth laird, b. in 1546, wedded Elizabeth Pitcairn, but dying without issue, was s. by his brother,

ROBERT BETUNE, tenth laird of Balfour, who had by Agnes Trail, his wife, dau. of Trail of Blebo, four sons and four daus. The eldest son,

DAVID BETUNE, eleventh laird, b. in 1574, m. Margaret Wardlaw, dau. of the laird of Torrie, and by her had three sons and three daus., JOHN, b. 1594; Robert, who m. Marian Inglis, of Athenry, Fife, and became first laird of Bandon; Andrew, who became first laird of Castle Blebo, in Fife; Janet, m. to Campbell of Keithilk, in Angus; Margaret, m. to Sir Henry Wardlaw, of Petrivie; and Agnes, m. to David Colville, brother to Cleish, and afterwards Lord Colville. Balfour was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN BETUNE, or BETHUNE, twelfth laird, who m. Katharine Halyburton, and was s. by his eldest son,

JAMES BETHUNE, thirteenth laird, b. in 1620, who m. Anne, dau. of Sir John Moncrief, of that ilk, by whom he had,

DAVID BETHUNE, b. in 1657, fourteenth laird, who m. Rachel, dau. of Sir John Hope, of Hopetoun (ancestor of the Earls of Hopetoun), by whom he had two sons and five daus.—viz.,

I. JAMES, his heir.
II. Charles, who d. at Lisle, in 1708.
I. Katharine, who m. David Campbell, of Keithilk in Angus, and had a dau., Rachel, m. to John Pitullo, of Balhousie.
II. Anne, m. in 1709, to her cousin, DAVID BETHUNE, son of Bethune of Bandon, who, through his wife, Anne, obtained, on the death of James, her brother, and fifteenth laird, the property of Balfour.
III. Helen, m. to John Landale.

The elder son,

JAMES BETHUNE, fifteenth laird of Balfour, m. Anne Hamilton, dau. of Major-Gen. Hamilton, of Rood House, East Lothian, but had no issue. He s. his father in 1709, and in 1715 joined the Stuart party in their attempt to possess the government of the kingdom. Failing in that measure, he escaped to the Continent, and died at Rheims, in France, in 1719. At his decease, the property of Balfour would have descended to his niece, Rachel Campbell, dau. to his eldest sister, Katharine, but his cousin, DAVID BETHUNE, son of Bethune of Bandon (who m. James's second sister, Anne), having, through the pecuniary aid of his brother, Henry Bethune, of Bandon, induced Rachel, then m. to John Petullo, to forego her claims, gained possession of the estate, and became

DAVID BETHUNE, sixteenth laird of Balfour. By Anne, his wife, he had two daus.,

ANNE, m. to David Bethune, of Kilconquhar, in Fife.
MARY, m. to William Congalton, of that ilk, in East Lothian, and had, with other issue, a son,
CHARLES CONGALTON, who m. Anne Elliot, youngest dau. of Sir Gilbert Elliot, Bart., of Minto, Roxburghshire, and had two sons and one dau.—viz.
I. WILLIAM CONGALTON, who inherited Balfour.
II. GILBERT CONGALTON, heir to his brother.
I. Eleanor Congalton, who m. Colonel John Drinkwater, of Salford, Manchester, and had three sons and four daus., of whom the eldest,
JOHN-ELLIOT DRINKWATER, is now Bethune of Balfour.

Upon David Bethune's becoming possessed of the property of Balfour, he made a new disposition of it, appointing his brother Henry his successor; and after his death, his two daus., Anne and Mary Bethune, and their heirs general. He d. in 1731, when his brother,

HENRY BETHUNE, s. as seventeenth laird. He m. Isabella Maxwell, of Edinburgh, but had no children. He d. in 1760, aged 81 years, and was s. by his eldest niece,

ANNE BETHUNE, the wife of David Bethune, of Kilconquhar. This lady dying, however, without issue, in 1785, (her husband David had d. in 1781-2,) she was s. by her grand-nephew, (the grandson of her sister Mary,)

WILLIAM CONGALTON, who became the nineteenth laird of Balfour, in 1785, and assumed the name of BETHUNE. He d. without issue in 1798, and was s. by his brother,

GILBERT BETHUNE, Esq. of Balfour, b. in 1765, at whose decease the estate devolved on his nephew, JOHN-ELLIOTT DRINKWATER-BETHUNE, Esq.

BEVERLEY OF BEVERLEY.

BEVERLEY, ROBERT-MACKENZIE, Esq. of Beverley, co. York, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the East Riding.

Lineage.

This ancient family can be traced amongst the corporation records of the town of Beverley to the time of King JOHN. In the reign of HENRY VIII. the Beverleys had increased in consideration, and one of them was a commissioner appointed by the king to inquire into the northern monasteries. They received some grants of church property, and became soon after divided into two branches; one settled at Selby, the other at Beverley. In the reign of CHARLES I., John Beverley, of Beverley, adhered to the cause of royalty, and at the Restoration his name appears on the list of those on whom it was intended to confer the order of the Royal Oak.

ROBERT BEVERLEY, Esq. of Beverley, the representative of the family, sold his property in Beverley to the Pennyman family, and retired, with a large fortune, to Pennsylvania, in America, of which he was appointed Governor, and where he purchased very extensive estates. He erected a large mansion, now occupied by his grandson, Robert Beverley, Esq., and called the place Blandford. His only son,

ROBERT BEVERLEY, Esq.* was sent to England to be educated at the Beverley grammar school. He m. Miss Bland, of Yorkshire descent, and had a large family, of which the eldest,

WILLIAM BEVERLEY, Esq. of Beverley, and of Trinity College, Cambridge, served for thirty years as a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant of the East Riding of Yorkshire, and was appointed, in 1832, vice-lieutenant by the Earl of Carlisle. He m. about the year 1795, Mary, dau. and co-heir (with her sister, Anna-Margaretta, wife of Lord Grantley) of Jonathan Midgley, Esq. of Beverley, a gentleman of large landed estate, and had issue,

ROBERT MACKENZIE, present representative of the family.
Maria (great-niece and sole heiress of Anne, Dowager Lady Denison, widow of Sir Thomas Denison, Knt., one of the judges of the Court of King's Bench), m. in 1814, to Edmund, 4th son of Sir John Beckett, Bart. of Leeds, and assumed with her husband the name and arms of DENISON. Mr. Beckett-Denison represents the West Riding of Yorkshire in parliament.

BIDDULPH OF BURTON.

BIDDULPH-WRIGHT, ANTHONY-GEORGE, Esq. of Burton Park, co. Sussex, b. 20 April, 1785, m. 15 Jan. 1827, Catherine-Dorothy, eldest dau. of the late Simon-Thomas Scrope, Esq. of Danby Hall, co. York, by Catherine-Dorothy, his wife, eldest dau. of Edward Meynell, Esq. of Kilvington Hall, and has issue,

ANTHONY-JOHN, b. 29. Jan. 1830.
Catherine-Charlotte-Mary. Clementina-Maria.
Geraldine-Mary.

Mr. Wright-Biddulph, who s. to the family estates on the death unm. of his kinsman, the late John Biddulph, Esq. of Biddulph, 2 Aug. 1835, assumed, in compliance with that gentleman's will, the name of BIDDULPH, by sign-manual, in addition to his patronymic WRIGHT.

Lineage.

"The BIDDULPHS do derive themselves," says Erdeswick, "from one ORMUS LE GUIDON, the son of RICARDUS FORESTARIUS," of Norman race, who held, as appears by Domesday, ten lordships in Staffordshire, which were conferred on him in reward of his services. This ORMUS LE GUIDON, also called De Darleston, from a lordship near Stone, the seat of his principal residence, m. the dau. of NICHOLAS DE BEAUCHAMP, Vice-Com. de Stafford, by Emmeline, dau. and heir of Urso de Abitot, both great and powerful nobles, and by her had four sons—viz., Robert, whose son, Ralph de Darleston, d. s. p., leaving his sister, Aliana, wife of Ingenulfus de Gresley, his heir; EDWARD, of Middle Biddulph; Thomas, of Over Biddulph, whose descendants took the name of Overton; and Alured, of Knypersley, whose descendant Katharine, heiress of Knypersley, carried that estate to the family of BOWYER. The second son,

EDWARD, of Middle Biddulph, first took the surname of BIDDULPH, and was ancestor of the eminent family of BIDDULPH, which, in the reign of HENRY VIII., became divided into two branches, the elder line represented by SIR RICHARD BIDDULPH, Knt., who adhered steadily to the principles and faith of their ancestors, during all the religious revolutions of that and the succeeding reigns with many of the ancient families in the northern parts of England.

RICHARD BIDDULPH, of Biddulph, son of William, of Biddulph, and the direct descendant of Ormus le Guidon, had two sons, SYMON, the younger, ancestor of the BIDDULPHS of Ledbury, and the elder,

SIR RICHARD BIDDULPH, of Biddulph, Knt., living temp. HENRY VIII., whose son and successor,

RICHARD BIDDULPH, of Biddulph, m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Salwey, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of Hugh Erdeswick, and was father of FRANCIS, of Biddulph, who erected the noble mansion of Biddulph, temp. ELIZABETH. This FRANCIS was s. by his son, RICHARD BIDDULPH, of Biddulph, b. in 1559, who was father (with three daus., viz., Mary, m. to Christopher Clough, Esq. of Mindtown, Salop; Frances, m. to Marmaduke Holdby, Esq. of Shakelton, co. York; and Anne, m. to Thomas Worthington, of Lancashire,) of a son and heir,

JOHN BIDDULPH, Esq. of Biddulph, a devoted royalist in the troubled times of CHARLES I., who, with his family, suffered severely for their zeal. The beautiful seat of Biddulph Hall, erected by his grandfather, was plundered and laid in ruins. He d. in 1642, leaving by Mary, his wife, dau. of Thomas Eyre, Esq. of Hassop (with two daus., Prudence, wife of John Compton, Esq., and Dorothy, wife of Thomas Lane, Esq.) a son and successor,

FRANCIS BIDDULPH, of Biddulph, b. 7 April, 1619, who m. Margaret, dau. of George Preston, Esq. of Holker, and had, with other issue, a dau., Mary, m. to George Compton, Esq. of Brambletye, co. Sussex, and a son and successor,

RICHARD BIDDULPH, Esq. of Biddulph, who m. Anne, dau. and eventual heiress of Sir Henry Goring, Bart. of Burton, the lineal descendant and representative of John Goring, of Burton, Esq., by Margaret, his first wife, dau. of Ralph Radmylde, Esq., and Margaret, his wife, sister and co-heir of Hugh Lord Camoys. Mr. Biddulph d. before 1679, leaving (with a dau., Elizabeth, m. to Charles, Lord Dormer,) a son and successor,

JOHN BIDDULPH, Esq. of Biddulph and Burton, who m. Mary, dau. of Charles Arundel, Esq., of Horningsham, and had issue,

I. RICHARD, his heir.
II. CHARLES, successor to his brother.
I. MARY, b. in 1710, who m. Thomas Stonor, Esq. of Stonor, co. Oxford, and was great-grandmother of THOMAS STONOR, now LORD CAMOYS. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)
II. ANNE, b. in 1717, who m. Anthony Wright, Esq. of Wieldside, in Essex, and had, with other issue,
ANTHONY WRIGHT, Esq., who m. Lucy, 2nd dau. of Edmund Plowden, Esq. of Plowden, and by her, who d. in 1786, left at his decease in the same year,
ANTHONY-GEORGE, of Burton Park.
John, b. 20 June, 1786, m. Henrietta, eldest dau. of the late Michael Blount, Esq. of Maple Durham, and has issue.
Lucy. Mary, m. to Vincent Eyre, Esq.
Anne, m. to Sir Charles Wolseley, Bart. of Wolseley, co. Stafford, and d. in 1838.

He d. in May, 1720. The elder son,

RICHARD BIDDULPH, Esq. of Biddulph, d. unm. in 1767, aged sixty, and was s. by his brother,

CHARLES BIDDULPH, Esq. of Biddulph and Burton, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Henry Bedingfeld,

* Mr. Beynon was second son of Francis Beynon, Esq. of Shrewsbury, and younger brother of Francis Beynon, of Spratton Place, co. Northampton, Esq., whose only dau. and heir, ELIZABETH-ANNE, m. Andrew Hacket, Esq. of Moxhull Park, co. Warwick.

Bart. of Oxburgh, and 2ndly, Frances-Apollonia, dau. of George-Brownlow Doughty, Esq. of Snarford Hall, co. Lincoln, and widow of Henry Wells, Esq. By the first lady only, who d. in 1763, he had issue,

John, his heir. Charles, d. unm. 1821.
Thomas, m. in France, Miss Faucart, but d. s. p. in 1789.
Mary.

Mr. Biddulph d. 17 May, 1763, and was s. by his eldest son,

BIDDULPH OF CHIRK CASTLE.

Biddulph, Robert-Myddelton, Esq. of Chirk Castle, co. Denbigh; b. 20 June, 1805, m. 31 May, 1832, Fanny, second dau. of William Owen, Esq. of Woodhouse, co. Salop, and has issue, Richard, b. 13 Feb. 1837.

Fanny. Alice. Mary-Caroline.

Mr. Biddulph is Lord-Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of Denbighshire, and Colonel of the county militia.

Lineage.

For the paternal ancestry of this family see Biddulph of Ledbury.

The Myddeltons are said to have descended from Ririd Vlaydd, Lord of Penlyn, in Merionethshire, whose descendant, Ririd, m. Cicely, sister and heir of Sir Alexander Middleton, of Middleton, co. Salop, and was father of Ririd, whose great-grandson,

David Myddelton, of Gwaynenog, in Denbighshire, Receiver of North Wales, temp. Edward IV., m. Ellen, dau. of Sir John Done, Knt. of Utkington, co. Chester, and had, with other issue,

Roger Myddelton, of Gwaynenog, ancestor of the Myddeltons of Gwaynenog. (See that family.)

And

Fulke Myddelton, Esq., who m. Margaret, dau. of Thomas Smith, Alderman of Chester, and had, with other issue,

Richard Myddelton, Esq. of Denbigh, who m. Jane, dau. of Hugh Dryhurst of the same place, by Lucy, his wife, dau. of Robert Greensdyke, and had several children, of whom

Thomas (the eldest surviving son) was ancestor of the Myddeltons of Chirk Castle; and Hugh (the sixth son), of Ruthyn, co. Denbigh, was the celebrated Sir Hugh Middelton, the projector of the New River. (See Burke's Extinct Baronetage.)

The eldest son,

Sir Thomas Myddelton, was Sheriff and Alderman of London, and filled the civic chair in 1613. He was a munificent benefactor of the Goldsmiths' Company. His son and heir,

Sir Thomas Myddelton, Knt. of Chirk Castle, suffered severely during the Commonwealth. He first took up arms on the side of the Parliament, being at the time M.P. for the county, was major-general of the forces in North Wales, and, with Sir William Brereton, in 1643, took the Castle of Holt. In 1644, he relieved Oswestry, and beat the king's forces in a sharp action, at Montgomery, for which he had the thanks of the House. Four years afterwards, he was one of the secluded members, and bound in a sum of 20,000*l.* not to disturb the government. In 1659, Sir Thomas declared too precipitately for Charles II., when his castle was besieged by General Lambert, taken and pillaged to the amount of 80,000*l.* He d. in 1666, leaving three sons, 1. Thomas, his heir; 2. Robert; 3. Richard, who had two sons, Robert and John, of both of whom hereafter. The eldest son and heir,

Thomas Myddelton, Esq. of Chirk Castle,* was created a Baronet in 1660. He m. 1st, Mary, dau. of Thomas Cholmondeley, Esq. of Vale Royal, in Cheshire, and 2ndly, Jane, dau. of John Trevor, Esq. of Denbighshire. Sir Thomas d. in 1663, aged thirty-nine, and was s. by his son,

Sir Thomas Myddelton, of Chirk Castle, second bart., who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Sir Thomas Wilbraham, of Woodhey, co. Chester, Bart., and 2ndly, Charlotte, dau. of Sir Orlando Bridgman, Bart. He d. 5 Feb. 1683, leaving an only dau. and heir, Charlotte, m. 1st, to Edward, Earl of Warwick, and 2ndly, to the Right Hon. Joseph Addison. Sir Thomas was s. by his brother,

Sir Richard Myddelton, Esq. of Chirk Castle, who d. in June, 1716, leaving (with a dau. Mary, who d. unm.) a son,

Sir William Myddelton, at whose decease, unm., 5 Jan. 1718, aged twenty-four, the baronetcy became extinct. The estate of Chirk Castle, together with the lordships of Chirk, Chirklands, and Ruthyn, followed the entail to

Robert Myddelton, Esq. of Llysfasi, elder son of Richard, third son of Sir Thomas Myddelton, Knt. of Chirk Castle, who d. in 1666, as above stated, and from him to his brother,

John Myddelton, Esq. of Chirk Castle, who d. in 1747, and was s. by his son,

Richard Myddelton, Esq. of Chirk Castle, Lord-Lieutenant of the county, and M.P. for the town of Denbigh, who m. thrice, but had issue only by his second wife, the Hon. Anne Rushout, sister of Lord Northwick, one son and three daus.—viz., Richard, his heir; Charlotte, of whom hereafter; Maria, m. to the Hon. Frederick West, brother of Lord Delawarr; and Harriet. Mr. Myddelton d. in 1795, and was s. by his eldest son,

Richard Myddelton, Esq. of Chirk Castle, who d. unm. in 1796, leaving his three sisters his co-heirs, of whom the eldest,

Charlotte Myddelton, m. in 1801, Robert Biddulph, Esq. of Ledbury, co. Hereford, and Cofton Hall, co. Worcester, who thereupon assumed the additional name and arms of Myddelton, and had issue,

Robert Myddelton, now of Chirk Castle.
Thomas Myddelton, an officer in the 1st Life-guards.
Charlotte-Elizabeth.

Arms—Quarterly: 1st and 4th, vert, an eagle displayed, arg., armed and langued, gu., for Biddulph; 2nd and 3rd, arg., on a bend, vert, three wolves' heads, erased, of the field, for Myddelton.

BLAIR OF BLAIR.

BLAIR, WILLIAM-FORDYCE, Esq. of Blair, in the shire of Ayr, capt. R.N., m. 23 July, 1840, Caroline-Isabella, youngest dau. of the late John Sprot, Esq. of London, and has issue, Mary and Caroline-Madalina. Capt. Blair s. his father, 21 Oct. 1841.

Lineage.

The Blairs of Blair, connected by intermarriages with the first families in the West of Scotland, have maintained, for upwards of six centuries, a high position in the co. of Ayr. They are chief of all the Blairs in the South and West of Scotland, but the Blairs of Balthyock, settled in the counties of Fife, Perth, and Angus, dispute the honour with them. JAMES VI., to whom the point was referred, determined, that "the oldest man, for the time being, of either family, should have the precedency." Both families appear to be equally ancient, but the belief that they spring from the same ancestry is extremely doubtful, their arms bearing no affinity.

WILLIAM DE BLAIR, mentioned in a contract between Ralph de Eglinton and the town of Irvine, in 1205, is stated to have d. temp. ALEXANDER II., leaving a son,

WILLIAM BLAIR, styled "Willielmus de Blair, Dominus de eodem," in a charter of ALEXANDER III., dated about the year 1260, to the abbey of Dunfermline. He had two sons, by the elder of whom,

SIR BRYCE BLAIR, of Blair, he was succeeded. This gallant knight, one of the heroic patriots associated with Wallace, who so long and gallantly defended the liberties of Scotland, was at length taken prisoner, and executed at Ayr, in 1296: leaving no issue, he was s. by his brother,

DAVID BLAIR, of that ilk, who was compelled to submit to EDWARD I., in 1296. His son,

ROGER DE BLAIR, of that ilk, adhered with fidelity to Robert Bruce. He d. in the reign of DAVID II., and was s. by

HUGH DE BLAIR, of that ilk, probably his son, to whom followed the next proprietor in succession,

JAMES BLAIR, of that ilk, who got a grant of several tenements of land in the vicinity of Ayr, which had fallen into the king's hands by forfeiture, confirmed by charter, 3 Feb. 1368. He had two sons,

JAMES, his heir.

John (Sir), Knt., ancestor of the Blairs of Adamton, in Ayrshire, who flourished there for a long series of years, until CATHERINE, only dau. and heir of David Blair, of Adamton, m. in 1776, Sir William Maxwell, Bart. of Monreith, and had issue. She sold Adamton to Robert Reid, Esq., and d. in 1798.

The elder son,

JAMES BLAIR, of that ilk, d. in the reign of JAMES I., leaving a son, called David, by Douglas, but his name was more probably Hugh, as

SIR HUGH BLAIR, of that ilk, appears as witness to several charters of the period in which he lived, the commencement of the fifteenth century. His son, or possibly his grandson,

JOHN BLAIR, of that ilk, living in 1477, left (with two daus., Egedia, m. to James Kennedy, of the family of Cassilis, and Elizabeth, m. to Ninian Stewart, of Bute) a son and successor,

JOHN BLAIR, of that ilk, who m. Lady Elizabeth Montgomery, dau. of Hugh, first Earl of Eglinton, by Lady Helen Campbell, dau. of Colin, first Earl of Argylle, and d. towards the close of the reign of Queen MARY, leaving (with a dau., Margaret, wife of John Crawfurd, of Crawfurdland) a son.

JOHN BLAIR, of that ilk, who d. in the early part of the reign of JAMES VI., and was succeeded by his son,

JOHN BLAIR, of that ilk, who had four charters of lands, dated in 1573, 1575, 1580, and 1597. He espoused Grizel, dau. of Robert, third Lord Sempill, and had, with three daus., five sons—viz., 1. JOHN, who m. Isabel, dau. of Thomas, fifth Lord Boyd, and left three daus., Grizel, wife of Sir John Maxwell, of Pollock; Anna, wife of the Laird of Porterfield; and Margaret, wife of John Crawford, of Kilbirny; 2. BRYCE, of whom presently; 3. Alexander, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of William Cochrane, of that ilk, and was ancestor of the Cochranes, Earls of Dundonald; 4. James; 5. Robert, of Bogtown. John Blair d. in 1609, and was s. by his son,

BRYCE BLAIR, of that ilk, who m. Annabell Wallace, and had (with five daus.—viz., Margaret, m. in 1613 to Archibald Stewart, of Blackwall; Isabell, m. in 1619, to James Chalmers, of Gadgirth; Anne, m. in 1633, to Robert Boyd, of Pitcon; Janet, m. in 1636, to Ninian Stewart, of Ascog; and Agnes, m. in 1640, to William Shaw, provost of Newton) two sons, BRYCE and JOHN. The laird d. 4 Feb. 1639, and was s. by his son,

SIR BRYCE BLAIR, of that ilk, knighted by CHARLES I., who m. in 1618, Marian, dau. of Sir Walter Dundas, of Dundas, by Anne, his second wife, dau. of Monteith of Carse, and dying a few months after his father, was s. by his son,

JOHN BLAIR, of that ilk, retoured heir to his father and grandfather in 1645. He d. soon after, without issue, and was s. by his uncle,

JOHN BLAIR, of that ilk, who m. Lady Jean Cunningham, dau. of William, eighth Earl of Glencairn, and dying in 1662, was s. by his son,

WILLIAM BLAIR, of Blair, who acted a prominent part in the troubled times in which he lived. Though so much esteemed by the court party as to be put in the commission in Ayrshire, for holding courts on the covenanters, he soon embraced the party which effected the revolution, was a member of the convention of estates, 16 March, 1689, and one of the committee for settling the government. In that year he raised a troop of horses in support of King WILLIAM, and marched with it into Perthshire, but was surprised by Dundee, and carried prisoner to the Highlands, where he d. very soon after. He m. Lady Margaret Hamilton, dau. of William, second Duke of Hamilton, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM BLAIR, of Blair, who was a commissioner of supply for the county of Ayr, in the convention parliament which met in 1689. He m. Magdalene, dau. of James Campbell, of Gargunnock, by whom he had a son, who predeceased him unm., and a daughter and heiress,

MAGDALENE BLAIR, who m. William Scott, Esq., advocate, second son of John Scott, Esq. of Malleny, in Midlothian, (an ancient branch of Buccleuch,) and had a son, WILLIAM, her heir. The heiress of Blair d. probably before the year 1715, and Mr. Scott, her widower, who had assumed the surname of BLAIR, wedded, secondly, Catherine, only dau. of Alexander Tait, of Edinburgh, merchant, and had by her five sons and six daus.—viz., 1. HAMILTON, heir to his half-brother; 2. Alexander, surveyor of the customs at Port Glasgow, m. Elizabeth, only dau. of John Hamilton, Esq. of Grange, and had issue; 3. John, captain of infantry, killed at Minden, in 1759; 4. Thomas, cornet in the Scots Greys, killed at the battle of Vald, in 1747; 5. William, an officer, slain at Oswego, in India, in 1756; 1. Ann, m. to David Blair, Esq. of Adamton; 2. Magdaline, m. to Sir William Maxwell, Bart. of Monreith; 3. Janet, m. to Alexander Tait, Esq., one of the principal clerks of session; 4. Barbara, m. to William Fullarton, Esq., of that ilk; 5. Catherine, d. unm.; 6. Mary, m. to Sir John Sinclair, Bart. of Stevenston. Magdalene Blair was succeeded, at her decease, by her son,

WILLIAM BLAIR, Esq. of Blair, who d. unm. in 1732, and was s. by his half-brother,

HAMILTON BLAIR, Esq. who then became "of Blair." Early in life he entered the army, and in 1760, was major of the Scots Greys. He m. Jane, dau. of Sydenham Williams, Esq. of Herringston, in the co. of Dorset, and dying in 1782, left (with two daus., Agatha, m. to Lieut.-General Avarne; and Jane, m. to Robert Williams, Esq. of Cerne Abbas, co. Dorset,) a son and successor,

WILLIAM BLAIR, Esq. of Blair, who represented the county of Ayr in four parliaments. He m. Magdalene, dau. of the late John Fordyce, Esq. of Ayton, co. Berwick, for many years commissioner of the woods and forests, and by that lady, who d. in 1817, had five sons and seven daus., viz.,

I. Hamilton, capt. R.N., d. in March, 1815.
II. John-Charles, capt. R.N., d. in July, 1836.
III. WILLIAM-FORDYCE, present representative.
IV. Henry-Melville, d. in July, 1837.
V. Augustus, an officer in the Scotch fusileers.

I. Catharine, m. to Matthew Fortescue, Esq. of Stephenstown, co. Louth.

BLENCOWE OF MARSTON ST. LAWRENCE.

Blencowe, John-Jackson, Esq. of Marston St. Lawrence, co. Northampton, b. in Feb. 1810; m. in 1834, Gratia-Maria, dau. of the Rev. John Prowett, rector of Catfield, Norfolk, and by her, who d. 23 Dec. 1840, has an only surviving child, Anna-Maria. Mr. Blencowe s. his father 28 Aug. 1830.

Lineage.

The Blencowes (a branch of a very old Cumberland family, which had property at Greystock, in that county,) have been seated at Marston earlier than 1446.

Thomas Blencowe, grandson of John Blencowe, living at Marston St. Lawrence, temp. Henry VI., obtained in the year 1540, a grant from the crown of the demesne lands and rectorial tithes of the manor of "Lawrence Merston, alias Merston St. Lawrence." His great-great-great-grandson,

Sir John Blencowe, of Marston St. Lawrence, a profound and able lawer, was b. at Marston, in 1642. From 1690 to 1695, he sat as member of the borough of Brackley; but in the latter year retiring from parliament, he devoted his time and abilities to his profession, in which he acquired high reputation. In 1696 he was appointed a baron of the Exchequer, in 1697 a judge of the Common Pleas, and in 1702 of the King's Bench. In 1714 he was reappointed to the Common Pleas, and remained on that bench until 1722, when he retired, his salary being, as a token of respect, continued to him during the remainder of his life.

Sir John Blencowe wedded Anne, eldest dau. of the Rev. John Wallis, D.D., F.R.S., the famous Savilian professor of Oxford, by whom (who d. in 1718) he had issue, John, his heir; Thomas, a bencher of the Inner Temple, who m. Martha, eldest dau. and co-heir of William Perris, Esq. of Hayes, co. Middlesex; William, who d. unm.; Mary, m. to Alexander Prescott, Esq. of Thoby Priory, Essex; Anne, m. in 1720, to Sir Edmund Probyn, of Newlands; Elizabeth; and Susannah, m. to Richard Jennens, Esq. of Princethorp. Judge Blencowe d. in 1726, at the age of eighty-four, and was s. by his eldest son,

John Blencowe, Esq. of Marston St. Lawrence, who m. Jane, dau. of William Holbech, Esq. of Farnborough, in Warwickshire, by whom (who d. in 1756) he left issue, a son, John, his heir, and four daus., Jane, who m. the Rev. Samuel Jackson, rector of Stisted, in Essex, and had two sons, Samuel and John; Anne, m. to the Rev. Thomas Bree, M.A.; Elizabeth, who d. unm.; and Mary, who also d. unm. Mr. Blencowe d. in 1740, and was s. by his only surviving son,

John Blencowe, Esq. of Marston St. Lawrence, who d. unm. in 1717, and devised his estates to his nephew,

Samuel Jackson, Esq., who thus became of "Marston St. Lawrence," and assumed the surname and arms of Blencowe. He m. 1st, Anne, youngest dau. of the Rev. Thomas Bree, of Allesley, by Anne Blencowe, and had by her, who d. in 1789, five sons—viz., 1. John Jackson, his heir; 2. Thomas, in holy orders, vicar of Marston, b. in 1782; 3. Samuel-William, of Lincoln, b. in 1784, m. Miss Anne Bell; 4. James, in holy orders, b. in 1785, m. in 1818, Anne, relict of Jas. Nagle, Esq., dau. and co-heir of John Beauchamp, Esq. of Pengreep, in Cornwall; and, 5, Henry, who d. unm. in 1808. Mr. (Jackson) Blencowe m. 2ndly, Elizabeth-Gramer, dau. of the Rev. Thomas Biker, rector of Culworth, by whom, who d. in 1814, he had further issue, Charles, in holy orders, b. in 1793; Peter-Gramer, in holy orders, m. 2 Jan. 1829, Loveday, eldest dau. of Isaac Sparkes, Esq. of Crewkerne, in Somersetshire; Robert, of the Inner Temple, London, b. in 1801; George, b. in 1803; Edward, b. in 1805; Elizabeth; Rhoda-Maria; and Sophia. Mr. Blencowe was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

John-Jackson Blencowe, Esq. of Marston St. Lawrence, b. in 1780, who m. in 1804, Louisa-Anne, dau. and co-heiress of the Rev. Thomas Biker, rector of Culworth, by his second wife, and had issue,

John-Jackson, his successor.

IV. Henrietta-Matilda.

Mr. Blount is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Oxfordshire, and served the office of sheriff in 1832. He inherited the estates at the decease of his father, 29th Oct. 1821.

Lineage.

The origin and history of this most ancient and distinguished family has been elaborately investigated by SIR ALEXANDER CROKE, Knt., LL.D. of Studley Priory, in Oxfordshire, who traces it from the COUNTS OF GUISNES, in Picardy, a race of Nobles descended from the Scandinavian rulers of Denmark. RODOLPH, third Count of Guisnes, had three sons, by his wife, Rosetta, dau. of the COUNT DE ST. POL, all of whom accompanied the NORMAN in his expedition against England, in 1066, and contributing to the triumph of their chief, shared amply in the spoils of conquest. One of the brothers returned to his native country; the other two adopted that which they had so gallantly helped to win, and abided there; of these, SIR WILLIAM LE BLOUNT, the younger, was a general of foot, at Hastings, and was rewarded by grants of seven lordships in Lincolnshire; his son was seated at Saxlingham, in Norfolk, and the great-granddau. of that gentleman, sole heiress of her line, MARIA LE BLOUNT, marrying in the next century, Sir Stephen le Blount, the descendant and representative of her great-great-great-uncle, SIR ROBERT LE BLOUNT, united the families of the two brothers,

SIR WALTER BLOUNT, (son of Sir John le Blount, of Sodington, by Eleanor, his second wife, dau. and co-heir of

John, Lord Beauchamp, of Hache, so celebrated for his martial prowess in the warlike times of EDW. III., RICH. II., and HENRY IV., and immortalized by the muse of Shakspeare for his devotion, even unto death, to King HENRY, fell at the battle of Shrewsbury, 22 June, 1403, leaving by his wife, Donna Sancha de Ayala, dau. of Don Diego Gomez de Toledo, with two daus., four sons, viz., JOHN (Sir), his heir, K.G., who d. s. p.; THOMAS, successor to his brother; JAMES (Sir), ancestor of the Blounts of Grendon, Eldersfield, Orleton, &c.; and Peter, who d. s. p. The second son,

SIR THOMAS BLOUNT, Treasurer of Normandy, dying in 1456, left with three daus., two sons, SIR WALTER BLOUNT, LORD MOUNTJOY, and

SIR THOMAS BLOUNT, of Milton Ross, co. Leicester, who d. in 1468, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD BLOUNT, who m. Elizabeth, only dau. and heir of William de la Ford, of Iver, in the co. of Buckingham, by whom he acquired the estate in that place, and purchasing the manor of Maple-Durham Gurney, in the co. of Oxford, 1 Feb. 1489, fixed his permanent abode there. He served the office of sheriff for Bucks and Bedfordshire in the 18th HENRY VII., A.D. 1502. He d. 31 Nov. 1508, and was s. by his son,

SIR RICHARD BLOUNT, of Maple-Durham Gurney, one of the gentlemen of the chamber to King HENRY VIII., of the privy chamber to EDWARD VI., and lieutenant of the Tower, temp. ELIZABETH. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Richard Lister, chief justice of England, and sister of Sir Michael Lister, Knight of the Bath, and dying 11 Aug. 1564, was s. by his elder son,

SIR MICHAEL BLOUNT, of Maple-Durham, b. in 1529, Lieutenant of the Tower. In 1581 (4 Feb.) he purchased the manor of Maple-Durham Chawsey, for 900*l.*, and soon after erected the fine mansion of Maple Durham, still existing in the most perfect state. He was sheriff of Oxfordshire in 1586 and 1597. He m. Mary, sister and co-heir of Thomas Moore, Esq. of Bicester, in Oxfordshire, by whom (who d. 23 Dec. 1592) he had, with other issue, a son and successor,

SIR RICHARD BLOUNT, Knt. of Maple-Durham, b. 28 June, 1564, m. 1st, Cicily, dau. of Sir Richard Baker, of Sisinghurst, in Kent, and had, with other issue, CHARLES (Sir), his heir. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Francis Moore, Knt. of Fawley, in Berkshire, and had by her a dau., Jane, m. to Sir William Moore, of Fawley, and two sons, of whom the elder, WILLIAM, of Kidmore End, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Ralph Delaval, and had a son, LISTER, of whom presently. Sir Richard d. 22 Nov. 1619, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR CHARLES BLOUNT, Knt. of Maple-Durham, a zealous supporter of the royal cause, who was slain fighting under the king's banner, at Oxford, 1 June, 1644. He m. Dorothy, dau. and sole heir of Sir Francis Clerke, Knt. of Houghton Conquest, in Bedfordshire, and by her had (with two daus., of whom the elder Anne, m. 1st, John Swinburne, Esq. of Capheaton, and 2ndly, Francis Godfrey, Esq.,) two sons, MICHAEL, who was killed in 1649, and WALTER. The second son,

WALTER BLOUNT, Esq. of Maple-Durham, m. 1st, Philippa Benlowes, of Essex, who d. in 1667 (issueless), and 2ndly, Dorothy, dau. of Edmund Plowden, Esq. of Plowden, co. Salop, by whom he had a dau., Elizabeth, who d. an infant. He d. himself in May, 1671, having by deed, of the 5th February, in the previous year, settled the estates of Maple-Durham on his cousin,

LISTER BLOUNT, Esq. b. in 1654, who thus became of "Maple-Durham." This gentleman m. in 1683, Mary, dau. of Anthony Englefield, Esq. of White Knights, and had issue, one son, MICHAEL, his heir, and two daus., well known as the friends of the poet, Pope, viz., Teresa, b. at Paris, 15 Oct. 1688, and d. in 1759; and Martha, b. 15 June, 1690, and d. in 1763. Mr. Blount d. 25 June, 1710, and was s. by his son,

MICHAEL BLOUNT, Esq. of Maple-Durham, b. 26 March, 1693, m. in 1715, MARY-AGNES, dau. and co-heir of Sir JOSEPH TICHBORNE, of Tichborne, co. Hants, by which lady (who d. in May, 1777, aged eighty-two,) he had, with two daus., Mary, m. to Sir Henry Tichborne, Bart., and Frances, who d. a nun, at Brussels, in 1740, three sons, MICHAEL, his heir; Henry Tichborne, a priest, President of Douay College in 1770, who d. in 1810; and Walter, a Benedictine monk, who d. in 1746. BLOUNT, WILLIAM, Esq. of Orleton, co. Hereford, b. in April, 1799; m. 1st, in 1821, Eliza, dau. of Thomas Wright, Esq. of Fitzwalters, co. Essex, by which lady he has a son, WILLIAM, and 2ndly, 31 March, 1839, Lady Charlotte-Jane St. Maur, eldest dau. of Edward-Adolphus, Duke of Somerset, by Charlotte Hamilton, his wife, second dau. of Archibald, ninth Duke of Hamilton, and has by her two sons, Archibald and Henry. Mr. Blount s. his elder brother in 1831, and was M.P. for Totness in 1839.

Lineage.

The families of Blount, Croke, and all their branches, have been fully treated of by Sir Alexander Croke, in a quarto edition of two volumes printed for private use. Robert le Blount, who came in with WILLIAM I., was seated at Ixworth, in Suffolk, and was the first baron of that place.

By the marriage of Sir John Blount, 32 EDWARD III., to Isolda Mountjoy, a son was left, from whom is descended the existing family of Sir Edward Blount, of Sodington, co. Worcester. By his second marriage with Eleanor, second dau. of John Beauchamp, of Hacke, widow of John Merriet, Sir John Blount had a son, who m. Sancha de Ayala, of the house of Castile, and from him descended the families of Blount of Maple-Durham, in Oxfordshire, and of Blount of Grendon and

Orleton, in Herefordshire. (See BLOUNT OF MAPLE-DURHAM.)

MYLES BLOUNT, Esq. of Orleton, sixth son of Roger Blount, Esq. of Grendon, by Maria, his wife, dau. of W. Berington, Esq. of Winsley, d. in 1663, leaving by his wife, Anne Bustard, of Addlebury, inter alios, two sons, THOMAS BLOUNT,* the lawyer, an antiquary and writer of celebrity, who d. at Orleton, having been frightened to death by Titus Oates's plot, and MYLES BLOUNT, Esq., father of

THOMAS BLOUNT, Esq., who m. Mary Mostyn, and dying in 1731, left a son,

EDWARD BLOUNT, Esq., who m. Miss Cotham, and had issue,

I. Thomas, M.D.
II. Edward, d. in 1805.
III. Roland, m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Davies, Esq. of Henfwyn, and d. in 1812, leaving a dau.,

IV. WILLIAM, of whom presently.

The fourth son,

WILLIAM BLOUNT, Esq., M.D. of Orleton, b. in 1760, m. Mary, only dau. of Lacon Lambe, Esq. of Bidney, co. Hereford, and had (with other issue, of which a dau., Emma, m. to Henry Matthews, Esq., the author of "The Diary of an Invalid," who d. a Judge in the island of Ceylon, in 1829,) a son and successor, the present WILLIAM BLOUNT, of Orleton, Esq.

Arms—Barry, nebuly of six, or and sa., in chief, eight pellets.
Crest—A cross in the sun.
Motto—Mors Crucis mea salus.
Seat—Orleton, co. Hereford.

BLUETT OF HOLCOMBE COURT.

BLUETT, PETER, Esq. of Holcombe Court, co. Devon, b. 25 July, 1768, and m. 20 Sept. 1794, Elizabeth, dau. of Edward Phelips, Esq. of Montacute House, co. Somerset, and relict of John Clarke, Esq. of Halton, co. Cornwall. Mr. Bluett is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant, and served as high-sheriff of Devonshire in 1800.

Lineage.

JOHN BLUETT, descended from the Bluetts, Lords of Ragland, acquired Holcombe Rogus in the 15th century, by marriage with a co-heiress of Chiselden. His ancestors had married heiresses or co-heiresses of Ragland, Greenham, and Beaupeny. RICHARD BLUETT, great-grandson of this John, had two sons, SIR ROGER, his heir, who d. in 1566, and Francis, ancestor of the Bluetts of Cornwall. Arthur, great-grandson of Sir Roger, m. the heiress of Lancaster. The elder branch of the direct line became extinct in 1636, by the death of his son, John Bluett, Esq., whose daus. and co-heirs m. JONES, WALLOP, LENTHALL, and BASSET. John, the son of Francis (a younger son of Arthur), who was killed at the siege of Lyme, in 1644, dying s. p. in 1700, the elder line was supposed to be extinct, and he bequeathed his estates to ROBERT BLUETT, Esq., then the representative of the Bluetts of Colan, in Cornwall, descended from the younger brother of Sir Roger, BUCKLAND-NUTCOMBE BLUETT, Esq. (son of Robert), who d. in 1786, and bequeathed his estates to their present possessor, PETER BLUETT, Esq. of Falmouth, supposed to be a descendant of Francis Bluett, half-brother of Colan Bluett, who lived in the early part of the seventh century. MR. BLUETT is son of the late James Bluett, Esq., by Anna, his wife, dau. of Capt. Peter Hill, and grandson of William Bluett, Esq., by Mary, his wife. He has had one brother and three sisters, viz.,

WILLIAM, who m. Elizabeth-Maria, dau. of John Clarke, Esq. of Halton, Cornwall, and had issue, Peter-Frederick, James, Lauretta-Maude, Amelia, and Christiana.
Elizabeth, m. to John Walsby, Esq.
Anna, m. to Capt. Stephen-Banfield Bell.

Lineage.

Blount, in his MSS. Collections for Herefordshire, 1678, after giving a slight sketch of the pedigree, speaks thus of the residence of the family. "ROTHERWAS: This is a delicious seat, situate near the river Wye, and within two myles of Hereford, abounding with store of excellent fruit and fertyle arable land, having also a park within less than half a myle of the house, where there is a neat lodge upon a hill which overlooks the whole country adjacent. It was held so delightful a place, that the proverb was current, as anciently of Corinth,

Non datur cuivis adire Rotheras.
Every one may not live at Rotheras.

The house* is partly of old tymber work, but an end of it was new built of stone in the last age by Sir Roger, where there is a fair parlour ful of coats of arms according to the fashion of that age, and over that a noble dyning room wainscoted with walnut tree, and on the mantle tree of the chimney 25 coats in one atchievement, with this motto, Veritas liberabit. Even the long table with the hall is inlaid with coats of arms."

Captain William Bolton, an officer of dragoons in the Protector's army,† who stormed and took Fatlock Castle, Oct. 1649, and obtained a large grant of land in the co. of Waterford in 1667. He held the office of mayor of Waterford in 1662. Captain Bolton left five sons and one dau.,

Charles, his heir.
Daniel, d. 11 Aug. 1737.
Henry, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Benjamin Alcock, Esq., and was killed by a fall from his horse.
Michael.
Catherine, m. to John Hawkins, Esq., Ulster king of arms, and left issue two sons and one dau.,
  James, Bishop of Raphoe.
  William (Sir), Ulster king of arms, who had one son, John-Bolton.
  Elizabeth, m. to the Very Rev. Thomas Paul, dean of Cashel, son of Jeffrey Paul, Esq., M.P., and Elizabeth, only dau. of Richard Christmas, Esq., M.P. of Whitfield.

The eldest son,

Charles Bolton, of Fatlock Castle, Esq., m. but had no issue. He d. 22 May, 1718, leaving all his estates to his cousin,

William Bolton, of Fatlock Castle, Esq., capt. in Col. Edward May's troop of dragoons, son of Thomas Bolton, mayor of Waterford in 1671, who was brother of Capt. William Bolton, the captor of Fatlock Castle. He d. 12 March, 1750, leaving, with two daus., Mary, m. to — Lymbery, Esq., of Killcopp House, co. Waterford, and Eleanor, d. unm. in 1783, a son,

John Bolton, Esq., first of Fatlock Castle, and afterwards of Mount Bolton, who m. 5 Dec. 1745, Anne, dau. of Snow, Esq. of Snowhaven, co. Kilkenny, and had issue,

I. Charles, his heir.
II. Robert (Sir), lieut.-gen., G.C.H., of Swerford Park, Oxfordshire, aid-de-camp to George III., and equerry to George IV. He d. 15 March, 1836.
I. Hannah, m. 21 May, 1772, to Maunsell Bowers, Esq., and had issue three sons and six daus.,

BOND OF GRANGE.

BOND, JOHN, Esq. of Grange, co. Dorset, b. 1 Jan. 1802, s. to the estates upon the demise of his father, 12 May, 1824. Mr. Bond formerly represented Corfe Castle in parliament, and was high-sheriff of Dorset in 1830.

Lineage.

The family of Bond were of great antiquity in the co. of Cornwall, and are said to have been originally seated at Penryn in that co., but removed thence, at a very early period, to Earth, in the parish of St. Stephens, an estate they acquired in marriage with the dau. and heiress of a very ancient house, which took its name from that place.

From this match descended

ROBERT BOND, of Earth, who is stated to have had three sons, Thomas, who d. s. p. m.; ROBERT, of whom presently; and Richard, of Earth, ancestor of the Bonds of Earth and Holwood, Cornwall. The second son,

ROBERT BOND, removed to Beauchamp's Hache, in Somersetshire, and in the year 1431 (9th HENRY VI.) was seated at Lutton, in the Isle of Purbeck, in the co. of Dorset, an estate which he acquired in marriage with the dau. and heiress of a family of that name, and which has ever since continued in the possession of his descendants. He had issue two sons, viz., ROBERT, his heir; and William, of Buckland, co. Somerset, who had two sons, William, of Crosby Palace, alderman of London, who d. in 1576; and George (Sir), lord-mayor of London in 1587, ancestor of SIR THOMAS BOND, created a BARONET by CHARLES II. The elder son,

ROBERT BOND, of Lutton, m. in 1453, Mary, dau. of Sir John Hody, Knt. of Pillesdon, in the co. of Dorset, lord chief justice of England anno 18th HENRY VI., and was father of WILLIAM, his successor, and John Bond, of Buckland, in the co. of Dorset, whose son, Sir Nicholas Bond, Knt., d. s. p. m.

WILLIAM BOND, of Lutton, eldest son of Robert, was b. in 1455, and m. in 1496, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heiress of John Prowz, of Bredy, in the co. of Dorset, of the ancient family of Prowz of Gedleigh Castle, in Devonshire, and had DENIS, his heir, and John, ancestor of the Bonds of Essex. William Bond dying in 1530, was s. by his son,

DENIS BOND, of Lutton, b. in 1500, who m. in 1532, Alice, dau. of Robert Samways, of Toller, in the co. of Dorset, and had several children: the third son, William, left three daus. his co-heirs, of whom the eldest, Edith, m. Sir White Beckonshaw, of Moyles Court, and was mother of Alice, m. to John Lisle, Esq. This lady was unjustly beheaded at Winchester in 1685. Denis Bond's fourth son,

JOHN BOND, Esq. of Lutton, b. in 1556, continued the line of the family, and was appointed, in 1588, captain of the Isle of Portland, at the time of the expected invasion by the Spanish armada. He espoused, in 1583, Margaret, dau. of Richard Pitt, Esq. of North Crickett, in the co. of Somerset, and dying in 1632, was s. by his son,

DENIS BOND, Esq. of Lutton, b. in 1588, a stanch parliamentarian, high in favour with Cromwell. From the commencement of the civil war, he was of the committee for his own county, and from 1654 to 1656 he was M.P. for Weymouth, and one of the council of state from 1648 to 1652. He was likewise comptroller of the receipts of the Exchequer. Mr. Bond m. 1st, in 1610, Joane, dau. of John Gould, Esq. of Dorchester, by whom he had issue, JOHN, LL.D., M.P. for Melcombe Regis, 16th CHARLES I., who d. s. p. in 1676; and William, of South Bestwall, co. Dorset, of whose daus. and co-heirs the elder, MARY, by her second husband, James Gould, Esq., was mother of an only child, Anna-Maria, m. 1st, to Gen. Charles Churchill, brother of John, 1st Duke of Marlborough, and 2ndly, to Montagu, 2nd Earl of Abingdon; and the second, MARGARET, m. William Speke, Esq. He m. 2ndly, in 1622, Lucy, dau. of William Lawrence, Esq. of Steepleton, in the co. of Dorset, and had, with other issue, Samuel, sometime M.P. for Poole and Melcombe Regis; and NATHANIEL, his successor, at Lutton. This stanch patriot dying 30 Aug. 1658, was buried in Westminster Abbey, and s. at Lutton, by his son by his second marriage,

NATHANIEL BOND, Esq. of Lutton, b. 1634, who was bred to the bar, and became king's serjeant. He purchased, in 1686, the adjoining estate of Grange, which has since been the chief residence of the family. He m. Mary, dau. of Lewis Williams, Esq. of Shitterton, in the co. of Dorset, and relict of Thomas Browne, Esq. of Frampton, by whom (who d. in 1728) he had issue,

Thomas-James Bosvile, in accordance with the will of the Rev. Thomas Bosvile, of Ravenfield. He is a magistrate for the West Riding of Yorkshire.

Lineage.

There are few families in England which can be traced, by means of authentic evidences, through so many centuries, as this; and which can be found in so many branches flourishing in wealth and honour, whose relation to the parent stock can all be authentically proved.

In the reign of King JAMES I., when Sir Ralph Bosvile, of Bradborn, in Kent, was about to travel abroad, he received a certificate from Camden, then the Clarenceux king-at-arms, to the effect that "he was invested with the honour of knighthood, at Whitehall, 23 July, 1603, and that he was a gentleman of quality, blood, and fair and ancient coat armour, and of pure and undoubted lineal descent and uninterrupted derivation from ancient nobility, and from divers noble knights and esquires of this kingdom; his ancestors, as well by his own surname, as also of other noble surnames and right-worthy families, all which, by the view and examination of the worthy descent and far-extending pedigrees of the said Sir Ralph Bosvile and his ancestors, I find plainly and evidently proved and demonstrated to me, by authentic records and evidence."

The surname is found in England from nearly the time of the Conquest, when, in all probability, it was introduced. In a charter of Humphrey de Bohun, dated in 1126, a William de Bosvile appears as a witness. In a chartulary of the Abbey of Warden, in Bedfordshire, a William de Bosvile is spoken of as his knight by Geffrey de Maundevile, the Earl, that is, of Essex; and Michael, son of William de Bosvile, was an early benefactor to the same house. A Richard and a Ralph de Bosvile appear as benefactors to the Abbey of De La Pré, near Northampton, at an early period; and in or before 1159, an Elias de Bosvile gave a mill and certain lands at Harlington, in the West Riding of Yorkshire, to the canons of St. Oswald, of Nostel.

SIR JOHN BOSVILE, Knt. of Yorkshire, living temp. HENRY III., m. Alice, dau. and heir of Hugh de Darfield, and had four sons, of whom the third,

PETER BOSVILE, is stated by the Heralds to have m. Beatrix de Furnival, and to have had two sons,

I. ADAM, who s. to lands of Darfield and Ardsley, and was ancestor of various families of the name seated in Yorkshire, Staffordshire, and Kent—viz., 1. The BOSVILES of New Hall, in Darfield, extinct temp. CHARLES I. II. The ROSVILES of Gunthwaite, co. York, who became extinct in the male line at the decease, s. p., in 1813, of the late COL. WILLIAM BOSVILE, of Gunthwaite, whose sisters and co-heirs were, Elizabeth-Diana, m. in 1768, to Alexander, Lord Macdonald; and Julia, m. to William, 3rd Viscount Dudley and Ward. III. The BOSVILES of Bradbourn and Eynesford, co. Kent. IV. The BOSVILES of Byanna, co. Stafford, &c. &c.

II. ROBERT.

The second son,

ROBERT BOSVILE, who was Constable of the Castle of Pontefract, in the reign of EDWARD III., d. in 1363, leaving a son and heir, SIR THOMAS BOSVILE, father of SIR ANTHONY BOSVILE, father of ANTHONY BOSVILE, Esq., whose son and heir, ROBERT BOSVILE, m. Emma, dau. and heir of John Vesci, with whom he acquired lands at Coningsborough, and had a son, ROBERT BOSVILE, father of THOMAS BOSVILE, of Coningsborough, who d. in 1467, leaving two sons, Richard and Thomas. The elder, RICHARD BOSVILE, was grandfather of Thomas Bosvile, of Coningsborough, Esq., whose only dau. and heiress m. John Waterhouse, and d. in 1592. The second son, THOMAS BOSVILE, Esq., m. the heiress of William St. Paul, by whom he acquired lands at Doncaster, and was father of THOMAS BOSVILE, Esq., whose son, THOMAS BOSVILE, Esq., had (with four daus.) five sons, I. John, of Warmsworth, ancestor of the Bosviles of Warmsworth and Edlington, who terminated in three co-heirs, 1. Mary, m. 1st, to Foljambe Blithman, Esq. of New Lathers, co. York, and 2ndly, to William Neville, Esq. of Thorney; 2. Susanna, m. to Thomas Ashhurst, of Ashhurst, Esq., and 3. Elizabeth, m. to Sir Edward Stanley, Bart., of Bickerstaffe, progenitor of the Earl of Derby. II. Thomas, from whom derived a family seated at Clifton, in the parish of Coningsborough; III. Richard; IV. JASPER, of whose line we have to treat; and V. Hugh, of Stainton. The fourth son,

JASPER BOSVILLE, Esq. d. in 1557, leaving, by Elizabeth Chaloner, his wife, a son and successor, THOMAS BOSVILE, Esq. of Braithwell, father of another THOMAS BOSVILE, Esq., of Braithwell, who d. in 1665, aged seventy-eight, leaving, by Alice, his wife, THOMAS, his heir; John, of Wardsend, who d. unm. in 1693; Jasper, also of Wardsend, whose only dau. and heiress, Mary Bosvile, m. Thomas Parkin, and was grandmother of Elizabeth Parkin, who purchased Ravenfield from the family of Westby; Nicholas, of Doncaster; Dorothy, wife of John Blythe, and Helen. ### Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient family of Botevyle, of Botevyle, in Shropshire, founded by Geoffry and Oliver Botevyle, who came over from Poitou to assist King John in his wars with the Barons in 1210. Thomas Botevile, the third and youngest son of John Boteville, of the Inne, patriarch of the family of Thynne, now represented by the Marquis of Bath, was seated at Church Stretton, and Peter Botfield, at Lebotwood, in 1549, where and at Church Stretton his descendants remained until 1733, removing about that time to Madeley, and afterwards to Dawley, co. Salop, the orthography varying in different registers. In 1728, we find Agnes Botevyle m. to William Boyt, but, generally speaking, the name has been written as at present since 1549.

Beriah Botfield, Esq., b. 28 Feb. 1702, son of Thomas and Abigaile Botfield, m. Margaret, dau. of John and Ann Adams, and d. 8 April, 1784, leaving a son,

Family of Ayscoghe.

The Ayscoghes were an old and highly-connected family. Les rentes de la ville de Stallingborough, were granted by King Edward III., in the 25th year of his reign, to Edouardus Ascough, de Kelsey, Eques. La rentale des rentes de la ville de Stallingborough, which accompanied the original grant, contains the names of the following parishes: — Stallingborough, Immingham, Keelby, Haburgh, Killingholme, Laceby, Thorgumby, and Crosby.

The most distinguished members of the family were Anne Askew, a highly accomplished person, who suffered in Smithfield for her Protestant principles in the reign of Henry VIII., and Admiral Sir George Askew, who served the parliament faithfully in the reign of Charles I. Several of the name served the office of sheriff of Lincolnshire, from the time of Henry VII.

The last direct male representative of this ancient and eminent line,

Sir Edward Ayscoghe, of Stallingborough and South Kelsey, m. Mary, dau. and co-heir of William Harboard, Esq., and left at his decease four daus., his co-heirs, viz.,

Bridget, who m. in 1703, John Hanbury, Esq. of Pont-y-pool, co. Monmouth, and had issue,

Mr. Bowdon, who s. his father in 1833, is a magistrate for Derbyshire, and was high-sheriff in 1841.

Lineage.

The Bowdons of Bowdon Hall, near Chapel-en-le-Frith, co. Derby, were settled there, according to many writers, upwards of four hundred years. Lysons mentions them as a very wealthy and ancient family. It is generally supposed, that the Bowdons came over at the Conquest, as the name Bodin, or Bowdon, appears on the roll of Battel Abbey. During the times of persecution carried on against the Catholics, most of the family papers were either lost or destroyed, and we are therefore compelled to begin only at the year 1500, when

GEORGE BOWDON was of Bowdon. He m. Barbara, dau. of Nicholas Bagshawe, of Abney, and was father of

GEORGE BOWDON, Esq. of Bowdon Hall, living in 1550, who m. Ellen, dau. of Augustine Pole, Esq. of Langley, and had, with a dau., Ann, wife of Rowland Smith, of Waterford, three sons,

Warwick, and inherited the Pleasington estate from his cousin, Mary-Anne, only surviving child and heir of the late Richard Butler, Esq. of Pleasington Hall, (who purchased that property in 1777,) by Charlotte, his wife, dau. of the late John Bowdon. Esq. of Beightonfields, by his third wife, Mary, dau. of George Johnson, Esq. of Shelfield, co. Warwick. Mr. Bowdon, upon his succession to the Butlers' estate, assumed, by sign-manual, dated 21 Jan. 1841, the name of Butler, in addition to and before his patronymic, as also the arms of Butler quarterly with Bowdon.

Lineage.

For the lineage of Bowdon, see BOWDON of Southgate and Beightonfields. The family of Butler of Pleasington, and previously of Rawcliffe, derived from a common ancestor with the House of Ormonde, viz., Herveius Walter, one of the companions of the CONQUEROR, whose eldest son, Theobald, accompanied HENRY II. to Ireland, and had conferred on him by that monarch the office of Chief Butler, and henceforth the name of Le Boteler or Butler was adopted. The estate of Rawcliffe, which was in the family almost since the Conquest, became estreated and sold by government, upon its proprietor, Henry Butler, having been found guilty of rebellion in 1715. The branch more immediately under notice descended from HENRY BUTLER, (second son of Henry Butler, of Rawcliffe, living 1664, by his first wife, Dorothy, sister of Sir Edward Stanley, Bart.) who m. Jane, dau. of J. Stanley, Esq. of Mr. Bower is a deputy-lieutenant of the East Riding of the county of York.

Lineage.

The family of Bower, now under notice, was originally settled at Bridlington, a town situated on the coast of the East Riding of Yorkshire. In the earliest registers of its church, we find the name of Bower, and it is continued in regular succession of entries from 1568 to the latter part of the last century, when the more immediate connexion of the family with that place appears to have ceased. The first advancer of the family was,

WILLIAM BOWER, of Bridlington, merchant, (son of John Bower, of the same place, and Jean [Bonfeylde], his wife) whose baptism occurs on the 14th May, 1598. He was a considerable benefactor to his native town, for he endowed with an estate at Mount Farrer, in the parish of Birdsall, a school at Bridlington, for instructing poor children in the art of carding, knitting, and spinning wool; the rents of this property now amount to about 50*l.* a-year, and are expended in the general education of poor children at Bridlington. This benevolent individual appears to have acquired considerable property, for in his will he devises the lordship of Skelton, with lands at Bridlington, Ringsborough, East Newton, Little Habden, Skyringthorpe, Aldborough, Burythorpe, &c., in the co. of York: dying at the age of seventy-four, he was buried in the chancel of Bridlington Church, in the year 1671; Thomasine, his wife, was of the family of Bowes, as appears by her arms on the monument. They had issue, two sons,

JOHN, his heir.
William, m. 7 June, 1655, Prudence, dau. of Thomas Crosby, of Holme, and had by her, who m. 2ndly, Edward Bower, of Bridlington,* a dau. Thomasine, m. in 1677, to Robert Belt, Esq. of Bossall, co. York.

BOWES OF BRADLEY.

Bowes, Thomas, Esq. of Bradley Hall, co. Durham, b. 29 June, 1758.

Lineage.

The family of Bowes, for a long period, was one of the most powerful and distinguished in the co. of Durham, renowned for the strenuous loyalty of its members, and the many important services which they had rendered to the crown and to the country. Camden, in speaking of Streatlam, calls them "the famous and knightly family of the Bowes, or de Arcubus, who have often done great service to their king and country in times of extremity; their pedigree is from William de Arcubus, &c."

The estate of Streatlam was acquired by the marriage of

Sir Adam Bowes, Knt., chief justice of the Common Pleas in 1331, with Alice, dau. and sole heiress of Sir John Trayne. Sir Adam's grandson,

Sir William Bowes, a gallant warrior, received the honour of Knight-Banneret at the battle of Poictiers. He m. Maud, dau. and heiress of Robert de Dalden, and was s. at his decease by his son,

Sir Robert Bowes, made a Knight-Banneret at the siege of Rouen, who was slain at the battle of Baugé, in 1421. He m. Jane, dau. of Sir Robert Conyers, of Sockburn, Knt., and had, with other issue, a son and successor,

Sir William Bowes, knighted at the battle of Vernoile in 1424, who was chamberlain to John, Duke of Bedford, whilst regent of France, and was constituted by that prince Governor of the Castle of Gallyard, in Normandy. He continued abroad twenty years, and sent home a model and plan for rebuilding his castle at Streatlam, to which he retired on his return, and resided there to a great age, being commonly known as "Old Sir William Bowes." He m. Joan, dau. of Ralph, Lord Greystock, and acquired by the alliance the manor of Newton, in Durham.

Sir William Bowes, his son and successor, Warden for many years of the Middle March against Scotland, and high-sheriff of Northumberland, m. Maud, dau. of Henry, Lord Fitzhugh, Baron of Ravensworth, and was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

William Bowes, who m. the niece of Lawrence Booth, Bishop of Durham, but d. without issue in 1474, when the family estates devolved upon his brother,

Sir Ralph Bowes, Knt. of Streatlam and Dalden Tower, who m. Margery, dau. and co-heir of Richard Conyers, of South Cowton, and had issue, Ralph, Robert, and Richard. The eldest,

Sir Ralph Bowes, a military officer of distinction, received the honour of knighthood on the field of Flodden. He m. Elizabeth, sister of Henry, first Earl of Cumberland, and dying in 1516, left, with two daus., Margery, wife of Sir Ralph Eure, and Agnes, who d. unm., a son and successor,

Sir George Bowes, of Dalden, who m. Muriel, dau. of William, Lord Eure of Witton, and had three daus., viz., Elizabeth, m. to John Blackiston, Esq. of Blackiston; Anne, m. to Robert Bowes, Esq. of Aske; and Dorothy, m. to Sir Cuthbert Collingwood, of Eslinton. Sir George dying thus without male issue, was s. by his uncle,

Sir Robert Bowes, Knt., Master of the Rolls, privy councillor to King Henry VIII., and Warden of the Middle Marches. He m. Dorothy, dau. of Sir James Metcalfe, Knt., but d. without surviving issue, when the family estates devolved upon his brother,

Richard Bowes, of Aske, capt. of Norham, in 1550, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Sir Roger Aske, of Aske, Knt., and had, with several daus.,

George (Sir).
Robert, ambassador to Scotland with his elder brother, Sir George. He was ancestor of Bowes of Barnes.

The elder son,

Sir George Bowes, Knt. of Streatlam, was made knight-marshal by special commission, for his signal services to Queen Elizabeth. When the Earls of Westmoreland and Northumberland reared the standard of revolt in the North, Sir George was the only person of great influence that opposed the insurgents, having, for that purpose, fortified himself in Barnard Castle. He was in many commissions for treaties with Scotland, and had other marks of confidence and trust. Sir George m. twice; 1st, Dorothy, dau. of Sir William Mallory, of Studley, near Ripon, co. York, and had issue,

William, his successor.
Robert, killed in the Keswick mines, in 1610.
George, of Biddick, who m. Magdalen, dau. of Sir Edward Bray, and had, with five daus., four sons, viz.,
1. George, successor to his uncle.
2. Robert, of Biddick, who m. in 1620, Joan, dau. of Robert Hutton, D.D., prebendary of Durham, and had several children.
3. Ralph, of Newcastle-on-Tyne.
4. Toby, of the Waterside, near Biddick.
Elizabeth, m. to Sir Charles Wandesford, of Kirtlington, co. York.
Agnes, m. to Sir John Conyers.

The knight-marshal espoused, 2ndly, Jane, dau. of Sir John Talbot, of Albrighton, co. Salop, Knt., and had, with other issue,

Talbot (Sir), Knt. of Streatlam, to which he s. under an entail made by his father. He d. s. p. in 1637-8.
Thomas, of Streatlam, who m. Anne, dau. of Thomas Warcop, Esq. of Tanfield, and was s. at his decease by his son,
Thomas Bowes, Esq. of Streatlam Castle, b. in 1607, who m. Anne, dau. and co-heir of the Rev. Anthony

Lineage.

This family is of very considerable antiquity, having a common ancestor with the Boyds, Earls of Kilmarnock, the last of whom, bearing the title, suffered on Tower Hill, in 1745, for his devotion to the ill-fated race of Stewart. The first recorded ancestor, Simon, brother of Walter, High Steward of Scotland, witnessed the foundation charter of the monastery of Paisley, in 1160, and is therein designed, "frater Walteri filii dapferi." He was father of Robert, called Boyt, or Boyd, from his complexion, the Celtic word Boidh signifying fair, and from him derived the various families of the name. The lands of Kilmarnock were granted by Robert the Bruce to his gallant adherent,

Sir Robert Boyd, who had been among the first associates of the prince, in his arduous attempt to restore the liberties of Scotland. Sir Robert was father of three sons, Sir Thomas, his heir; Alan, who commanded the Scottish archers at the siege of Perth, in 1339, where he was slain; and James. The eldest son,

Sir Thomas Boyd, was taken prisoner together with King David II., at the battle of Durham, in 1346. His son and successor,

Sir Thomas Boyd, of Kilmarnock, m. Alice, dau. and co-heir of Hugh Gifford, of Yester, and had a son and heir,

BRACEBRIDGE OF ATHERSTONE HALL.

BRACEBRIDGE, CHARLES-HOLTE, Esq. of Atherstone Hall, co. Warwick, b. in March, 1799; m. in 1824, Selina, dau. of William Mills, Esq. of Bisterne, co. Hants. Mr. Bracebridge s. to the representation of the family at the decease of his father, 21 Aug. 1832.

Lineage.

This family establishes a Saxon descent, deriving from TURCHILL DE WARWICK, who enjoyed the dignity of EARL prior to the advent of the Normans, and afterwards in conformity with the invaders, assumed the surname of ARDEN, from a woodland tract in Warwickshire.

OSBERT DE ARDEN, son of Turchill, by his second wife, inherited the manor of Kingsbury, the principal seat of his father, which property passed eventually to his only dau.,

AMICIA DE ARDEN, wife of

PETER DE BRACEBRIDGG, so called, from a place near Lincoln, of which he was LORD. "This Peter," says Dugdale, "was a militarie man." He and his wife confirmed a grant of lands, and the advowson of Kingsbury Church, made by Osbert de Arden, to the nuns of Mergate; but the validity of the grant was afterwards contested by Sir Ralph de Bracebridge, though unsuccessfully. Peter was s. at his decease by his elder son,

JOHN DE BRACEBRIDGG, Lord of Kingsbury, who d. issue-less, in the 2nd of HENRY III., and was s. by his brother,

WILLIAM DE BRACEBRIGG, Lord of Kingsbury, who was constituted, in the 19th of HENRY III., a justice of assize at Warwick. He was s. by his son,

SIR RALPH DE BRACEBRIGG, Knt., Lord of Kingsbury, knighted in the 33rd of HENRY III. His dau., Matilda, m. Thomas de Clinton, and he was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN DE BRACEBRIGG, Knt., who in the 40th of HENRY III., paid two marks in gold to the king, that his knighthood might be postponed for three years; but during the dispensation, being amerced at a mark by the Justices Itinerant, in Lincolnshire, for not being a knight, he obtained a special mandate to the barons of the Exchequer, for acquitting him of that penalty. Subsequently engaged in the Barons' wars, he forfeited his property, which he regained under the "Dictum de Kenilworth;" but falling afterwards into pecuniary embarrassments, owing to the heavy fines he had to pay, was obliged to make a lease of nearly his whole lordship, to Robert de Typetot. From Sir John, we pass to

SIR RALPH DE BRACEBRIGG, Knt., styled in an inquisition taken in the 1st of HENRY IV., "Frater Johannis de Bracebrigg Militis." In the 7th of HENRY V., Sir Ralph was summoned the first amongst other persons of note, to attend the king in person, for the defence of the realm. In the same year he took a lease of the manor-house, park, &c. at Lutton, of Richard Beauchamp, then Earl of Warwick, to hold for life. Sir Ralph de Bracebrigg, it appears (from an old MS. book of Sir Simon Archer, the antiquarian friend of Dugdale), attended in 1414, with eleven other knights of ancient family, HEN. V. to Paris, on the occasion of the coronation of CHARLES VI. of France. His descendant in the fifth degree,

THOMAS BRACEBRIGG, Esq. (a son of Simon Bracebrigg, by Elizabeth, dau. of William Harewell, of Wotton-Waven), being deeply indebted to Sir Ambrose Cave, Knt., made a deed of sale of his manor and domains to that gentleman, who was Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. He m. twice, and disinherited the children* of his first wife, on marrying the second, Jocosa Wilson. His son and heir, THOMAS, by that lady, becoming deeply involved in debt, the remainder of Kingsbury was alienated to Sir Francis Willoughby, Knt. of Middleton. He d. 1 March, in the 11th of ELIZABETH. The third son of the second marriage,

ANKITIL BRACEBRIGG, Esq., m. Anna, dau. of Thomas Corbin, Esq. of Hall End, and was grandfather of

SAMUEL BRACEBRIDGE, Esq. of Atherstone, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Moore, Esq. of Shakston, and had, with younger children, ABRAHAM, his heir, and Thomas, in holy orders, who m. Jane, dau. of John Ludford, Esq., and his son, SAMUEL, who assumed the name of Ludford, was great-grandfather of Elizabeth-Juliana Ludford, the wife of John, eldest son of Sir John Chetwode, Bart.; Frances-Millicent Ludford; and Mary-Anne Ludford, wife of the Rev. Francis Astley, of Everley, co. Wilts. These ladies were the daus. and co-heirs of John Ludford, of Ansley Hall, Esq., who d. in 1822. The eldest son and successor in 1692, of Samuel Bracebridge,

ABRAHAM BRACEBRIDGE, of Atherstone, Esq., m. Maria, dau. of Thomas Charnell, of Snareston, co. Leicester, Esq., and was father of Samuel,* of Lindley, and

ABRAHAM BRACEBRIDGE, Esq. of Atherstone, who was s. by his son (by his second wife, Maria, dau. and co-heir of the Rev. Walter Jennings, of Onparva, in Staffordshire),

BRAY OF SHERE.

BRAY, EDWARD, Esq. of Shere, co. Surrey, b. 20 July, 1793; s. his grandfather, William Bray, the county historian, at the decease of that gentleman in 1832.

Lineage.

The name of the SIEUR DE BRAY occurs in the Roll of Battel Abbey, amongst the associates in arms of the CONQUEROR, and although the authenticity of that celebrated record has in many instances been questioned, in this the statement is confirmed by the fact of WILLIAM DE BRAY being one of the subscribing witnesses to the charter of the year 1080, conferred by the NORMAN on the abbey he had founded in commemoration of his triumph at Hastings. No grant of lands appears, however, in Domesday Book to the Brays; but that the family supplied sheriffs* to Northamptonshire, Bedfordshire, Bucks, and some other counties, between 1202 and 1273, is fully established.

SIR RICHARD BRAY, the descendant and representative of the Norman Knight, is said by some to have been of the privy council to HENRY VI.; by others he is called the King's Physician; the former is the more probable, as he was buried in Worcester Cathedral. He had two wives; by the 1st, Margaret, dau. of John Sandes, Esq. of Furnes Felles, in Lancashire, he had an only son, JOHN, (Sir,) whose only dau. and heir, Margaret, m. Sir William Sandys, Baron Sandys of the Vine; by the 2nd, Joan, Sir Richard had two other sons, viz., SIR REGINALD BRAY, Knight-banneret and K. G., Lord Treasurer temp. HENRY VII., and

JOHN BRAY, Esq., who was buried in the chancel of the church at Chelsea, had (with a dau., the wife of Sir John Norris) three sons, EDMUND (Sir), summoned to parliament as Baron Bray, 21st HENRY VIII., ancestor of the present BARONESS BRAYE; EDWARD (Sir), of whom presently; and Reginald, of Barrington, co. Gloucester, ancestor of the Brays of Barrington. The second son,

SIR EDWARD BRAY, Knt. of Vachery Park, in Cranley, Surrey, was sheriff of Surrey and Sussex in the 30th of HENRY VIII., and represented the former county in the two parliaments of Queen MARY. Sir Edward, who appears to have been bred a soldier, was one of the knights appointed to accompany King HENRY to Calais to meet the French monarch, and he is stated to have been Master of the Ordnance in the time of Queen MARY, and to have marched at the head of some troops to Charing Cross, to attack Wyatt in the insurrection which he had fomented against her majesty. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Henry Lovell, Esq. of Sussex, but by that lady, from whom he was divorced, and who espoused, 2ndly, Sir Anthony Windsor, he had no issue. He wedded, 2ndly, Beatrice, dau. of R. Shirley, Esq. of Wiston, in Sussex, and had two sons and one dau. Sir Edward survived his second wife, and m. 3rdly, Jane, dau. of Sir Matthew Browne, of Betchworth Castle, in the parish of Dorking, but had no more issue. He d. in 1558, and was s. by his son,

SIR EDWARD BRAY, Knt., M.P. for Helston in the 13th ELIZABETH, who m. 1st, Mary, dau. of Simon Elrington, Esq. of Northampton, and had by her an only son, Reginald, described as heir-apparent, and of the Inner Temple in 1557, being then of age, who appears to have d. issueless. Sir Edward wedded 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of William Roper, Esq. of Eltham, in Kent, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of the Chancellor SIR THOMAS MORE, and had another son, also named REGINALD. He m. 3rdly, Magdalene, dau. of Sir Thomas Cotton, of Kent, by whom, who d. in 1563, he had no issue; and 4thly, a lady, named Mary, by whom (who wedded 2ndly, Sir Edmund Tylney, Master of the Revels to Queen ELIZABETH) he had three daus., Mary, m. to Sir George Chowne, Knt. of Wrotham, Kent; Magdalen, m. to George Bowes, Esq. of Durham; Frances, m. to George Gastrell, Esq. Sir Edward, who sold a great part of his possessions, including the manor of Hawnes, Houghton Regis, Kempson, and Eaton Bray, in the counties of Berks and Buckingham, d. in 1581, was buried at Shere, and s. by his son,

REGINALD BRAY, Esq. of Shere, baptized there 1 May, 1555, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Covert, Esq. of

* The sheriff of a county is an officer of high rank and importance in the present day, but was of still higher at the time when much of the revenues of the crown arose from escheats, the levy of which required the assistance of the sheriff, who was responsible to the king for the produce.

Hascombe, in Surrey, an ancient family, possessing the manor of Hascomb, and left a son and successor,

EDWARD BRAY, Esq. of Shere, b. in 1577, who made Tower Hill the place of his residence. He m. 1st, Jane, dau. of Edward Covert, Esq. of Tuynham, in Sussex, and by her, who d. in 1618, had issue,

I. EDWARD, his heir.

Ellen-Susan.

Sir Gordon Bremer is in the commission of the peace for Devonshire. This gallant and distinguished officer, who was educated at the Royal Naval College of Portsmouth, joined the Endymion frigate, 3 April, 1802, under the command of Capt. (now Admiral Sir Philip) Durham, was made lieutenant of the Captain, of 74 guns, 3 Aug. 1805, obtained the rank of commander in 1807, and was appointed post-captain and Companion of the Bath, in 1814. Sir Gordon's gallant services extend over a considerable period, from his first entrance into the navy, in 1802, to the fall of Canton, in 1841. In the former year, he served under Captain Durham; in 1805, was in the partial action with the French fleet off Brest; in 1812, commanding the Bermuda, of 10 guns, he captured Le Bongenie, of much superior force; and subsequently, in command of the Royalist, 18 guns, was very actively employed on the coast of Spain, particularly in the defence of the town of Castro Undiales, in Biscay. In 1813, in company with the Scylla, also of 18 guns, he took the French frigate Le Weser, of 44 guns, and 350 men; and in 1814, was engaged in the operations in the Gironde, which ended in the occupation of Bordeaux. He subsequently commanded the Lee, and Comus frigate, in which latter vessel he was wrecked off Newfoundland, in 1816. In 1823, Captain Bremer was selected by government to take possession of the north coast of Australia, and found a settlement there. This service completed, he sailed for India, and was present in the latter part of the Burmese war, whence he was ordered to the Red Sea, in command of a squadron of five ships, to demand redress for the plunder and burning of a British merchantman. In 1828, he returned to England, and in 1837 was again sent to Australia, where he founded the settlement of Victoria, in Port Essington. Circumstances having induced him immediately after to proceed to India, he became, by the death of Sir Frederick Maitland, commander-in-chief of the fleet in those seas, and in concert with the governor-general, completely organized the expedition which sailed from Singapoor in 1840, and was the first to hoist a flag in a conquered portion of the Chinese empire. The subsequent operations, to the second capture of Canton, in 1841, and the eminent services of Sir Gordon, are of too recent occurrence to require further mention here, beyond the facts, that to his personal superintendence and unwearied exertions, in arranging and collecting the reinforcements and materiel for the fleet and army, his gallant successor was essentially indebted for the brilliant successes which immediately followed his assumption of the command; and that government evinced their high appreciation of Sir Gordon's approved capacity in civil affairs, by associating him with Capt. Elliott as joint-plenipotentiary, and that her Majesty conferred on him the cross of Knight Commander of the Bath.

Mr. Bristowe s. his great-uncle, Samuel Bristowe, Esq., 18 June, 1818, and is a magistrate for the counties of Nottingham and Derby, and a deputy-lieutenant of the latter shire.

Lineage.

This very ancient family descends through the Hertfordshire line from the Bristowes, or Burstows, of Burstow, in Surrey, who derived, according to Sir Edward Bysshe, and other authorities, from Stephen Fitzhamon, alias Stephen de Burstow, temp. Richard I. The branch before us has long been seated in Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire, and so far back as 1569, Thomas Bristowe sat in parliament as knight of the former shire.

William Bristowe, Esq., a younger son of the old family of Bristowe, of Beesthorpe, purchased lands at Twyford, co. Derby, in 1571. By Isabella Hyde, his wife, he was father of

Thomas Bristowe, Esq. of Twyford, b. about 1572, who d. about 1617, and was s. by his son,

William-Edward-Saxton. Francis-Heathcote.

Mr. Brome s. his father in 1830.

Lineage.

The very ancient and eminent family of Brome lineally derives from the Earls of Anjou, who took the surname of Brome or Broome, after their pilgrimage to the Holy Land; Fulk, Earl of Anjou, having worn a sprig of the broome plant, as the symbol of humility. Fulk was

* The younger dau. and co-heir of Richard Glydd, MARTHA GLYDD, m. RALPH DRAKE (descended from the Drakes of Bletchynglie), and had, with a son, Ralph, and four daus., a younger son,
JOHN DRAKE, who m. Anne Hayes, and had, with three younger daus.,
RALPH DRAKE, in holy orders, who inherited the estates of the Brockmans, under the will of James Brockman, Esq., in 1767.
Anne Drake, m. 1st, to William Smith, Gent. of Heyton; and 2ndly, to the Rev. George Lynch, of Ripple. She d. s. p. in 1787.

father of Geoffrey Plantagenet, who m. Matilda, dau. of HENRY I. and widow of HENRY V., Emperor of Germany.

For some time previous to the year 1300, the family of which we are treating resided at Broome, in Salop, and acted a distinguished part in the reigns of our early monarchs, for we find, from the pedigree in the College of Arms, that SIR WILLIAM DE BROME,* was standard-bearer to EDWARD III.; Thomas Brome, secretary to HENRY VI.; and Henry Brome, his son, a faithful adherent to the Earl of Richmond, in whose cause he fell at Bosworth, in 1485. At a subsequent period, John Brome acted as Standard-Bearer to the gallant Sir Alan Zouch; and Bartholomew Brome allied himself to the celebrated Archbishop Cranmer, marrying the Prelate's niece, Anne, dau. of Edmund Cranmer, archdeacon of Canterbury. While the parent stock thus flourished, branches became established in various counties, and acquired considerable landed possessions. In the time of HENRY IV., John Brome, a younger son of the family, wedding Joan, dau. and heir of Thomas Rody, of Baddesley Clinton, in Warwickshire, seated himself there. He had two sons, John, the elder, of Baddesley Clinton, m. Beatrice, dau. of Sir Ralph Shirley, and was father of Nicholas Brome, of Baddesley, who d. 9th HENRY VIII., leaving a dau., Constantia, wife of Sir Edward Ferrers, Knt., to whom she conveyed Baddesley Clinton. William, the younger son, was of Halton, in Oxfordshire, and his descendants continued in high repute for several generations; until the male line failing, the estate of Halton was carried by an heiress, Ursula Brome, in marriage to Sir Thomas Whorwood, Knt., of Sandal, Staffordshire.

In the sixteenth century, the Broomes, or Bromes, of Broome, in Shropshire, migrated into Kent, and subsequently removed into Hertfordshire, in consequence of the marriage of

JOHN BROME, Esq. (son of William Brome, Esq., and the lineal descendant of Sir William de Brome, Standard-Bearer to EDWARD III.) with Cordelia, dau. and co-heir of John Sandford, Esq. of Herts, by Anne, his wife, dau. and co-heir of Edward Denny,† Esq. of Bishop's Stortford. By Cordelia, Mr. Brome left at his decease, 30 Nov. 1734, aged fifty-nine, with other issue, a son,

JOHN BROME, Esq. of the Manor House, Bishop's Stortford, b. 12 Nov. 1717, who m. 1st, in 1739, Martha Osborne, by whom he had two children, a son and a dau., both d. s. p.; and 2ndly, in 1761, Mary, sister of Sir Charles Saxton, Bart., many years Commissioner of Portsmouth, by whom he left (with other children, who d. unm.) a son,

BRUCE OF KENNET.

BRUCE, ROBERT, Esq. of Kennet, in the shire of Clackmannan, b. 8 Dec. 1795; m. 12 April, 1825, Anne, eldest dau. of the late William Murray, Esq. of Touchadam and Polmaise, in Stirlingshire. This gentleman, a captain in the Grenadier-guards, served in the Peninsula and at Waterloo. He s. his father in July, 1808, and is a deputy-lieutenant for the county of Clackmannan.

Lineage.

ROBERT DE BRUS, a noble Norman knight, the first on record of this great and patriotic family, attending the Conqueror into England, was of such high estimation, that WILLIAM, after the victory at Hastings, commissioned him to subdue the northern parts of England. He first possessed the manor and castle of Skelton, in Yorkshire, and Hert and Hertness, in the bishopric of Durham, and soon increased his property in the former shire to such an extent, that before the end of the Conqueror's reign, he had acquired no fewer than ninety-four lordships in that county.

The eldest branch of his descendants, the Lords of Skelton, expired, in the male line, with Peter de Brus, who d. without issue, temp. EDWARD I., leaving his four sisters, Margaret, the wife of Robert de Roos; Agnes, of Walter de Fauconberg; Lucy, of Marmaduke de Thweng; and Laderine, of John de Bellew, his co-heirs, (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage.) From a younger son of Robert de Brus, son of the Norman knight, sprang the Scottish Bruces, the Bruces of Annandale, the illustrious progenitors of ROBERT BRUCE, King of Scotland.

SIR ROBERT DE BRUYS, of Clackmannan, descended from a scion of Annandale, obtained from King DAVID BRUCE, son of King ROBERT, a charter "dilecto et fideli consanguineo suo Roberto Bruis" of the castle and manor of Clackmannan, dated 9 Dec. 1359. Sir Robert d. about the year 1390, and was s. by his son,

JANET BRUCE, became, at the decease of her brother, Henry Bruce, Esq. of Clackmannan, in 1772, sole heiress of the Bruces of Clackmannan, m. William Bruce, Esq. of Newton and Cowden, and had a son,
CAPTAIN WILLIAM BRUCE, of Cowden, father of an only dau. and heir,
MARGARET BRUCE, COUNTESS OF AIRLIE.
THOMAS.

To his second son,

THOMAS DE BRUYS, Sir Robert granted the lands of Wester Kennet, Pitfolden, and Cruickitlands, in the shire of Clackmannan. The Laird of Kennet died temp. JAMES I. His great-great-great-grandson,

ROBERT BRUCE, of Kennet, served heir 13 June, 1556, m. a dau. of Andrew Kinninmont, of that ilk, in Fifeshire, and had an only dau. and heiress,

MARGARET BRUCE, of Kennet, who wedded Archibald Bruce, son of the deceased David Bruce, of Green, a younger son of Sir David Bruce, of Clackmannan, in 1506, and had a son,

ROBERT BRUCE, of Kennet, served heir to his mother, 6 Feb. 1589. He m. in 1599, Elizabeth, dau. of Alexander Gall, of Maw, in Fifeshire, and left a son and successor,

ROBERT BRUCE, of Kennet, who m. Agnes, dau. of Patrick Murray, of Perdowie, by Margaret Colville, his wife, dau. of Lord Colville, of Culross, and was s. by his son,

BUCHANAN OF ARDINCONNAL AND AUCHINTORLIE.

BUCHANAN, ANDREW, Esq. of Auchintorlie, co. Dumbarton, s. his father in 1832.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient and distinguished families of Buchanan of Buchanan, or that ilk, and of Bu-

* The reason for changing the name is thus described by Mrs. Bruce's grandfather, in a letter to his son, relative to the family descent, &c., in 1774-5:—
"One of my ancestors had a dispute with his chief, who attacked him; he, according to the laws of Scotland, retreated as far as wood, water, &c., would allow him, then turned in his own defence and killed his chief. In those days, two or three hundred years ago, the chiefs had great influence. He was prosecuted with great virulence. The sentence was 'that he should be either banished or change his name;' he said he had done nothing sinful or shameful to fly his country, but put a tail to the 'u' and made it 'y;' thus it was Bryce; but when my grandfather went to Ireland he spelled his name with an 'i,' and since it has so remained."

chanan, of Lenny, now representative of that house, and chief of the clan Buchanan.

JOHN BUCHANAN, eldest son of Sir Walter Buchanan, eleventh Laird of Buchanan, m. the heiress of Lenny, as appears by a charter of King ROBERT III., in the year 1363, in favour of John De Buchanan, and Janet De Leny, of the barony of Pitwhonidy, but dying before his father, his son John, on the death of his grandfather, became the twelfth Laird of Buchanan.

This John, Laird of Buchanan and Lenny, who flourished upwards of four hundred years ago, and was common ancestor of the great George Buchanan and this family, had three sons,

I. ALEXANDER (Sir), who, in 1421, killed the Duke of Clarence, at the battle of Beaugé, and was himself slain at the battle of Verneuil, 1424, unm.
II. Walter (Sir), who s. to the estate of Buchanan.
III. JOHN, of whose line we have to treat.

The third son,

JOHN BUCHANAN, during his father's lifetime, designed of Ballachondachy, s. after his father's death, to the estate of Lenny, and was father of

ANDREW BUCHANAN, as appears by a charter, penes Buchanan De Lenny, granted by JAMES II. in the year 1458, in favour of the said Andrew Buchanan, of Lenny, of the barony of Pitwhonidy and other lands. Andrew of Lenny had five sons, JOHN, who s. him; Archibald; WALTER; George; and Gilbert. The third son,

WALTER BUCHANAN, was the first cadet of the family of Lenny. He possessed Mochastel, in the parish of Callender, and was s. by his son,

ANDREW BUCHANAN, father of

PATRICK BUCHANAN, whose son,

ALEXANDER BUCHANAN, had two sons, JOHN, his successor at Mochastel, and

WALTER BUCHANAN, of Glenny, whose grandson, Captain James Buchanan, s. to the estate of Glenny, but dying in France without issue, his uncle, the second son of Walter, of Glenny,

ALEXANDER BUCHANAN, became heir to his nephew, the Laird of Glenny. He had two sons, Andrew and George. The elder,

ANDREW BUCHANAN, purchased Gartacharan from Lord Napier. He had two sons, ALEXANDER, his successor, and

GEORGE BUCHANAN, a magistrate and merchant in Glasgow, who had four sons and one dau., viz.,

I. GEORGE, a merchant, who, with his brothers Andrew, Niel, and Archibald, were the original promoters of the Buchanan Society in that city, now one of the most flourishing benevolent institutions in the west of Scotland. He was twice m.; 2ndly, to a dau. of Sir John Forbes, Bart. of Foveran, Aberdeenshire, and had four sons and four daus., but his male line is now extinct.

The elder son, JAMES, m. Margaret Hamilton, granddaughter of the Earl of Haddington, and sister of the Countesses of Morton and Selkirk, and of Lady Halket, of Pitferran. By this lady he had, with a son, who d. unm., several daus., of whom, Helen m. Admiral Sir George Home, Bart. The Drumpellier branch of the Buchanan family is now represented by the descendant of Andrew's second son, ROBERT-CARRICK BUCHANAN, Esq. of Drumpellier.
III. ARCHIBALD, of Auchintorlie, co. Dumbarton.
IV. Neil, of Hillington, co. Renfrew, M.P. for the Glasgow district of Burghs, whose male line is now extinct. He left one son and three daus.: of the latter, Ann, the eldest, m. Oswald, Bishop of Raphoe; and Marion, the third, became the wife of Oliphant, of Rossie, in Perthshire, postmaster-general for Scotland.
I. Mary, m. to George Buchanan, of Auchintoshan, co. Dumbarton.

The third son,

ARCHIBALD BUCHANAN, Esq., purchased Auchintorlie and other lands, in Dumbartonshire, from his brother Andrew, as also the lands of Hillington, in Renfrewshire, upon the death of his brother Niel. He m. Martha, dau. of Peter Murdoch, Esq. of Rosehill, Renfrewshire, lord provost of Glasgow, by whom he had issue,

I. Peter; II. GEORGE, successively of Auchintorlie.
III. ANDREW, of Ardinconnal, and heir of destination of Auchintorlie, of whom presently.
I. Mary, m. Alexander Speirs, of Elderslie, co. Renfrew, whose son, Archibald Speirs, represented his native county in parliament for several sessions. He m. Margaret, eldest dau. of Thomas, Lord Dundas, and their second son, Peter, m. Martha, second dau. of Robert-Cunningham Graham, of Gartmore, in Perthshire, and of Finlgsome, in Renfrewshire, which estate, with the armorial bearings of Glencairn, he acquired from his grandfather, William, Earl of Glencairn.

The eldest son and heir,

PETER BUCHANAN, Esq. of Auchintorlie, m. Miss Catherine Macpherson, who, after his death, wedded Sir Ewen Cameron, Bart. of Fassifern, co. Inverness. Dying s. p. Mr. Buchanan was s. by his brother,

GEORGE BUCHANAN, Esq. of Auchintorlie, who was twice m. but had no issue. He left the family estates of Auchintorlie and others in the co. of Dumbarton, and Hillington, in the co. of Renfrew, as before mentioned, to his nephew ARCHIBALD, eldest son of his brother,

ANDREW BUCHANAN, Esq. of Ardinconnal, co. Dumbarton, deputy-lieutenant, and in the commission of the peace for the cos. of Dumbarton and Lanark, in which latter county he possessed the estate of Auchingray and other lands, b. 12 July, 1745, m. 3 July, 1769, Jane, eldest dau. of James Dennistoun, of Colgrain and Dennistoun, or that ilk, and had issue,

I. ARCHIBALD, of Auchintorlie, co. Dumbarton, and Hillington, co. Renfrew. He m. Mary, second dau. of Richard Dennistoun, Esq. of Kelvingrove, co. Lanark, and d. 16 Dec. 1832, leaving issue,
  1. ANDREW, now of Auchintorlie.
  2. Richard-Dennistoun.
  1. Christiana. 2. Jane. 3. Mary. 4. Isabella. 5. Georgina. 6. Archina.
II. James, of Ardinconnal, which estate he purchased in 1811 from his father, who retained the life-rent of the House of Ardinconnal and a considerable part of the estate. He also purchased superiorities of considerable value in the counties of Dumbarton, Stirling, Caithness, and Renfrew. He is a deputy-lieut., and in the commission of the peace for the counties of Dumbarton, Lanark, and Caithness. He sold, in 1827, his interest in the estate of Ardinconnal, having previously settled the life-rent of Blairvadock House and adjoining grounds on his wife. He m. Lady Janet Sinclair, eldest dau. of James, twelfth Earl of Caithness, and has issue,
  1. ANDREW, attached to H. B. M. embassy to the United States of America.
  1. Helen-John Sinclair, m. to William-Wootton Abney, Esq. of Measham Hall, co. Leicester.

BULTEEL OF FLEET AND LYNEHAM.

BULTEEL, JOHN-CROCKER, Esq. of Fleet and Lyneham, co. Devon, s. his father; m. 13 May, 1826, Lady Elizabeth Grey, second dau. of Charles, Earl Grey, and has issue. Mr Bulteel formerly sat in parliament for South Devon, and was high-sheriff in 1841.

Lineage.

The Crokers or Crockers, of Lyneham, were so ancient in the county of Devon, that there is an old proverbial distich, or, as Prince calls it, "old saw," recording its antiquity:—

"Croker, Crewys, and Copplestone,
When the Conqueror came, were at home."

The Crockers, who were originally seated at Crocker's Hele, and Crockern Tor, in Devon, became possessed, in the reign of HENRY IV., of Lyneham, by marriage with the heiress of Churchill, of that place. Their genealogy is preserved with singular accuracy by Prince, Risdon, Pole, and other county historians, as well as by numerous pedigrees and documents. There were no less than eleven John Crockers in almost uninterrupted succession, but the last male of the elder branch was

COURTENAY CROCKER, Esq. of Lyneham, son and heir of John Crocker, Esq., b. in 1610, by Jane, his wife, dau. of Sir John Pole, and grandson of John Crocker, Esq. of Lyneham, who was eldest son of Hugh Crocker, of Lyneham, who m. about 1580, Agnes, dau. of Banfield, of Banfield. Courtenay Crocker d. in 1740, leaving a dau. and heir,

MARY CROCKER, who m. James Bulteel, Esq.,* and carried the estate of Lyneham into the Bulteel family. Their grandson,

BULWER OF HEYDON.

BULWER, WILLIAM-EARLE-LYTTON, Esq. of Heydon Hall, co. Norfolk, b. 28th April, 1799; m. 1st, 11th Dec. 1827, Emily, youngest dau. of General Gascoyne, late M.P. for Liverpool, and by her (who is deceased) has issue,

I. WILLIAM-GASCOYNE, b. 1 Jan. 1829.
II. Edward-Gascoyne, b. in Dec. 1830.
III. Henry-Ernest.
I. Emily-Rose. II. Elizabeth-Maude.
III. Mary-Eleanor.

Mr. Bulwer m. 2ndly, in 1841, Elizabeth, dau. of William Green, Esq. of Forty Hill, Enfield.

Lineage.

The family of Bulwer, of Norman origin, was founded at the time of the CONQUEST, by TYRUS or TUROLD DE DALLING, who is enfeoffed of the lordships of Wood Dalling, and Bynham, by Peter de Valoins, who held those lands from the CONQUEROR. When the Lord Valoins established the priory of Bynham, this Turold gave two parts of his tithes to that establishment, and his son, SIR RALPH DE DALLING, granted in some years after to the monks of the same monastery, the churches of Wood Dalling and of Little Ryburgh, with lands in each parish.

WILLIAM BULWER, Esq. of Wood Dalling, co. Norfolk, last male representative of this very ancient family, d. s. p. in 1775, having bequeathed all his manors and estates to (the son of his sister Sarah, wife of Rice Wiggett, Esq.) his nephew,

WILLIAM WIGGETT, Esq. who m. in 1756, Mary, eldest dau. of Augustine Earle, Esq. of Heydon, (a lineal descendant, on the male side, of Erasmus Earle, distinguished in CROMWELL'S time, and one of the commissioners at the Treaty of Uxbridge, and on the female side from Thomas, Lord Coventry, keeper of the Great Seal, &c. &c.) and eventually co-heir to her brother, Erasmus Earle, by whom he had issue, WILLIAM-EARLE, his heir; Augustine, John, Frances, Mary, and Sarah. Mr. Wiggett assumed in 1756 the surname of BULWER, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his uncle. He was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM-EARLE BULWER, Esq. of Heydon Hall, a brigadier-general officer in the army, and colonel of the 106th foot, who espoused Elizabeth, dau. and sole heiress of Richard Warburton Lytton, Esq. of Knebworth Park, in Hertfordshire, and had three sons, viz.,

WILLIAM-EARLE-LYTTON, his heir.
Henry-Lytton, secretary of Embassy at Paris.
Edward-Lytton (Sir), created a BARONET in 1838. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

He m. 2ndly, 11 Feb. 1840, Hessie, dau. of the Rev. Alexander M'Clintock, 2nd son of the late John M'Clintock, of Drumcar, co. Louth, Esq.

Mr. Hussey-Burgh, who s. his father 7 May, 1830, is a magistrate for co. Kildare, and served the office of sheriff in 1839-40.

Lineage.

The family of De Burgh, or Burke, has, since the reign of HENRY II., been esteemed one of the most distinguished and powerful of the Anglo-Norman settlers in Ireland, under STRONGBOW. It held, by conquest and regal grant, whole territories in the cos. Galway, Mayo, Roscommon, Tipperary, and Limerick; and so extended were its possessions, that its very cadets became persons of wealth, and were founders of distinguished houses themselves.

ADELM DE BURGH, ancestor of all the Burghs and Burkes established in Ireland, was father of two sons,

I. HUBERT, father of the celebrated HUBERT DE BURGH, Earl of Kent, JUSTICIARY OF ENGLAND, temp. HENRY III., who m. 1st, Joan, dau. of William de Vernon, Earl of Devon; 2ndly, Beatrix, dau. of William de Warren, of Weringay, co. Norfolk; 3rdly, Isabel, dau. and co-heir of William, Earl of Gloucester; and, 4thly, Margaret, dau. of WILLIAM, King of Scotland. His lordship was father of SIR HUBERT DE BURGH, whose son, WILLIAM DE BURGH, summoned to parliament 1 EDWARD III., had with an elder son, JOHN, ancestor of the LORDS BURGH of Gainsborough, a younger son, SIR HUGH DE BURGH, Knt., who m. Elizabeth, sister and heir of Foulk, Lord of Mawddwy, in Merioneth, granddau. of William, living 17 EDWARD I., fourth son of Griffith ap Gwenwynwyn, Prince of Powys-Wenwynwyn. (See HUGHES of GWERCLAS.) By this lady Sir Hugh had a son and heir, SIR JOHN DE BURGH, Lord of Mawddwy, who m. Joan, dau. and co-heir of Sir William Clopton, Knt. of Clopton, co. Warwick, and Radbrook, co. Gloucester, and left four daus., his co-heirs, viz.,
   1. ELIZABETH, m. to Thomas Newport, Esq. of High Ercall, co. Salop, ancestor of the NEWPORTS, EARLS OF BRADFORD.
   2. ANCREDA, m. to John Leighton, Esq. of Stratton, and, jure uxoris, of Watlesborough, co. Salop, ancestor of the present SIR BALDWIN LEIGHTON, Bart. of Watlesborough.
   3. ISABEL, m. to Sir John Lingeyne, of Lingeyne and Sutton, co. Hereford, and, jure uxoris, of Radbrook, co. Gloucester, ancestor of Robert Lingen, Esq. of Sutton Court and Radbrook, who assumed the surname of BURTON. (See BURTON OF LONGNER and RADBROOK.)
   4. ELEANOR, m. to Thomas Mytton, Esq., M.P. for Shrewsbury in 1472, jure uxoris, Lord of the Barony of Mawddwy, ancestor of—1. The MYTTONS of HALSTON, co. Salop, Lords of the Barony of Mawddwy, (see MYTTON OF HALSTON;) 2. the Myttons of Garth and Pen-y-lan, co. Montgomery, (see that name;) and, 3. MUTTON, SIR PETER, of Llanerch Park, co. Denbigh, whose dau. and co-heir, ANNE MUTTON, of Llanerch Park, m. ROBERT DAVIES, of Gwysaney, co. Flint, Esq., and from this marriage derived the DAVIES'S of Gwysaney, and the present OWEN DAVIES, of Eton House, co. Kent, Esq. (See DAVIES OF GWYSANEY, under COOKE OF OWSTON.)

II. WILLIAM FITZ-ADELME.

The second son of Adelme de Burgh,

WILLIAM FITZ ADELME DE BURGH, was ancestor of the noble houses of CLANRICARDE, MAYO, &c., and of the various families of DE BURGH, BURGH, and BURKE. The representative of the BURGHS of Dromkeen,

THE REV. ULYSSES BURGH, of Drumkeen, co. Limerick, son of Richard Burgh or Burke, of Drumkeen, Esq., was consecrated Bishop of Ardagh, in 1692. He m. Mary, dau. of William Kingsmill, Esq., of Ballibeg, co. Cork, and had issue,

I. RICKARD, of Drumkeen, in holy orders, prebendary of Kilbragh, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of — Griffin, Esq. of London, and by her, who d. in 1716, left at his decease, with daus. of whom the eldest, Mary, m. Lloyd, of Castle Lloyd, two sons,

Mary-Meliscent, m. 22 March, 1831, to the Rev. William Smith, of Dunstan Hall, near Chesterfield, co. Derby, and has issue, two sons and two daus., viz., William-Broughton, Edmund-Mower, Elizabeth-Mary, and Charlotte-Meliscent.

Mr. Pegge-Burnell, whose patronymic was STEADE, s. to the estates and representation of the latter ancient family, on the death of his brother, the late Captain Thomas Steade, of Beauchieff Abbey, in 1796; and on inheriting from his maternal uncle, Peter Pegge-Burnell, Esq. of Winkbourn Hall, Notts, all that gentleman's landed estates, he assumed, by royal licence, in 1836, the surnames and arms of PEGGE-BURNELL. He is in the commission of the peace for the counties of York, Nottingham, and Derby: for the last, he is a deputy-lieutenant, and served the office of sheriff in 1839.

Lineage.

The first mention we have of the family of Steade, living at, or being possessed of Onesacre, in the co. of York, where stands the old family mansion, appears, says Dr. Hunter, in some old writings of the time of EDWARD III. between 1326 and 1377.

JOHN DE LA STEDE, resided, according to several ancient deeds, at Onesacre, in 1417, as did his immediate successors, Thomas, John, John, and Nicholas de la Stede.

NICHOLAS STEADE espoused Mary Revel, and was s. by his son,

NICHOLAS STEADE, who m. in 1581, his cousin, Elizabeth Steade, and dying in March, 1619, was s. by his son, NICHOLAS STEADE, Esq., who marrying in 1619, Frances Brighton, left at his decease, in 1623, a son and successor.

THOMAS STEADE, Esq. who was himself s. in 1686, by his son,

NICHOLAS STEADE, Esq., who m. in 1699, Mary, dau. of William Milner, Esq. of Burton Grange, in the co. of York, and sister to Mrs. Beaumont, from whom derived the Beaumonts of Bretton Hall, in Yorkshire. By her, who d. in 1715, he left a son and heir,

THOMAS STEADE, Esq., who m. in 1696, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Creswick, Esq. of Burrowlee House, co. York, and dying in 1739, was s. by his son,

NICHOLAS STEADE, Esq., who m. in 1728, Anne, dau. of Benjamin Micklethwaite, Esq., Ardsley, co. York, and left at his decease, in 1760, a son,

THOMAS STEADE, Esq. b. in 1728, who m. in 1768, Meliscent, dau. of Strelley Pegge, Esq. of Beauchieff Abbey, (and sister of the late Peter Pegge, of Winkbourne Hall, who devised his estates to his nephew, the present Mr. Pegge-Burnell,) and had issue,

THOMAS, his successor.
BROUGHTON-BENJAMIN, present representative.

Mr. Steade d. in 1793, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS STEADE, Esq., capt. in the 21st light dragoons, at whose decease unm. in 1796, at Cape Nicholas Mole, St. Domingo, the family estates and representation devolved upon his brother, the present BROUGHTON-BENJAMIN PEGGE-BURNELL, Esq. of Beauchieff Abbey.

Arms—Quarterly: 1st and 4th, per fesse, indented, or and arg., a lion, rampant, sa., a bordure, gu., charged with eight plates, for BURNELL; 2nd and 3rd, arg., a chev., between three wedges, sa., for PEGGE. (See BURKE'S General Armory.)

Crest—A lion's gamb, erect and erased, sa., in the paw a bunch of violets, ppr., for BURNELL; the sun rising in splendour, the rays alternately, sa., or, and arg., for PEGGE.

Matthew, b. in 1811, A.M., in holy orders, a magistrate for Northumberland.

Mr. Burrell has been an acting justice of the peace for Northumberland since the 8th Oct. 1801, and a deputy-lieutenant since 1796; he was high-sheriff in 1811. He s. to the family estates, upon the death of his father, 3 Nov. 1806.

Lineage.

The Burrells are of very ancient date upon the borders of England and Scotland, particularly in that district formerly known by the name of the East Marches; their names occur in various records of the times and in family muniments, as Boraille, Borell, Burwell, but now generally Burrell.

The Burrells, of the town or vill of Howtell, in the parish of Kirknewton, were an old family in this parish, and were the same as the Burrells of Milfield, in that parish, from whom Mr. Burrell is lineally descended; they both used the "Burrell porch," in Kirknewton Church, as their common burial place.

The town of Berwick-upon-Tweed, the chief town connected with East Marches, was the principal place of residence of the Burrells; and they have been found to be settled there so early as the year 1250.

THOMAS BURRELL, Esq. of Milfield and of Broomepark, b. 1654, son of Ralph Burrell, Esq, of Milfield, and great-grandson of Thomas Burrell, of Milfield, living temp. ELIZABETH, s. to his paternal property at Milfield in 1668, and in 1687, to his uncle Thomas's estates of Broomepark and Abberwick. He m. 1 July, 1680, Martha, dau. of George Reveley, of Newton Underwood and Thropple, and dying in 1700, left fifteen children. The fourth son,

THE REV. WILLIAM BURRELL, A.M., vicar of Chatton, in the co. of Northumberland, from 1713 to 1752, s. to the family estates upon the death of his brother Robert, in July, 1751. He was b. 25 Jan. 1687, m. about 1726, Philadelphia, dau. of Bryan Grey, Esq. of Kyloe. He died, and was buried in his own church at Chatton, 14 Jan. 1752, leaving two sons and two daughters, BRYAN, his heir; Robert, d. s. p. in 1751; Martha, d. unm. in 1806; and Frances, m. to Robert Smart, Esq. of Hobberlaw. The eldest son,

BRYAN BURRELL, Esq., b. about 1728, A.B., served as high-sheriff for the county in 1768. He m. in May, 1771, Mary, dau. of Henry Partridge, of King's Lynn, afterwards of Northwold, in Norfolk, and by her (who died 12 July, 1778, aged twenty-eight) he left at his decease, 3 Nov. 1806, aged seventy-eight, two sons, WILLIAM, now of Broomepark; and Henry, A.M., barrister-at-law, one of the principal secretaries of Lord Eldon, d. in 1814.

Arms—Or, a saltier, gu., between four leaves, vert, on a chief, az., a lion's head, erased, between two battle-axes, ppr.
Crest—An arm, armed, ppr., holding a bunch of burdock, vert.
Motto—Adhæreo.
Seats—Broomepark, Glen Allan, and Bolton House, in Northumberland.

BURROUGHES OF BURLINGHAM.

BURROUGHES, HENRY-NEGUS, Esq. of Burlingham Hall, Norfolk, b. 8 Feb. 1791; m. 25 Aug. 1818, Jane-Sarah, dau. of the Rev. Dixon Hoste, rector of Titteshall cum Godwick, and sister of Sir William Hoste, Bart., and has issue,

JAMES-BURKIN, b. in 1819. Henry-Negus, b. in 1821.
William, b. in 1827.
Jane. Mary.

Mr. Burroughes was high-sheriff for Norfolk in 1817, and is M.P. for East Norfolk.

Lineage.

The family of Burroughes, of old standing in Norfolk, have been extensive landowners in that and the neighbouring county of Suffolk.

JEREMIAH BURROUGHES, Esq., wedded Diana, sister and co-heir of James Burkin, Esq. of Burlingham, in the co. of Norfolk, and had a son and successor,

JEREMIAH BURROUGHES, Esq., who m. Diana, dau. and heiress of R. Randall, Esq. of Wymondham, in Norfolk, and had three sons, viz., JAMES, his heir; Randall (see BURROUGHES OF LONG STRATTON); Thomas, who d. at an early age, leaving one son and one daughter,

Thomas, who m. Mary, dau. and heiress of the Rev. R. Masters, of Cambridgeshire.
Elizabeth, m. to T. Norgate, M.D., of Ashfield, in Suffolk.

The eldest son,

JAMES-BURKIN BURROUGHES, Esq. of Burlingham Hall, b. 16 March, 1760, m. in 1789, Christabel, dau. and heiress of Henry Negus, Esq. of Hoveton Hall, in Norfolk, and had issue, HENRY-NEGUS, his heir; Jeremiah, in holy orders, who m. in 1828, Pleasance, dau. of the late Sir Thomas Preston, Bart.; William; and Mary, m. to Lieut.-Col. Sir George-Charles Hoste, brother of the late Sir William Hoste, Bart. Mr. Burroughes d. 30 Nov. 1803, and was s. by his eldest son, HENRY-NEGUS BURROUGHES, Esq. of Burlingham.

BURROUGHES OF LONG STRATTON.

BURROUGHES, THE REV. ELLIS, of the Manor House, Long Stratton, Norfolk, b. 17 Jan. 1797; m. 16 Sept. 1823, Elizabeth-Phillips, eldest dau. of Lieutenant-General Sir Francis Wilder, late M.P. for Arundel, and has

I. ELLIS. II. Randall-Robert.
I. Frances-Sarah.

Mr. Burroughes, who s. his father in Dec. 1831, is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Norfolk.

Lineage.

This branch of the family of BURROUGHES, representing that of ELLIS of Kiddall, we shall detail the latter until it merges in the former.

The ELLISES came originally with WILLIAM of Normandy into England, and received grants and manors from that monarch in Yorkshire and Lincolnshire. In the reign of RICHARD I.,

ARCHIBALD ELLYS distinguished himself in Palestine, and in consequence of capturing a Saracen Princess, assumed the crest afterwards borne by the family.

WILLIAM ELLYS, circa 1218, assisted at the siege of Newark Castle, and served in the royal army against the Earl of Albemarle. The supposed son of this William,

SIR THOMAS ELLYS, was slain about 1265, in a battle at Northampton. He was father of

SIR WILLIAM ELLYS, who appears to have held "the hall and manors of Kyd-hall" in 1295, and to have "done good service" at Dunbar, with EDWARD I. About the year 1340,

SIR W. ELLYS (probably a son) is mentioned among certain knights who accompanied EDWARD III. to France. He d. at Kyd-hall about 1363, and was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM ELLIS, who m. in 1371, Joan, dau. and heir of Adam Everingham, BARON EVERINGHAM, and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN ELLIS, who took up arms against RICHARD II., and fled to France, where he m. Rosalie St. Leger or Legard, and d. in exile, leaving a son,

SIR JOHN ELLIS, father of

SIR THOMAS RICHARD ELLIS, who, in 1408, levied troops in Yorkshire, with Sir Thomas Rokeby, and defeated the Earl of Northumberland. Sir Thomas m. Anne, dau. of Walter Calverly, of Calverly, in Yorkshire, and had, with a daughter, Ellen, m. to Michael Fawkes, Esq. of Farneley, a son,

SIR WILLIAM ELLIS, of Kiddall, who m. Joanna, dau. of William Percheyhay, Esq. of Ryton, and had issue, HENRY; William, who m. Alice, dau. of Mr. Vavasour, on the Wolds; and Anne, m. J. Moor, Esq. of Austrorp. The elder son,

SIR HENRY ELLIS, of Kidhall, living temp. EDWARD IV., m. Anne, dau. of John Gascoigne, Esq. of Lazingcroft, and was slain at Bosworth Field, leaving a son,

SIR WILLIAM ELLIS, who did good service, temp. HENRY VII., against the rebels in Yorkshire. His son,

SIR JOHN-GASCOIGNE ELLIS, of Kidhall, joined the royal standard at Nottingham, and was grievously wounded at Edge Hill. He m. Mary, dau. of Martin Anne, Esq. of Frickley, and had issue, JOHN, Nicholas, Martin, Henry, Robert, Richard, Francis, Thomas, Gervais; Anne, m. to Thomas Barley, of Ecclesfield; Frances; and Mary, m. to Bryan Babthorp, of Babthorp.

JOHN ELLIS, of Kidhall, son and heir, m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Plompton, Esq., and had (with a dau.

Mary, m. 1st, to Sir Anthony Chester, Bart. of Chichley, co. Bucks, and 2ndly, to Samuel Lodington, Esq.) three sons, WILLIAM, Henry, and Charles. Sir John and his son Charles fell at Marston Moor in the cause of King CHARLES, and Henry was wounded at Wigan Lane, and d. in the hands of rebels. The eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM ELLIS, of Kidhall, "was sore wounded on Lansdown Hill, with Sir Bevil Granvil and other loyal cavaliers." He m. Mary, dau. of A. Austen, Esq., and was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM ELLIS, of Kidhall, who m. Anne, dau. of Thomas Golepepper, Esq. of Perton, co. Hants, and was s. at his decease (he was slain at the siege of Charlemont, in Ireland) by his son,

WILLIAM ELLIS, Esq. of Kidhall, m. Mary, dau. of Sir William Lowther, of Swillington, who d. in 1687, and aunt of the first Earl of Lonsdale. By this lady he had issue,

I. WILLIAM, his heir. II. John.
III. HENRY, ancestor of VISCOUNT CLIFDEN.
I. Mary.
II. Jane, m. to the Rev. Mr. Mosley, rector of Roleston.

The eldest son and successor,

WILLIAM ELLIS, Esq. of Kidhall, m. Mary, dau. of Dutton Seaman, Esq. of Westminster, and had issue, JOHN, William, Henry, Charles, Mary, Annabell, and Catherine-Mildred, and was s. by the eldest,

JOHN ELLIS, Esq. of Kidhall, who joined the Earl of Derwentwater in 1715, and lost his life. He m. a dau. of J. Butterfield, Esq. of Leeds, and had two sons, William and Charles, of whom the elder,

WILLIAM ELLIS, Esq. of Kidhall, served with the Duke of Cumberland, and was on the Duke's staff at Culloden. He m. Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of T. Bourn, of Mattingley, co. Hants, and had issue an only daughter and heiress,

ELIZABETH-MARIA ELLIS, who m. RICHARD BURROUGHES, Esq. of Long Stratton, in Norfolk, second son of Jeremiah Burroughes, Esq., (see BURROUGHES OF BURLINGHAM,) and had (with two daus., Elizabeth-Maria, m. to the Rev. J. Ward, D.D., and Diana, m. to the Rev. W. Walford, A.M.) an only son,

THE REV. ELLIS BURROUGHES, of Long Stratton, who m. in 1795, Sarah-Nasmyth, only dau. of Robert Marsh, Esq., and had issue, ELLIS, his heir; Walter, and Randall-Ellis. He d. in 1831, and was s. by his eldest son, the present REV. ELLIS BURROUGHES, of Long Stratton.

Arms—Arg., two chevrons between three chaplets, vert, quartering, ELLIS. (See BURKE's General Armory.)
Crest—A griffin's head, erased, arg., charged with two chevrons, vert.
Motto—Animo et fide: the Ellis motto is, "Huic habeo non tibi."
Seat—Stratton House, Norfolk.

BURROWES OF STRADONE HOUSE.

BURROWES, ROBERT, Esq. of Stradone House, co. Cavan, b. 19 March, 1810; m. 16 Oct. 1838, Anne-Frances, only dau. of the late John Carden, Esq. of Barnane, co. Tipperary, and has issue, Frances-Susan.

Mr. Burrowes is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant, and filled the office of high-sheriff in 1838.

Lineage.

This family was first established in Ireland by Robert Borowes, who settled at Drumlane, co. Cavan, on the settlement of Ulster by King JAMES I. This Robert Borowes's eldest son and heir,

THOMAS BOROWES, became possessed of Stradone, of which estate he also received a patent of confirmation from King CHARLES I., A.D. 1638.

THOMAS BURROWES, Esq. of Stradone House, (great-grandfather of the present proprietor,) m. Jane, dau. of Thomas Nesbitt, Esq. of Lismore House, co. Cavan, and had issue, viz., ROBERT, Thomas, and Arnold, and two daughters, Martha and Jane. The eldest son,

ROBERT BURROWES, Esq. of Stradone House, m. Sophia, dau. of the Rev. Joseph Stovy, Archdeacon of Kilmore, and by her had (with four daughters, viz., Jane, Anne, Frances, and Sophia) a son and heir,

THOMAS BURROWES, Esq. of Stradone House, who m. in 1807, Susan, dau. of the Rev. Henry Seward, of Badsey, co. Worcester, and had issue,

ROBERT, now of Stradone.
James-Edward, b. in Nov. 1820.
Honora-Seward, m. in 1834, to the Hon. Thomas Leslie.

Arms—Or, on a cross, gu., five mullets, arg., in the chief quarters, two lions, passant, sa, crowned and langued, gu.
Crest—A lion, sejant, guardant, sa., crowned, or, langued, gu.
Motto—Non vi sed virtute.
Seat—Stradone House, co. Cavan.

BURTON OF LONGNER.

BURTON, ROBERT, Esq. of Longner Hall, co Salop, b. in 1796; m. 1st, 1 Nov. 1821, Catherine, second dau. of William Walcot, Esq. of the Moor Hall, co. Salop, by whom (who d. in 1830) he has a dau., Jemima-Anne, and 2ndly, 6 Aug. 1835, Catherine, eldest dau. of the Rev. Herbert Oakeley, D.D. of Oakeley, by whom he has issue, ROBERT-LINGEN, b. 23 Oct. 1836; Robert-Henry-Lingen, b. in 1841; Robert-Edward-Lingen, b. in 1842; and Constance-Lingen.

Lineage.

The Burtons of Longner, in Shropshire, are by some conjectured to have come out of Yorkshire; and there are traditionary accounts of their descent from Lionel, Duke of Clarence, by Alice Burton, and of their possessing Burton Constable, in Yorkshire, which was sold to Lord Scrope, in the reign of EDWARD III. But these facts are not well substantiated, while there is abundant proof of their having been seated for many centuries in Shropshire. One antiquary, viz., William Burton, B.L., in his Commentary on Antoninus's Itinerary, says, "they were of Shropshire, a family sometime for no ordinary relations, very gracious with the several princes of the royal house of York;" and another (Browne Willis, Esq., M.P., of Whaddon, Bucks) tells us that "they were a family of great antiquity, being possessors of Longner in the time of EDWARD IV., and before that being seated at Burton, or Boerton, in the parish of Condover, Shropshire." The name was anciently written, de Burton, de Borton, de Burghton, Beorton, and Burton. By the Ledger book of Haghman Abbey, now in possession of the Corbets of Sundorne, Shropshire, Roger de Burton gave to Haghman Abbey, all the lands given his father, Thomas de Burton, on his marriage with the daughter of the Lord of Codarcote.

SIR EDWARD BURTON, of Longner, representative of the family, "was with King EDWARD IV. successful in fourteen set battles, between the houses of York and Lancaster; and for his great royalty (loyalty?) and service he was made knight-banneret, under the royal standard in the field," A.D. 1460. His son,

SIR ROBERT BURTON, Knt., had the first grant of arms, dated May 22, 1478: he m. Christian Stapleton, dau. and heir of Sir John Stapleton, Knt. of Stapleton, and relict of Robert Cressett, of Upton Cressett, by whom he had a son,

EDWARD BURTON, who d. 23 April, 1524, and was buried at St. Chadd's, Shrewsbury. Some of the records and pedigrees style him Sir Edward Burton, Knight, and some, Groom of the Stole to HENRY VII.; but a handsome alabaster stone to his memory and that of his wife, Jocosa Coyney, removed to Atcham Church on the fall of St. Chadd's, 1788, simply calls him "Edwardus Burton." By his first wife, Joyce, dau. to Harry Griffin, Esq., he had a son,

JOHN BURTON, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Poyner, Esq., and d. Oct. 22, 1543, leaving a son,

EDWARD BURTON, b. in 1510, who m. Ann, dau. and co-heir of Nicholas Madocks, Esq. of Wem, Coton, and Whixhall, Salop. This Edward Burton was a zealous Protestant in the days of Queen MARY, and on that account essayed many hair-breadth escapes. He d. in 1558, and left a son and successor,

THOMAS BURTON, Esq. of Longner, b. in 1542, who m. Catherine, dau. and co-heir of William Biest, Esq. of Atcham Grange, and d. in 1619, leaving a son,

EDWARD BURTON, Esq. of Longner, who m. in 1601, Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Francis Newton, of Heightley, and d. in 1642, when he was s. by his son,

FRANCIS BURTON, Esq. of Longner, who m. Catherine, dau. of Jacob and Catherine Walton, of Doveridge, in the co. of Derby, and Fail, in the co. of Stafford, and d. in 1680, leaving a son,

THOMAS BURTON, Esq. of Longner, justice of the great sessions for North Wales, b. in 1637, who d. 24th, and was buried at Atcham 27 April, 1695; he m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Berkeley, Esq. of Spetchley and Ravenshill, in the co. of Worcester, and by her, who d. in 1693, had (with seven daughters, Ann, m. to Sir Walter Wrottesley, Bart.; Elizabeth, m. to Joseph Jones, Esq. of Chilton; Catharine, m. to Thomas Wright, Esq.; Mary, who d. unm. in 1739; Isabella, m. to Thomas Hutchinson, Esq. of Owthorpe, Notts; Penelope, who d. in 1691; and another dau., m. to John Vanderbembe, Esq. of Westminster) three sons, who all d. s. p. except the eldest,

ROBERT BURTON, Esq. of Longner, sheriff of Salop, 1709, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Martin Ballard, Esq. of Evesham, and had issue,

I. THOMAS, his heir.

I. ANNE, b. in 1702, m. THOMAS LINGEN, Esq., of Sutton Court, Herefordshire, and of Radbrook, Gloucestershire, and d. in 1737, leaving, with other issue, a son, ROBERT LINGEN, of whom presently.

Mr. Burton d. in 1725, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS BURTON, Esq. of Longner, who was b. in 1705, and d. at Shrewsbury in 1730. His nephew,

ROBERT LINGEN, b. in 1725, assumed the name of BURTON, pursuant to the will of his great-uncle, Thomas Burton, by act of parliament, 1748. He m. 7 June, 1748, Anne, dau. of Thomas Hill, Esq. of Tern Hall, by whom (who d. in 1771) he had issue,

I. ROBERT, his heir.

II. Henry, b. in 1755, vicar of Atcham, of Madeley, and for some time of the Holy Cross and St. Giles, all in Shropshire, d. 16 Jan. 1831, leaving issue by his wife, Mary, dau. of William Gittins, Esq., of Chilton, co. Salop.
  1. ROBERT, heir to his uncle.
  2. Henry, M.A., rector of Upton Cressett, and vicar of Atcham, and of Condover, Salop.
  1. Anne. 2. Elizabeth-Blanche.

III. Edward, b. in 1756, d. 18 April, 1827, leaving by his wife, Dorothy-Eliza, dau. of Joshua Blakeway, Esq. of Lythwood, co. Salop. surviving issue,
  1. Edward, b. in 1794, m. in 1825, Helen, dau of the Rev. Joseph Corbett, D.D., of Longnor, Archdeacon of Salop, and d. without issue, 19 Jan. 1836.
  2. Robert-Lingen, M.A., vicar of the Holy Cross and St. Giles's, Shrewsbury, m. 1st, in 1829, Everilda, dau. of the Rev. Rigbye Rigbye, of Harrock Hall, co. Lancaster, which lady d. 22 April, 1833; and 2ndly, in 1835, Mary-Anne-Elizabeth, dau. of the Rev. C.-Pyne Coffin, of Eastdown House, co. Devon, and relict of the Rev. Orlando-Hamlyn Williams, of Clovelly, in the same shire, by whom he has a son, Edward-Lingen, b. 1836.
  1. Anna-Maria, m. in 1821, to the Rev. Charles-Gregory Wade, rector of Hanwood. 2. Anne.

IV. John.

I. Mary, d. in 1775.

II. Anna-Maria, m. in 1776, Edmund Plowden, of Plowden, co. Salop.

Mr. Burton served the office of sheriff of Salop in 1763, and dying in 1803, was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT BURTON, Esq. of Longner, high-sheriff of Shropshire in 1804, who m. in 1798, Rose, second dau. and co-heir of John Smitheman, Esq. of Little Wenlock, and dying s. p. in 1841, was s. by his nephew, the present ROBERT BURTON, Esq. of Longner Hall.

 From a younger dau. of BURTON OF LONGNER derives the noble house of CONYNGHAM.

Martha-Anne. Elizabeth-Christiana.

Mr. Byam served in the 15th Hussars in the south of France, and afterwards at Waterloo, where he was wounded.

Lineage.

The family of Byam consists of two branches descended from two brothers, the sons of Wm. Byam, a distinguished Royalist, who was engaged on the King's side throughout the whole of the civil wars in the West of England, and afterwards became Governor of Surinam, viz., Col. Willoughby Byam, who commanded the body-guard at the capture of St. Christopher, in 1690, and d. of his wounds there received, and Edward Byam, Governor of the Leeward Islands, who, surviving to an advanced age, d. in 1741: the former being now represented by WM. BYAM, Esq., of Cedar Hill, in Antigua, and of Westwood, in Hampshire, and the latter by the Rev. RICHARD-BURGH BYAM, Vicar of Kew and Petersham, in Surrey. The arms borne by these gentlemen are of the most remote antiquity, remounting to a period as far back as family ensigns can at all be deduced, being distinctly traced to Cynwillin, the son of Rhys Goch, living in the reign of our WILLIAM RUFUS, as appears by the records preserved for many ages at Llantarnam Abbey, in Monmouthshire, and copied by Dr. Enderbie, into his Annals of Cambria; the only difference in this case being, that the dragon's head was borne in that remote age singly, whereas there are now three in number, as borne by the present representatives of the family, and as allowed, by Sir Richard St. George and Sampson Lennard, the heralds, who made the visitation of Somersetshire, in 1623, to their ancestor, who is described on a handsome monument, still extant to his memory in Luckham Church, as descended "ex antiquissimâ familiâ Byamorum:" his property was in that and the neighbouring parishes of Porlock, Dunster, Carhampton, and Stoke Pero, a considerable part of which was sequestrated by the parliament, and otherwise dissipated by the devotion of the Byams to the cause of King CHARLES.

WILLIAM BYAM, b. 9 March, 1623, (2nd son of the Rev. Edward Byam, precentor of Cloyne, and grandson of the Rev. Lawrence Byam, of Luccombe, co. Somerset, who descended from Mainerch, Lord of Brecknock, who derived from CARADOC VRAICH VRAS, Earl of Hereford, Lord of Radnor, &c.) m. Dorothy, dau. of Francis Knollys, of Standford-in-the-Vale, co. Berks, Esq., by Alice, his wife, sister and co-heir of Sir William Beecher, Knt, and granddau. of Richard, brother and heir of William Knollys, 1st Earl of Banbury. This gentleman was Governor of Surinam, whence, on its being ceded to the Dutch, in 1667, he removed to Antigua, where he had grants of lands, and where he d., leaving, with other issue,

I. WILLOUGHBY, his heir.
II. Edward, Governor of the Leeward Islands, and President of the council of Antigua in 1707, m. twice, and had issue by each marriage. By the first marriage with Mary Winthorpe he had a son, Edward, and a dau., Mary, wife of Colonel Thomas Williams, son of Rowland Williams, Lieut.-Gov. of Antigua. By his second wife, Lydia, widow of Samuel Martin, Esq. of Green Castle, and aunt of Sir George Thomas, Bart., he left at his decease, 4th Dec. 1741, with two daus., Alice, m. to Robert Freeman, of Antigua, and Lydia, m. to her cousin, Edward Byam, of Cedar Hill, as hereafter, three sons,
  1. George, of Antigua, b. 24 April, 1704, m. Henrietta-Maria, dau. of Col. John Frye, of Antigua, and d. in 1734, leaving, with other issue, a son, George, of Apps Court, co. Surrey, who m. Louisa, dau. of Peter Bathurst, Esq., M.P., of Clarendon Park, co. Wilts, and niece of Earl Bathurst, and by her had a son, George, d. 1774, and four daus., 1. Selina, m. to the Rev. William Hony, of Liskeard, co. Cornwall, and had issue; 2. Elizabeth, m. to Mark Batt, Esq. of Lawell House, Devon, and d. s. p.; 3. Louisa; and 4. Henrietta, d. unm. The eldest sister of George, of Apps Court, Mary, m. Daniel Mathew, Esq. of Antigua,

CALTHROP OF STANHOE.

CALTHROP, JOHN, Esq. of Stanhoe Hall, co. Norfolk, m. Mary, dau. of John Palmer-Hollway, Esq. of Boston, and has an only dau., MARIETTE. He is a justice of the peace for Norfolk, and deputy-lieutenant of co. Lincoln.

Lineage.

This family derives, collaterally, from Walter, tenth Bishop of Norwich, who d. in 1257, the descendant of Goderick Dapifer, who came over with the CONQUEROR, and had the care of the crown lands in Norfolk, and the third in descent from whom assumed the surname of Calthrop. Sir William Calthrop, or Calthrope, nephew of the Bishop, was named in his will as heir to his estates. He m. Cecilia, dau. and heir of Philip de Burnham, by whom he acquired the estate of Burnham, and had a son, Sir Walter Calthrop, who wedded Ela, dau. and heir of Hervey de Stanhoe, and obtained in her right the lordship of Stanhoe, co. Norfolk, which, together with the manor of Burnham, passed eventually, in 1540, with an heiress, to the Parkers. The before-mentioned SIR WALTER CALTHROP, in addition to his Norfolk estates, possessed also in Lincolnshire the manors and advowsons of Gedney, Quaplode, and Holbeach, together with other lands in that vicinity; and thus, from a very early period, branches of this family have been settled in Norfolk and Lincolnshire, and we find, at a later date, notices of their intermarriages. From a branch of this ancient stock descended the REV. JOHN CALTHROP, who was vicar of Boston and of Kirton, in 1746, prebendary of Lincoln, and a magistrate for the county. He m. Mary, dau. of Benett Dobbs, Esq. of Bucknall, but d. s. p., whereupon a valuable property in that county came to SQUIER CALTHROP, Esq. of Boston, and from him descended to his nephew, the present JOHN CALTHROP, Esq. of Stanhoe Hall. Mr. Calthrop became possessed of Stanhoe Hall, and of a considerable estate in Burnham, (part of the family estates above mentioned, as originally belonging to Sir Walter Calthrop,) by purchase. His brother, the REV. HENRY CALTHROP, is Rector of Braxted, co. Essex, and Prebendary of Lichfield.

Mr. Cameron, who s. his father in Sept. 1832, entered the Grenadier-guards in 1814, and was present at the battle of Waterloo; he retired from the army in 1832, and is a deputy-lieutenant of Argyleshire.

Lineage.

The surname of Cameron is of great antiquity in Scotland, and in ancient times was variously written, viz., Cameron, Cambron, Cambrun. "The Camerons have a tradition among them that they are originally descended of a younger son of the royal family of Denmark, who assisted at the restoration of King FERGUS II., anno 404; but it is more probable that they are of the aborigines of the ancient Scots or Caledonians that first planted the country."*

"The earliest possession of the Camerons"—we quote SKENE'S Highlanders of Scotland—"was that part of Lochaber extending to the east of the loch and river of Lochy, and was held by them of the Lord of the Isles; their more modern possessions of Lochiel and Locharkaig, which lie on the west side of that water, had been granted by the Lord of the Isles to the founder of the clan Ranald, by whose descendants it was inhabited." "Originally the clan Cameron consisted of three septs, the clan Ic Mhartin or MacMartins, of Letterfinlay; the clan Ic Ilonobhy, or Camerons, of Strone; and Sliochd Shoirle Ruaidh, or Camerons of Glenevis."

"The Camerons having, along with the clan Chattan, deserted Alexander, Lord of the Isles, when attacked by JAMES I. in Lochaber, and having subsequently refused to join Donald Balloch in his invasion of Scotland in 1431, that Chief, after his victory at Innerlochy, resolved to revenge himself upon the Camerons, and attacked them with fury. The clan was unable to withstand his attack, and the chief was obliged to fly into Ireland, while the rest of the clan took refuge amongst the most inaccessible parts of the mountain country." When the return of Alexander from captivity had restored some degree of order to his wild dominions,

DONALD DHU, the then Chief of the clan appears to have raised the Camerons from the depressed state into which they had fallen by the vengeance of the Lords of the Isles, and to have re-acquired for the Clan the estates which they had formerly possessed. From Donald Dhu we pass to his descendant,

DONALD CAMERON, of Lochyell, who received from Queen MARY, for his loyalty, a charter confirming to him and his heirs his whole lands and estates, and erecting them de novo into the barony of Lochyell, dated 6 March, 1564. He d. in the beginning of the reign of JAMES VI., leaving by his wife, a dau. of Hector More Maclean, of Dowart, one son,

ALAN CAMERON, of Lochyell, who joined the Earl of Huntly, and fought gallantly at the head of his clan at the battle of Glenlivet, where the king's troops, under the Earl of Argyle, were defeated; for this he was outlawed, and lost a great part of his estate. He had two sons, I. John, who predeceased him, leaving by Margaret, his wife, eldest dau. of Sir Robert Campbell, of Glenurchy, a son, EWEN, successor to his grandfather; and II. Donald, ancestor of the Camerons of Glendessary and Dungallon. The grandson and heir,

SIR EWEN CAMERON, of Lochiel, b. in Feb. 1629, eclipsed in fame all his predecessors, and from a very early age became a stanch adherent of the royal cause. King JAMES VII., with whom he was a great favourite, knighted him with his own hand, when Duke of York and Commissioner to the Parliament of Scotland, in 1681. Sir Ewen, or "Evandhu," as he was called in the Highlands, seems to have possessed an uncommon character, and one of chivalrous features, only equalled, perhaps, by that of his unfortunate grandson, whose share in the insurrection of 1745 is well known. Sir Ewen was the first to join in the insurrection of 1652, in favour of the royal cause, and the last who held out against the power of OLIVER CROMWELL, to whom, in fact, he never fully submitted. He so often defeated the body of troops stationed in Lochaber, and so constantly harassed them, that they were obliged to remain confined in the fortress of Inverlochy, and were at length so desirous to be at peace with him, that a treaty was concluded on terms most honourable to Sir Ewen, and fully respecting his political principles. One circumstance, however, regarding him, which it may be proper to mention, being of more importance than all his exploits, to illustrate the highly chivalrous nature of his character, as well as the impression it had made upon others. The following passage is referred to in one of General Monk's letters: "No oath was required of Lochiel to CROMWELL, but his word of honour to live in peace. He and his clan were allowed to keep their arms, as before the war broke out, they behaving peaceably. Reparation was to be made to Lochiel for the wood cut by the garrison of Inverlochy. A full indemnity was granted for all acts of depredation and crimes committed by his men. Reparation was to be made to his tenants for all the losses they had sustained from the troops." Sir Ewen joined the royal party at Killicranky, although then an old man, and survived till the year 1719, when he d. at the age of ninety. He m. 1st, Mary, dau. of Sir Donald Macdonald, Bart. of Slate, which lady d. s. p., and 2ndly, a dau. of Sir Lauchlan Maclean, of Dowart, by whom he had,

JOHN, his heir.
Donald, major in the service of the States of Holland, d. s. p. 1718.
Alan, d. at Rome, in the service of the Chevalier St. George, leaving three daus., the eldest of whom m. Campbell, of Lochdochart.

Margaret, m. to Alex. Drummond, Esq. of Bathlaldies.
Anne, m. to Alan Maclean, Esq. of Ardgour.
Katharine, m. to William, brother-german of Sir Donald Macdonald, Bart. of Slate.
Janet, m. to Grant, of Glenmoriston.

Sir Ewen m. 3rdly, Jean, dau. of Barclay, of Urie, and by her had issue, a son, Ludovick, m. his cousin, and seven daus., Christian, m. to Alan Cameron, Esq. of Glendessary; Jean, m. to Macpherson, of Clunie; Isabel, m. to Archibald Cameron, of Dungallon; Lucy, m. to Peter Campbell, of Barcaldine; Ket, m. to John Campbell, of Achallader, Esq.; Una, m. to Robert Barclay, Esq. of Urie; and Marjory, m. to Macdonald, of Morar. Sir Ewen Cameron's eldest son,

JOHN CAMERON, of Lochiel, called John Macewen, joined the Earl of Mar in 1715, for which he suffered attainder and forfeiture. He m. Isabel, sister of Sir Duncan Campbell, of Lochnell, and had issue,

DONALD, his heir.
John, of Fassifern, co. Argyll, father of SIR EWEN CAMERON, of Fassifern, who was created a BART. in 1817, in consideration of the services rendered by his gallant son, Col. CAMERON, who fell at Quatre Bras. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage).
Archibald, a physician, was engaged in the rebellion of 1745, made his escape to France, and was a capt. in his brother's regt.; he returned prematurely, in 1753, to Scotland, but was apprehended, sent to London, tried, and executed. By Jean, his wife, dau. of Archibald Cameron, of Dungallon, he left issue, four sons and a dau.

John Cameron d. at Newport, in Flanders, in 1748, and was s. by his eldest son,

DONALD CAMERON, of Lochiel, Captain of the Clan Cameron, who had joined the young Pretender with a considerable body of his men in 1745, and fought at their head on several occasions. After the battle of Culloden, he retired to France, where the king, in regard of his singular merit, gave him command of the regiment of Albany, with the power of naming his own officers. He was thus enabled, though attainted and forfeited, to live according to his rank. He m. Anne, dau. of Sir James Campbell, fifth bart. of Auchinbreck, by whom he left at his death, in 1748,

JOHN, his heir.
James, capt. in the royal regt. of Scots in France, commanded by Lewis Drummond. He d. unm. in 1759.
CHARLES, successor to his brother.
Isabel, m. to Col. Mores, in the French service.
Janet, d. in a convent at Paris.
Henriet, m. to Capt. Portin, of the French service.
Donalda.

The eldest son and heir,

JOHN CAMERON, Esq., of Lochiel, served as captain in his father's regiment, and, after his death, in the Royal Scots. He returned to Scotland in 1759, where he d. in 1762, deeply regretted, and was s. by his only surviving brother,

CHARLES CAMERON, Esq. of Lochiel, father of

DONALD CAMERON, Esq. of Lochiel, who m. in 1795, the Hon. Anne Abercromby, dau. of the gallant Sir Ralph Abercromby, and sister of the late Lord Abercromby, by whom he had issue,

DONALD, his heir.
Alexander, in holy orders, who m. 1 Sept. 1835, Charlotte, dau. of the Hon. Edward Rice, D.D., Dean of Gloucester, and has issue one son and two daus.
Mary-Anne. Matilda.

Lineage.

This is a junior branch of the Lochnell line of the noble House of Argyll, derived immediately from Duncan Campbell, second son of Alexander Campbell, Esq. of Lochnell, grandson of John, second son of Colin, third Earl of Argyll.

Duncan Campbell, first of the family of Jura, was b. in 1596. He was commonly called Donacha Maol, or Bald Duncan, and was a man of eminent parts and great courage, and was appointed 24 Feb. 1650, by his kinsman, the Marquis of Argyll, keeper of the house of Ardmaddie, with the tower and fortalice thereof. In 1666, he received another commission from Archibald, 9th Earl of Argyll, appointing him bailie and chamberlain of the Island of Jura, with the right of forestry and other privileges, having previously held the greatest part of the island under wadsets, granted by the Argyll family, and was universally regarded as the chieftain of Jura. He m. 1st, Mary, dau. of Sir Donald Campbell, of Ardnamurchan, by whom he had several daus., one of whom was m. to Malcolm, of Poltalloch, co. Argyll. The chieftain of Jura m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Hector Maclean, of Torloisk, by whom he had, with several other daus., three sons, viz., John, his successor; Archibald, ancestor of the Campbells of Glendarwl; and Alexander, d. unm. He d. 2 May, 1695, in his ninety-ninth year, and was s. by his eldest son,

John Campbell, Esq., who m. his cousin Catherine, dau. of Colin Campbell, Esq. of Lochnell, by whom he had an only son, Archibald, and several daus., one of whom, Anne, was m. in 1711, to Alexander Campbell, Esq. of Ardslignish, son of Lochnell, ancestor of the present family. He d. 18 July, 1736, aged ninety-five, and was s. by his only son,

Archibald Campbell, Esq., who m. 1st, Barbara, eldest dau. of Archibald Campbell, Esq. of Inveraw, co. Argyll, and had four sons, all of whom d. unm. except the second, Archibald, who s. his father, and several daus. He m. 2ndly, Flora, dau. of Donald Maclachlan, of Maclachlan, co. Argyll, but had no further issue. The only surviving son,

Archibald Campbell, Esq., s. his father in his wadset, baliary, and forestry of Jura, and in 1738 purchased the fee-simple of the lands of Jura. He d. in 1764, and was s. by his third son,

Archibald Campbell, Esq. of Jura, who m. Sarah, dau. of James Campbell, of St. Germains and Tofts, co. East Lothian, and cousin-german to John, first Marquis of Breadalbane, and had issue,

Archibald, lieut.-col. of the 84th foot, who d. unm. in India in 1817, after being engaged in much service. A mausoleum was erected to his memory at Bangalore, by the officers and privates of the regt. he so long commanded.
James, successor to his father.
John-Kirkpatrick, writer to the Signet, who purchased the estate of Glenfeochan, co. Argyll. He m. Mary-Kirkpatrick, only child of Alexander Campbell, Esq., by whom he had one dau. and heiress, Mary-Kirkpatrick-Aiskell, who s. him.
Colin, the present proprietor of Jura.
Duncan, d. young.
Anne-Penelope, m. in 1797, to Robert Dennistoun, Esq., son of James Dennistoun, Esq. of Dennistoun. He was a considerable West India proprietor, and d. 15 Aug. 1815, leaving six sons and eight daus.
Barbara, m. in 1800, to Alexander Campbell, Esq. of Hallyards, co. Peebles. He d. in May, 1817, leaving six sons and three daus.

Mr. Campbell was Heritable keeper of the Castle of Craignish, a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Argyllshire, and for several years held the office of admiral-depute under John, fifth Duke of Argyll. He d. 15 July, 1835, aged ninety-one, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

James Campbell, Esq. of Jura, surgeon in the 91st foot, and was present at the capture of the Cape of Good Hope, in 1795. He d. unm. at Jura House, 2 Dec. 1838, when the representation and estates devolved upon his next surviving brother, the present Colin Campbell, Esq. of Jura.

CAMPBELL OF AUCHMANNOCH.

CAMPBELL, ROBERT, Esq. of Auchmannoch, in Ayrshire, b. 26 Jan. 1782, s. his father 11 March, 1828. Mr. Campbell is in the commission of the peace.

Lineage.

"The Campbells of Auchmannoch," says Robertson, "have been respectable landholders, in the district of Kyle-Stewart, for several centuries. The lands of Auchmannoch, and others, formerly and still belonging to them, are situated in the lordship of Kylesmuir, and in the north part of the parish of Sorn, about from three to four miles north-eastward of the town of Mauchline, and about six miles south-eastward of the Castle of Loudoun, from which family they were originally derived."

Early in the fifteenth century, a family of Campbells possessed the lands of Auchmannoch, under a church-holding. That they were the ancestors of the present family has always been held as undoubted; but their early writs, till the year 1565, are now so much obliterated and illegible, as to afford no particular information concerning them prior to that time. That they are also descended of the family of Loudoun has been a constant tradition, and which, indeed, carries every mark of probability with it. The first of them that appears in the remaining writs that are legible, is

ARTHUR CAMPBELL, of Auchmannoch, who has a renewed charter from the Commendator of Melrose, dated 8 Aug. 1565, of the lands of Auchmannoch, was father, by Margaret Cunninghame, his wife, of

GEORGE CAMPBELL, of Auchmannoch, living 1590, whose son,

ARTHUR CAMPBELL, of Auchmonnoch and Logan, m. 1606, Janet, dau. of John Campbell, of Eschawburn, and was s. by his son,

GEORGE CAMPBELL, of Auchmannoch, who, being an active supporter of the Presbyterian cause, became involved in the religious disputes and turmoils of the unhappy period in which he lived; and in his father's lifetime took the field, under General Leslie, in the commotions that ensued after the famed general assembly at Glasgow, in 1638. He m. in June, 1632, Jean, dau. of John Mure, Esq. of Blacklaw, and granddau. of Sir William Mure, Knt. of Rowallan, by whom he had two sons, ARTHUR, his heir; and John, who acquired the lands of Netherton and Whitehaugh, in Ayrshire. The elder son,

ARTHUR CAMPBELL, of Auchmannoch, returned heir to his father, George, in 1668, was also engaged in supporting the Presbyterian cause, and thereby incurring the resentment of the court, suffered much persecution. He m. 28 Sept. 1671, Margaret, second dau. of John Schaw, of Keirs, in Carrick, afterwards designed of Dalton, by whom he had three sons and two daus. ## CAMPBELL OF SKERRINGTON.

CAMPBELL, ROBERT, Esq. of Skerrington, near Kilmarnock, b. 19 Dec. 1814; m. 25 Jan. 1843, Anne, only surviving dau. of the late John Carr, Esq. of Dunston Hall, co. Durham. Mr. Campbell is a magistrate for Ayrshire.

Lineage.

This is one of the most ancient families in Ayrshire, and derived from the same stock as Loudoun.

SIR GILLESPICK CAMPBELL, of Lochow, who appears in a charter in 1266, and from whom the noble families of Argyll and Loudoun are descended, m. a dau. of William de Somerville, Baron of Carnwath, and was father of SIR COLIN CAMPBELL of Lochow, who had several sons, of whom Sir Niel was progenitor of the Argyll family, and Donald was father of Sir Duncan, progenitor of the Loudoun family; from the above Sir Colin, the Campbells of Skerrington claim to be derived. He was possessed of lands in Kyle-Stewart a considerable time before the marriage of his grandson Sir Duncan with the heiress of Loudoun; and it appears recorded in the Chartulary of Newbattle, in the Advocates' Library, that "Sir Colin Campbell, son to Gillespick Campbell, made a donation of twenty merks out of his lands of Symonston, in Kyle, to the Abbacy of Newbattle, in the year 1290." The next whose existence is distinctly ascertained, by a writ in possession of the family, dated 1348, of surrender or resignation of the lands and estate of Skerrington for a new infeftment is DAVID CAMPBELL, of Skerrington, who was s. by his son, ANDREW CAMPBELL, of Skerrington, who is supposed to have been the Andrew Campbell mentioned as having been taken prisoner at the battle of Durham, in 1346, when King DAVID BRUCE was defeated and captured. The next we have positive evidence of is DAVID CAMPBELL, of Skerrington, who granted a charter (dated in 1460) to his son, ANDREW CAMPBELL, who eventually succeeded his father, and became of Skerrington. He in turn was s. by ALEXANDER CAMPBELL, of Skerrington, as appears from his charter to the estate in 1509. This Alexander m. a sister of John Campbell, of Cesnock, and dau. of the 1st Baron of Cesnock, of the Loudoun family, by the Lady Janet Montgomery, his wife, dau. of Hugh, 1st Earl of Eglintoun, and was father of

ANDREW CAMPBELL, of Skerrington, who d. about 1560, s. p., and was s. by his nephew, son of his sister,

CHARLES CAMPBELL, of Skerrington, and afterwards designed of Horsecleugh, a property still in the family, who m. a dau. of Campbell of Shenkinstoun, and d. before 1630, leaving two sons; William, the younger, whose grandson, James Campbell, of Little Cesnock, d. s. p. in 1827, when that property returned to the family; and the elder,

GEORGE CAMPBELL, of Horsecleugh, m. Miss Mary Gordon, of the family of Viscount Kenmure, and was s. at his death, in 1640, by his eldest son,

JOHN CAMPBELL, of Horsecleugh, who was infeft by a charter under the great seal in the remains of the estates of Skerrington and Horsecleugh, in 1644. He was twice married; 1st, to a daughter of Gordon, of Skirmers, and 2ndly, to Jean, dau. of Thomas Nicholson, merchant in Ayr, and was s. about 1706, by his eldest son,

JOHN CAMPBELL, of Horsecleugh, who spent most of his life in the army. He was twice married; 1st, to Jean, eldest dau. of David Boswell, of Auchinleck, and 2ndly, to Abigail, dau. and heiress of William Rankin, Esq. of Bankhead, and had issue only by the latter, namely, two sons, James, the younger; and upon his death, 28 July, 1725, he was s. by the elder,

JOHN CAMPBELL, Esq., advocate, who resumed the designation of Skerrington. He m. 10 Nov. 1758, Wilhelmina, dau. of Lieut.-Gen. Sir Andrew Agnew, Bart. of Lochnaw, Governor of Tinmouth Castle, by whom he had one son, JOHN, and five daughters, viz., ELEANORA, Abigail, Grizel, Jean, and Anne. In 1763, Mr. Campbell went to Little Cesnock to reside, and changed its name to Skerrington (the original seat of the family). At his death he was s. by his son,

JOHN CAMPBELL, Esq. of Skerrington, who d. s. p., and was s. by his eldest sister,

ELEANORA CAMPBELL, who m. Charles Maxwell, of Cowhill, co. Dumfries, and had, with a dau., the late Miss Wilhelmina Maxwell, of Cowhill, a son,

DUGALD-JOHN CAMPBELL, Esq. of Skerrington, who m. 25 Aug. 1804, Janet, fourth dau. of the Hon. William Baillie, of Polkemmet, one of the senators of the College of Justice in Scotland, and had issue,

Charles and William, both deceased.
ROBERT present representative.
Dugald, b. 15 Aug. 1816.
Margaret-Colquhoun, m. to Thomas-Durham Weir, Esq. of Boghead, co. Linlithgow.
Susan-Dalrymple. Caroline.
Jessy, m. to Patrick-George Skene, Esq. of Hallyards, co. Fife.
Isabella, deceased. Mary.

Arms—Quarterly: 1st, gyronny of eight, or and sa.; 2nd, az., three crosslets fitched, issuing out of as many crescents, arg.; 3rd, az., three boars' heads, erased, arg., between a lance, issuing out of the dexter base, and a Lochaber axe issuing out of the sinister, both erect, in pale, of the second; 4th, gyronny of eight, gu. and erm.

Crest—A dexter hand and arm in armour, holding a garland of laurels, all ppr.

CAMPBELL OF BARBRECK.

CAMPBELL, FREDERICK-WILLIAM, Esq., b. 4 Jan. 1782; m. 1st, the elder dau. of Wade-Toby Caulfeild, Esq. of Raheenduff, which lady d. in 1817; and 2ndly, 21 Feb. 1820, Sophia, dau. of the late Sir Edward Winnington, Bart., M.P., by whom he has an only surviving child, SOPHIA-JANE, who m. 10 Dec. 1840, to Peter-Robert-Charles, eldest son of the Hon. Merrik Lindsey Burrell, brother of Lord Willoughby d'Eresby. This gentleman, who was formerly lieut. and capt. in the 1st regt. of Guards, s. his father in 1804. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Suffolk.

Lineage.

SIR COLIN CAMPBELL, of Lochow, grandson of Sir Colin, surnamed More, or the Great, acquired renown in the service of his uncle ROBERT BRUCE, and dying in 1340, left issue,

ARCHIBALD, from whom the Ducal family of ARGYLL.
JOHN, ancestor of the branch of BARBRECK; from whom spring Campbell of Succoth, and some others.
Dugald, who lost his estates by his adhesion to Edward Baliol.

The second son,

JOHN CAMPBELL, appears to have held ARDSKEODNISH as well as BARBRECK. His descendants continued possessed of the latter estate until, the male heirs having failed in the sixth generation, the heiress conveyed BARBRECK to her husband,

COLIN CAMPBELL, a relation of Archibald, 2nd Earl of Argyll, who, in right of his marriage, assumed the designation "of Barbreck," and as he lineally descended from Sir Colin, father to John, the FIRST BARBRECK, the link of the male line was thus restored. To Colin Campbell and the Lady of Barbreck succeeded their son,

COLIN CAMPBELL, of Barbreck, whose name appears as witness to two deeds, bearing date 1575. He was s. by his son,

SIR ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, Knt. of Barbreck, who was s. about the year 1630 by his son,

COLIN CAMPBELL, of Barbreck, distinguished in the political troubles of the reign of CHARLES I. He fought and was taken prisoner at the battle of Inverlochy, when the Marquis of Argyll was defeated by Montrose. Colin Campbell m. a lady of his own name, and left two sons, DONALD and Duncan. The elder,

DONALD CAMPBELL, of Barbreck, was appointed one of the Colonels of Horse for the county of Argyll, in 1648, and became subsequently involved in the misfortunes of the ill-fated Earl of Argyll: the Barony of Barbreck was consequently forfeited in 1686, but, by a special act of parliament, it was restored in 1690. To him succeeded his son,

ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, of Barbreck, who m. Barbara, sister to James, 1st Earl of Bute, and was s. by his elder son,

JAMES CAMPBELL, Esq. of Barbreck, who m. his cousin, Isabel, dau. of John Campbell, Esq. of Castle Hill, sheriff of Caithness, but d. without surviving issue (his only son had died abroad unmarried), when the representation of the family devolved upon his brother,

JOHN CAMPBELL, Esq. of Barbreck, who m. Elizabeth Hay, co-heiress of her uncle, Hay, of Hartfield. By this lady he had (with three daughters, the eldest married to Stewart, of Kilwhinlock, and the second to Colonel Campbell, of Saddel) two sons, CHARLES, his heir; and Lionel, who wedded a daughter of Sir James Campbell, Bart. of Auchenbreck, and d. in 1804. The elder son,

COLONEL CHARLES CAMPBELL, of Barbreck, inherited Hartfield. He m. in 1750, Miss D. Morgan, and had (with two daughters, one of whom m. David Campbell, Esq. of Combie) three sons, viz., 1. DONALD, his heir; 2. Laurence, b. in 1753, a captain in the army, d. in 1824; and 3. Charles, a major-general in the army, b. in 1762, and d. in 1822. Colonel Campbell d. in 1792, and was s. by his eldest son,

DONALD CAMPBELL, Esq. of Barbreck, b. in 1751, a military officer, who m. in 1778, Mary Campbell, a dau. of Lord Frederick Campbell, by whom he had issue, FREDERICK-WILLIAM, his heir; John, b. in 1786, who lost his life on board H. M. S. Queen Charlotte, which was burnt off Leghorn, 17 March, 1800. Captain Campbell, who was sixteenth "of Barbreck," d. in 1804, and was s. by his only surviving child, the present FREDERICK-WILLIAM CAMPBELL, Esq. of Barbreck, who has disposed of his estate in Argyllshire, retaining only a superiority, to connect him with the country where so many of his ancestors were actively engaged.

Arms—Quarterly: 1st and 4th, gyronny of eight, or and sable; 2nd, arg., a sword, gules, pommel and hilt, sa.; 3rd, arg., a castle triple-towered, sa.

CANNING OF FOXCOTE.

CANNING, ROBERT, Esq. of Foxcote, co. Warwick, b. in 1773; m. 1st, Catherine, dau. of John Berkeley, Esq. of Spetchley, by his second wife, Jane, dau. and co-heir of Sir William Compton, Bart., which lady d. without issue in Feb. 1823. He m. 2ndly, Maria, second dau. and co-heir of the Rev. Joseph-Bonnor Cherton, of Longford House, Gloucestershire, and has one surviving child, Maria. Mr. Canning s. to Foxcote upon the demise of his brother, in 1831. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Gloucester, and served the office of high-sheriff for that shire in 1832.

Lineage.

The name of Canning is derived from the manor of Bishop's Canninges, in Wiltshire, where the family was originally seated, and where the senior line continued until it terminated in co-heiresses in the time of HENRY VII. A younger son settled in Bristol in the reign of EDWARD II., and the branch founded by him formed the most eminent family of that city during the greater part of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. William Canninges represented Bristol in several successive parliaments, and was six times mayor between 1360 and 1390. He d. in 1396, leaving, with other issue, John Canninges, his son and heir, who was member for Bristol, and also, in 1392 and 1398, mayor. He d. in 1406, leaving three sons and three daus., all then under age; Thomas, his second son, was lord-mayor of London in 1456; William, his third son, was the celebrated mayor of Bristol of the reign of EDWARD IV., and the re-founder of the church of St. Mary Redcliffe, in that city. He d. in 1476, being then in holy orders, and Dean of the Priory of Westbury, which he had previously founded.

JOHN CANNINGES, the eldest son of John, was the father of THOMAS CANNINGES, who acquired the estate of Foxcote, by his marriage with Agnes, the eldest dau. and co-heir of John Salmon, and Eustatia, his wife, dau. and heir of John le Marshall, in whose family Foxcote had been vested from the time of the Conquest. Richard Canning of Foxcote, the son and heir of Thomas and Agnes, was the grandfather of dau. of Richard Petty, Esq. of Ilmington, and had, with several other children, RICHARD, his heir; and GEORGE, ancestor of LORD GARVACH and of VISCOUNT CANNING. Richard Canninge was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD CANNINGE, Esq. of Foxcote, who m. 1st, Mary, dau. of William Sambache, of Broadway, in the co. of Worcester, and 2ndly, Jane, dau. of Edward Porter, of Aston, in the co. of Gloucester. He had by his first wife two sons and two daus. The elder son,

WILLIAM CANNINGE, Esq. of Foxcote, m. 1st, Anne, dau. and heir of Thomas Haywoode, of Bradforton, and 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Edward Porter, of Acton, in the co. of Gloucester, and sister of Sir Endymion Porter. By the former he left a son and heir,

RICHARD CANNING, Esq. of Foxcote, who m. Grace, dau. of Edward Fowler, Esq. of St. Thomas, in the co. of Stafford, and was father of

RICHARD CANNING, Esq. of Foxcote, living temp. CHARLES II., who m. Jane, dau. of Charles Busby, brother of Sir John Busby, Knt. of Addington, Bucks, in 1683, and was s. by his son,

FRANCIS CANNING, Esq. of Foxcote, living in 1720, who m. Apolonia, dau. and at length sole heir of Robert Barker, Esq. of Montewecke, co. Essex, (by his wife, Catherine, dau. and eventually sole heir of Sir Henry Audley, Knt. of Beerchurch,) and had issue, FRANCIS, his heir; Richard; and Anne, wife of Greenward, Esq. of Bruers Norton. The son and heir,

FRANCIS CANNING, Esq. of Foxcote, m. Mary, dau. and eventually sole heir of John Petre, Esq. of Fidlers, Essex, fourth in descent from John, fourth son of William, second Lord Petre of Writtle, and had (with other sons who d. s. p.) FRANCIS, his heir; Thomas, whose son Edward m. Louisa, dau. of William Spencer, Esq.; Ann, Superior of the English Augustin Nuns at Paris; and Mary, m. to Joseph Blount, Esq. of Chaldgrave. Mr. Canning's eldest son and heir,

FRANCIS CANNING, Esq. of Foxcote, m. Catherine, dau. of Thomas Giffard, Esq. of Chillington, and had issue,

I. FRANCIS, his heir.
II. ROBERT, successor to his brother.
III. John, major in the Native Bengal infantry, d. 1 Sept. 1824, leaving by Mary-Anne, his wife, dau. of Sir John-Randall Meredyth, Bart. of Newtown, co. Meath, two daus., namely,
  1. Eliza-Minto.
  2. Julia-Matilda, m. 18 Aug. 1841, to J. Fleming, Esq. of the Middle Temple, barrister-at-law.

Mr. Canning was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

FRANCIS CANNING, Esq. of Foxcote, who m. Jane, dau. of Ferdinand Huddleston, Esq. of Sawston, co. Cambridge, but dying s. p. in 1831, was s. by his brother, the present ROBERT CANNING, Esq. of Foxcote.

Crest—A demi-lion, arg., holding in dexter paw a battle-axe.
Seats—Foxcote, Warwickshire; Hartpury, Gloucestershire.

CAPEL OF THE GROVE.

CAPEL, WILLIAM, Esq. of The Grove, Painswick, co. Gloucester, a magistrate of that shire, s. his father in 1838.

Lineage.

This family came originally from How Capel, co. Hereford, and were at a very early period settled at Gloucester, of which city John Capel was mayor in 1484. The same office was filled in 1619, by Christopher Capel, M.P. for Gloucester, from whom sprang the CAPELS of Prestbury, and

DR. RICHARD CAPEL, rector of Eastington, who was obliged to resign his parsonage in 1633, and retired to Pitchcombe, where he practised physic, and where he d. 1656, aged seventy-five. It is stated on his tomb that he was a magistrate for the co. of Middlesex. He was grandfather of

SAMUEL CAPEL, Esq., who m. about 1710, the sole heiress of The Grove, Miss Mayo, by which he acquired that estate. He was father of

WILLIAM CAPEL, Esq. of The Grove, whose son,

DANIEL CAPEL, Esq. of The Grove, a deputy-lieut. for Gloucestershire, was father of WILLIAM CAPEL, Esq. of The Grove, who d. in 1838, aged seventy, and was buried at Painswick. His son and successor is the present WILLIAM CAPEL, Esq. of The Grove.

the French wars of HENRY V., being one of the commanding officers at Azincourt. Sir John Carew, in the same reign, was joined with Sir George Talbot, in the command of the navy, and obtained for his services a grant of one hundred marks per annum for life, payable by the receiver of Cornwall. This gallant person was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR NICHOLAS CAREW, lord of Carew, who wedded Joan, dau. of Sir Hugh Courtenay, of Haccombe, and had several sons, of whom the eldest, THOMAS (Sir), was ancestor of SIR GEORGE CAREW, EARL OF TOTNESS; and Nicholas, the second, founded the family of CAREW OF HACCOMBE.

SIR WILLIAM CAREW, the fifth son of Sir Nicholas Carew, acquired from his mother, the manors of Wichehand, Widebridge, Bokeland, &c. This gentleman was made a knight-banneret by HENRY VII., after the battle of Blackheath. He had a son,

JOHN CAREW, Esq., who wedded Margaret, dau. of William Kelly, Esq., by whom he obtained the manors of Stoadley and Camerton. He was s. by his brother (or son),

GEORGE CAREW, Esq., father of

THOMAS CAREW, Esq., who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Hugh Biccombe, Esq., lord of the manor of Crowcombe, and acquired thereby that estate. He was s. at his demise, in 1604, by his son,

SIR JOHN CAREW, Knt., who inherited, temp. JAMES I., Crowcombe, Clatworthy, Camerton, and Stoadley, and had a grant of Carew Castle, which had been mortgaged by his ancestor, Sir Edmund Carew, to Sir Rhys ap Thomas, and had been forfeited to the crown. He left, at his demise in 1637, a son and successor,

THOMAS CAREW, Esq. of Carew Castle, and of Crowcombe, who m. Margery, dau. of Sir John Wyndham, of Orchard Wyndham, in the co. of Somerset. This gentleman suffered much for his loyalty to the House of Stuart, and had the honour of receiving a letter signed by King CHARLES I. commanding his attendance at Oxford. He survived those perilous times, and lived to witness the restoration of the monarchy. He left at his decease, in 1622, a son,

THOMAS CAREW, Esq., whose son,

THOMAS CAREW, Esq. of Carew Castle, espoused Elizabeth, dau. of John Sanford, Esq. of Nynehead, and had issue,

THOMAS, his heir.

John who inherited at the decease of Lady Carew, relict of Sir Coventry Carew, Bart., in 1766, the manor of East Anthony, &c., in Cornwall, but left no male issue, the Cornish estates passed, at his decease, to the family of POLE. ### Lineage.

"This old and respectable family," says one of the Cornish historians, "has principally resided, for upwards of three centuries, in the parishes of St. Austell and St. Blazey. The surname of Carlyon in connexion with Cornwall is derived from very remote antiquity; for, besides the Barton of Carlyon, near Truro, it is on record that a seaport town of the name was formerly in existence on the north-west coast of the county." The Carlyons represent a branch of the great house of Tredenham, eminent in Cornwall, from the time of the early Plantagenets; and we shall, therefore, commence with an outline of this descent, until it merges in the family before us.

Michael de Tredenham, of Tredenham, (son of Philip de Tredenham, living temp. Edward II., and great grandson of John de Tredenan, "Dominus de Tredenan," with whom Dugdale's pedigree begins,) m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of William Tirrel, and was great-great-grandfather of

Richard Tredenham, of Tredenham, who m. Anne, dau. and heir of Robert Killiowe, and was s. by his son,

Richard Tredenham, Esq. of Tredenham and Killiowe, living temp. Henry VIII., who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Richard Tresvyas, by the heiress of Brixham, and was father of

Robert Tredenham, of Tredenham, Esq., living 1553, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Bonithorn, of Cartles, and had (with a dau., Anne, wife of Roger Arundel, son and heir of Sir John Arundel, of Trerice,) two sons, Richard and John. The elder,

Richard Tredenham, of Tredenham and Killiowe, Esq., bapt. 25 July, 1580, m. Florence, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Enys, of Enys, Esq., and had three sons, of whom the youngest,

Thomas Tredenham, of Philley, co. Cornwall, Esq., bapt. 13 Jan. 1630, m. Sybell, dau. of Martin Trestene, of Trestene, and by her (who d. in 1644) left a son and successor,

John Tredenham, of Philley and Tregonan, Esq., who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Molesworth, of Pencarrow, Esq., and had, with other issue, two sons, Sir William Tredenham, of Tregonan, Knt., M.P. for St. Mawes in 1661, who d. s. p. in 1662, and

Sir Joseph Tredenham, of Tregonan, Knt., high-sheriff of Cornwall in 1665, and governor of St. Mawes Castle, b. in 1642, m. in 1666, Elizabeth, only dau. of Sir Edward Seymour, Bart., and sister of Sir Edward Seymour, Speaker of the House of Commons. By this lady (who attained the advanced age of ninety-six, and d. 13 Feb. 1730,) he had issue,

John, M.P., d. s. p. in 1710.
Seymour, M.P., d. s. p.
Eliza, m. to John Nichols, Esq. of Davidstowe.
Mary, m. to Francis Scobell, Esq. of Menagwins.

Sir Joseph Tredenham was first comptroller of the army. He d. in 1706, and was buried in Westminster Abbey. His second dau. and eventual co-heir,

Mary, wife of Francis Scobell, of Menagwins, Esq., M.P., had one son, Francis, who d. unm. 26 Nov. 1745, aged twenty-six, and two daus., Elizabeth, and Barbara, wife of Henry Hawkins, Esq. The elder,

Elizabeth Scobell, m. Philip Hawkins, of Pennans, Esq., and had, with two sons, the Rev. John Hawkins, D.D., Master of Pembroke College, Cambridge, who d. s. p. in 1736, and Philip Hawkins, Esq., barrister-at-law, M.P. for Grampound, who d. s. p. in 1738, five daus., eventually co-heirs, of whom,

Elizabeth Hawkins, m. Thomas Carlyon, of Tregrehan, Esq., and had, with other issue, a son and successor,

Philip Carlyon, of Tregrehan, Esq., who m. Elizabeth, only child of the Rev. Samuel Trewbody, of Boscundle, and niece of Edward Craggs, the first Lord Eliott, of Port Eliott. By this lady he had a son and heir,

Edward-Trewbody Carlyon, of Tregrehan, Esq., at whose decease, s. p., the estates devolved upon (the eldest son of his uncle, the Rev. Thomas Carlyon, of St. Just, in Roseland, by Anne, his wife, dau. and co-heir of William Gwavas, of Penzance, Esq.,) his first cousin,

Thomas Carlyon, of Tregrehan, Esq., high-sheriff of Cornwall in 1802, who m. his cousin Mary, only dau. and heir of William Carlyon, Esq. of St. Austell, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. and co-heir of the Rev. John Pomeroy, of St. Ewe, by Thomazina Hooker, his wife, great-niece of the celebrated divine, Richard Hooker. By this lady, exemplary for piety and benevolence, who d. 13 Jan. 1821. Mr. Carlyon had issue, William, his heir; Edward, successor to his brother; Thomas, d. young; Mary, m. to Captain Collins, R.N., of Trewardale; Eliza, wife of Clement Carlyon, M.D. of Truro; and Harriet. He d. 16 Dec. 1830, and is buried at St. Blazey, where a very handsome monument has been erected to his memory by the present Colonel Carlyon. He was s. by his elder son, William Carlyon, of Tregrehan, Esq., barrister-at-law, b. 7 Jan. 1781, d. unm. 27 May, 1841, and was s. by his brother, the present Col. Carlyon, of Tregrehan and Greenaway.

Arms—Sa., a plate between three castles, arg., each charged with a cross-crosslet, gu.; quartering Hawkins, Scobell, Tredenham, Tirrel, Killiowe, Enys, Gwavas, Pomeroy, and Hooker (see Burke's General Armory).

CARTWRIGHT OF NORWELL AND MARNHAM.

CARTWRIGHT, EDMUND-WILLIAM, Esq., an officer in the 23rd regiment of Native Infantry, stationed at Saltara, in the presidency of Bombay, b. 19 Sept. 1809; s. his father, the Rev. Edmund Cartwright, M.A., F.A.S., 18 March, 1833.

Lineage.

In the reign of HENRY VII.,
HUGH CARTWRIGHT m. Matilda Cove, and had issue,

WILLIAM, who founded the NORWELL family.
Roland, was ancestor of the CARTWRIGHTS OF AYNHO. (See that family.)
Edmund, m. in 1514, Anne, dau. of Thomas Cranmer, of Aslacton, co. Nottingham, and sister of the celebrated Archbishop, by whom he acquired Ossington, in Notts, and Malling Abbey, in Kent. His eldest son, GEORGE CARTWRIGHT, Esq. of Ossington, m. 1st, one of the daus. of Lord Cobham, and 2ndly, Jane, one of the seventeen daus. of Sir John Newton, to whose memory a handsome monument is erected in the church of Malling. His descendants were successively united to the heiresses of Daubridgecourt, Molineux, Barton, and Marshall. There were also frequent intermarriages between the two families of Norwell and Ossington, the latest of which took place in 1731, between William and Anne Cartwright. The last male heir of the Ossington branch dying in 1755, the estate was sold by his four sisters, Lady Buck, Lady Middleton, Lady Legard, and Lady Whiteford, and became the property of WILLIAM DENISON, Esq., high-sheriff for Nottinghamshire in 1779.

The eldest son,

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, m. Jane Leggatt, and resided at Norwell. His son and successor,

EDWARD CARTWRIGHT, Esq. of Norwell, was father of

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, Esq. of Norwell, in 1614, who m. Frances, dau. of Reginald Peckham, Esq., by Elizabeth, his wife, sister of George Cartwright, Esq. of Ossington. His grandson,

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, Esq., who m. Christian, dau. of his relative, Sir Hugh Cartwright, of Malling, built a house at Normanton, in Notts, and settled there. Like his father-in-law, he espoused the royal cause, and is supposed to have been the Colonel Cartwright, of whom Mrs. Hutchinson speaks with so much bitterness, in relating the siege of Nottingham. His son,

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, Esq. of Normanton, is mentioned by EVELYN, as having, in 1671, induced the council of state to adopt pacific measures towards the discontented colonists of New England; joining the army of King WILLIAM, he became a captain in the regiment of the Earl of Kingston, (whose sister was the wife of his relative, Fulk Cartwright, of Ossington,) went over to Ireland, and d. at the siege of Belfast, in 1689. His son, (by his wife, the dau. of Thomas Charlton, Esq. of Chilwell,)

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, Esq., marrying Rebecca, the heir of Edmund Nicholson, Esq. of Marnham, removed thither, and had one son, WILLIAM, and four daus. the youngest of whom, Elizabeth, m. John, Viscount Tyrconnel, and after his lordship's death, resided until her own decease, in 1780, at the house of her brother. Mr. Cartwright was s. by his son,

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, Esq. of Marnham Hall, Notts, high-sheriff in 1742, who m. his cousin, Anne, dau. of Cartwright, of Ossington, and had five sons and five daus., viz.,

I. William, who held an office in the Treasury, d. in the lifetime of his father, without issue.
II. GEORGE; III. JOHN; who became successively representatives of the family.
IV. EDMUND, D.D., F.R.S., and F.R.L.S., known as a literary character, and especially as the inventor of the power loom woolcombing, by machinery, &c. He m. 1st, Alice, dau. and co-heiress of Richard Whitaker, Esq. of Doncaster, and had issue,
EDMUND, of whom presently.
Mary, m. to Eustatius Strickland, Esq., youngest son of Sir George Strickland, Bart., and has issue.
Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. John Penrose, of an ancient Cornish family, and has issue.
Anne-Catherine, d. 25 Nov. 1799.
Frances-Dorothy, author of the Life and Correspondence of Major Cartwright, published in 1825.
Dr. Cartwright wedded 2ndly, Susanna, dau. of the Rev. Dr. Kearney. He d. 30 Oct. 1823.
V. Charles, who distinguished himself when a lieut. in the R.N., by the capture of the Dutch fort of Commenda, on the western coast of Africa. He m. Annabella, eldest dau. of Dr. Kearney, and d. at Storrington, in Sussex, in 1807, aged sixty-three, s. p.

I. Anne, d. at Mirfield Hall, near Tuxford, (a house purchased by herself and her sisters from Col. Kirke, of Retford), and was buried at Marnham Church, in 1804, aged sixty-seven.
II. Catherine, d. at Mirfield Hall, and was buried at Marnham, in 1830, aged ninety-three.
III. Elizabeth, d. in London, and lies buried at Finchley, in 1817, aged seventy-five.
IV. Frances, b. in 1747.
V. Dorothy, who m. Thomas-Hallet Hodges, Esq. of Hemsted, in Kent, and d. in 1800, leaving three sons and two daus., viz.
1. THOMAS-LAW HODGES, Esq. of Hemsted, M.P. for Kent.
2. Henry Hodges, in holy orders.
3. Edmund Hodges, deceased.
1. Anne Hodges, m. to the Hon. and Rev. Frederick Hotham.
2. Julia Hodges, m. to Sir William Darley, Knt.

The eldest surviving son,

GEORGE CARTWRIGHT, Esq. of Marnham, after serving with distinction in the German wars, as aid-de-camp to the Marquis of Granby, spent sixteen years on the coast of Labrador. In December, 1772, he returned to England, and brought with him a family of Esquimaux, consisting of two brothers, their wives, and a child of five years of age, who were presented and graciously received at court. Captain Cartwright took them, in the following spring, to his father's house, in Nottinghamshire, where they were introduced to all the neighbouring families, and attracted much admiration by their pleasing manners and easy imitation of the habits of civilized life. The spirit with which the two brothers pursued the amusement of hunting, though they had never previously mounted on horseback, was no less the object of surprise. Having had the misfortune to catch the infection of the small-pox, only one woman, named Caubric, returned to Labrador, where, however, Captain Cartwright was received with undiminished affection and kindness by their surviving relatives. Captain Cartwright pursued his favourite field sports until the advanced age of eighty, and d. s. p. at Mansfield, in the co. of Nottingham, in May, 1819, when he was s. by his brother,

JOHN CARTWRIGHT, Esq., so well known as "MAJOR CARTWRIGHT." This gentleman was with Lord Howe in the memorable sea fight between Hawke and Conflans, in 1759, and served several years in the navy with great credit, until 1776, when receiving an offer from Lord Howe, to accompany his lordship to North America, he declined this advantageous proposal, rather than bear arms against the liberties of that country. He soon after became major of the Nottinghamshire militia, which he and his father had been mainly instrumental in raising, and of which he had the training, as well as for many years the chief command. His remarkable qualities and his inflexible integrity, both in public and in private life, gained the respect even of those who most differed with him in opinion, while they insured him the devoted attachment of his political associates. These, in conjunction with his admirers generally, erected, in 1831, a statue to his memory, in Burton Crescent, London, where he resided at the time of his decease, in 1824,* aged eighty-four. He m. in 1780, Anne-Katherine, eldest dau. of Samuel Dashwood, Esq. of Well Vale, in Lincolnshire, but left no issue. Major Cartwright purchased, after the sale of Marnham to Lord Brownlow, by whom the mansion was pulled down, about the year 1800, the estate of Wyberton, in the co. of Lincoln. He was s. by his nephew,

THE REV. EDMUND CARTWRIGHT, the able author of the History of the Rape of Bramber, M.A., F.A.S., rector of Earnley, vicar of Lyminster, and prebendary of Chichester. This gentleman m. 1st, in 1794, Sophia, dau. of John Wombwell, Esq., but lost his wife the next year, without issue. He wedded, 2ndly, Anne, dau. of the Rev. Edward-William Tredcroft, of Pulborough, in Sussex, and had four sons, viz.,

EDMUND-WILLIAM, his heir.
George, b. 24 Jan. 1811, R.N.
Hugh, b. 10 April, 1814, d. 13 Feb. 1831.
John, b. 28 Jan. 1820.

Mr. Cartwright d. 18 March, 1833, and was s. by his eldest son, the present EDMUND-WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, Esq.

Arms—Erm., a fesse, between three fireballs, sa., issuing flames, ppr.
Crest—A wolf's head, erased, or, pierced through the neck with a spear, arg.
Motto—Defend the fold.
Estate—Wyberton, in Lincolnshire.

CARY, ROBERT-SHEDDEN-SULYARDE, Esq. of Torr Abbey, co. Devon, b. 22 June, 1828; s. his father 2 Sept. 1840.

Lineage.

The ancient family of CARY derives its surname from the manor of CARY, or KARI, as it is called in Domesday Book, lying in the parish of St. Giles in the Heath, near Launceston.

In the year 1198, according to Sir William Pole,

ADAM DE KARRY, was lord of Castle Karry, in the co. of Somerset. He m. Amy, dau. of Sir William Trevet, Knt., and left a son and successor,

JOHN KARRY, whose wife was Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Richard Stapleton, Knt. The son and heir of this marriage,

WILLIAM KARRY, was found at his decease, in the 31st of EDWARD I., seised of the manor of West Polworth, and his widow possessed of those of Paveston and Karry, near Tavistock. This lady's maiden name was (Alice) Beaumont, and she was the daughter of Sir William Beaumont, Knt. Their son and heir,

JOHN, or WILLIAM KARRY, wedded Philippa, dau. of Sir Warine Archdeacon, Knt., and had two sons, viz., Sir William Karry, Knt., the husband of Margaret, dau. of Richard Bozom, of Clovelly, co. Devon, and

SIR JOHN CARY, Knt., who, with his brother Sir William, represented the county of Devon in parliament, in the 36th and 42nd EDWARD III. He m. 1st, Agnes, dau. of Lord Stafford, but had no issue, and 2ndly, Jane, dau. and co-heir of Sir Guy de Bryen, Knt. (by Ann, his wife, dau. and heir of William Holwey, Esq. of Holwey), and left a son,

SIR JOHN CARY, of Holwey, co. Devon, who was made a Baron of the Exchequer by King RICHARD II., to whom he faithfully adhered to the last. He m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Robert Holloway, and died possessed of Cockington and Clovelly, at the former of which he principally resided. His son and successor,

SIR ROBERT CARY, Knt.* wedded, 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Philip Courtenay, of Powderham, in Devonshire, and 2ndly, Jane, dau. of Sir William Hanchford, Knt., and widow of Wadham. A proof of the great prowess in arms of this gallant knight is recorded in the following exploit: "In the beginning of the reign of HENRY V., a certain knight-errand of Arragon, having passed through divers countries, and performed many feats of arms, to his high commendation, arrived here in England, where he challenged any man of his rank and quality to make tryal of his valor and skill in arms. This challenge Sir Robert Cary accepted; between whom a cruel encounter and a long and doubtful combat was waged in Smithfield, London. But at length, this noble champion vanquished the presumptuous Arragonois; for which King HENRY V. restored unto him good part of his father's lands, which, for his loyalty to King RICHARD II., he had been deprived of by King HENRY IV., and authorized him to bear the arms of the knight of Arragon, viz., 'In a field silver, on a bend sa. three white roses,' which the noble posterity of this gentleman continue to wear unto this day; for, according to the laws of heraldry, whosoever fairly in the field conquers his adversary may justify the bearing of his arms." Sir Robert was s. at his decease by his son by his first marriage with Elizabeth Courtenay,

SIR PHILIP CARY, Knt. of Cockington, co. Devon, who m. Christian, dau. and heir of William Orchard, of Orchard, in Somersetshire, by whom (who wedded, 2ndly, Walter Portman) he had a son and successor,

SIR WILLIAM CARY, Knt., who fell in the battle of Tewkesbury, anno 1471, fighting under the banner of Lancaster. He had wedded, 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Paulet, of Hinton St. George, co. Somerset, and had a son, ROBERT, his heir. His 2nd wife was Alice, dau. of Sir Baldwin Fulford, of Fulford, co. Devon, Knt., and by her he was father of THOMAS, of Chilton Foliot, who m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Sir Robert Spencer, Knt., by Alianore, dau. and co-heir of Edmond Beaufort, Duke of Somerset, and had two sons, SIR JOHN CARY, ancestor of the VISCOUNTS FALKLAND; and WILLIAM CARY, who m. Mary, sister of ANNE BOLEYNE,* the unhappy consort of HENRY VIII., and had by her (who m. 2ndly, Sir William Stafford, Knt.) a son, HENRY CARY, created by his cousin, Queen ELIZABETH, BARON HUNSDON.† Sir William Cary was s. by his elder son,

ROBERT CARY, Esq. of Cockington, who m. 1st, Jane, dau. of Sir Nicholas Carew, Knt., and had two sons, JOHN, who m. Jane, dau. and heir of Edmund Derick, Esq. of Oakhampton, and had issue; and THOMAS, of Cockington. Robert Cary m. 2ndly, Agnes, dau. of Sir William Hody, Knt. of Pillesdon, co. Dorset, and had a son, William. He m. 3rdly, Margaret, dau. and heir of William Fulkeram, Esq. of Dartmouth, and had another son, Robert, upon whom he conferred Clovelly, in the north of Devon. The second son of Robert Cary,

THOMAS CARY, Esq., inherited the lands of Cockington and Chilson. He m. Mary, dau. of John Southcot, Esq. of Bovy Tracy, in Devonshire, and had issue,

I. GEORGE (Sir), his heir.
II. John, of Dudley, co. Stafford, m. a dau. of — Norton, and had issue,
  1. John, married, and left issue.
  2. EDWARD, of whom presently, as part inheritor of the property of his uncle, Sir George Cary, the lord-deputy.
  3. Thomas, of Moushall, co. Stafford, m. Martha, dau. of William Steward, of Rowley, in the same shire, and d. in 1644. He was father of John Cary, of Ditchley, in Oxfordshire, who m. Jane, dau. of Richard Nanfant, of the co. Gloucester, and dying in 1664, left several sons.
     Edward Cary, of Moushall.
  4. Edward, d. s. p.
  5. GEORGE, who inherited Cockington, and the remainder of his uncle the lord-deputy's estates, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Edward Seymour, Bart. of Berry Pomeroy, co. Devon, and had, with three younger sons and a dau., SIR HENRY CARY, Knt. This gentleman was sheriff of the co. of Devon in the 18th of CHARLES I., and during the civil wars devoted himself and his fortune to the services of that unhappy prince. Having thus consumed a considerable estate when the royal cause fell, he was forced to fly his native land. The house of Stuart was not, however, unmindful of such disinterested devotion, for when the Duke of Ormond, in a succeeding reign, appeared off Torr Bay, he assured the family, on the part of his royal master, THE CHEVALIER, of that prince's recognition of their great services, and of his wish to grant them high honours and honourable indemnification, in pledge of which he had sent them his father King JAMES the Second's picture, with that of his mother, the Queen, inclosed in a silver box. This memorial is now preserved at Follaton House.
  6. Dudley, m., and had issue.

Thomas Cary was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

SIR GEORGE CARY, Knt. of Cockington, treasurer of Ireland, and afterwards lord-deputy. "Sir George Cary," says Punce, "took up his honourable sword in a stormy, tempestuous time, when that kingdom was strangely actuated with the spirit of rebellion, which occasioned him much trouble during the little space he held it. Sir George did not continue in this government much more than a year, and then Sir Arthur Chichester, with better fortune, succeeded him therein. Not long after this, Sir George Cary returned into England, and retired to his seat at Cockington, where, being grown somewhat aged, he resolved to live the residue of his days to God and himself; and knowing how pleasing a sacrifice to God charity and good deeds are, he purposed to do something for the poor, and accordingly he set about building of seven alms-houses for their use and comfort." Sir George m. 1st, Wilmot, dau. and heir of John Gifford, Esq. of Yeo, in the county of Devon, and had a dau., Anne, m. to Sir Richard Edgcomb, Knt. of Mount Edgcomb. He m. 2ndly, Lettice, eldest dau. of Robert Lord Rich, 1st Earl of Warwick, but by her (who m. 2ndly, Sir Arthur Lake, Knt.) he had no children. Sir George d. in 1616, and was s. by his nephew,

SIR EDWARD CARY, Knt. of Marldon, co. Devon, styled in the family pedigree,* "of EXETER," the place probably of his birth. This gentleman, one of the leading Catholics in Devon, suffered unrelenting persecution on account of his religious tenets. He m. Margaret Blackhurst, of Lancashire, and had two sons and a daughter, GEORGE (Sir), his heir; Thomas, of Stantor, co. Devon; and Anne, wife of Sir George Southcott. The elder son,

SIR GEORGE CARY, received the honour of knighthood from King CHARLES I. at Greenwich, 3 July, 1632. He m. 1st, Anne, dau. of Sir Charles Manners, Knt., by whom he had a son and dau., who both d. young; and 2ndly, a dau. of Browne, of Hampshire, but had no issue. He m. 3rdly, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Wells, Esq. of Brambridge, co. Southampton, and had issue, EDWARD, his heir; George, living unm. in 1701; Christopher, living s. p. in 1701; John, who went to Portugal; Elizabeth, m. to Sir Thomas Manby, Knt. of Brentwood; Frances; Margery; and Constance, m. to George Blount, Esq. Sir George Cary, who purchased TORR ABBEY from the Earl of Londonderry, d. 27 May, 1678, and was s. by his eldest son,

EDWARD CARY, Esq. of Torr Abbey, who m. Mary, 2nd dau. and co-heir of Richard Pelsont, Esq., by Anne, his wife, relict of Thomas Savile, Earl of Sussex, and dau. of Christopher Villiers, 1st Earl of Anglesey. By this lady he had issue, I. GEORGE, his heir; II. William, who m. Miss Dorothy Rowe, and had (with a dau., Dorothy, wife of Edward Meynell, Esq. of Yarm and Kilvington) two sons GEORGE, who s. to Torr Abbey, and EDWARD, father of GEORGE-STANLEY CARY, Esq. of Follaton; III. Francis, who d. unm.; I. Ann; II. Mary; and III. Winifred. Mr. Cary was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

GEORGE CARY, Esq. of Torr Abbey, b. in 1685, who wedded Anne, dau. of Hugh Lord Clifford, but d. 1 Oct. 1758, without issue, when the estates passed to the children of his brother William, George and Edward; by the elder of whom,

GEORGE CARY, Esq., he was s. at Torr Abbey. This gentleman m. Cecilia Fagnani, and had issue,

I. GEORGE, his heir.
II. JOHN, b. 17 Feb. 1770, who m. 1st, Sophia, dau. of Edward Sulyard, Esq., and d. 19 March, 1820, leaving issue, HENRY, heir to his uncle; Bernard; Lucius, lieut. in the Walmoden Cuirassiers, m. 8 Jan. 1839, Amelia, dau. of Count Starhemberg; Hugh; John; Sophia, m. to Charles Stonor, Esq.; Fanny; Susan; and Mary-Anne. Mr. John Cary m. 2ndly, Miss Johnson, of the co. of Norfolk, and by her had one dau., Blanche.
III. Mary, m. to J.-P. Chichester, Esq. of Arlington.
IV. Frances, m. in 1795, to Henry Stonor, Esq. of San Lucar, in Spain.

George Cary m. 2ndly, Frances Stonor, relict of Thomas Gifford, Esq. of Chillington, and had further issue,

V. Mary-Anne, who m. 1st, John Dalton, Jun. Esq. of Thurnham Hall; 2ndly, Sir John-Hayford Thorold, Bart. of Marston; and 3rdly, to Sir Charles Ogle, Bart. Her ladyship d. in 1842.
VI. Georgiana, m. to Francis Langan, Esq.

Mr. Cary d. in 1805, and was s. by his eldest son,

GEORGE CARY, Esq. of Torr Abbey, who m. Miss Franklin, but dying without issue, was s. by his nephew,

HENRY CARY, Esq. of Torr Abbey, b. 5 Oct. 1800, who m. in 1827, Emily Munro, only child of Robert Shedden, Esq. of Brooklands, Hampshire, and had issue,

ROBERT-SHEDDEN-SULYARDE, his heir.

CAY OF NORTH CHARLTON.

CAY, JOHN, Esq. of North Charlton Hall, co. Northumberland, F.R.S.E., Sheriff of Linlithgowshire, b. 31 Aug. 1790; m. 1 June, 1819, Emily, dau. of the late William Bullock, Esq., Secretary of the island of Jamaica, by whom (who d. 20 June, 1836) he has surviving issue,

I. JOHN. II. Robert. III. Edward.
IV. Thomas. V. Francis-Albert.
I. Emily. II. Elizabeth. III. Lucy.

Lineage.

The family of CAY (or, as the name was formerly spelt, KEY) is believed to have enjoyed very fair possessions in the Eastern Borders. The following traditional account of the loss of their ancient patrimony is still recorded: at a remote period, the head of the family having quarrelled with another gentleman, they agreed to settle their dispute by combat, within the Poundfold of Alnwick. Having procured the key, they locked themselves in, and threw it over the wall. KEY killed his antagonist, leaped over the wall, and made his escape, on foot, to Newcastle-upon-Tyne, which was, at that period, without the jurisdiction of the Marchers.

This murder and flight constituting March treason, Key's possessions were forfeited, and he spent his life, in great indigence, at Newcastle. His son, or grandson, however, found means to be bound apprentice to a brewer in Newcastle, and for several generations they pursued that business, the family continuing to this day freemen of the corporation of Brewers and Bakers there.

In this line of business, a considerable trade was, at length, established by Robert Key, or Cay, of Newcastle, which was much extended by his widow, when left with a large family, for whom she amply provided. By her exertions a good deal of property was acquired to the family in Newcastle and elsewhere. She was twice nearly ruined by fires, yet, by economy and prudence, she grew rich, and built houses for four of her sons, to whom she gave an excellent education. At a late period of her life, she connected herself in trade with her third son, Robert,* but being obliged to pay debts contracted through his extravagance, was reduced to poverty. Her resolution was, however, not to be shaken—she began the world again, throve, and grew rich, leaving ample provisions to her family. Her eldest son,

JABEZ CAY, M.D., practised in Northumberland, where he accumulated a considerable fortune, and, in conjunction with a person of the name of Hutchinson, purchased the estate of North Charlton, in 1696. Dr. Cay, dying in 1702, unm., left his share of the property to his brother,

JOHN CAY, Esq., who obtained also from the representatives of Hutchinson their interest in the estate, and thus became of North Charlton. He m. Grace, dau. and co-heir of Henry Wolff, Esq. of Bredlington, and had issue,

ROBERT, his successor.
Henry.
John, b. in 1700, who was appointed judge of the Marshalsea, and was author of a well known edition of the Statutes at large, and of an Abridgment of the Statutes. He m. Miss Boult, and had issue, 1. Henry-Boult, who m. Miss Stawel Pigot, and left two daus., Frances, m. to Dr. Adams, rector of Halstead, in Essex, and Mary; 2. Grace, m. to John Adams, Esq.; and 3. Mary.

Mr. Cay was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

ROBERT CAY, Esq. of North Charlton and of the Laygate, Durham, b. in 1694. He published a letter in the newspapers of the day, signed with the initials B. K., suggesting the institution of an infirmary at Newcastle. The proposal was followed, and thus gave rise to that excellent establishment. The circumstance was commemorated by giving the name of B. K. ward to one of the departments of the infirmary, which name it still retains. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Reynold Hall, Esq. of Catcleugh, and had issue, JOHN, his successor; Reynold; Robert, a colonel in the E. I. Co.'s service, who d. of wounds received in action; Grace, and Gabriel. The eldest son,

JOHN CAY, Esq. m. Frances, dau. of Ralph Hodshon, Esq. of Lintz, and had a son and successor,

ROBERT-HODSHON CAY, Esq., b. 5 July, 1758, one of the Judges of the Consistorial Court, and Judge of the High Court of Admiralty in Scotland. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Liddell, Esq. of North Shields, and had surviving issue, I. JOHN, now of Charlton Hall; II. Albert; III. Robert-Dundas, who is m., and has four sons and one dau., I. Frances, m. to John-Clerk Maxwell, Esq. of Middlebie and Glenlair; and II. Jane.

CAYLEY OF WYDALE.

CAYLEY, EDWARD-STILLINGFLEET, Esq. of Wydale House, co. York, b. 13 Aug. 1802; m. 30 Aug. 1823, Emma, 3rd dau. of Sir George Cayley, Bart., and has issue,

EDWARD-STILLINGFLEET, b. in July, 1824.
George-John, b. in Jan. 1826.
Charles-Digby, b. in March, 1827.

Mr. Cayley, who has represented the North Riding of Yorkshire in parliament since 1832, is a magistrate for the North and East Ridings, and a deputy-lieutenant of the former.

Lineage.

The ancient family of Cayley traces an uninterrupted male descent from the time of WILLIAM the Conqueror, with whom their ancestor, HUMPHREY DE CAILLI, came into England.* They were summoned to parliament among the Barons of the realm in 1309. It would appear that they were, previous to the Conquest, lords of the town of Cailli, in Normandy. In the division of the spoil among the followers of the CONQUEROR, according to Doomsday Book, Massingham, and part of the hundred of Broder Cross, fell to the share of Humphrey de Cailli. Sir Osbert de Cailli, also, in the time of EDWARD I., claimed the assize of bread and beer, the view of frankpledge &c. of the towns of Bradenham, Oxeburgh, Kernewis, as being possessed by his family from the time of the Conquest. Sir Osbert m. Emma, dau. and co-heir of the Lord Tateshall, a descendant, maternally, of the Albinis. Soon after the survey, this family possessed Hildeburgh, Denver, Hillington, Hecham, and other manors in Norfolk. The present representative of the family being SIR GEORGE CAYLEY, Bart, an ample pedigree is given in BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage, eighth edition.

ARTHUR CAYLEY, second son of Sir William Cayley, first Baronet, of Brompton, co. York, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Shipton, Esq. of Low Hall, and was father of

ARTHUR CAYLEY, Esq. of Low Hall, co. York, who m. three times: 1st, Miss Noel, of the Gainsborough family; 2ndly, Miss Thompson, of Kilham; and 3rdly, Miss Judson. By the last only he had issue, viz., a son and heir,

THE REV. JOHN CAYLEY, of Low Hall, who m. Rebecca, dau. and co-heir of Alexander Nowell, Esq. of Rede, co. Lancaster, and had (with two daus., one of whom d. unm., and the other m. but had no issue) an only son,

THE REV. JOHN CAYLEY, of Low Hall, Brompton, who m. Frances, only dau. of Sir George Cayley, fourth Bart., by Philadelphia, his wife, dau. of John Digby, Esq. of Mansfield Woodhouse, (through this marriage, the present families of Cayley derive from Queen Adelicia, by her second husband, William de Albini, and so, from CHARLEMAGNE,) and had one dau., Philadelphia-Frances, and one son,

JOHN CAYLEY, Esq. of Low Hall, who m. in 1798, Elizabeth-Sarah Stillingfleet, great-granddau. of the celebrated Bishop Stillingfleet, and by that lady had, with four daus., all of whom d. unm., an only son, the present EDWARD-STILLINGFLEET CAYLEY, Esq., as above.

Arms—Quarterly: arg. and sa., on a bend, gu., three mullets, of the first.
Crest—A demi-lion, rampant, or, charged with a bend, gu., thereon three mullets, arg., in the paws a battle-axe, ppr.
Seat—Wydale House, near Scarborough.

* Fox, in his "Acts and Monuments," citing the Annals of Normandy, as containing a list of those who accompanied the CONQUEROR, mentions "LE SIRE DE CAILLY."

CHADWICK OF MAVESYN-RIDWARE.

CHADWICK, HUGO-MALVEYSIN, Esq. of Mavesyn-Ridware, co. Stafford, and of Healey, Lancashire, b. 28 Nov. 1793; m. in June, 1826, Eliza-Catherine, youngest dau. of the late Lieut.-Gen. Chapman, of Tainfield House, Somersetshire, and sister of Sir Stephen-Remnant Chapman, K.C.H., Governor of Bermuda, and has one son and two daus., viz., JOHN-DE-HELEY, b. 30 Dec. 1834; Elizabeth-Catherine; and Laura-Isabella-Louisa. ## CHALMERS OF AULDBAR CASTLE.

CHALMERS, PATRICK, Esq. of Auldbar Castle, Forfarshire, b. in 1802, and s. his father 8 Dec. 1826. Mr. Chalmers, who was formerly a captain in the 3rd dragoon-guards, having sold out in 1827, is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Forfarshire. He sat in parliament for the Montrose Burghs from 1835, until recently.

Lineage.

As to the origin of the Chalmers in the north of Scotland, it is most probable that they are a branch of the Clan Cameron, from the affinity of their arms; and besides, Sir George Mackenzie, in his Genealogical Manuscript of the families of Scotland, says, "One of the clan going to France, put his name in a Latin dress, by designing himself Camerario, which in French is 'de la Chambre,' who, upon his return to Scotland, was, according to our dialect, called Chambers; which tradition (continues Sir George) is more confirmed by the fleur-de-lis carried in base in their arms, which addition their predecessor has no doubt got when in France for some meritorious action done there."

Derived from a branch of Chalmers of Balnacraig, was,

WILLIAM CHALMERS, Esq. of Auldbar, son of Chalmers, of Auldbar, Esq., by his wife, the eldest dau. of Forbes of Foveran, Bart. He m. Cecilia, dau. of Elphinstone, of Glack, Aberdeenshire, and had (with a dau., who m. Irvine, of Inveramsay) a son,

Mr. Chamberlayne, lately an officer in the Royal Artillery, inherited the Maugersbury and other estates, with very extensive manorial rights, on the death, s. p., of his maternal uncle, Edmund-John Chamberlayne, Esq., in 1831, and in compliance with that gentleman's will, took the surname of CHAMBERLAYNE only, by act of parliament, in lieu of his patronymic, ACKERLEY.

Lineage.

This family is descended from John, Count de Tankerville, of Tankerville Castle, in Normandy, who accompanied the CONQUEROR to England; and, on the subjugation of that country, returned to his extensive landed possessions in Normandy. This ancient family of the Tankervilles was nearly allied to the Montmorency branch of the Royal House of France. JOHN, son of the Earl of Tankerville, being left in England, became Lord-Cham-

* WILLIAM CHAMBERLAIN, solicitor to the Treasury and to the Royal Mint, cousin of Thomas Chamberlayne, Esq. of Charlton, m. Hariot, fourth dau. of Sir Cecil Bisshopp, Bart., relict of Thomas Dummer, Esq. of Cranbury, and by her, who became possessed of Cranbury by bequest from her first husband (m. 3rdly, Nathaniel Dance, Esq., created a Baronet in 1800), he left one son and two daus., viz.,

CHAMPERNOWNE OF DARTINGTON.

CHAMPERNOWNE, HENRY, Esq. of Dartington, co. Devon, b. 14 Sept. 1815; s. at the decease of his father in 1819.

Lineage.

The family of CHAMPERNOWNE, which, in splendour of descent, yields to few in the west of England, was originally called CAMPO ARNULPHI, and the first members sent to parliament, by the co. of Cornwall, were William de Campo-Arnulphi, and Reginald Beville.

"The first of the name at Modbury (we quote Prince) was Richard, a younger son of Sir Henry Chambernon, of Clist Chambernon; which Sir Henry was son of Sir Oliver, as he was son of Henry Chambernon, of Clist and Ilfracombe, in King HENRY II.'s time, the last of which family (of Clist Chambernon) was Sir William Chambernon, who left issue, Elizabeth, his only dau. and heir; a frolic lady, that m. William Polglas, within three days of her father's death, and within two days after her husband Polglas's death, she was m. again unto John Cergeaux. By Polglas, she left a son, that was an idiot, and d. of the plague; and a dau., called Margaret, who became his heir, and the wife of Judge Herl, whose son, Sir John Herl, dying without issue, conveyed this large inheritance to the Lord Bonvil of Shute, from whom it came to the Lord Grey, Duke of Suffolk, and from him, by attainder, to the crown."

"There have been (continues the same writer) many eminent persons of this name and family, the history of whose ancestors and exploits, for the greatest part, is devoured by time, although their names occur in the chronicles of England amongst those worthies who, with their lives and fortunes, were ready to serve their king and country."

RICHARD CHAMBERNON, son of Sir Henry Chambernon, of Clist Chambernon, m. the heiress of Sir Alexander Okeston, by his wife, Joan, relict of Richard de Valletort. By her, whom Edmond, Earl of Cornwall, calleth by the name of sister, in a grant made by him, dated 12th EDWARD I., he had a son and heir,

SIR RICHARD CHAMBERNON, who acquired, by special command of EDWARD I., the lands of Modbury, in Devon, (originally possessed by the Valletorts,) from Sir James de Oskeston, and was s. by his son,

SIR RICHARD CHAMBERNON, of Modbury, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Hugh de Valletort, of Tawton, and was father of

SIR THOMAS CHAMPERNON, of Modbury, who left by Elenor, his wife, dau. of Sir Roger Rohant, a son and successor,

SIR RICHARD CHAMPERNON, who m. 1st, Alice, dau. of Thomas, Lord Astley, and had a son,

ALEXANDER, who m. Joan, dau. and heir of Martin Ferrers, and thus acquired the manor of Bees Ferrers, which remained with his descendants in the male line, until BLANCH CHAMPERNON (dau. and heiress of Sir John Champernon, of Bees Ferrers,) m. Sir Robert Willoughby, Knt. of Broke, summoned to parliament 12 Aug. 1492, as Lord Willoughby de Broke, and conveyed the manor of Bees Ferrers, the borough and manor of Callington, and many other large estates in the west of England, to her husband. From this marriage lineally derives the present Lord Willoughby de Broke.

Sir Richard Champernon m. 2ndly, Katherine, dau. of Sir Giles Daubeney, and had issue,

RICHARD, of Modbury.
John, of Inswork, ancestor in the female line, of the families of Trevilian, Fortescue, and Monk of Potheridge. Of this last family was the celebrated GEORGE MONK, DUKE OF ALBEMARLE.

The eldest son of the second marriage,

RICHARD CHAMPERNON, of Modbury, m. Isabel Bonvile, sister of Sir William Bonvile, summoned to parliament in 1449, as Baron Bonvile of Chuton, and had a son and successor,

HUGH CHAMPERNON, of Modbury, father, by Alice, his wife, dau. of John Boys, of Woode, of

WILLIAM CHAMPERNON, of Modbury, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of John Chiderleigh, by whom he acquired the lands of Chiderleigh, &c., and had a son,

Sir John Champernowne, of Modbury, who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Philip Courtenay, of Molland, high-sheriff for Devon, 10th Edward IV. (second son of Sir Philip Courtenay, Knt. of Powderham Castle, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Walter, Lord Hungerford), and was s. by his son,

Sir Philip Champernowne, Knt. of Modbury, living temp. Henry VII. This gentleman m. Katherine, dau. of Sir Edmund Carew, by Katherine, dau. and co-heir of Sir William Huddesfield, attorney-general to Henry VII., and had issue, John, of Modbury, ancestor of the Champernownes of Modbury, and Arthur, of Dartington. The second son,

Sir Arthur Champernowne, living temp. Henry VIII., exchanged, early in the reign of Elizabeth, the lordship of Polsloe, for that of Dartington, in the co. of Devon, and seated himself there, where his descendants have since remained. He m. Mary, dau. of Henry Norreys, father of Henry, Baron Norreys, of Rycote, and widow of Sir George Carew, by whom he had, with a dau., Elizabeth, m. in 1576, to Sir Edward Seymour, Bart., a son,

Gawen Champernowne, Esq. of Dartington, in Devon, who m. the Lady Gabrielle, dau. of the Count Montgomerie, in France, and left (with several daus., one of whom m. Richard Hillersdon, of Membland, and another, Ursula, Sir Gerard Sams, of Essex,) a son,

Arthur Champernowne, Esq. of Dartington, living in 1620, who m. Bridget, dau. of Thomas Fulford, Esq. of Fulford, in Devon, and was s. by his son,

Arthur Champernowne, Esq. of Dartington, living in 1678, who m. Margaret, dau. and eventually co-heir of Sir John Fowell, Bart. of Fowellscombe, M.P., Colonel of foot in the service of the Parliament, and Governor of Totness. By her Mr. Champernowne had eight sons, the two eldest became of Dartington; the third, John, in holy orders, vicar of Paington, m. the dau. of Mullock, of Cockington, and had issue; and the fourth, Henry, of Fowellscombe, d. s. p. in 1757. The eldest son,

Richard Champernowne, Esq. of Dartington, dying unm. in 1696, was s. by his brother,

Arthur Champernowne, Esq. of Dartington, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, second dau. of Francis Courtenay, Esq., who d. in 1669, eldest son of Sir William Courtenay, of Powderham, and dying in 1717, left, with a dau., Elizabeth, wife of Gabriel Yard, Esq. of Stoke Gabriel, two sons: the younger, Francis, rector of Dartington, d. unm.; the elder,

Arthur Champernowne, Esq. of Dartington, m. Jane, dau. of John Hollings, M.D., physician to George II., and dying in April, 1766, left an only dau. and heiress,

Jane Champernowne, of Dartington, who m. the Rev. Richard Harington, second son of Sir James Harington, Bart. of Ridlington, and by that gentleman (who m. secondly, Miss Hussey, of Truro, and thirdly, Elizabeth, dau. of Abraham Chambers, Esq. of Totteridge, and relict of William Hallett, Esq.) had a son and successor,

Arthur Harington, Esq. of Dartington, who assumed, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his maternal grandfather, the surname and arms of Champernowne. He m. Louisa, dau. of John Buller, Esq. of Morval, in the co. of Devon, and had issue, Henry, his heir; Richard; John; Jane, m. to the Rev. Wm. Martin, vicar of Staverton; Louisa; Caroline; and Maria. ## CHERRY OF BUCKLAND.

CHERRY, WILLIAM-GEORGE, Esq. of Buckland, co. Hereford, b. 13 Sept. 1777 ; m. 17 March, 1817, Eleanora, dau. of James-Sackville-Tufton Phelp, Esq. of Coston House, co. Leicester, and has issue, Rosa-Edwyna, m. 1 May, 1839, to her cousin, Capt. William-Thomas-Rowland Powell, eldest son of William-Edward Powell, Esq. of Nanteos, M.P., and lord-lieutenant of Cardiganshire.

Williama-Emma.

Mr. Cherry is in the commission of the peace for Herefordshire.

Lineage.

The family of Cherry, formerly of Shottesbrooke, or more properly, as of old, Cherrie, of which there are several branches remaining, is of Norman origin, being, it is said, descended on the male side from the "De Cheries," seigneurs de Branvel, Villamara, Beauval, and Villencourt, &c., in Normandy, and on the female, from the Bretons, both families recognised in all the earlier "Recherches," or Visitations, as of the noblesse of Normandy. A branch of the Cheries at an early period embraced the Huguenot doctrine, and in consequence of the religious persecutions carried on against that party, migrated and settled in England, where they afterwards became possessed of considerable estates. The estates and manors of Shottesbrooke, White Waltham, Smewins, Winsors, and Bray, in Berkshire, formed part of their possession : at the latter place a school was founded by one of this family, and endowed with lands for the education of twenty poor boys. Of this family was FRANCIS CHERRY, celebrated by Hearne, the antiquary, (whose father was a domestic servant to the Cherrys, and who was himself brought up and educated at their expense,) as "the most accomplished gentleman of his day:" a fine portrait of him hangs in the picture gallery of the Bodleian Library in Oxford. His father, William, was killed by the horses running away with his chariot, and overturning it at the moment when he had projected his head, whereby it was at once severed from the body. He allowed his son Francis 2500*l.* a-year during his own lifetime, an immense sum in those days. "Francis," says a contemporary writer, "married soon after he was twenty, and his house, which at the Revolution made up seventy beds for officers and soldiers quartered upon him, was the hotel devoted to learning, to friendship, and to distress." Mr. Cherry concealed many celebrated Royalists at Shottesbrooke, and at White Waltham (another of his houses), the very learned Charles Leslie, whom he sent (without success) to convert the Pretender. This FRANCIS CHERRY m. Elizabeth, eldest dau. and coheiress of John Finch, Esq. of Frere Court, co. Berks, and was buried at Shottesbrooke, with this remarkable inscription only on his tomb, directed by himself: "Hic jacet peccatorum maximus."

Sir Robert Chester, formerly lieutenant-colonel of the Hertfordshire militia, is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Herts. He is likewise master of the ceremonies to the Queen, having enjoyed the same office under their Majesties GEORGE III., GEORGE IV., and WILLIAM IV.

Lineage.

The CHESTERS enjoyed, at a very remote period, large possessions in Derbyshire, and represented the town of Derby in parliament temp. EDWARD II. and EDWARD III. Their Derbyshire estates† were, however, expended in supporting the claim of the Earl of Richmond (HENRY VII.) to the crown.

SIR ROBERT CHESTER,‡ only son of the Lancastrian, one of the gentlemen of the privy chamber to King HENRY VIII., obtained from that monarch, in recompence for his father's services and sums of money lent but never repaid, a grant, by charter, of the monastery of ROYSTON, with the lands and manors thereunto belonging, in the counties of Hertford and Cambridge. He then assumed for motto, "Vincit qui patitur," and thenceforward the Chesters became established at Royston and Cockenhatch. Sir Robert, who was knighted at Wilton by EDWARD VI. in 1552, m. Katherine, dau. of Christopher Throckmorton, Esq. of Coorse Court, in Gloucestershire, and had (with other issue, whence the Gloucestershire Chesters) a son and successor,

EDWARD CHESTER, Esq. of Royston, who m. Katherine, dau. and heir of Sir James Granado, Knt. equerry to HENRY VIII., and had (with a dau., Mary, m. to Edward Thornborough, Esq. of Shaddesden, Bucks) a son and successor,

SIR ROBERT CHESTER, of Royston and Cockenhatch, who, entertaining King JAMES I. in the King's progress from Scotland, received the honour of Knighthood, 1603. He m. Anne, daughter of Sir Arthur Capel, Knt. of Haddam Hall, by Mary, his wife, dau. of John, Lord Grey of Pargo, and had, EDWARD, his heir; Granado, and Robert, both Doctors in Divinity; John, b. in 1607; Henry, a colonel in the army; Katharine, m. to Sir Thomas Nightingale, Bart.; Anne, m. in 1621, to Edward Radcliffe, Esq. of Hitchin; Theodosia, m. 1st, to Robert Nightingale, Esq. of Newport, and 2ndly, to Sir Francis Theobald, Knt.; Elizabeth, m. to Samuel Hinton, D.C.L. of Lichfield; and Frances, m. to George Pigot, Esq. of Abington. Sir Robert was s. by his eldest son,

SIR EDWARD CHESTER, of Royston and Cockenhatch, who was knighted in 1642. He m. 1st, Katherine, dau. of John Stone, Esq. of Bradfield Grange, Herts, serjeant-at-law, and had, John, who predeceased his father, leaving issue, whose descendants alienated the Royston property; Anne, m. 1st, to Robert Eade, M.D., and 2ndly, to Henry Hoogan, M.D.; and Cecilia, m. to Thomas Turner, Esq. of Walden. Sir Edward m. 2ndly, Anne, dau. and heir of Sir Peter Saltonstall, Knt. of Barkway, co. Herts, and dying in 1664, left, by her, a son,

EDWARD CHESTER, Esq. of Barkway and Cockenhatch, sheriff of Herts in 1666, who m. Judith, dau. and heir of Edward Wright, Esq. of Finley, in Nottinghamshire, and had (with four daughters) two sons, viz., Robert, who alienated all the remaining estates: he m. twice, and left several children by his second wife, and PETER, of whom presently. III. Catherine. IV. Lucy. V. Mary.

Mr. Lacon-Childe, who is a magistrate for the counties of Salop and Worcester, and a deputy-lieut. for the former shire, s. his father 3rd Feb. 1824. He served the office of sheriff for Shropshire in 1828, and represented the borough of Wenlock in the first parliament of GEORGE IV.

Lineage.

The family of BALDWIN, which eventually assumed the name of CHILDE, through an heiress, is stated, from strong presumptive testimony by Blakeway, in his "Sheriffs of Shropshire," to derive from BAWDEWYN, a Norman on the Roll of Battel Abbey; and it appears that the Baldwyns at a very remote period were seated at Diddlebury, more recently Delbury, in Coverdale, Salop.

GEORGE FITZ BAWDEWIN, son of Bawdewin de Brugge, (or "of Bridgenorth,") had the manor of Kingsmeade, in Yorkshire, and was grandfather of

ROGER BALDWIN, who d. in or not long before the year 1398. This Roger is presumed to be the first of the family who obtained Dodelebury; for his wife, Jane, was dau. and heir of William de Wigley, by Alice le Childe, whose great-grandfather, John L'Enfant, or the Child, is stated to have m. Emblema, the dau. and co-heir of Richard Acheley, the younger, of that place, a descendant of William Achilles, as the name is there written, who is found in the Testa de Nevill, of the reign of HENRY III., to hold the tenth part of a knight's fee in Dodelebury, of the barony of Walter de Clifford.

WILLIAM BALDWIN, of Diddlebury, grandson of Roger, had passed the middle age of life in 1458, for he then bestowed his lands in Manslow upon his son,

JOHN BALDWIN, and Elizabeth his wife. Their son,

JOHN BAWDWYN, yeoman of the crown, living in 1491, was father of

WILLIAM BAWDEWYN, cup-bearer to Queen MARY, and was living in 1576, when Sir Henry Compton, Knt., Lord Compton, granted to him, by the name of William Baldwyne, of Diddlebury, Gentleman, the manor and advowson of Kyre Wyard, in Worcestershire. He d. without issue, and was s. by his brother,

RICHARD BALDWYN, who m. 7 Nov. 1545, Margery, dau. of Lawrence Ludlow, of Moore House, in Corvedale, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS BALDWYN, b. in 1546, who, like his grandfather and uncle, spent many of his years within the circuit of a court, as agent to the Earl of Shrewsbury, then engaged in the dangerous office of guarding the Scottish queen. In Lodge's "Illustrations," vol. ii. p. 234, is a letter signed "T. Bawdewyn," and directed to the Earl of Shrewsbury, 1 July, 1580. It informs his lordship that ELIZABETH is resolute against his going to Chatsworth with Queen MARY. In a room in Beauchamp's tower, in the Tower of London, were discovered, some years ago, a number of inscriptions, chiefly made with nails, and all of them the autographs of the unfortunate individuals who thus endeavoured to beguile for a time the tedious hours of confinement. Among them is one which runs thus:—

1585. THOMAS BAWDEWIN. JULI.
AS VERTUE MAKETH LIFE
SO SIN CAWSETH DEATH.

To which is added a representation of a pair of scales, evidently intimating the writer's confidence in his own integrity and desire to obtain justice. This person, there is no doubt, was the Thomas Baldwyn above mentioned. His epitaph, still remaining at Diddlebury, records his escape from the sea, the sword, and the cruel tower. The issue of his confinement is supplied by a passage in the pedigree—"Thomas Bawdewin, Esq. of Diddlebury, by the privie counsell of Queen ELIZABETH, appointed as . . . . (here is a blank) for the affayres of MARY Queen of Scots and George, Earl of Salop, after three years imprisonment in the Tower, m. Bertran, (this should be Gertrude) dau. of Robert Corbett, Esq. of Stanwardine." After his liberation, he adopted a motto from the Psalmist, piously ascribing the event to a merciful Providence:—Per Deum meum transilio murum. And it seems most probable, that, when released, he quitted the dangerous vortex of a court, and retired to his paternal estate in Corvedale, where he d. at a good old age, in Oct. 1614, and where his posterity continued, for five generations, until Richard Bawdewin sold the Diddlebury estate to Frederick Cornewall, Esq. capt. R.N., father of the late Bishop of Worcester.

WILLIAM BALDWIN, second brother of Thomas Bawdewin, the prisoner, was of Elsich, in the parish of Diddlebury. The family name had been hitherto written indiscriminately, but from this point of divergence, the two branches chose to distinguish themselves by a different mode of spelling. William's son,

CHARLES BALDWIN, Esq., was b. in 1593, and in the troubles which marked the earlier part of the ensuing century, strenuously supported the royal cause. He represented the town of Ludlow in the Long Parliament, until he was disabled (Feb. 5. 1643), for deserting (as the term was) the service of the house, being in the king's quarters, and adhering to that party. He m. in 1617, one of the daus. and co-heirs of Francis Holland, of Burwarton, in Shropshire, and had two sons, who both rose to the honour of knighthood, and to great eminence in different departments of the law, viz.,

SAMUEL (Sir), his heir.

Timothy (Sir), one of the masters in Chancery, and chancellor of the diocese of Chester, m. 1st, Ellen, dau. of Sir William Owen, Knt. of Condover, and relict of Sir George Norton, Knt. of Abbots Leigh, near Bristol, and 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Gerard Skrymshire, Esq. of Aqualate, relict of Nicholas Acton, Esq. of Brockleton, co. Worcester, but left no issue.

The elder son,

SIR SAMUEL BALDWYN, b. in 1618, barrister-at-law, and one of the king's serjeants in 1672, d. in 1683, and was buried in the Temple Church, being styled on his monument, "of Stoke Castle." Sir Samuel m. the dau. of Richard Walcot, Esq. of London, merchant, and was s. at his decease in 1683, by his eldest surviving son,

CHARLES BALDWYN, Esq. of Elsich and Stoke Castle, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Nicholas Acton, Esq., by Mary, his wife, sister and co-heir of Edwin Skrymsher, Esq. of Aqualate, and had issue,

He wedded 2ndly, Anne, dau. of Robert Gayer, Esq. of Stoke, Bucks, and widow of Frances Annesley, LL.D., but by her had no issue. His son and successor,

CHARLES BALDWYN, Esq. of Aqualate, M.P. for Shropshire, m. Catherine, elder dau. and co-heir of William-Lacon Childe,* Esq. of Kinlet, by Catherine, his wife, dau. of Samuel Pytts, Esq. of Kyre, and had, with a dau., Catherine, two sons, Charles (the younger), who d. in 1811, and the elder, his successor,

WILLIAM BALDWYN, Esq., who, inheriting the estates of his maternal ancestors, assumed the surname and arms of CHILDE only. He m. 20 Nov. 1775, Annabella, second dau. of Sir Charlton Leighton, Bart., and by her, who d. 21 Jan. 1816, had

WILLIAM-LACON, his heir.
Annabella, who m. Samuel-Richard Alleyne, Esq., and has three daus., viz., Annabella-Matilda, Caroline-Charity, and Harriet.

Mr. (Baldwyn) Childe d. 3 Feb. 1824, and was s. by his son, the present WILLIAM-LACON CHILDE, Esq. of Kinlet.

CHISHOLM.

THE CHISHOLM. Duncan-Macdonell Chisholm, of Erchless Castle, co. Inverness, b. 5 Aug. 1811, inherited the estates of his family and the Chiefship of his Clan, on the decease of his brother, 8 Sept. 1838.

Lineage.

The antiquity of the CHISHOLMS in the Highlands of Scotland appears established beyond disputation. The reputed founder of the Clan, HARALD, is stated in the History of Shetland and Orkney to have been of the royal stock of Norway. Sir Robert Gordon calls this

* Mr. Childe was son of Thomas Childe, Esq. of Kinlet, sheriff of Salop in 1705, who was son of Sir William Childe, Knt., LL.D., Master in Chancery, by Anne, his wife, only dau. and heir of Rowland Lacon, Esq. of Kinlet, who was great-grandson of Richard Laken, Esq. of Willey, by Agnes, his wife, dau. of Sir John Blount, Knt. of Kinlet.

* Mr. Thompson was twice lord-mayor of York.

chief, HARALD CHISHOLM, and however he acquired the surname, it is clearly the tradition that he bore it. The Chisholms of the North are known in their vernacular tongue by the appellation An Siosalach, "THE CHISHOLM," emphatically as the chief.

HARALD, Thane or Earl of Caithness, Orkney, and Shetland, founder of the name and race of Chisholm, one of the most formidable northern chiefs, m. the dau. of Mudali or Mached, Earl of Athol, the last male descendant of Donald Ban, King of Scotland. In the year 1196, Harald raised the standard of rebellion, and himself and his clan were at that remote period so great and powerful, that the King of Scotland, WILLIAM the Lion, found it necessary to lead an army against the insurgents. The king was successful, but Harald and his son Torphin continued revolt after revolt, until both suffered torturing and ignominious death, and the clan became altogether dispersed. From the rigorous persecution to which they were subjected, arose, it is stated, the settlement of the CLAN SIOSAL, in the co. of Inverness. Like the Mac-Pherson branch of the Clan Chattan and others, the Chisholms retreated from the scene of their misfortunes to a locality where they were likely to elude their enemies, and the fastnesses of Stathglas offered a fitting situation where they could maintain their independence. In 1334, Sir Robert Lauder, of Quarrelwood, hereditary constable of the strong and important Castle of Urquhart, gave his dau. and heiress in marriage to the chief of the Chisholms, and this is the first well authenticated intimation of the Chisholms being established in the locality which they have retained in succession now for more than five hundred years. From this marriage sprung

SIR ROBERT CHISHOLM, who became possessed of Quarrelwood, in right of his mother, and acquired the office of Constable of Urquhart Castle. He received the honour of knighthood, and was taken prisoner with King DAVID at the battle of Redhills, 17 Oct. 1346. He was ransomed, or otherwise obtained his liberty, and lived many years after. In 1362, he made a grant for the weal of his soul, which is still preserved. It is neatly written, and is dated at Inverness, the feast of the Epiphany of the Holy Cross, and therein is stated, that "Robertus de Chisholm, miles, Dominus ejusdem," grants and confirms, for the salvation of his own soul and the souls of his ancestors and successors, six acres of arable land, lying within the lands of the old castle of Inverness. This land is called Direbought, that is, Tir na bochd, the lands of the poor, and it is still partly in the possession of the Kirk Session of Inverness. It lies at the base of the supposed site of Macbeth's Castle. Sir Robert Chisholm left (with a dau., Janet, m. to Hugh Rose, fifth laird of Kilravock, who received the lands of Cantra and others in Strathnairn as her tocher) an only son and heir,

SIR ROBERT DE CHISHOLM, styled "of Comar," living about the year 1380, who had two sons. The elder,

JOHN CHISHOLM, was Treasurer of Moray, and is officially called "Dominus and Venerabilis Vir." His signature appears, in 1399, to a deed respecting the tithes arising from Elgin. He was father of an only dau. and heir, MORELLA, m. to Alexander Sutherland, Baron of Duffus. The Chisholm's brother and heir male,

ALEXANDER DE CHISHOLM, also styled of Comar, m. Margaret, dau. of Lachlan Macintosh, of that ilk, about 1400, and was father of THOMAS DE CHISHOLM, whose son, ALEXANDER DE CHISHOLM, had (with two daus., one m. to Ewen Maclean, of Ardgour, and the other, to Farquhar Farquharson, of Invercauld) a son, UALAN, or WILAND DE CHISHOLM, of Comar, who lived about the year 1513, and was father of JOHN CHISHOLM, of Comar, A.D. 1538, whose son, ALEXANDER CHISHOLM, s. in 1555. He m. Janet, dau. of Kenneth Mackenzie, tenth Baron of Kintail, and had two sons, THOMAS, who d. s. p., and JOHN, who s. his brother in 1590, and m. the eldest dau. of Mackenzie, of Coul, by whom he was father of ALEXANDER CHISHOLM, infeft in 1630, whose son, by his wife, a dau. of Alexander Mackenzie, of Gairloch, was ALEXANDER CHISHOLM, who s. in 1677. He m. a dau. of Roderick Mackenzie, of Applecross, and left (with a dau., Jean, wife of Sir Kenneth Mackenzie, of Coul,) a son and heir,

JOHN CHISHOLM, "The Chisholm," living at the close of the seventeenth century, who m. Jean, third dau. of Sir Thomas Mackenzie, of Findon, and received a fortune with her in money, her eldest sister, as heiress, carrying the lands to her husband, Sir Kenneth Mackenzie, of Scatwell. He was s. by his only son,

THE CHISHOLM, RODERICK, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Duncan Macdonell, of Glengarry, by whom he had five sons, viz., 1. ALEXANDER, his heir; 2. James, major in the 92nd Highlanders, d. unm. in 1789; 3. William, provost of Inverness, d. in 1807, leaving two sons, Colin and Alexander, who both d. s. p. m.; 4. John, a captain in the army, d. unm.; 5. Colin, a colonel in the army of Prince CHARLES, fell at Culloden, s. p. The Chief m. 2ndly, Isabel, second dau. of Sir Kenneth Mackenzie, of Scatwell, and had by her a dau., m. to Fraser of Culduthel. The Chisholm, with his clan, joined the Chevalier St. George, in 1715, and in consequence forfeited his estates, which were sold by the commissioners to James Baillie, W.S., who disposed of them to George Mackenzie, Esq. of Allangrange, who received a charter of them, dated 26 July, 1720. This Chisholm, with other Highland chiefs, received a pardon under the privy seal, in 1727; and on 20 July, in that year, Allangrange disposed of the lands to Alexander Chisholm, of Mucherach, uncle of Roderick, who was infeft next day, and in 1742, he again disponed them to Alexander, eldest son of Roderick, of Comar, and his heir male. The Chisholm's fidelity to the Stuarts again led him to take up arms for them in 1745, when he joined Prince CHARLES, and he was one of those who was excepted in the act of pardon, passed in 1747, but through the influence of President Forbes, he eventually escaped by paying a fine. He d. in 1785, and was s. by his son,

THE CHISHOLM, ALEXANDER, who m. 1st, a dau. of Mackenzie, of Applecross, and had two sons and two daus., viz., 1. Duncan, captain in the 71st, who d. 23 Oct. 1782, unm.; 2. ## CHOLMLEY OF WHITBY AND HOWSHAM.

Cholmley, George, Esq. of Whitby and Howsham, co. York, s. his father in 1809; m. in 1824, Hannah, dau. of John-Robinson Foulis, Esq. of Buckton.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient Cheshire stock of Cholmondeley, springing from Robert, younger son of Hugh de Cholmondeley, deputy-serjeant of Cheshire, temp. Edward I. His great-great-grandson, Sir Richard Cholmley, Knt. of Roxby, purchased, in 1541, a lease for twenty-one years, of the abbey lands of Whitby, and subsequently obtained a grant of all the possessions of the monastery there. This gallant soldier, who was knighted at Leith, in 1544, m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of Lord Conyers and had by her, with three daus., as many sons, viz., Francis, his heir; Roger, ancestor of the Cholmeleys of Brandsby; and Richard. He m. 2ndly, Lady Katharine Clifford, dau. of Henry, first Earl of Cumberland, and widow of John, Lord Scrope of Bolton, by whom he had a son, Henry, successor to his brother Francis. Sir Richard's eldest son, Sir Francis Cholmley, Knt. of Whitby, d. s. p. in 1579, and was s., under the entail of his father's will, by his youngest brother, Sir Henry Cholmley, Knt. of Whitby and Roxby, father of Sir Richard Cholmley, Knt. of Whitby, M.P. for Scarborough in 1620, who m. twice. By his second wife he was father of the gallant Cavalier commander, Sir Richard Cholmley, Knt. of Gromont, slain at the siege of Lyme; and by his first wife had a son, Sir Hugh Cholmley, of Whitby, equally distinguished in the royal cause, who was created a Bart. in 1641. He d. in 1657, leaving by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Sir William Twisden, Bart., two sons, of whom the younger, Sir Hugh Cholmley, s. his nephew as fourth Bart. He m. in 1666, Lady Ann Compton, and dying in 1688, left an only dau. and heir,

Mary Cholmley, of Whitby, b. in 1667, who m. Nathaniel Cholmley, Esq. of London, and had a son,

Hugh Cholmley, Esq. of Whitby, b. in 1684, M.P. for Hedon, high-sheriff of Yorkshire in 1724, and surveyor-general of the crown lands. He m. in 1716, Catherine only dau. and eventual heir of Sir John Wentworth, Bart. of Elmsall and Howsham, and dying in 1755, left, with other issue, a son and successor,

Nathaniel Cholmley, Esq. of Whitby and Howsham, M.P., who m. 1st, in 1750, Catherine, dau. of Sir Rowland Winn, Bart. of Nostel, and had by her two daus., Catherine, of whom presently, and Mary, wife of Abraham Grimes, Esq. He m. 2ndly, Henrietta-Catherine, dau. of Stephen Croft, Esq. of Stillington, and 3rdly, Anne-Jesse, third dau. of Leonard Smelt, Esq. of Langton. By the second wife he had Henrietta, m. to Sir William Strickland, Bart., and Anne-Elizabeth, m. to Constantine-John, Lord Mulgrave. The eldest dau. and heiress,

CLARKE OF WELTON PLACE.

CLARKE, RICHARD-TREVOR, Esq. of Welton Place, co. Northampton, b. 29 Aug. 1813; s. his father 16 Dec. 1829.

Lineage.

This is the principal remaining branch, in Northamptonshire, of a distinguished and extensive family, whose name has been spelt indifferently, Clerke, Clerk, and Clarke.

The various branches refer their common origin to the ancient family of Hamund, who were seated at Willoughby, co. Warwick, in the reign of EDWARD I., from whom was Richard Hamund-Clarke, who was styled Esquire in the 23rd year of HENRY VI., and held the manor estates of Willoughby, under the master and brethren of the Hospital of St. John, and afterwards under Magdalen College, Oxford. One of this family, Dr. Henry Clarke, was president of Magdalen College fifteen years.

The great-grandson of the above-named Richard Clerke, was William Clerke, of Willoughby, whose third son was the celebrated Sir John Clerke, Knt., who took prisoner the Duke of Longueville at the siege of Terounne, in the 5th of HENRY VIII., and received from that king, in memory of the aforesaid service, an honourable augmentation in his coat armour, which is now borne in a canton sinister by his successor, Sir William-Henry Clerke, Bart. of Hitcham and Weston, and was also borne by the family of Clarke of Lawnde Abbey, co. Leicester. The eldest son s. to the paternal estates at Willoughby, and the second son was the founder of the family of Clerk, at Watford, co. Northampton. Other sons, or their children, settled at Kingsthorpe; of whom was Samuel Clarke, D.D., chaplain in ordinary to King JAMES and King CHARLES. Others settled at West Haddon, Croughton, Guilsborough, and Welton, in Northamptonshire; and others in Kent, Warwick, and Leicester.

Many of this family have been knighted; one of them was sheriff in the 14th and 21st of HENRY VIII.; another was M.P. for Northamptonshire in the 13th of CHAS. II.; and Sir Clement was created a Baronet in 1661. Others were eminent merchants in London, and rose to high offices, and in latter times their descendants have continued to fill various posts of trust, honour, and importance, in the county of Northampton.

The first of the Clarkes of Welton who made his residence there, was THOMAS CLARKE, Esq., about 1590. He was also possessed of property, and the manors of Daventry and Drayton, which still remain in the possession of the present representative of the family of Welton Place. His son,

RICHARD CLARKE, Esq. of Welton and Drayton, bapt. 6 Nov. 1599, m. in 1621, Agnes, dau. of Alice Slough, widow, and had a numerous family, of whom the second dau.,

CLAVERING OF CALLALY.

CLAVERING, EDWARD-JOHN, Esq. of Callaly Castle, co. Northumberland, m. 3 July, 1838, Jane, only child of John Carr, of Bondgate Hall, and of Broxfield, in the same county, and has a dau., Augusta-Lucy.

Lineage.

This family, from which sprang the VESCIS, Lords of Alnwick; the LACIS, Earls of Lincoln; the EURES, Lords Eure, in the male line; and the ALTONS, and many other eminent houses, in the female, reside at Callaly Castle,* in Northumberland. Following the example of many of their illustrious countrymen, they entered England under the banner of the CONQUEROR, and the gift of numerous estates marked the services which they subsequently rendered to his cause. The family is a scion of the great house of DE BURGH, and it originally bore that surname; but from the time of HENRY I. until that of EDWARD I., when commanded to take the designation of CLAVERING, from an estate in Essex, the head of the family assumed for surname the Christian name of his father, with the addition of FITZ.

SIR ALAN DE CLAVERING, second son of Robert Fitz Roger, 5th Lord of Warkworth, co. Northumberland, summoned to parliament as a Baron in 1295, (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage,) obtained from his father the estate of CALLALY. He m. Isabella, dau. of Sir William Riddel, and was father of

WILLIAM DE CLAVERING, who was s. by his son,

SIR ROBERT DE CLAVERING, to whom succeeded his eldest son,

SIR JOHN DE CLAVERING, who received the honour of knighthood in the field. He m. Joanna, dau. of Thomas de Heton, and dying in the 4th of HENRY VI., left a son,

ROBERT DE CLAVERING, father of

ROBERT DE CLAVERING,† who died in the time of EDWARD IV., and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN DE CLAVERING, whose son,

ROBERT DE CLAVERING, m. Joan, dau. of — Reims, of Shortflat, in Northumberland, and had a son, his successor at his decease, 10th HENRY VIII.

JOHN CLAVERING, of Callaly, who m. Elizabeth Fenwick, of Fenwick Tower, in Northumberland, and was s. in 1536, by his son,

ROBERT CLAVERING, of Callaly. This gentleman m. Anne, dau. and co-heir of Sir Thomas Grey, of Horton, in Northumberland, and had four sons, ROBERT, his heir; John; JAMES, of Axwell Park, ancestor of the CLAVERINGS of Axwell, BARONETS; and William, slain at the battle of Clavering's Cross. The eldest son,

ROBERT CLAVERING, Esq. of Callaly, m. Mary, dau. of Sir Cuthbert Collingwood, of Eslington, in Northumberland, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN CLAVERING, Knt., who m. Anne, dau. of Sir Thomas Riddell, and had, with several other children, 1. ROBERT (Sir), Knt.-Banneret, colonel in the Royal army, d. unm.; 2. RALPH, successor to his father; and William, ancestor of the Claverings of Berrington. Sir John Clavering died a prisoner in London, for his loyalty to King CHARLES I. His eldest surviving son and heir,

RALPH CLAVERING, Esq., having likewise espoused zealously the Royal cause, suffered imprisonment, and was eventually obliged to go beyond the seas. He returned with King CHARLES II., and having m. Mary, dau. of William Middleton, Esq. of Stokeld, in Yorkshire, left at his decease, a daughter, Mary, m. to Gerrard Salvin, Esq. of Croxdale, in Durham, and a son, his successor,

JOHN CLAVERING, Esq. of Callaly, b. in 1659, who m. Anne, dau. of William, Lord Widdrington, and had a daughter, Anne, m. to F. Maire, Esq. of Hardwick, and a son, his successor,

RALPH CLAVERING, Esq. of Callaly, b. in 1695, who m. in 1723, Mary, dau. of Nicholas Stapleton, Esq. of Ponteland, and Carleton, in Yorkshire, by whom he had a large family, of which two sons married, namely, Francis, one of the younger, who wedded Eleanor Lambton, of the county of Durham, and the eldest son and heir,

RALPH CLAVERING, Esq. of Callaly, b. 27 June, 1727,

* This castle was the abode of WILLIAM DE CALLALY in the beginning of HENRY III.'s time, and of his son, GILBERT, in the same reign, who granted it, with the manor of Yetlington, to ROBERT FITZ ROGER, Baron of Warkworth and Clavering, who assumed the surname of CLAVERING; and that grant being confirmed by the crown, CALLALY has remained ever since in the possession of the family.

† Besides JOHN, his successor, he had ROBERT, ancestor of the CLAVERINGS OF LEARCHILD, supposed to be now extinct, and also of the CLAVERINGS OF TILMOUTH.

who m. 1st, Eliza, dau. of James Egan, Esq., but had no issue. He wedded 2ndly, Frances, dau. of John Lynch, Esq., and had a son,

JOHN-ALOYSIUS, his successor.

He espoused 3rdly, in 1767, Mary, dau. of Edward Walsh, Esq., and had issue,

EDWARD, successor to his brother.
Lucy, m. 1st, to John Stapleton, Esq. of Clintz, in Yorkshire, and 2ndly, to J. Paston, Esq. of Norfolk.
Frances, m. to Henry Robinson, Esq.
Anne. Ellen. Eliza.

Mr. Clavering was s. at his decease, in 1788, by his eldest son,

2. John-William Gregg, b. 14 Aug. 1834.
1. Sarah-Andrews Gregg.

He wedded, 2ndly, 10 Dec. 1832, Elizabeth, eldest dau. of William-Nicholson Steele-Nicholson, Esq. of Ballow House, and Elizabeth Hancock, his wife, and by her has two other sons and a dau.,

III. James-Blackwood, b. 30 Jan. 1835.
IV. Richard, b. 1 May, 1836.
V. Edward-Allen, b. 21 Jan. 1840.
I. Agnes-Elizabeth. II. Isabel-Hamilton.
III. Margaret-Sabina.

Mr. Rose-Cleland is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Down. He commanded the Newtown Ards Yeomen Infantry at the battle of Saintfield, 9 June, 1798; in August following, raised the Rath-Gael Yeomen Infantry, and received repeated thanks from the government for his services; he also served the office of high-sheriff for the county of Down in 1805, and presided at the contested election for that county, between Robert Stewart, Viscount Castlereagh, and Col. John Meade, which lasted twenty-one days.

Lineage.

The family of Cleland (formerly spelt Kneland) is of great antiquity in Scotland. Their coat of arms, tradition states, was acquired by their being hereditary foresters to the ancient Earls of Douglas.

The first of the family of whom there is any record was ALEXANDER CLELAND (or Kneland) of that Ilk, in the county of Lanark. He was living in the reign of King ALEXANDER III., and m. Margaret, dau. of Adam Wallace, of Riccarton, and sister of Sir Malcolm Wallace, the father of Sir William Wallace. He was ancestor of the Clelands of that Ilk, and of several families of the same surname.* His son and heir,

JAMES CLELAND (or Kneland), the second of that Ilk, joined his cousin, Sir William Wallace, in the year 1296, for the relief of his country against the English, along with the first noblemen and gentlemen of Scotland. Blind Harry, in his History of Wallace, says,

> "Kneland was yar, ner cusyng to Wallace,
> Syne baid with hym in mony perelowss place."

He was present at Loudon Hill, July, 1296; at the battle of Stirling, 13 Sept. 1297; and at the unfortunate conflict at Falkirk, Tuesday, 22 July, 1298; and assisted Sir William Wallace in most of his exploits, particularly in taking prisoner Thomas of Longueville, commonly called the Red Rover. Blind Harry, in relating the battle at sea with "The Red Reffayr," makes Wallace say,

> "Kneland, cusyng, cum tak ze ster in hand;
> Her an ye wail ner by ye I sall stand."

After the death of Sir William Wallace, he firmly sup-

* Viz., Clelands of Faskine, Monkland, and Gartness, which last family ended (about the year 1670) in an heiress, Anne, daughter of George Cleland, of Gartness, by Margaret, his wife, daughter of Hamilton, of Wishaw; she m. George Weir, of Blackwood. (See Pedigree of VERE OF BLACKWOOD.)

ported the cause of King ROBERT the Bruce, and was present with his eldest son, John Cleland, at the battle of Bannockburn, on Monday, 24 June, 1314, where he was wounded, and for his loyalty and good services that king gave to him several lands in the Barony of Calder, in West Lothian. He was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN CLELAND, the third Cleland of that Ilk. He was living in 1346, in the reign of DAVID II., being taken prisoner with him at the battle of Durham, on Tuesday, 17 Oct. 1346.

WILLIAM CLELAND, the seventh Cleland of that Ilk, in the reign of King JAMES III. of Scotland, about the year 1462, m. Jean Somerville, dau. of William de Somerville, second Lord Somerville, by his wife, Janet Mowat, dau. of Sir John Mowat, of Stenhouse. He was one of the witnesses to a charter of the lands of Watston, in 1445, from James, Lord Hamilton, to Sir William Baillie, of Hoprigg. His son and successor,

ALEXANDER CLELAND, the eighth Cleland of that Ilk, was killed on Friday, 9 Sept. 1513, at the fatal battle of Flodden, along with his cousin, William Cleland, of Faskine, fighting valiantly in defence of their king, JAMES IV. of Scotland. To a charter of the date 1498, there was appended a seal of this Alexander, upon which was a hare, saliant, with a hunting horn about its neck. He left issue,

JAMES, his heir.
Elizabeth, m. John Roberton, of Earnoch, son of Robert Roberton and Margaret, dau. of John Hamilton, of Torrence.

The son and successor,

JAMES CLELAND, the ninth Cleland of that Ilk, an eminent man in the time of King JAMES V., whom he frequently attended at hunting, m. a dau. of Hepburn, of Bonnytoun, son of Patrick, Lord Hailes, Earl of Bothwell, by whom he had his son and successor,

ALEXANDER CLELAND, the tenth Cleland of that Ilk, eminent for his loyalty to Queen MARY, m. Margaret, dau. of Alexander Hamilton, of Haggs, son of John Hamilton, of Orbieston, third son, but heir and representative of Gavin Hamilton, by his wife, Janet Muirhead.* His son and successor,

WILLIAM CLELAND, the eleventh Cleland of that Ilk, m. 1st, a sister of Walter Stewart, first Lord Blantyre, and dau. of Sir John Stewart, by his wife, Margaret, dau. of James Stewart, of Cardonald, by whom he had his son and successor,

ALEXANDER.

He m. 2ndly, Mary Somerville, dau. of Sir James Somerville, by his wife, Margaret, dau. of Archibald Hamilton, of Raplock, and had issue by her,

ALEXANDER CLELAND, the twelfth Cleland of that Ilk, who m. Mary, sister of John Hamilton, first Lord Bargany, and youngest dau. of Sir John Hamilton, of Bargany, and his spouse, Margaret Campbell, dau. of the Rev. Alexander Campbell (Bishop of Brechin), of Ardkinlas, descended from Argyle. By her he had several sons, the eldest of whom sold the lands of Cleland to a cousin of his own name.

JOHN CLELAND, of Laird Braes, in the parish of Zeswalt, was either the second or third son of the above Alexander Cleland, and was b. about the year 1623. In consequence of some disagreement with his elder brother, he retired in disgust to a small property, called "Laird Braes," in the parish of Zeswalt, and co. of Wigton, and about the year 1651, m. Katharine Ross, descended from the Rosses of Henning. He d. in 1683, leaving by his said wife, his son and successor,

JAMES CLELAND, of Laird Braes, b. in 1652, m. in 1690, Agnes Innes, who was b. in 1670, and descended from the Inneses of Benwall; she d. in 1711, and he d. in 1717, leaving issue,

JOHN, b. in 1692.
Mary, b. in 1694, m. James M'Ewen, her 3rd cousin, by whom she had a daughter and only child, b. 8 Oct. 1728, m. to Robert Innes, b. in 1728, who d. s. p. 30 Dec. 1812.

The son and heir,

JOHN CLELAND, of Whithorn, in Wigtonshire, Scotland, was appointed factor to James, fifth Earl of Galloway, and in 1731, m. Margaret Murdoch, only child of Murdoch, provost of Whithorn, descended from the Murdochs of Cumlodden; she was b. in 1701, and d. 21 Sept. 1747; he d. 10 Aug. 1747, and had issue by her,

JAMES, b. 4 May, 1736 (of whom hereafter).
Agnes, b. 4 Sept, 1740, m. 1st, at Fort St. David's, in the East Indies, 5 June, 1766, to Lieut. Richard Rose, of the East India Company's European regiment, who d. at Trichinopoly, 7 June, 1768, of wounds received at the siege of Altoor, by whom she had an only child,
JAMES-DOWSETT ROSE, who afterwards assumed the additional surname of CLELAND, b. 24 March, 1767.
She m. 2ndly, in 1774, William Nicholson, Esq. of Ballow House, and d. 11 July, 1775 (and was buried at Bangor, Ireland), without having issue by him.

The son and successor,

JAMES CLELAND, Esq. of Newtown Ards, co. Down, Ireland, m. in 1770, Sarah, only child of Capt. Patrick Baird, (brother of William Baird, of Newbyth, and James Baird, Esq. of London, and uncle to General Sir David Baird.) He d. at Newtown Ards, 14 May, 1777, s. p.; will dated 5 May, 1775. His widow d. and was buried at Abingdon, Berks, 7 Dec. 1787; will dated 23 Nov. 1787. Mr. Cleland* was s. by his nephew, the present JAMES-DOWSETT-ROSE-CLELAND, Esq. of Rath-Gael.

Family of Rose of Abingdon, Berks.

The family of Rose was resident at Abingdon, in Berkshire, for three hundred and sixty-two years, viz., from the year 1428 to 1790, but originally derived from

HENRY ROSE, of Great Yarmouth, co. Norfolk, who served the office of high-bailiff for that town in 1299, 1301, 1305, and 1307. In the same year, Henricus Rose, burgess, was returned for Great Yarmouth to Parliament at Northampton, in fifteen days of St. Michael, 13 Oct., 1 EDWARD II. He was bailiff again in 1309. He d. about the year 1325, leaving a son,

RICHARD ROSE, of Great Yarmouth, living 3rd EDWARD III., father of

* This Janet Muirhead, who, for her great beauty, was commonly called "The Fair Maid," or "The Bonny Lass of Lechbrunach," was daughter of Sir William Muirhead, of Lauchop, by his wife, Dame Jane Hay, daughter of Sir William Hay, of Locharret, ancestor of the Lords of Yester, and of the Earls and Marquises of Tweeddale: she was married "de facto," privately, "sed non de jure secundum canones," to Gavin Hamilton, son of Sir James Hamilton, of Cadyow, and brother-germain to James, 1st Lord Hamilton. The marriage, they say, was private, and the parties, "inter grados a jure prohibitos," within the degrees of consanguinity, prohibited by the canons or laws of the church; and a previous dispensation had not been obtained from the Pope before the marriage, and the children so procreate, "ex oculto et clandestino matrimonio," were looked on as spurious. However, this lady bore five sons, and after that he left off cohabiting with the gentlewoman; he went into orders, and came to be provost of the collegiate church at Bothwell, of the Earl of Douglas's patronage.

He does not, indeed, call his children his own sons, when he dispones the lands of Orbieston to the eldest, Mr. Robert Hamilton, whom he designates "Cancellario Glasguen, and rector of Campsie; and then to Thomas Hamilton, canon of Dunkeld; and failing him, to John Hamilton, their carnal brother; and failing him, to Archibald and Gavin Hamilton, all brothers to one another, in the year 1468, which charter was afterwards confirmed under the great seal, in the public archives. Of John Hamilton, the first layman in the charter, are descended the Hamiltons of Orbieston, Hagg, Bothwellhaugh, Innermadden, Aikenhead in Monkland, Fergusly, Kilbrackmont, Monkland, Dalziel, Neilsland, &c. &c.

* Mr. James Cleland, of Newtown Ards, the last of the name in the male line, was descended by marriage from Cedric, King of the West Saxons; Charlemagne; Alfred the Great; Capet, King of France; Rollo, Duke of Normandy; Baldwin, the first Earl of Flanders; Siward, Earl of Northumberland; William the Conqueror; Malcolm Canmore, King of Scotland; Hugh Keviloch, Earl of Chester; Walleran, Earl of Mellent; Roger de Bellamont, Lord of Pont Audemar; Gualtier de Somerville; Rudolph de Guader, Earl of the East Angles; Hugh de Grantmesnil, great steward of England; Robert Bruce, Earl of Carrick; the families of Burgundy, Brigenburg; Valois, Vermandois, and Auberie; Norman de Leslie, ancestor of the Earls of Rothes; William Ross, Earl of Ross; Adam Gordon, Lord Gordon; Gilbert Graham, Earl of Strathern; Sir Robert Keith, ancestor of the Earl Marischals of Scotland; Sir James Douglas, Earl of Dalkeith; Sir Alexander Livingston, ancestor of the Earls of Linlithgow; William de Hay, ancestor of Lord Hay; Alexander Stewart, Lord Darnley; Alexander Stewart, high steward of Scotland; James Douglas, ancestor of the Earls of Morton; Hepburn, Earl of Bothwell; Sir John Hamilton, ancestor of the Lords Bargany; Sir John Herring; Sir John Mowat, &c. &c., as set forth in a pedigree in the possession of the present Mr. Rose Cleland.

HENRY ROSE, of High Wycombe, in Buckinghamshire, settled there about the year 1340. He was living in the year 1365. His descendant in the tenth degree,

THOMAS ROSE, of Charlestown, South Carolina, America, settled there about the year 1700; he m. twice. By his first wife, Elizabeth, only child of Dr. Bennet, of A.K.B. plantation, situated between Ashley and Cooper rivers, near Charlestown, (he was a physician, and came from Thame, in Oxfordshire, and was descended from Hugo Bennet, high-sheriff for Oxfordshire in the reign of King HENRY VI., ancestor of Lord Tankerville) Mr. Rose had with other issue, a son,

RICHARD ROSE, of Abingdon, b. 10 Oct. 1705, who, being adopted as heir to his uncle, Richard Rose, of Abingdon, came from Charlestown in the year 1714, to reside with him, the rest of the family remained in America, where some of their descendants are still living in great respectability. He m. at Sunningwell, near Abingdon, 12 Oct. 1731, Elizabeth Allen (his first cousin), only child of William Allen, of Grove, and his wife, Elizabeth Rose. He was an active intelligent magistrate, and being very popular, was elected and served the office of mayor of Abingdon nine times. His wife d. 1 Sept. 1742, and he himself d. 14 Jan. 1784, having had, with other issue, a son and successor,

RICHARD ROSE, Esq. of Abingdon, an officer in the E.I.C.S. He m. in 1766, at Fort St. Davids, Cuddalore, Agnes Cleland, dau. of John Cleland, Esq. of Whithorn, in Scotland, and of Margaret Murdoch, his wife (see pedigree of CLELAND). On 30 Dec. 1766, he was severely wounded in the head by a musket ball, in attempting to storm the fort of Colocunda. On the 11 Feb. 1767, he commanded the storming party at Fort Panjalum Cutchy, and was shot through the left wrist, by which wound he was confined six months. On the 26 Sept. he was in the great battle against the combined forces of the Soubah of the Decan, and Hyder-naig, King of Mysore, consisting of 100,000 men, horse and foot, in which they were defeated by 1800 Europeans and nine battalions of Sepoys, with the loss of all their guns, 50 in number. On the 12 Feb. 1768, he was at the capture of Fort Tingariticuttah; on the 19th, at the storming of a strong fort called Darampurg; on the 28th, at the capture of Wambenellore; on the 20th March, at the fall of Fort Scalem; and on the 5th April, was mortally wounded at Ahtoor, in an attempt to storm that place, and d. at Tritchinopoly, 7 June, 1768 (will dated 13 Sept. 1767), leaving an only child, James-Dowsett Rose, b. at Fort St. Davids, Cuddalore, 24 March, 1767, who afterwards took the additional surname of Cleland, and is the present JAMES-DOWSETT ROSE-CLELAND, Esq. of Rath-Gael.

Arms—Az., a hare, salient, arg., with a hunting horn round its neck, vert, garnished gu., for CLELAND, quartering ALLEN, BENNET, MURDOCH, and CLELAND. (See BURKE'S General Armory.)

Mr. Clifton s. his father, 23 March, 1832. During the war, he served in the 14th regiment of Dragoons, under the Duke of Wellington, in Portugal and Spain. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Lancaster.

Lineage.

The precise period when the first ancestor of Clifton seated himself at Clifton, cannot be ascertained. The most probable conjecture is, that either Roger de Poictore, or Herveus, the great grantees of the crown, bestowed part of their vast possessions upon their officers and followers, to be holden of them, or of their superior lords. One of these officers may reasonably be presumed to have seated himself at Clifton, and in conformity to the almost invariable practice of those times acquired his patronymic of Clifton, from the place of his residence. The first person whose name occurs on authentic record is

WILLIAM DE CLIFTON, who held ten carucates of land in the hundred of Amounderness, in the 42nd HENRY III. A.D. 1257. He was one of the collectors of the aids for the county of Lancaster, and was s. by his son,

GILBERT DE CLIFTON, who during part of the reigns of HENRY III. and EDWARD I., executed the office of seneschal to Henry de Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, Lord of Clitheroe and Blackburnshire, &c.; he served the office of sheriff of Lancashire in the years 1278, 1286, 1287, 1289, and d. 17th EDWARD II., A.D. 1323. His eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM DE CLIFTON, who was elected knight of the shire in September, 1302, jointly with Gilbert de Singleton, and again in 1304, with William de Banastre. By his wife Elen, he was father of his successor,

SIR WILLIAM DE CLIFTON, Knt., who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Robert Shireburn, Knt., and was s. at his decease, in 1365, by his son,

SIR NICHOLAS DE CLIFTON, Knt., who served in the wars in France, and was appointed governor of the castle of Ham, in Picardy, by letters patent, 14 January, 7th RICHARD II., A.D. 1383. He m. Eleanor, dau. of Sir Thomas West, Knt. of Snitterfield, co. Warwick, and was father of

ROBERT DE CLIFTON, knight of the shire for the co. of Lancaster, in 1382, whose eldest son,

THOMAS CLIFTON, was in the retinue which accompanied HENRY V. into France, in 1415. (Nicolas's History of the Battle of Agincourt, p. 278.) He d. in 1442, leaving by his wife, Agnes, dau. of Sir Richard Molyneux, of Sephton, Knt., a son, his successor,

RICHARD CLIFTON, who m. Alice, dau. of John Butler, of Rawcliffe, co. Lancaster, and had issue,

JAMES CLIFTON, who m. in 1457, Alice, dau. and heir of James Lancaster, of the county of Westmoreland, and dying in 1490, was s. by his son,

ROBERT CLIFTON, who m. Margaret, dau. of Nicholas Butler, of Bewsey, co. Lancaster, and had two sons, CUTHBERT, his successor, and WILLIAM. The elder son,

CUTHBERT CLIFTON, of Clifton, m. Alice, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Lawrence, of Ashton, co. Lancaster, Knt., and d. in 1512, leaving an only dau.,

ELIZABETH, m. 1st, Sir Richard Hesketh, Knt. of Rufford, without issue; 2ndly, to Sir William Molyneux, Knt. of Sephton, who became in consequence, Lord of Clifton.

Cuthbert's younger brother,

WILLIAM CLIFTON, of Westby, m. in 1517, Isabell, dau. of Thornborough, of Hampsfield, in Lonsdale North, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS CLIFTON, Esq. of Westby, who m. Ellen, dau. of Sir Alexander Osbaldiston, of Osbaldiston, co. Lancaster, Knt., and had a son and heir,

CUTHBERT CLIFTON, of Westby, Esq., who m. Catherine, dau. of Sir Richard Hoghton, Knt. of Hoghton, and dying, was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS CLIFTON, Esq. of Westby, who m. Mary, dau. of Sir Edward Norris, of the Speke, co. Lancaster, Knt., and was s. by his son,

SIR CUTHBERT CLIFTON, Knt. of Westby, who m. 1st, Ann, dau. of Thomas Tildesley, of Morley, co. Lancaster, by whom he had issue,

Colonel Close, who is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Armagh, s. his father, the Rev. Samuel Close, in 1817, and served the office of sheriff during the following year.

Lineage.

RICHARD CLOSE, the first of the family who settled in Ireland, was the younger son of a respectable house in Yorkshire, and held a commission in the army, sent from England, in the reign of CHARLES I., into that kingdom, where he remained after the termination of the civil wars, and became one of the lords of the soil, as we find him seised of four tates, or townlands, in the county of Monaghan, temp. CHARLES II. After the Restoration he fixed himself at Lissnegarvey, (now Lisburn,) co. Antrim, where a Protestant colony had been located under the protection of the then Lord Conway. There he lived and died, leaving a son and heir,

RICHARD CLOSE, Esq., who inherited the Monaghan estates. He m. the sister of Samuel Waring, Esq. of Waringstown, co. Down, M.P. for Hillsborough, and received from that gentleman a grant of lands contiguous to Waringstown, on which he built a good house and resided. He considerably enlarged the family estate by purchasing a tract of land on the river Ban, between Rathfriland and Castlewellan, in Downshire, and after the disturbances in 1688, which obliged him to leave his home and join the Protestants, then united at Lisburn, under the Lord Conway and Sir Arthur Rawdon, he returned (subsequently to the battle of the Boyne,) having suffered great losses during the harassing conflicts of the times. He left at his decease (with three daus., the eldest m. to the Rev. Dean Welch; the second to — Jones, Esq.; and the third to John Peirse, Esq.) five sons, viz.,

I. RICHARD, who s. to the estates in Down and Monaghan, This gentleman m. a dau. of Toby Hall, Esq. of Narrowwater, and dying about the year 1720, at Waringstown, where he was buried, left a dau., m. to Davys Wilson, Esq. of Carrickfergus, and two sons, viz.,
  1. SAMUEL, who inherited his father's landed property in Monaghan and Down, and served the office of sheriff for both those counties on attaining majority, He wedded the dau. of — Stewart, Esq. of Ballintoy, in Antrim, and had one son, Samuel, who was drowned, when a schoolboy, at Ringsend, near Dublin, and d. in England, s. p., about 1781.
  2. Toby, a captain in the corps of Invalids in England, d. unm.
II. SAMUEL, of whom presently.

CLOUGH OF PLAS-CLOUGH.

Clough, Richard-Butler, Esq. of Plâs-Clough, co. Denbigh, and of Mînydon, in Carnarvonshire, b. 22 Dec. 1781, m. in 1838, his cousin, Catherine, 2nd dau. of the Rev. Roger Clough, M.A., Canon of St. Asaph, and Rector of Lausannon, co. Denbigh. Mr. Clough is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the former county, and was formerly a captain in the Royal Denbigh Militia.

Lineage.

This family, as its name and arms imply, is of Norman origin, and deduces from the lords of Rohan, in the dukedom. Its first settlement in England appears by an ancient deed from Whalley Cartulary, bearing date in 1315 to have been in the northern counties. In Wales, the first settler on record was,

Richard Clough, commonly called Hen, or the old, from having lived during the reigns of Henry VII. and VIII., of Edward VI., and of the Queens Mary and Elizabeth. In the Harl. MSS., fol. 1971, entitled N. Wales Ped., it is stated that he m. in the time of Henry VIII., and settled on Lleweni Green, near Denbigh. He had five sons and one dau. The fifth son,

Sir Richard Clough, Knt., became an eminent merchant, and was partner of the celebrated Sir Thomas Gresham, who, at Sir Richard's suggestion, erected the Royal Exchange. Sir Richard built, in the year 1567, on his paternal estate, the mansion of Plâs Clough, which is still in the possession of his lineal descendants. By his first wife he had a son and heir, Richard. He m. 2ndly, Catherine, widow of John Salusbury, Esq., son and heir of Sir John Salusbury, of Lleweni, Knt., and dau. and heir of Tudor ap Robert Vychan, of Berain, derived from Marchweithian, Lord of Is-Aled, Founder of the

II. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys, and by this lady (who m. 3rdly, Maurice Wynn, of Gwydyr, co. Carnarvon, Esq.; and 4thly, Edward Thelwall, of Plas-y-Ward, co. Denbigh, Esq.) Sir Richard had two daus.,

I. Mary, m. to William Wynn, Esq. of Melai, co. Denbigh, to whom Sir Richard gave Maynan Abbey, in Carnarvonshire, now in possession of her descendant, Spencer, third Baron Newborough (see Wynn of Garthewin).
II. Katherine, m. to Roger Salusbury, D.C.L. of Jesus Coll., Oxford, younger son of Sir John Salusbury, Knt. of Lleweni, to whom Sir Richard gave the curious mansion of Bachegraig, which he had erected in the Dutch style of architecture, near Denbigh, and which afterwards descended, by inheritance, through many generations of that family, to Hester-Lynch Salusbury, the celebrated Mrs. Piozzi, the friend and correspondent of Johnson, who left it from her grandson and heir, the late Captain Mostyn, R.N., to John Piozzi, who assumed in consequence the surname of Salusbury, and received the honour of knighthood.

Sir Richard was knighted, and obtained arms of augmentation on his return from a pilgrimage to Jerusalem. He d. at Antwerp in 1570, and his remains were interred there, with the exception of the right hand and heart, which he desired might be transmitted to his native parish of Denbigh in a silver urn, to be deposited on the coffin of the last possessor of his property. He was s. by his son,

Richard Clough, Esq. of Plâs Clough, who wedded a dau. of Drihurst, of Denbigh, and was s. by his son,

William Clough, Esq. of Plâs Clough. This gentleman m. Mary, dau. of John Vaughan, Esq. of Groes, in Denbighshire, and dying in 1685, was s. by his only son,

CLOWES OF DELAFORD.

CLOWES, CHARLES, Esq. of Delaford Park, co. Bucks, b. 25 Jan. 1785; m. 4 Oct. 1831, at St. James's Church, London, Mary-Anne, dau. of Samuel Parker, Esq. of Treleigh House, near Truro, co. Cornwall, by Dorothy, his wife, dau. of William Montague, Esq., and has issue, Mary-Anne, Frances-Daniell, and Isabella-Dorothy-Montague. Mr. Clowes is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Bucks, and served the office of sheriff in 1832.

Lineage.

This family, of Cheshire extraction, possessed (besides lands in Staffordshire) property and a residence in the neighbourhood of Macclesfield, from the reign of HENRY VII. A portion of their property in Cheshire, where they resided in the reign of HENRY VIII. to that of CHARLES II. was called Whiteley, and situated about six miles from Macclesfield, in the township of Wincle, on the River Dane, which divides Cheshire from Derbyshire.

In the reign of CHARLES II. this family acquired by marriage an estate called Langley, also a few miles from Macclesfield, in the township of Sutton, on which they resided for several generations.

The fifth in descent from Clowes, of Sutton, near Macclesfield, living in 1509, was

RICHARD CLOWES, of Whiteley, who, by his wife Ellen, besides other children, had a son and heir,

WILLIAM CLOWES, of Whiteley, living in 1590, who m. Margery, dau. of Lawrence Swettenham, Esq. of Somerford Booths, in the co. of Chester, and had a son and heir,

RICHARD CLOWES, of Whiteley, living in 1624, he m. Margaret, dau. of William Cunliffe, Esq. of Leek Frith, in the co. of Stafford, and was father of

WILLIAM CLOWES, of Whiteley, living in 1651, who m. Catherine, dau. and heiress of Robert Yevely, Gent. of Langley, near Macclesfield, and had a son and heir,

WILLIAM CLOWES, of Langley and Whiteley, b. 27 Feb. 1651, who m. in 1679, Mary Green, widow, dau. of William Watson, alderman of Macclesfield, by Elizabeth, his wife, widow of John Byron, alderman of Macclesfield, and dau. of Edward and Alice Thornicroft, of Thornicroft. His son and successor,

ROBERT CLOWES, of Langley and Whiteley, b. 28 Aug. 1682, m. in 1716, Hannah, dau. and co-heir of George Salt, Gent. of Betley, co. Stafford, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT CLOWES, of Langley and Whiteley, b. 21 Aug. 1717, who m. 27 Aug. 1741, Dorothea, dau. and co-heir of John Daniell,* Esq. of Daresbury, Cheshire, but dying without male issue, was s. by his brother,

CLUDDE OF ORLETON.

CLUDDE, ANNA-MARIA, of Orleton, co. Salop, b. 9 Sept. 1830, s. at the decease of her father.

Lineage.

The CLUDDES or CLUYDDES claim Saxon origin, and at a very remote period possessed property in Shropshire. In the reign of HENRY I. they were seated on the lands of Cluddeley, and in the third year of EDWARD III. they acquired, in marriage with the heiress of Orleton, that estate, which has ever since remained their principal residence.

WILLIAM CLUDDE, Esq. of Orleton, was ancestor in the fourth degree of

EDWARD CLUDDE, Esq. of Orleton, who wedded Anne, co-heiress of William Beyst, Esq., and had two sons, Thomas and Edward; by the elder of whom,

THOMAS CLUDDE, Esq. of Orleton, he was succeeded. This gentleman wedded, in 1591, the only child and heiress of John Coston, Esq. of Coston, by whom he left an only dau.,

BEATRICE, heiress of Coston, m. to Coningsby Freeman, Esq. of Neen Solers.

Mr. Cludde, who is said to have served with reputation in Ireland, and to have been offered the honour of knighthood, was s. at Orleton by his brother,

COLONEL CHARLES CLUDDE, of the Guards, to whom his elder brother, Edward, who was admitted of Gray's

* D'Angers, or Daniell of Daresbury.

The family of DANIELL of Daresbury, from its antiquity, property, and connexions, was well known in Cheshire. The senior branch merged in the one before us, and is now represented by Mr. Clowes, of Delaford, in consequence of his grandfather and that gentleman's two brothers having m. the three daus., co-heirs of John Daniell, Esq. of Daresbury.

The pedigree is given at length in ORMEROD'S History of Cheshire, carried down to the marriage of the above-mentioned ladies, and the failure of male issue in the direct line, when the descent is continued in a collateral branch to the date of the publication of that eminent work, 1819.

Inn in 1664, and d. in Oct. 1721, made over his interest in the estate, to avoid the necessity of taking the oaths to government, to which, after the Revolution, he had an invincible repugnance. The Colonel fell at the battle of Landen, in 1693, leaving, by his wife, Beatrice, dau. of Wrottesley Prince, Esq., and relict of Robert Bretton, Esq., a son and successor,

WILLIAM CLUDDE, Esq. of Orleton, then in infancy. This gentleman, who enjoyed the estates for seventy-two years, and was a magistrate for forty, served the office of sheriff of Salop in 1723. He m. Martha, dau. and heiress of Peter Langley, Esq. of Burcott, by whom he left, with two daus., an only surviving son,

EDWARD CLUDDE, Esq. of Orleton, who d. unm. and was s. by his nephew,

WILLIAM PEMBERTON, Esq. of Wrockwardine, (eldest son of Edward Pemberton, Esq. of Wrockwardine, by his wife, Martha Cludde, sister of the last proprietor of Orleton). This gentleman, lieut.-col. of the South Shropshire Yeomanry Cavalry, assumed, upon inheriting, by act of parliament, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his uncle, Edward, the surname and arms of CLUDDE only. He m. in 1781, Anna-Maria, dau. of Edward Jeffreys, Esq. of Shrewsbury, and had issue,

EDWARD, his heir.
William, a capt. of dragoons, who d. in 1809.
Anna-Maria.
Harriett, m. in 1807, to William Lacon Childe, Esq. of Kinlet Park, co. Salop.

Col. Cludde, who united in his person the representation of the very ancient families of Cludde, Orleton, and Pemberton, was sheriff of Shropshire in 1814. He d. 25 Aug. 1829, and was s. by his only surviving son,

EDWARD CLUDDE, Esq. of Orleton and Wrockwardine, who m. 6 May, 1828, Catherine-Harriett, only dau. of Lieut.-Gen. Sir William Cockburn, Bart. of Cockburn and Ryslaw, and dying, left an only child and heiress, ANNA-MARIA.

Arms—Ermine, a fret, sa., quartering the ensigns of ORLETON. (See BURKE'S General Armory.)
Crest—An eagle with wings expanded, ppr., preying on a cony, arg.
Seats—Orleton and Wrockwardine, both in Shropshire.

COFFIN OF PORTLEDGE.

COFFIN-PINE, THE REV. JOHN-THOMAS, of Portledge, co. Devon, Rector of Alwington, was b. 8 Jan. 1800, and s. to the estates and representation of this ancient family upon the death of his brother, the late Richard-Pine Coffin, Esq. of Portledge, in 1838.

Lineage.

The Coffins possessed the manor of Alwington, in which parish Portledge is situated, as early as the time of WILLIAM the Conqueror.

The authorities who have written respecting the county of Devon make honourable mention of SIR ELIAS COFFIN, Knt. of Clist and Ingarby, in the days of King JOHN; of SIR RICHARD COFFIN, of Alwington, temp. of HENRY II.; of Sir JEFFREY COFFIN, of Coombe Coffin, under HENRY III.; and of other knights, descendants of these, during successive reigns, till the time of HENRY VIII., when we find SIR WILLIAM COFFIN sheriff of Devonshire, and afterwards highly preferred at court, being Master of the Horse at the coronation of Anna Boleyn, a gentleman of the privy chamber, and afterwards one of the eighteen assistants of King HENRY VIII. at the tournament of Guiennes, in France, A.D. 1519. This SIR WILLIAM COFFIN was also high steward of the manor and liberties of Standon, co. Hertford. At his death he humbly bequeathed to his great master, HENRY VIII., with whom he was in especial grace and favour, all his hawks, his best horses, and a cart; and leaving no issue, he conveyed the manor of East Higgington, in the parish of Berryquerbir, with all his other estates in the county of Devon, to his eldest brother's son, RICHARD COFFIN, Esq. of Portledge. His monument in Stanton Church is mentioned in "Weever's Funeral Monuments," page 534.

RICHARD COFFIN, Esq. of Portledge, son and heir of John Coffin, Esq. of Portledge, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. and co-heir of Philip Hingeston, of Devonshire, and grandson of Richard Coffin, of Portledge, by Alicia Gamon, his wife, m. Wilmot, dau. of William Chudleigh, Esq. of Ashton, and had three sons, John, Edward, and James; of whom the eldest,

JOHN COFFIN, Esq. of Portledge, m. Mary, dau. of Robert Cary, Esq. of Clovelly, and had (with two daus., Mary, m. to John Wollocomb, Esq., of Combe, co. Devon ; and Willmot, m. to William Addington, Esq. of Essex) a son and successor,

RICHARD COFFIN, Esq. of Portledge, who d. 25 July, 1617, aged forty-eight, leaving, by his wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Leonard Loveis, Esq. of Ogboare, co. Cornwall, with other issue, a son and successor,

JOHN COFFIN, Esq. of Portledge, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Harding, of Dorsetshire, and dying in 1622, was buried at Alwington, leaving, with two daus., Anne and Elizabeth, a son and successor,

RICHARD COFFIN, Esq. of Portledge, who m. 1st, Dorothy, dau. of John Roe, Esq. of Normington, co. Leicester, and had issue two daus.,

DOROTHY, m. 24 Jan. 1671, to EDWARD PINE, Esq. of Bratton Fleming, co. Devon, son of Edward Pine, Esq. of East Downe, second son and heir of Lieut.-Col. Edward Pine,* of East Downe, who d. 6 July, 1663. The issue of this marriage was a dau., Dorothy, and a son and heir,

EDWARD PINE, Esq. of East Downe, b. 26 Sept. 1675, m. 29 Sept. 1696, Dorothy, dau. of the Rev. John Sponer, of Norfolk, Rector of East Downe, by whom he had, with a younger son, Edward, in holy orders, rector of East Downe, who m. and had issue, another son and heir,

JOHN PINE, Esq. of East Downe, b. 10 Jan. 1707, d. 6 March, 1772, leaving by his wife, Hannah-Anne, dau. of Roger Pepys, Esq. of Impington, co. Cambridge, by Anne, his wife, sister of Sir John Turner, Bart., an only son and heir,

JOHN PINE, Esq. of East Downe, and Portledge, successor to his kinsman in the latter, as will be seen presently.

Catherine, m. to George Yeo, Esq.

Richard Coffin m. 2ndly, Anna, dau. of Edmund Prideaux, Esq. of Padstow, co. Cornwall, and had issue by her, who d. 10 Aug. 1705, RICHARD, his heir, of whom presently.

John, m. Catharine, dau. of John Shellond, Esq. of Painsford, co. Devon, and d. s. p. in 1703.

Honour, m. 6 July, 1708, to Edward Bennett, Esq. of Hoxworthy, co. Cornwall, and had issue,

RICHARD BENNETT, successor to his uncle, in Portledge, of whom hereafter.

Robert, was first named in his uncle's will as heir, but he d. unm. before his brother.

The eldest son and heir,

RICHARD COFFIN, Esq. of Portledge, d. unm. 9 Dec. 1766, aged eighty-four, and willed his estates to his nephews, Robert Bennett, and his elder brother, Richard Bennett, sons of his sister, Honour Bennet, with remainder to his great-nephew, John Pine, Esq. of East Downe, and heirs male. The first in the entail, ROBERT, second son of his sister, predeceased his elder brother, and consequently the estate devolved upon the latter,

RICHARD BENNETT COFFIN, Esq. of Portledge, who assumed the latter surname in accordance with his uncle's will. He m. thrice : 1st, Anne, dau. of Thomas Bury, Esq. of Bury Narbor, co. Devon, and relict of Sir William Morrice, Bart. ; 2ndly, Anne, dau. of the Rev. William Pennington, of Bodmin ; and 3rdly, Anne, dau. of the Rev. Lewis Monoux, brother to the late Sir Humphrey Monoux, Bart., but d. s. p. 30 Sept. 1796. The estate went, according to the entail, to his kinsman (great-nephew of Richard Coffin, Esq.), viz.,

THE REV. JOHN PINE, b. in 1736, who assumed, in 1797, by Royal licence, the additional surname and arms of Coffin. (Refer to the issue and descendants of the marriage of Dorothy Coffin with Edward Pine, Esq. of East Downe.) He m. 3 Dec. 1765, Grace, dau. of James Rowe, Esq. of Alverdiscot, in Devon, and had issue,

I. RICHARD PINE, his heir, of whom hereafter.

COLLINGWOOD OF CHIRTON AND LILBURN TOWER.

COLLINGWOOD, EDWARD, Esq. of Chirton and Lilburn Tower, both in the co. Northumberland, m. in 1842, Anna, second dau. of the late Arthur Burdett, Esq. of the co. Tipperary. Mr. Collingwood s. his father in 1841.

Lineage.

The ancient Northumbrian family of COLLINGWOOD was seated at Esslington, in that county, in the early part of the reign of HENRY VIII.

SIR JOHN COLLINGWOOD, Knt., high-sheriff of Northumberland in 1544, was father of

SIR ROBERT COLLINGWOOD, Knt., high-sheriff in 1551, who wedded four wives, and by the third, a dau. of Heron, of Ford Castle, had a son,

JOHN COLLINGWOOD, Esq. of Esslington, who espoused Ursula, dau. and heiress of William Buckton, of Buckton, and was s. by his son,

SIR CUTHBERT COLLINGWOOD, Knt. of Dalden, co. Durham and Esslington, a Border Chief of high renown, who, together with the Lord Warden and other knights and nobles, was taken prisoner by the Scots, and is thus celebrated by a Scottish minstrel:

> "But if ye wald a souldier search
> Among them a' were ta'en that night,
> What name sae wordie, to put in verse,
> As Collingwood, that courteous knight."

Sir Cuthbert Collingwood m. Dorothy, dau. of Sir George Bowes, of Streatlam, and had, with other issue,

THOMAS, of Esslington, eldest son, great grandfather of GEORGE COLLINGWOOD, Esq. of Esslington, who was attainted and executed in 1715, for joining the Earl of Derwentwater in his rebellion; with him expired the elder branch of the family.

CUTHBERT, third son, of whom presently.

This third son,

CUTHBERT COLLINGWOOD, Esq., m. Ursula, dau. of Thomas Frister, Esq., and had a son and heir,

RALPH COLLINGWOOD, Esq. of Ditchburne. This gentleman, arraying himself under the Royal banner during the civil wars, lost large estates in Durham by confiscation. He m. Dorothy, niece (ex sorore) of the Rev. and Right Hon. Anthony Grey, Earl of Kent, by whom he had two sons, viz.,

I. CUTHBERT, his heir.

II. EDWARD, ancestor of COLLINGWOOD OF DISSINGTON.

The elder son,

CUTHBERT COLLINGWOOD, Esq. of Ditchbourne, b. in 1628, d. in 1687, and was s. by his son,

CUTHBERT COLLINGWOOD, Esq. of North Dissington, in the co. of Northumberland, who m. Anne, dau. of Robert Wilkie, Esq. of Ladythorne, and was father of

CUTHBERT COLLINGWOOD, Esq. of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, who m. Milcah, dau. and co-heiress of Reginald Dobson, Esq. of Barwess, in Westmoreland, and dying 15 Feb. 1775, left issue, besides a son, JOHN, of whom presently, another son,

CUTHBERT COLLINGWOOD, a naval officer of the highest reputation, immortalized as second in command at the glorious battle of Trafalgar, for which distinguished service he was raised, in 1805, to the peerage as BARON COLLINGWOOD, of Coldburne. His lordship m. Sarah, eldest dau. of John-Erasmus Blackett, Esq. of Newcastle, and dying in 1810, left two daus.,

SARAH, m. to G. L. Newnham Collingwood, Esq., F.R.S., who d. 4 July, 1837.

MARY-PATIENCE, m. to Anthony Denny, Esq.

Lord Collingwood's brother,

JOHN COLLINGWOOD, Esq. of Chirton, m. Miss Fenwick, of Earsdon, and left at his decease (with two daus., one m. to the Rev. Christopher Reed, and the other, to Frederick-John Collingwood, Esq. of West Glanton, younger brother of the late H.-J. Collingwood, Esq. of Lilburn Tower) a son and successor, the present EDWARD COLLINGWOOD, of Chirton and Lilburn Tower, Esq.

COLLINS OF BETTERTON.

COLLINS, THE REV. JOHN-FERDINANDO, of Betterton, co. Berks, b. 15 Oct. 1812; m. 30 Sept. 1836, Sarah, dau. of John Hawthorn, Esq. of Glenluce, co. Wigton, and late of the island of Jamaica, and has issue,

JOHN-FERDINANDO, b. 12 July, 1837.

Mr. Collins s. to the estates of his father on attaining his majority.

Lineage.

This family have possessed the lands of Betterton, descending from sire to son, since the time of HENRY VI.; and in an old family record by John Collins, seventh in descent, (living 1640,) are the following details:—

"To the memory of posterity the history of the family of Collins of Betterton.

"John, Lord Strange, of Knocking, in Shropshire, for want of issue, as the manner of the times was, for the health of his soul, gave to the Priory of Poughley, the Manor of West Betterton, in the time of HENRY VI., at which time the ancestor of this family, Thomas Collins, was possessed of it, (as lessee,) the first in descent. If he was the first Collins settled here originally is not known, then he may be supposed to have ascended out of Shropshire, and tenant in some sort to Lord Strange, of Knocking, in Shropshire, where in the Hundred of Hodnet, the family of Collins is recorded in Domesday. But the common report of the country was that this family is much ancienter in this place of Betterton, and I am induced to believe so, because there are no vestigia mentioning of any preceding family."

JOHN COLLINS, b. 1st HENRY VII., (son of Thomas, living in the prior reign) was father of

JOHN COLLINS, b. 13th HENRY VIII., who m. Joan Coxedge, of Ginge, in the co. of Berks, and was s. by

(Late of Newton Colvile.)

COLVILE, CHARLES-ROBERT, Esq. of Duffield Hall, and Lullington, co. Derby, b. 30 March, 1815, s. his father, the late Sir Charles Colvile, in 1833.

Lineage.

The family of Colvile is one of the most distinguished and ancient in Cambridgeshire. The original ancestor, GILBERT DE COLAVILLA, DE COLVILE, or COLVYLE, came from Normandy with WILLIAM the Conqueror. The name was derived from a castle on a hill, col-vile, (vile, in ancient French, was castle; towns were the dependents of castles.) A town in Normandy is still called Colvile.

ROBERT DE COLVILE occurs in the time of HENRY I. He bore for his arms a cross fleury, gules, on a field, arg. He left issue,

I. GILBERT, of whom presently.
II. PHILIP, of Stanton, who went into Scotland, and became ancestor of the noble family of Colvile of Culross.
III. Robert, whose descendants were ennobled by CHARLES I.

The eldest son,

GILBERT DE COLVILE, living temp. STEPHEN and HENRY II., was father of

ROBERT COLVILE, temp. RICHARD I., who left a son,

SIR HENRY COLVILE, six years sheriff of Cambridgeshire and Huntingdonshire, commencing 21 HENRY III., (1236.) He left issue,

SIR ROGER COLVILE, who was sheriff for Norfolk and Suffolk, 51 HENRY III. He m. Gallina Walpole, dau. of Sir John de Walpole, of Houghton, ancestor of the present Earls of Orford, the king having honoured this marriage with his presence. He was lord of the manor of Carleton Colvile, with many privileges which his ancestors possessed from the Conquest. In the early part of the reign of EDWARD I. Sir Roger received the arms now borne by the family. He left a son,

SIR ROGER DE COLVILE, who m. about 1240, Desiderata, dau. and heiress of Jeffrey de Mariscow Marsh, and granddau. of Sir Stephen Marsh, who was Lord of Newton,

Walsoken, Tld St. Giles, &c., a great part of which lands were held by the Colvile family from that period until their alienation in 1792. The son and heir,

Sir Jeffrey de Colvile, who m. 1317, Margarette Talmage, or Tollemache, dau. of Sir Hugh de Tollemache, of Bentley, in Suffolk, ancestor of the Earls of Dysart, and was father of

Sir John Colvile, who accompanied Edward III. with his victorious army into France, and died there in battle. He sealed in the 20 Edward III, with azure, a lion rampant, arg., and a label of three points, gules, as appears by a deed dated at Newton by Leverington. His son and successor,

Sir John Colvile, aged twenty-three at his father's death, m. Alice, dau. of Sir John de l'Isle, or Insula, of Kent, K.G., one of the first who received the badge of that noble order. He was heir of Sir William de Rustyn, and by this marriage obtained the manors of Wymondham, Cungham, Sudleschand, and Andneice. He held, together with Alice, his wife, a moiety of the manor of Strete, in Kent, (probably Stone Street,) called Chiveler's, and d. possessed of that lordship in 1393. He was Patron of the free Chapel of St. Edmund, near his Manor-house, of which, in the reign of Richard II., he twice appointed the Warden. He was s. by his son,

Sir John Colvile, who m. in 1406, Emma, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Wythe, of Smallburgh Worsted, in Norfolk, by Sibyl, his wife, dau. of Sir Edmund de St. Omer, (who, at his death, remarried Sir William Calthorpe.) In the year 1410, he was appointed by the Lord Bishop of Ely, to succeed Sir John de Rochford, as Governor of Wisbeach Castle, (1416.) The seal of Sir John de Colvile, as Governor of Wisbeach Castle, is still in the possession of the family. He left, with other issue, a son and heir,

Sir John Colvile, who m. Anne, dau. of Sir Henry Ingels, of Dilham, in Norfolk, and d. in the 4th year of King Henry VII., (his widow m. Sir Robert Brandon, of Brandon,) leaving a son,

Sir Richard Colvile, of Newton, who s. his elder brother, Francis. He m. Catherine, dau. of John Townsend, of Raynham, in Norfolk, Esq., and d. 17th of Henry VIII., leaving a son and successor,

Sir Richard Colvile, of Newton, who m. Eleanora, or Ethelreda, dau. of Sir John Hevingham, of Ketteringham, J.-P. temp. Henry VII., by Alice, his wife, dau. of Sir Ralph Shelton, the younger, of Shelton, in Norfolk, Knt., and was father of

Jeffrey Colvile, Esq. of Newton, who, in the 27th of King Henry VIII. m. Katherine, dau. of the Hon. Sir John Hind, Knt., one of the Justices of the Court of Common Pleas, of Madingly Hall, Cambridgeshire, by Eleanor, his wife, dau. of Sir John Heydon, K.B., of Beaconsthorp, in the same county, and, dying in 1575, was s. by his son,

John Colvile, Esq. of Newton, who m. Ann, dau. and heiress of Nicholas Pinchbeck, of Pinchbeck, in Lincolnshire, and had by her a son and successor,

Richard Colvile, Esq. of Newton, who m. Mary, dau. of Sir Thomas Barnardiston, of Ketton, in Suffolk, by Mary, his wife, dau. of Sir Richard Knightley, of Fawsley, co. Northampton, and had, with a dau., Eleanor, first wife of Thomas Guybon, Esq., two sons, of whom the elder,

Sir Thomas Colvile, of Newton, m. Alice, dau. of Sir William Spencer, Bart., of Yarnton, in Oxfordshire, but he d. s. p. 17 Oct. 1611, and was s. by his brother,

Richard Colvile, Esq. of Newton-Colvile, who m. Sarah, dau. of Sir John Lawrence, of Iver, in Bucks, Bart., and was buried by the side of his wife, in Laurence Chapel, Chelsea. They left issue ten children, of whom the eldest,

Sir William Colvile, of Newton, one of the intended knights of the Royal Oak, was a devoted supporter of the Royal cause. He m. Anne, dau. of Sir Richard Stone, of Stukesley, Hunts, and widow of Anthony Goldsborough, Esq., but d. without male issue, 13 July, 1680, and was s. by his nephew, (the eldest son of his brother, Jeffrey,)*

Richard Colvile, Esq. of Newton, who m. Frances, dau. of Thomas Carter, Esq. of York, and d. in 1686, leaving a son and successor,

Robert Colvile, Esq. of Newton Colvile, who m. 1st, Anne, dau. of William Whiting, Esq., and 2ndly, a dau. of David Waite, Esq. of Wisbeach, one of the deputy-lieutenants for the county, and in the commission of the peace for the isle of Ely, and county of Norfolk. He left issue,

Richard Colvile, Esq. of Newton Colvile, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Nathaniel Acton, Esq. of Bramford Hall, Suffolk, through whom he became possessed of Hemingstone Hall, co. Suffolk, and had issue, with two daus., the younger m. to the Rev. Dr. Gee,

I. Robert, his heir.

CONNELLAN OF COOLMORE.

CONNELLAN, PETER, Esq. of Coolmore, co. Kilkenny, b. 3 Feb. 1806; a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant and high-sheriff of the county in 1836.

Lineage.

The family of Connellan, or O'Connellan, as it was originally written, is of ancient Milesian extraction, and in Comerford's "History of Ireland," is deduced from the great family of O'Neill, on the authority of the Psalters of Tara and Cashel, the great sources of Irish genealogy. This descent is further confirmed by a very ancient Irish manuscript, (in the possession of Sir William Betham,) in which the family of O'Connellan is made one of the branches from Niall of the Nine Hostages. From Hardiman's Ancient Irish Deeds, No. XIV., it would appear that the family was seated in the co. Limerick in the middle of the 14th century, as we find that tribute of wheat and money was levied yearly off the lands of Lis-Connellan, proving the location of a family of consequence there, and giving name to the place; and in the same work is found (No. XXVIII.) that Siacus O'Connellan, in the same county, was witness to certain covenants in 1573. It is probable that their possessions in that county were lost by confiscation, as from this period we find mention of the family principally in Connaught, where they became seised of a part of the forfeited Clanricarde estates. As appears from public records in the Record Tower of Dublin Castle, "Donough O'Conolane, son of Shane O'Conolane, had a grant from the crown of an eighth part of the lower quarter of the lands of Rahassan, co. Galway, in 1619; William-Nevagh O'Conolane, of Rahassan, had a grant from the crown, 27 March, 1619, of half the Cartrons of Cahiroane and Pole Idownine, and three-sixteenths of the lower quarter of Rahassan; and Gilpatrick O'Connellan, in the same year, had a grant from the crown of the other half of the Cartrons of Cahiroane and Pole Idownine, in the barony of Kiltaragh and co. Galway." Descended from this latter, was JAMES CONNELLAN, b. early in the 17th century, who m. Miss Graham, of the Montrose family, and was father of

MARTIN CONNELLAN, b. in 1688, who m. Miss Butler, descended from a branch of the Ormonde family, and by her had six sons, all of whom d. without legitimate male issue, except the youngest,

PETER CONNELLAN, b. in 1745, who m. Miss Galhie, a lady of French extraction, and by her (who d. in 1786,) had one dau. Anne, wife of Pierce Blake, Esq. of Holly Park, co. Galway, brother of the Right Hon. Anthony-Richard Blake, Chief Remembrancer of Ireland, and one son,

Peter, b. 7 July, 1782, who m. in March, 1805, Harriet, dau. of James Corry, Esq., clerk of the journals of the Irish House of Commons, and pre-deceasing his father, 11 Nov. 1806, left two sons, PETER, successor to his grandfather, and James-Corry (posthumous), b. 13 Jan. 1807.

Mr. Connellan d. in 1820, aged 75, and was s. by his grandson, the present PETER CONNELLAN, Esq. of Coolmore.

CONOLLY OF CASTLETOWN.

CONOLLY, EDWARD-MICHAEL, Esq. of Castletown, co. Kildare, lieutenant-colonel of the Donegal militia, and M.P. for that shire, b. 24 Aug. 1786; m. 20 May, 1819, Catherine-Jane, dau. of Chambre-Brabazon Ponsonby-Barker, Esq., by the Lady Henrietta Taylour, his wife, dau. of Thomas, Earl of Bective, and has issue,

I. THOMAS, b. in 1823.
II. Chambre-Brabazon.
III. Edward-Frederick.
IV. Arthur-Wellesley.
V. John-Augustus.
I. Louisa-Augusta.
II. Harriet.
III. Mary.
IV. Fanny.

Colonel Conolly inherited the estates of the Right Hon. Thomas Conolly, at the demise of Lady Louisa Conolly, that gentleman's widow, in 1821, and then relinquished his patronymic, PACKENHAM. He has served the office of sheriff for the counties of Donegal and Kildare.

Lineage.

SIR EDWARD PACKENHAM, Knt., went over to Ireland, in 1576, with his kinsman, Sir Henry Sidney, the lord-deputy. He was grandfather of

HENRY PACKENHAM, Esq. of Packenham Hall, co. Westmeath, temp. CHARLES I. having so designated the lands of Tullynally, which he had acquired by grant from the crown. He d. in 1691, and (referring to BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage,) we pass to his great-great-grandson,

CONWY OF BODRHYDDAN.

Conwy, William-Shipley, Esq. of Bodrhyddan, co. Flint, b. 14 Aug. 1807; s. in 1826, to the estates on the death of his grandfather, the late Very Rev. William-Davies Shipley, Dean of St. Asaph. Mr. Conwy, whose patronymic is Shipley, is a deputy-lieutenant and served as high-sheriff for Flintshire in 1840.

Lineage.

This distinguished race of the Conwys* have been seated at Prestatyn and Bodrhyddan since the time of Edward I. They derive their descent from Sir Hugh Conwy, son of old Sir John Coniers, of Richmond, in Yorkshire, brother to Ievan, Lord Coniers. His son,

Sir Harry Conwy, m. Angharad, dau. and heir of Sir Hugh Crevecœur, Lord of Prestatyn &c., son of Robert Crevecœur, who, in the 7th of Edward I., laid claim to the village of Prestatyn &c., in right of his ancestor, Robert Banaster, to whom it was granted by Richard I. Sir Hugh Crevecœur's wife was Ellen, dau. and heir of John Surtees, who left her, lands &c. in the vale of Clwd. Sir Harry Conwy was s. in his estates by his son and heir,

Richard Conwy, dubbed an "Esquyer," who m. Agnes, dau. of Sir Richard Ratcliffe, Knt., son of Sir Robert Ratcliffe, and was father of

John Conwy, also styled in the pedigrees "an Esquyer." He m. Ellen, dau. of Sir Henry Torbois, and had a son and successor,

Jenkin Conwy, who m. Marsli, dau. of Meredith ap Howel ap Davydd, (lineally descended from Owen Gwynedd, Prince of Wales, son of Gryffydd ap Cynan, who d. in 1137, aged 82) and had a son and successor,

John Conwy, who is denominated by the bards, "John, the old heir of the Conwys." He m. Joan, alias Jenet, dau. of Edmund Stanley, son of Sir Wm. Stanley, of Hooton. John Conwy d. 35 of Hen. VIII. His second son, Hugh, was knighted by that monarch, who appointed him Treasurer of Calais. The eldest son,

John Conwy, was called "John, the young heir of the

* Edward Conway, created Baron Conway and Earl of Conway, was one of this family. He dying s. p., left his estates, his name, and arms, to Francis Seymour, who was, in 1702, created a Peer of England, by the title of Baron Conway, founder of the Hertford family.

Conwys," and m. Janet, dau. of Sir Thomas Salusbury, of Lleweny, the descendant of a Saxon family of great celebrity, now represented by Viscount Combermere, whose ancestor, "Black Sir Harry Salusbury," was a favourite of EDWARD I., who bestowed upon him the princely demesne of Lleweny, forfeited by the unjust attainder of David, brother of Llewelyn, the last Prince of Wales. This "John, the young heir of the Conwys," dying without issue, his estates, being entailed on heirs male, devolved upon

THOMAS CONWY, his cousin, who is designated in the pedigree simply as "the heir of the Conwys." He m. Alice, dau. of Robert Chantrell, and was father of

JOHN CONWY, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Hanmer, Knt. of Bettisfield, and had a son and successor,

JOHN CONWY, of Bodrhyddan, who m. his cousin, Jane, dau. of Robert Salusbury, of Rûg, "an Esquyer." Owing to the consanguinity of the parties, Thomas, Archbishop of Canterbury, granted him licence to marry Jane, "she being of the fourth degree to him." The licence is dated at "Lambeth Manor House, 7 Oct. 1539." John Conwy d. 12th of ELIZABETH, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN CONWY, of Bodrhyddan, who m. Margaret, dau. of Pierce Mostyn, of Talacre; she survived him many years, and d. in her house at Rhyddlan, 29 April, 1627. An inquisition was taken the 20th of ELIZABETH, at Flint, of all the lands, messuages, &c. in Prestatyn, Rhyddlan, and Meliden, left by John Conwy to his son,

SIR JOHN CONWY, Knt., b. 15 June, 1575, who m. 20 July, 1589, Mary, dau. of Edward Morgan, of Golden Grove, and dying without children, was buried at Rhyddlan, 13 Sept. 1641; his widow d. 16 Jan. 1642. His brother and heir,

GWYLYM CONWY, s. to his estates, and m. 2 June, 1622, Lucy, dau. to Thomas Mostyn, of Rhyd, second son of Sir Thomas Mostyn, of Mostyn, one of the oldest families in Wales, of the original British race. Lucy's marriage portion was 1300*l.*; a great sum in those days. The eldest surviving son,

SIR HARRY CONWY, b. in 1630, was created a Baronet. He m. 7 April, 1661, Mary, dau. and co-heir of Sir Richard Lloyd, Bart. of Ecclusham. Sir Harry d. in June, 1669, leaving a considerable estate. He was s. in title and estates by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN CONWY, second and last Baronet, who d. in 1721. He was the only man of consequence in the principality that took part with the Hanoverian line of kings, all the rest being Jacobites. He was a man of high principles, and represented either the county, or contributory boroughs of Flintshire in Parliament. He m. twice: his first wife was Margaretta-Theophila, dau. of John Digby, of Goathurst, son of the celebrated Sir Kenelm Digby; by her he had (with a dau., Maria-Margaretta, m. to Sir Thomas Longueville, Bart.) one son, Harry, who m. Honora, dau. of Edward Ravenscroft, of Broadlane, Hawerden. He, dying in the lifetime of his father, left one only child, Honora, who m. Sir John Glynne, of Hawarden Castle, ancestor of the present Sir Stephen-Richard Glynne, Bart. Honora was ten years old when her grandfather d., in 1721. Sir John Conwy m. 2ndly, Penelope, dau. of Mr. Grenville, of Wootton, in Buckinghamshire. ## Family of Davies of Gwysaney.

The Davies's of Gwysaney yield to few Families of the Principality in lineage, alliances, station, and possessions. In common with its derivative branches, the Davies's, now of Eton House, Kent; Davies's of Marrington Hall; Eytons of Leeswood; and Parrys of Plas Newydd and Warfield, the House of Gwysaney traces its immediate descent from CYNRIC EFELL, LORD OF EGLYWS EGLE, younger son of Madoc ap Meredith, last Sovereign of the Royal Dynasty of Powys, sixth in descent from, and representative of Mervyn, King of Powys, third son of Rhodri Mawr, King of Wales, who ascended the throne A.D. 843. (For early lineage, see HUGHES OF GWERCLAS.)

MADOC AP MEREDITH, PRINCE OF POWYS, who d. A.D. 1160, m. Susanna, dau. of Griffith ap Conan, Prince of North Wales, and had by her, with other issue,

I. Griffith Maelor, Lord of Bromfield, in Powys, ancestor, by Angharad, his wife, dau. of Owen Gwynedd, Prince of North Wales, of his eventual representative,
  Owen ap Griffith Vychan, Lord of Glyndwrdwy, in Merioneth, the renowned OWEN GLENDOWER, pre-eminent in the annals of Cambrian patriotism.
II. Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Edeirnion, Dinmael, and Abertanat, in Powys, a powerful Noble, and one of the most conspicuous characters of his time, from whom derived, with the Rhys's, Barons of Rûg, Maesmors of Maesmor, and other eminent families, the HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, in Edeirnion, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN-EDEIRNION, represented in the female line by the present RICHARD WALMESLEY LLOYD, Esq., son and heir of the late Richard Hughes Lloyd, of Gwerclas, co. Merioneth, Plymog, co. Denbigh, and Bashall, co. York, Esq. (see LLOYD OF PLYMOG), and in the male line by the present WILLIAM HUGHES, Esq. son and heir of the late William Hughes, of Pen-y-Clawdd, co. Denbigh, Esq. (See HUGHES OF GWERCLAS AND PEN-Y-CLAWDD.)

MADOC AP MEREDITH, by a subsequent union with Eva, dau. of Madoc ap Urien, of Maengwynedd, derived from Idnerth Benfras, Lord of Maesbrook, grandson of Edwin, Lord of Tegaingle, Founder of the XIII. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys (see OWEN OF TEDSMORE), had twin sons,

I. CYNRIC EFELL, of whose line we have to treat.
II. Einion Efell, Lord of Cynllaeth, progenitor of several notable families, including the EDWARDS'S OF NESS STRANGE, LLOYDS OF ASTON (see those names), Vaughans, Earls of Carbery, &c.

The elder of the twin sons,

CYNRIC EFELL, succeeded on the demise of his father to the Lordship of EGLWYS-EGLE, a division of the Lordship of Bromfield, containing the townships of Ibibisham, Broughton, Stanstye Villa, Acton, Morton Walliarum, and Erddig; and he acquired also, as portion of his patrimony, a part of Rhuabon, in Denbighland, and of Ystrad Alyn Ywch Gwysaney, a district in Cantref-Rhiw, in Powys, which by the name of Molesdale, with the continuation of it then called Hopesdale, was, in the first regulation of the Welsh counties by HENRY VIII., annexed to the co. Denbigh, but in the 33rd year of the same monarch was assigned to Flintshire. The armorial bearings which were assigned to the Lord of Eglwys-Egle, and which continue to be borne by his descendants, are "Gu., on a bend, arg., a Lion, passant, sa., armed and langued, gules." Cynric Efell, who was living A.D. 1200, m. Golle (the Brilliant), dau. and heiress, by Dydhdgw, dau. and heir of Caswallon, younger son of Owen Cyfeilioc, Prince of Powys Gwenwynwyn (see HUGHES OF GWERCLAS), of Griffith ap Howel, fifth in descent from Elystan Glodrydd, Prince of Ferlys, founder of the IV. Royal Tribe of Wales, (see MORRIS OF YORK,) and had, with an eldest son, LLEWELYN, four younger sons, of whom the fifth,

Ririd, Lord of Llwydiarth, in Powys, and of Dinas Cerddin, in South Wales, m. Arddyn, dau. of Ithel Goch, of Burgedin, in Powys, derived from Meredith, younger son of Bleddyn ap Cynfyn, King of Powys, and had a dau. and heiress,
  Gwladys, mother, by her husband, Ririd ap Cynddelw, Lord of Llwydiarth, derived from Aleth, Prince of Dyved, of Celynyn, Lord of Llwydiarth, ancestor of the LLOYDS OF DOLOBRAN (see that name), and DAVIES'S OF MARSH, co. Salop, from whom deduces descent LIEUT.-COL. THOMAS HENRY HASTINGS DAVIES, M.P., of ELMLEY PARK. (See that name.)

The eldest son,

LLEWELYN AP CYNRIC EFEL, m. Efa, dau. of Bleddyn ap Gwion, of Uwch Aled, in Denbighland, derived from Hedd Molwynoc, Lord of Uwch Aled, Founder of the IX. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys, and had two sons and a dau.,

I. GRIFFITH AP LLEWELYN.
II. Jeuaf ap Llewelyn, who m. Efa, dau. of Iorwerth ap Griffith, of Vrongoch, in Powys, of the Line of Cynric ap Pasgon ap Gwyn, Lord of Guilsfield, and was ancestor of the WYNNS OF HARTSHEATH, and the BROUGHTONS, near Wrexham.
I. Efa, m. Cynric ap Griffith Vychan, derived from Tudor Trevor, Lord of Hereford, and was mother of Einon Goch, ancestor of the WYNNES OF BERSHAM, co. Denbigh, whose heiress, Jane, dau. and heiress of John Wynne, of Bersham, Gent., m. John Puleston, Esq., in her right of Bersham. (See PENNANT OF BYCHTON and DOWNING.)

Llewelyn ap Cynric Efel was s. by his elder son,

GRIFFITH AP LLEWELYN, who had issue,

I. GRONO AP GRIFFITH.
II. Madoc Ddu ap Griffith, father, by Myfanwy, his wife, dau. of Ednyfed Gam ap Iorwerth Voel, of the Tribe of Tudor Trevor, of a dau. and heiress,
  Isabel, wife of Grono ap Einion, derived from Eunydd ap Gwernwy, Chief of the Tribe of Dyffryn Clwyd, and ancestor, by her, of the ALMERS OF ALMER, co. Flint.
III. Griffith Ddu ap Griffith, ancestor of the ROBERTS'S OF NERQUIS, co. Flint.

The eldest son,

GRONO AP GRIFFITH, was father of,

MEILIR AP GRONO, who m. Agnes, dau. of Cadwgan Goch ap Gwion, of Yale, in Denbighland, descended from Ithel Velyn, Lord of Yale, son of Llewelyn Aurdorchog (Golden Torques), Lord of Yale. Of this marriage there was issue,

I. IORWERTH AP MEILIR.
II. Griffith Crach ap Mirlir, ancestor, by his wife, Efa, dau. of David Hen (Old) ap Grono, of Burton, in Denbighland, derived from Sandde Hardd, Lord of Burton (see LLOYD OF GLOSTER), of the EYTONS OF LEESWOOD, co. Flint, represented by the present JOHN-WYNNE EYTON, Esq. of Leeswood. (See that name.)

Meilir ap Grono's eldest son, viz.,

IORWERTH AP MEILIR m. Gwenllian, widow of Ievan ap Griffith ap Madoc, and dau. and co-heir of Ievan ap Meredith, of Henllys, in Cefn-y-Farm, sixth in descent from Collwyn ap Tanzno, Lord of Efionydd, Founder of the V. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys, (see BURKE'S Peerage, Art. EARL LISBURNE,) and was, by her, father of an eldest son,

IORWERTH AP IORWERTH.

By a subsequent union with Gwenhwyfar, dau. of Adda Wyddel, of Dol Edeyrn, Iorwerth ap Meilir was father of a son, Meilir ap Iorwerth, from whom derived the Right Rev. Richard Parry, Lord Bishop of St. Asaph, ancestor of the PARRYS OF PLAS NEWYDD, co. Denbigh, and WARFIELD, co. Berks.

Iorwerth ap Meilir was s. by his eldest son,

IORWERTH AP IORWERTH, who had issue (with a dau. Gwenllian, wife of Madoc Goch ap Heilin Vychan,) two sons,

I. Cynric ap Iorwerth, of whom presently.
II. Ievan ap Iorwerth, progenitor of the Lewis's of Hendrebiffa, whose heiress, Jane, dau. and heir of Richard Lewis, of Hendrebiffa, Gent., m. Hugh Jones, Gent.

Cynric ap Iorwerth, grandfather, by Gwenllian, his wife, of,

David ap Grono ap Cynric, whose wife was Angharad, dau. of David ap Iorwerth Vychan of Caervallwch, in Northop, co. Flint, derived from Edwin, Lord of Tegaingle. By this lady, David, who was living in 1440, had, with junior issue, an eldest son,

Llewelyn ap David, of Gwysaney, co. Flint. He m. Mali, dau. and heiress of Madoc ap Bleddyn, of Leeswood, co. Flint, eighth in descent from Ithel Velyn, Lord of Yale, and by her (who d. 9 Edw. IV.) left issue an only son,

Griffith ap Llewelyn, of Gwysaney, who, by Emma, his wife, dau. of Jenkin ap Tegin, of Kinnerton, co. Flint, of the Tribe of Edwin of Tegaingle, had issue,

I. David ap Griffith, his heir, of whose line we have to treat.
II. Robert ap Griffith, killed with his brother John.
III. John ap Griffith, who m. Catherine, dau. of Griffith ap Belyn, descended from Ithel Velyn, Lord of Yale; and from this marriage derived, I. the Wynns of Tower, co. Flint, whose line terminated with Roger Wynn, Esq. of Tower. Dying issueless, this gentleman devised Tower to his widow, from whom it passed to her niece, the wife of the Rev. Hope Wynn Eyton, of Leeswood, the possessor in 1779. II. Williams's of Arddynwent, co. Flint.
IV. Iorwerth ap Griffith.
I. Catherine, m. to Griffith Lloyd ap David, of Bistre, deducing descent from Edwin, Lord of Tegaingle; and from this marriage proceeded families, seated in the townships of Gwysaney, Caervallwch, &c.

Griffith ap Llewelyn was s. by his eldest son,

David ap Griffith, of Gwysaney, who wedded Angharad, dau. of Edward Lloyd, of Hartsheath, co. Flint, Gent., a Scion of the Line of Edwin, Lord of Tegaingle, and had issue,

I. John ap David.
II. Robert ap David, a Serjeant to Henry VIII. m. the widow of Alderman Puleston.
III. Ievan ap David, m. Margaret, widow of Thomas ap Rees, and dau. of Howel ap Robert, of Mostyn, co. Flint, and was grandfather of Thomas Davies, of Arddynwent, co. Flint, Gent.

David ap Griffith's successor,

John ap David, of Gwysaney, assumed the name of Davies, from this time the patronymic of his descendants. He m. Jane, dau. (by Jane, dau. of Robert Massie, of Coddington, co. Chester, Esq., (see Massie of Coddington,) and Dorothy, his wife, dau. of Sir Hugh Calveley, Knt.,) of Thomas Salusbury, of Leadbrooke, co. Flint, Esq., 3rd son, by Margaret, his wife, dau. and heiress of John Hooke, of Leadbrooke, Esq., of Sir Thomas Salusbury, of Lleweny, co. Denbigh, Knt., representative of the Knightly and eventual Baronetical house of Salusbury, seated at Lleweny from the year 1230, (see Burke's Peerage and Baronetage, Salusbury of Llanwern, Barts.) Of this alliance there was issue,

I. Robert.
II. John, living in 1578, m. first, Margaret, widow of Roger Brereton, and dau. and heiress of John Gyttyng, of Wrexham, in Denbighshire, Gent.; and, secondly, a dau. of — Price, Esq. of Rhiwlas, in the same County, by the latter of whom he was ancestor of the Davies's of Marrington Hall, co. Salop, represented by the present John Davies, Esq. of Marrington Hall. (See Davies of Marrington Hall.)
I. Catherine, m. Edward Morgan, of Golden Grove, co. Flint, Esq., derived from Ednyfed Vychan, Lord of Brynffenigl, representative of Marchudd, Lord of Abergelleu, Founder of the viii. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys, and was mother of a son and heir,
Robert Morgan, Esq. of Golden Grove, ancestor of the present Edward Morgan, Esq. of Golden Grove. (See that name.)

The elder son,

Robert Davies, Esq. of Gwysaney, was living 20 April, 1581, when he obtained from the College of Heralds a Confirmation of the Family Arms, and also the Grant of the Crest borne by his descendants, "a Lion's head, erased, quarterly, arg. and sa., langued, gu." This gentleman m. 1st, Catherine, dau. of George Ravenscroft, of Bretton, co. Flint, Esq., and niece of Elizabeth Ravenscroft, wife of Thomas Egerton, Lord Ellesmere, Lord High Chancellor of England, and had issue,

I. Robert, his heir.
II. Thomas, lieut.-col. for Charles I., and Constable of Hawarden Castle in 1643. This gentleman m. his cousin, Dorothie, dau. of Robert Morgan, of Golden Grove, co. Flint, Esq., by Catherine, dau. of Sir William Jones, Knt. of Castel-y-march. Colonel Davies was buried 7 March, 1655, and his lady on the 18 April preceding.
III. John, d. s. p.
I. Dorothy, m. 1st, Edward Price, of Eglwysegle, Gent., and was father by her of two daus. and co-heirs; and 2ndly, Thomas Llewelyn, of Salop, Gent.
II. Mary, m. John Price, of the Township of Gwysaney, Gent.

He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of George Lowther, of Holt, Esq. and relict of John Haynes, Esq., and, by this lady, who was buried 11 March, 1616, he had,

I. Luke. II. Mark. III. Matthew, living in 1632.
I. Katherine, m. Harry Lloyd, of Hartsheath, co. Flint, Gent., and was mother of Edward Lloyd, of Hartsheath, a Capt. for Charles I.

Mr. Davies was s. by his eldest son,

Robert Davies, Esq. of Gwysaney, who served the office of High Sheriff of Flintshire, of which County he was a Magistrate and Deputy-lieut. Mr. Davies, who was lay Rector and patron of the living of St. Winefrede, in Flintshire, which, before the dissolution, belonged to the Abbey of Basingwerk, in the same county, munificently transferred to Jesus' College, Oxford, the right of nomination to the advowson, by deed dated 1626, whereby it was declared that, as often as this incumbency became vacant, the grantor and his heirs should freely and "Charitatis intuitu et absque aliqua morosâ cunctatione" present a native of Wales, rightfully and canonically nominated by the College. This gentleman m. Anne, only dau. and heir of John Haynes, Esq., Receiver to Queen Elizabeth of her Revenues in Wales, (who d. 27 May, 33 Elizabeth) by Elizabeth, dau. of George Lowther, Esq., and afterwards wife of Robert Davies, Esq. of Gwysaney. Mr. Davies was buried 29 Jan. 1633, and by his lady, who was buried 31 Aug. 1636, left a son and successor,

Robert Davies, Esq. of Gwysaney, baptized 22 Dec. 1616, who was placed under the joint guardianship of his uncle, Colonel Thomas Davies, and of Sir Peter Mutton. He was High Sheriff for the County of Flint in 1644-5-6 and 1660, and a release granted to him by Oliver Cromwell, dated 1658, is still preserved. This gentleman, a stanch cavalier, garrisoned the old mansion of Gwysaney during the civil wars, and defended it until 1645, when Sir William Brereton, the parliamentary general, compelled its surrender. At the Restoration, his name appears among those deemed qualified for the Knighthood of the Royal Oak, "he having an estate of £2000 per annum." Mr. Davies m. ætat. thirteen, 29 July 1631, Anne, dau. and co-heiress (with Eleanor, wife of Kenrick Eyton, of Eyton, co. Denbigh Esq.,) of Sir Peter Mutton, of Llanerch Park, co. Denbigh, Knt., Chief Justice of North Wales, M.P. for Caernarvon, derived from a common ancestor with the Myttons of Halston, co. Salop, (see Mytton of Halston,) by Eleanor, relict of Evan Griffith, Esq. of Pengwern, co. Flint, dau. of Edmund Williams, Esq. of Conway, and sister of John Williams, D.D., Archbishop of York, Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, and also of John Williams, Esq., ancestor of the Williams-Bulkeleys of Penrhyn, co. Caernarvon, Barts. (See Lloyd of Plymog.) Robert Davies, by the Heiress of Llanerch, who survived her husband twenty-four years, and was buried 14 Oct. 1690, had issue,

I. Mutton, his heir.
II. Robert, of the Guard of Horse to Charles II., baptized 15 April, 1639, and d. s. p. in 1668.

* "Killed in action, on the night of the 18 May, at the siege of Malegaum, in Kandiesh, Lieutenant Thomas Davies, late Commanding Engineer of the army of the Deckan.

"This brave officer's career was short, but brilliant; he had been foremost in almost every service of danger or destruction since his arrival in India in 1808. He had the honour of dismantling the French and hoisting the British colours under the fire of all the batteries in the capture of Bourbon; he was volunteer in the attack on the Isle Depasse at Mauritius, and while conveying an order in an open boat to the Nereid from Captain Pym, she was sunk alongside the vessel; on that occasion he fell into the hands of the enemy, and was only released on the reduction of the Mauritius; since his return to India in 1811, he has always been in the field; he was desperately wounded at Nagpore while leading a storming party to the breach; and received his death wound in the act of repelling a sally in the trenches with a covering party, and while personally engaged with the enemy. His remains were attended to the grave by his brother officers, who, in paying the last sad tribute to his remains, bedewed his grave with tears; and his death knell was tolled by the peals of artillery on the Fort walls. It is a melancholy consolation, however, to his friends to know, that he would have preferred the glorious fate he has met, to any other at a future period. In his death, his country has met with an irreparable loss; and his brother officers have lost an esteemed and respected soldier and friend.

"His military talents and acquirements as an engineer were of a stamp that placed him in the highest class of his profession; and his excellent and sound judgment aided a naturally quick and inventive genius in all his undertakings."—Bombay Newspaper.

"The plan laid down by Lieutenant Davies for the reduction of Malligawm, was breaching, in the first instance, the outer wall, opposite to the left curtain of the south-west tower of the castle. On the outward breach being effected, it was proposed to have made a lodgment on it; and, ascertaining the exact situation of the ditch, of which Lieutenant Davies was fully apprized, to have carried on our further operations as might be deemed advisable. Towards sunset on the 18th, the different working parties were at their posts, and the whole had set to work about half an hour after. The evening was perfectly calm, and the moon having just got up, threw its still feeble light through the deep mango trees on those working below, and rendered the whole scene as interesting as it was solemn. The advanced sentries were thrown out on the bank of the river, and the work went on briskly till about seven o'clock, when the fire and alarm was quickly given by the Sepoys on a body of Arabs who appeared along the hedges to the left, and were crossing the river. The firing increased, and the Arabs shewing themselves on the advanced part of the Tope, a general confusion ensued amongst those working there, the dooley-bearers &c. throwing down their loads and flying in every direction. The advanced sentries had now fallen back upon the main body of the covering party; and the Arabs, in the meantime gaining ground from tree to tree, and keeping at a stand the covering party of 170 Sepoys under a subaltern, they, at length, made themselves masters of the Tope, the work becoming entirely abandoned. Luckily the quickest news of this check was intimated to Major Andrews of the M. E. R. by an officer of that corps who had been looking on, when the major instantly put himself with the same officer at the head of sixty men, who were parading for duty at the moment, and proceeding towards the Tope, they were there joined by Lieutenant Davies. Being now on the edge of the Tope, this party drew up, the Arabs to be seen distinctly behind the trees from the burning of their matches; and the word of command being given, they dashed right at them, and in the course of twenty minutes drove the Arabs completely out of the Tope; but unable to restrain their own impetuosity, they followed them into the river, and close under the walls of the fort, which now, crowded with Arabs, opened a most furious fire of matchlocks upon them, (opening at the same time all their heavy guns upon the camp.) Major Andrews, with several of the men, having been wounded and withdrawn, Colonel M'Dowell, now arriving in the Tope, ordered the party to be recalled. It was, at this moment, when the order was given to fall back, that Lieutenant Davies received his mortal wound by a chance shot from the walls of the Fort. He was in the act of turning round to return, when the fatal ball, passing through his neck, laid that brave fellow low. He was still heard to exclaim, 'At them, my boys—at them!' and being lifted by some of the men, he breathed his last on reaching the Tope. Thus terminated his career this gallant and distinguished officer; zealously devoted to his profession and to the service, bold, enterprising, and active, he seemed only to require the maturity of manhood and of experience to have rendered him the most solid ornament and value to the service. His remains were attended to the grave by every officer off duty in the camp; and it may be truly said, that there was scarce a dry eye on the occasion.

Aerial bands shall build thy tomb,
With shadowy trophies crown'd:
Whilst Honour bath'd in tears shall rove,
To sigh thy name through every grove,
And call his heroes round.'

COLLINS."

—Summary of the Mahratta and Pindarree Campaign, London, 8vo, 1820, p. 194.

"Lieutenant Davies, the senior Engineer, who hastened forward on the alarm with a party from the trenches, was shot dead by the Arabs in their retreat. In him the service lost one of the most distinguished officers of the Madras establishment; though young in rank, he had seen more desperate service than had fallen to the lot of most colonels."† —PRINCEP'S British India, p. 413.

† "He had accompanied Lieut.-Col. Gillespie into the Fort of Vellore during the mutiny there, and was particularly distinguished for the cool intrepidity with which, from the top of the gateway, he let fall a plummet to ascertain the exact situation of the fastening, in order to be sure of the direction of his fire, when the galloper should arrive with which it was intended to blow open the gate."

Lineage.

THE RIGHT REV. THOMAS HERRING, D.D., Archbishop of Canterbury, a distinguished prelate, was b. in 1691, at Walsoken, co. Norfolk, of which parish his father was rector. In 1737, he became Bishop of Bangor; in 1743, was translated to the Archbishopric of York; and in 1747, succeeded Archbishop Potter in the Primacy. This celebrated preacher and divine d. 13 March, 1757. His son,

THOMAS HERRING, Esq. m. the sister of Sir Wm. Cooper, Bart., and had, with a son, James, (who served under Wolfe, at Quebec, and was colonel of a volunteer corps, with whom he encamped at the Curragh of Kildare, to repel the threatened French invasion; he m. Anne Fitzmaurice,) another son,

DARBY HERRING, Esq. who m. Harmina, dau. of Harman Fitzmaurice, son of the Hon. James Fitzmaurice, by Catherine, his wife, dau. and heir of William Harman, Esq., and grandson of William, Earl of Kerry, and had issue,

* Walter Lutwidge, Esq. of Whitehaven, was high-sheriff of the county of Cumberland in 1748.

† An old document, in the possession of the COOKSON family, states that Adam de Blencowe was standard-bearer at the battles of Cressy and Poictiers, under command of William, Baron de Greystock, who, as an honorary reward for his "good and vaillant" service, did immediately, after the battle of Poictiers, make him a grant of his own arms, to be thenceforth borne on a band pointed with the paternal coat, "as a monument to posteritie of ye esteem he had for him."

‡ This family has long held possessions in the county of Northumberland. "In the reign of CHARLES I., Edward Cooke, Esq., resided at Amble New Hall. He had seventeen children (eight sons and nine daus.), and estates at Amble, Togstone, Newton-on-the-Moore, Brainshaugh, Blackmoor, Low Newton, and Eastfield, which estates he divided amongst five of his sons, leaving money portions to the rest of his children." To John, his eldest son, he left Amble and Togston; and from him descended the family of COOKE, now represented by Mrs. Isaac Cookson, of Meldon Park. He left Blakemoor to his second son, Edward, who resided in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, was a barrister-at-law, a distinguished antiquary, and recorder of Berwick-upon-Tweed. To his son William, he devised Brainshaugh; and from Joseph is descended the COOKES OF NEWTON.

III. Lucy-Cooper, m. 14 July, 1842, to Henry Robinson, Esq. of Knapton Grove, co. Norfolk, standard-bearer to Her Majesty.

Mr. Cooper Cooper served the office of sheriff of Bedfordshire in 1829, for which county he is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant, as well as a magistrate for Middlesex.

Lineage.

This family resided originally for many years in Sussex, and the branch of which we are about to treat was dwelling at Bosden, co. Chester, about the year 1377. The inscription upon the gravestone, in the middle aisle, approaching the pulpit in Stockport Church, bears the names of "Thomas Cowper, de Bosden, February 13, 1411—and Thomas Cowper, y^e^ son, October 8, 1471." It is not known, however, whom these persons married, as no parish registers were kept there at that early period, nor before the year 1538; but from ancient family registers and documents in the possession of Thomas Cowper and William Mills, the following information is deduced.

JOHN COWPER, of Bosden, son of the above Thomas Cowper, by Elinor, his wife, dau. of Sir Randall ap Ellis, of Overleigh, m. Grace, dau. of Sir R. Corbett, and had issue,

JOHN, his successor.
Thomas, m. the dau. of Sir John Davenport, and had a son, Ralph, whose dau., Catherine, m. Mabell Sebright.
Matthew, m. a dau. of Sir Richard de Henhull, and had issue.
Elizabeth, m. to Chorley, of Chorley.
Mary, m. to Calverley, of Calverley.
Maud, m. to — Newton, Esq., son of Sir Peter Newton.

This John Cowper d. in 1507, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN COWPER, b. in 1487, who m. in 1525, Mary, dau. of Roger Mainwaring, Esq. of Carincham, co. Chester, and dying in 1543, left two sons, John, the younger, m. in 1549, Agnes, sister of Sir Rowland Hill, and granddau. of Thomas Wilbraham, Esq.; and the elder, his heir,

THOMAS COWPER, baptized in 1528, who had two sons, JOHN, his heir; and Ralph, m. to Miss Howe, and had issue. He d. in 1582, and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN COWPER, who m. in 1557, Catherine, dau. of Thomas Dutton, Esq. of Dutton, and granddau. of John Egerton, first Earl of Bridgewater, and by her (who d. in 1632) had issue, JOHN, his successor; Thomas, m. Miss Meredith, of an ancient Welsh family, and had issue; and Elizabeth, m. to Thomas Walter St. John, Esq. Mr. Cowper d. in 1629, and was buried in Stockport Church: "John Cowper de Bosden." He was succeeded by his elder son,

JOHN COWPER, of Bosden, who m. Mary, dau. of William Brereton, Esq., and had two sons, JOHN, his successor; and Thomas, m. Alicia, dau. of T. Egerton, Esq., and had issue. This gentleman was a staunch loyalist, and after the defeat of King CHARLES at the battle of Chester, in 1664, was one of those who conducted his Majesty to Denbigh. He was a man of great parts and much learning, and received the honour of knighthood. He d. in 1681, and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN COWPER, Esq., baptized 11 March, 1593, who m. 14 Feb. 1631, Mary, dau. and heiress of W.-R. Handford, Esq., of Handford Hall, co. Chester, and had issue, JOHN, his successor; Thomas, m. Julian, dau. of Matthew Ellis; Martha, m. to Sir Richard Edgcroft, and had issue; Mary, m. to John Hampson, Esq.; Sarah, m. to Sir Thomas Bennison, Knt.; and Elizabeth, m. to Sir Thomas Hyde, Bart. Mr. Cowper d. in 1700, and was s. by his son,

JOHN COWPER, Esq. of Bosden, who m. in 1658, Sarah, dau. and heiress of Walter Copestick, Esq. of Langley Park, in Derbyshire, and had issue,

JOHN, who m. in 1721, Hannah, only dau. and heiress of Thomas Strettell, Esq. of Ashton, and dying before his father, in 1728, left two sons and a dau., viz.,
JOHN, who s. his grandfather at Bosden, and altered the spelling of the name to that now used. He m. in 1744, Anne, dau. of the Rev. William Dodge, of Sowesby, in Yorkshire, and his dau., ANNE COOPER, espousing the Rev. John Heap, of Birdham, Sussex, was mother of the present WILLIAM-DODGE-COOPER (late HEAP) COOPER, Esq.
THOMAS, of whom presently.
Sarah, m. to Joshua Roylance, Esq.
Elizabeth, m. to William Dale, Esq. of Handford, and had two daus., viz., Elizabeth Dale, m. to William Warren, Esq. of the Warrens of Poynton; and Bridgett Dale, m. to Henry Leigh, Esq.
Hannah, m. to Sir Thomas Banastre, and had a dau., Hannah, m. to John Ashley, Esq.

Mr. Cowper d. 6 Oct. 1728, and was s. by his elder grandson, John Cooper, Esq. His younger grandson,

THOMAS COOPER, Esq., m. 18 June, 1749, Sarah,* dau. and heiress of William Paulden, Esq. of Timperley, and had twelve children, eight sons and four daus., ten of whom died infants; the youngest dau., Sarah, died in 1785. The only surviving son,

JOHN COOPER, Esq., b. 16 Jan. 1759, m. Jane, dau. of William Gidden, (or, as anciently spelt, Gideon,) Esq., and had an only dau. and heiress,

ELIZABETH COOPER, who m. her cousin, William-Dodge-Cooper Heap, Esq., who in consequence changed his surname to Cooper, and is the present proprietor of Toddington Park, Bedfordshire, and of Park House, Middlesex.

Mr. Cooper served the office of sheriff for the co. of Bedford in 1812, and was s. at his decease, in 1824, by his son-in-law, the present WILLIAM-DODGE-COOPER COOPER, Esq.

Arms—Gu., on a chev., between three lions, passant, arg., each holding a battle-axe in his fore paw, or, three lozenges, sa., on a chief, engrailed, gold, a lozenge of the field between two martlets of the fourth; an escutcheon of pretence, quarterly, gu. and az., on a chev., erm., between three lions, passant, or, as many lozenges voided, of the first; quarterings, see BURKE'S General Armory, and BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations.

COPPINGER OF BALLYVOLANE.

COPPINGER, WILLIAM, Esq. of Ballyvolane and Barryscourt, both in the county of Cork, s. his father, 15 July, 1816.

Lineage.

The COPPINGERS, whose chief's immediate line we are about to trace, like the Jerninghams of England, and the Plunkets of Ireland, came originally from Denmark, and establishing themselves in the "Emerald Isle," have maintained an elevated position there for a long series of years. So far back as the beginning of the fourteenth century, (anno 1319,) we find, by the municipal records of Cork, Stephen Coppinger, mayor of that city, about the period, in EDWARD II.'s reign, when the chief magistrate of London first adopted a similar designation. This gentleman's relatives and descendants long continued to sustain their local influence, as appears by the frequency of the name in the civic annals of Cork, and to spread themselves as large proprietors* over the adjoining county. Passing, however, the series of intervening generations, we arrive at another

STEPHEN COPPINGER, Esq., who d. in 1620, when, according to an inquisitio post mortem held that year on him and several others, and which was produced in court on a suit maintained against the corporation of Cork in 1822, he was in possession of Ballyvolane, with other lands in the city and liberties of Cork, which that document describes as possessed by the tenure of free-burgage It thence, likewise, appeared that he held these lands by several preceding patents, to which reference is made, and which were confirmed by one from his Majesty King JAMES I. Mr. Coppinger m. Miss Roche of Dunderrow, in the co. of Cork, and was s. by his son,

STEPHEN COPPINGER, Esq., whose monumental inscription in Upper Shandon Churchyard, represents him as CHIEF OF HIS NAME. He m. Elizabeth or Elice Goold, and had issue, I. THOMAS, his heir; II. William, last Catholic sheriff of Cork in 1687, whose grandson, WILLIAM COPPINGER, founded a commercial establishment at Bordeaux. He had, with several other children, a son, WILLIAM COPPINGER, b. in 1735, who d. in 1802, leaving, with two daus., Adelaide, m. to Luke Callaghan, Esq. of Paris, banker, (who d. in 1832, leaving a son, Augustus Callaghan, and two daus.) and Emilie, a son, JAMES COPPINGER, of Paris, banker, who m. Mademoiselle Salle, and had issue; III. Henry, ancestor of GENERAL JOSEPH COPPINGER, of the Spanish service, resident at the Havannah; IV. Matthew. Stephen Coppinger d. in 1678, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS COPPINGER, Esq., who m. Ellen, dau. of Edward Galwey, Esq. of Lota, and sister of John Galwey, Esq., one of the representatives for the City of Cork in the parliament of JAMES II., and had (with four daus., the eldest m. to Connor O'Brien, Esq.; the second, to Ronayne, Esq.; the third, to Nihil, Esq.; and the fourth, to Patrick Rochfort, Esq. of Cork) three sons, STEPHEN, his heir; Edward, captain in the service of JAMES II., killed in 1691, at Bottlehill, co. Cork; and John, of Granecloyn, ancestor of THOMAS-STEPHEN COPPINGER, Esq. of Middleton. Thomas Coppinger was outlawed, and forfeited his property for his adherence to his sovereign in 1688; but the estates were subsequently restored to his eldest son, STEPHEN, by a decision of the Court of Claims, with the exception of that part which was out of settlement, and which constituted a very considerable and most valuable portion, now principally in the possession of Lord Gort. The said eldest son,

STEPHEN COPPINGER, Esq., m. at La Rochelle, in 1700,* Johanna, dau. of Stephen Gould, Esq. of Cork, and had three sons, viz.,

JOHN, his heir.
WILLIAM, eventual inheritor.
Joseph, who m. Miss Arthur, of Limerick, and had (with four daus., two of whom were nuns; another was the wife of Daniel Cronin, Esq. of The Park, near Killarney, predecessor to the present proprietor; and the fourth m. to Nicholas Tuite Selby, Esq.) six sons, viz.
1. Stephen, who m. Miss Gallwey, of Killarney.
2. William, Catholic Bishop of Cloyne.
3. Thomas, who d. in the West Indies, issueless.
4. Peter, who m. for his second wife, the dau. of Henry O'Brien, Esq. of Kilcor, by Miss Coppinger, aunt of the present Mr. Coppinger, of Barryscourt, and had a son, William-Henry Coppinger, Esq. of Roseville, co. Waterford, who m. Elizabeth, third dau. of Richard O'Byrne, Esq. of the ancient house of Cabinteely, and has issue.
5. Joseph, who d. at New York, without issue.
6. John, d. at St. Croix, without issue.

The eldest son,

JOHN COPPINGER, Esq., m. 1st, Mary, elder dau. and co-heir of Nicholas Blundell, Esq. of Crosbie, in Lancashire, with whom he acquired a large fortune, and would have succeeded to considerable estates in Lancashire if his son by that lady had lived. He (the son) d. at York in 1745, and was soon followed by his mother. Mr. Coppinger wedded, 2ndly, the dau. and co-heir† of Michael Moore, Esq. of Drogheda, and had an only dau., his successor,

MARIANA COPPINGER, who m. in 1767, Charles Howard, eleventh Duke of Norfolk, but dying in childbed in 1769, her Grace was s. by her uncle,

WILLIAM COPPINGER, Esq. of Ballyvolane and Barryscourt, who m. his cousin, Elizabeth, dau. of John Galwey, Esq. of Lota, by his wife, Miss Butler, of Westcourt, a near relative of James, second Duke of Ormond, and had four daus., (of whom the eldest m. Cornelius O'Brien, Esq. of Kilcor; the 2nd, Mary, m. Dr. Callaghan, of Cork; and the youngest, Teresa, m. Pierce Power, Esq. of Clonmel,) and seven sons, viz.,

I. Stephen, who predeceased his father, unm.
II. WILLIAM, his heir.
III. John, d. unm.
IV. Thomas, m. Dorinda, dau. of Edmund Barry, Esq., and had, with other children, a son, Edmund, father of the present Thomas Coppinger, Esq. of Ropmore.
V. Richard, an officer in the Austrian service, under his friend, General Lord Taafe. He d. at Prague, issueless.
VI. Joseph, m. his cousin, Alicia, dau. of John Coppinger, Esq. of Gronacloyne, and was father of Joseph-William

* Alderman John Coppinger, born about the year 1556, and who appears to have been mayor several times, by his will, dated 6 Dec. 1637, describes himself as seised, by inheritance or mortgage, of very extensive property in the county and city of Cork, which he devised to his son, Sir John Coppinger, and other children, appointing his nephew, Sir Walter Coppinger, one of the executors.

* Mr. Coppinger, of Barryscourt, has the minute of the contract of marriage of Stephen, eldest son of Thomas, drawn 13 Oct. 1700, by Soullard, notaire royal, registered the 18th, and sealed the 19th of the same month, at La Rochelle, dans le pays d'Aunis, in France, where Mr. Coppinger is designated Seigneur de Villetorcau, which is equivalent in French to the Irish Ballyvolane (Bulltown).

† The other daus. and co-heirs of Michael Moore, Esq. of Drogheda, were Eleanor, m. to Sir Edward Bellew, 3rd bart. of Barmouth; another, m. to — Aylmer, Esq. of Lyons, grandfather of the late Countess of Kenmare; and the youngest, Christian, wife of James Butler, Baron Cahir.

Coppinger, Esq., who m. Margaret, dau. of Henry O'Brien, Esq. of Kilcor.

VII. James, who m. his cousin, Alicia, dau. of William Coppinger, Esq. of Cork, and had issue. His eldest son, William, m. 1st, Ellen, dau. of Richard Moylan, Esq., and 2ndly, in Paris, Harriot, 2nd dau. of Rev. James Saunders, Rector of Sawtry. He has issue by both wives.

Mr. Coppinger was s. at his decease by his eldest surviving son,

WILLIAM COPPINGER, Esq. of Barryscourt, who m. Jane, dau. of Stanislaus, and sister of Donat M'Mahon, Esq. of Clenagh, in the co. of Clare. By this lady, who d. 31 Jan. 1833, he had, with several other children who predeceased him,

WILLIAM, his heir.

John M'Mahon, late of the 13th dragoons, who d. in London in 1829.

Elizabeth, m. to John O'Connell, Esq. of Grena, next brother of Daniel O'Connell, Esq. M.P. for the county of Cork.

Mary, m. to her cousin, James Blackney, Esq., eldest son of Walter Blackney, Esq., M.P., and d. in Sept. 1833.

CORBET OF SUNDORNE.

CORBET, ANDREW-WILLIAM, Esq. of Sundorne Castle, co. Salop, b. 22 Sept. 1801; m. 14 June, 1823, Mary-Emma, dau. of John Hill, Esq., and sister of Sir Rowland Hill, Bart. of Hawkestone. Mr. Corbett s. his father, 19 May, 1817.

Lineage.

This is a principal branch of the great Norman family, whose ancestor, ROGER CORBET, accompanied WILLIAM I. to the Conquest of England.

WILLIAM CORBET, the eldest son of Roger, was seated at Wattlesborough. His second son,

SIR ROBERT CORBET, Knt., had for his inheritance the castle and estates of Caus, with a large portion of his father's domains. He was father of

ROBERT CORBET, also of Caus Castle, who accompanied RICHARD I. to the siege of Acre, and then bore for arms the two ravens, as now borne by all his descendants.

THOMAS CORBET, son of the last-named Robert, was sheriff of Shropshire in 1249; in 1270 he was a donor to the abbey of Shrewsbury, and in 1272 he founded the chapel of St. Margaret, in Caus. He m. Isabel, sister and co-heir of Reginald de Valletort, Baron of Trematon Castle, in Cornwall, and widow of Alan de Dunstanville, by whom he had issue, Peter, his only son, and two daus., Alice, m. to Robert de Stafford, Baron of Stafford, and Emme, wife of Sir Brian de Brampton, of Brampton Brian. He d. in 1274, and was s. by his son,

PETER CORBET, who, it appears, was "a mighty hunter," for, in the ninth year of King EDWARD I. he obtained letters-patent from the sovereign, authorizing him to take wolves in all the royal forests in various counties, a proof of the falsehood of the common belief that our island is indebted to the exertions of King EDGAR for the extirpation of that savage beast of prey. This Peter Corbet, of Caus, had summons to Parliament, as one of the barons of the realm, from the 22nd of EDWARD I. to his death in 1300. By Alice, his wife, he had three sons, Thomas, Peter, and John. THOMAS CORBET, the eldest son, m. Joan, dau. of Alan Plukenet, and d. in the lifetime of his father, without issue.

PETER CORBET, the second son, succeeding his father in the estates of his family, joined with Harry de la Pomeroy, in petitioning Parliament for the domains of the Valletort family, to which estates they were now become the heirs; but, as King EDWARD II. had himself been found, by inquisition, to be heir to the Earl of Cornwall, the grantee of "Roger de Vauter," the last of the Valletorts who possessed the estates, the petitioners did not find favour in their suit. This Peter Corbet had also summons to Parliament, as Baron Corbet, of Caus, until his death on the 26 May, 1322. He d. without issue, and the line of his family was continued by the youngest of the three brothers,

JOHN CORBET, who, by one inquisition, was found to succeed his brother in the Barony of Caus, being then forty-two years of age, and as soon as EDWARD II. mounted the throne, in 1327, he and Pomeroy revived the suit respecting the Valletort estates, but without success: indeed, John Corbet appears, owing to some circumstances at this distant date not to be ascertained, to have been deprived of a large portion of his family inheritance, for the demesne of Caus, with other estates, became the possessions of the heirs of his aunts Stafford and Brampton. The estates of Leigh, otherwise "Leighton in Walcheria," being on the confines of Powis Land, in the Marches of Wales, with the chief bailiwick of all his forest, had, however, been granted to John, by Peter, his father, and Peter, brother of John, also granted to Roger, his nephew (son of John), the forestership which his father previously held. In the Leigh estate, John Corbet was succeeded by his son,

ROGER CORBET, who, by the name of Roger Corbet, of "Legh juxta Caus," was returned as one of the knights of the shire for the co. of Salop, in the seventeenth year of EDWARD II., his father being then living. This Roger Corbet was s. at Leigh by his son,

ROGER CORBET, who appears to have received the honour of knighthood, for in the inquisition taken on his death in the nineteenth year of RICHARD II., 1396, he is styled "Sir Roger Corbet," of Leigh, and the title "knight," is there added. His son,

PETER CORBET, Esq. of Leigh, was father of

THOMAS CORBET, Esq. of Leigh, sheriff of Shropshire in the year 1427, whose son,

THOMAS CORBET, Esq. s. to the Leigh estate, and was father of

ROGER CORBET, Esq. of Leigh, who, by his wife, Maria, had issue,

THOMAS CORBET, Esq. of Leigh. He m. Jane, dau. of Sir John Burleigh, Knt. of Bromscroft, co. Salop, and their son,

PETER CORBET, Esq. of Leigh, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Brereton, Knt. of Malpas. By this lady he had issue,

THOMAS CORBET, Esq. of Leigh, who m. Jane, dau. of Sir Roger Kynaston, Knt. of Middle, and their son,

JOHN CORBET, Esq. of Leigh, was sheriff of Shropshire in 1526. Mr. Corbet was thrice married: 1st, to Joyce, sister of Sir John Packington, Knt.; 2ndly, to Margaret, dau. of Sir Thomas Blount, Knt.; and, lastly, to Agnes, dau. of William Booth, Esq. of Dunham. By his second wife he left issue,

WILLIAM CORBET, Esq. of Leigh, who m. Alice, dau. of Thomas Lacon, Esq. of Willey, co. Salop, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS CORBET, Esq. of Leigh, who m. Elinor, dau. of Thomas Williams, Esq. of Willaston, in Shropshire, and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM CORBET, Esq. of Leigh, father, by Anne, his wife, dau. of Sir William Pelham, Knt., of

PELHAM CORBET, Esq. of Leigh and Adbright Hussey, co. Salop, who wedded Anne, dau. of Sir Andrew Corbet, Knt. of Moreton Corbet, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT CORBET, Esq. of Leigh and Adbright Hussey,

b. in 1629, an officer of the royalist forces, under the Lord Newport. This gentleman removed from Leigh, and resided at Adbright Hussey. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Roger Kynaston, Esq. of Hordley, and dying in May, 1689, was s. by his son,

ROGER CORBET, Esq. of Adbright Hussey and Leigh, b. in 1672, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Francis Edwardes, Bart., and was s. by his son,

ANDREW CORBET, Esq. of Adbright Hussey, who inherited, in 1740, by the devise of his kinsman, Corbet Kynaston, Esq., the Sundorne and other extensive estates in Shropshire. Dying s. p., 15 April, 1741, aged thirty-two, he was s. by his brother,

JOHN CORBET, Esq. of Sundorne, Adbright Hussey, &c., who sold the ancient patrimony of Leigh. He m. 1st, Frances, dau. of Robert Pigott, Esq. of Chetwynd, by Frances, his wife, dau. of the Hon. William Ward, and 2ndly, Barbara-Letitia, dau. of John Mytton, Esq. of Halston. By the latter he had two sons, JOHN, his heir, and Andrew, a lieut.-col. in the army, and one dau., Mary-Elizabeth, m. to Sir John-Kynaston Powell, Bart. Mr. Corbet d. in 1759, and was s. by his son,

JOHN CORBET, Esq. of Sundorne, M.P. for Shrewsbury, from 1774 to 1780, and high-sheriff of Salop in 1793. He m. 1st, Emma-Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Charlton Leighton, Bart., and by her (who d. 19 Sept. 1797) had one son and one dau., viz., John-Kynaston, d. 22 April, 1806, aged fifteen; and Emma, m. to Sir Richard Puleston, Bart., 19 Feb. 1800. He wedded, 2ndly, Anne, second dau. of the Rev. William Pigott, of Edgmond, in Salop, and had issue, ANDREW-WILLIAM, his heir; Dryden-Robert; Vincent; Kynaston; and Annabella. Mr. Corbet d. 19 May, 1817, aged sixty-five, and was s. by his eldest surviving son, the present ANDREW-WILLIAM CORBET, Esq. of Sundorne Castle.

CORBETT OF LONGNOR AND LEIGHTON.

CORBETT, PANTON, Esq. of Longnor and Leighton, co. Salop, Member for Shrewsbury in the three last parliaments of GEORGE IV.

Lineage.

This family of Corbett is a branch of the great Shropshire family of Corbett, or Corbet, of Moreton Corbet, whose ancestors were companions of the Norman conqueror, and obtained extensive grants of land in the co. of Salop and the Marches of Wales. SIR EDWARD CORBETT, of Longnor, and of Leighton, Knt., was created a Baronet in 1642. The senior branch of the line expired in 1774, with Sir Richard Corbett, Bart., whereupon the title devolved upon Charles Corbett, of London, great-grandson of Thomas, the second son of the first Baronet; but the estates were devised by Sir Richard Corbett, in 1774, to his kinsman, Robert Flint, great-grandson (maternally) of Waties Corbett, the youngest brother of the said Thomas, and upon the death, without issue, of Robert Corbett (Mr. Flint having taken that name), descended to his nephew,

THE REV. JOSEPH PLYMLEY, Archdeacon of Salop, only son and heir of Joseph Plymley, Esq., who d. in 1802, in his eighty-sixth year, by Diana, his first wife, dau. of John Flint, Esq., and JANE, his wife, dau. of Waties Corbett, Esq. of Elton. Archdeacon Plymley assumed the surname and arms of CORBETT in 1804. He m. twice; his second wife, Matty, third dau. of Dansey Dansey, Esq. of Brinsop, co. Hereford, d. in 1812, aged forty. The family of Cosby is of Saxon origin, and is stated to have possessed the lordship of Cosby, co. Leicester, previously to the Norman Conquest. It first became settled in Ireland temp. Queen MARY,

ROBERT COSSBYE,* of Hermaston, in Lincolnshire, living in 1516, m. Isabel, dau. and heiress of Ralph Pare, Esq. of Great Leak, Notts, (by Isabel, his wife, dau. and heiress of John Blake, of Hermaston), and had a son and heir,

JOHN COSBIE, who m. Mable, dau. of Agard, of Foston, in Nottinghamshire, and had two sons, namely, Richard Cosby, of Great Leake, (whose only dau. and heiress, Bridget, became the wife of William Towers, Gent., of Thunnocke,) and

FRANCIS COSBIE, the patriarch of the family in Ireland, a man famed for personal courage, as well as civil and military talents. When young, he served in the wars of HENRY VIII., in the Low Countries, and was not undistinguished. His abandonment of his native soil arose from the downfall of the Protector SOMERSET, whose dau., Mary, widow of Sir Henry Peyton, Knt., he had married. Deeming the disgrace and death of that once potent nobleman a sentence of exclusion from place and preferment in England, against his immediate connexions at least, Cosbie, Mary Seymour, his first wife, being then dead, emigrated to Ireland, taking with him his second wife, Elizabeth Paulmes, and the two surviving sons of the first. Here, in the land of his adoption, he soon found the opportunity of establishing a reputation, which he despaired of effecting in the land of his birth. He became an active defender of the Pale against the inroads of the Irish; and his vigilance, zeal, and success, attracting the observation of government, he was appointed by Queen MARY, under her majesty's sign-manual, dated 14 Feb. 1558, GENERAL OF THE KERN, a post of great trust and importance in those times. In 1559 he represented the borough of Thomastown in Parliament, when he was constituted, by Queen ELIZABETH, sheriff of the county of Kildare, being denominated in his patent, (dated 24 Jan. in the first year of her majesty's reign,) "OF EVAN," now "MUNSTER EVAN," which place he held under an old grant from the crown, and was invested at the same time with the extraordinary and unenviable privilege of exercising martial law under his own authority solely, and of dealing out such punishments, even the most penal, as he should deem meet. By his first wife, Mary, the Duke of Somerset's daughter, and Sir Henry Peyton's widow, Francis Cosbie had three sons, viz.,

ALEXANDER, inheritor of the estates.
Henry, who d. before his father settled in Ireland.
Arnold, who served under Robert, Earl of Leicester, with great reputation, in the Low Countries, anno 1586, with the celebrated Sir Philip Sidney, and was at the battle of Zutphen, where Sir Philip received his mortal wound. Captain Cosbie remained after the Earl of Leicester's return to England, and obtained from Queen ELIZABETH, in consideration of his good services, a pension of three shillings per day on the Irish establishment, until he should be otherwise provided for in the army of that kingdom. Notwithstanding this apparent protection of the court, he suffered, in two years afterwards, the utmost penalty of the criminal law, for killing the Lord Bourke, of Castle Connel, in a duel on Finchley Common, the Queen peremptorily refusing to extend to him her royal mercy.

By his second wife, Elizabeth Paulmes, General Cosbie had an only child,

Catherine, m. to Archibald Moor, Esq., but d. issueless.

Francis Cosbie eventually fell at the Battle of Glendalough, at the head of the Kern, which he valiantly led to the charge, although then seventy years of age. He was s. by his eldest son,

ALEXANDER COSBIE, Esq. of Stradbally Abbey, who seems to have been engaged during the whole of his time in warfare with the O'Moores. CAMDEN, in his life of ELIZABETH, recounts his being once taken by treachery, during a conference with Rory Oge, near Leighlin, and that he was rescued when bound to a tree, by Harpole,

* Son of John Cossebye, grandson of William Cossebye, and great-grandson of Robert Cossebye, of Cossebye, co. Leicester.
